WATER-PROOF SHINGLES.

We sell them! Some think all singles are weather-proof. They are for a limited time. Then they crack, split and decay.

OUR SHINGLES

are almost as durable as iron, very much cheaper and infinitely superior to it for roofing. Builders estimating on work should get our prices on Lumber, Sash, Trim, Shingles, etc., before figuring. They will change cost of work.

Refugees From Spain Say Revolution Is Steadily Growing.

Official Reports Declare That Order Is Being Rapidly Restored In Barcelona, But News Is Rare—Prowling Bands of Workmen Hold Barcelona Province and Are Cutting Off Communication.

Paris, Aug. 2.—Although official Spain minimizes the Catalonian insurrection and insists that the revolt has been crushed, a far different story emanates from the frontier.

Refugees and travelers declare that the revolt is still rampant, and that desperate combats continue at Barcelona, where 50 revolutionists are reported to have been wounded in a conflict which occurred as late as Saturday night.

Information concerning the actual situation in Barcelona and the rest of the province is rarer to-day than ever before. Although some of the news from the frontier is from revolutionary sources, and, therefore, open to suspicion, more reliable intelligence leads to the belief that although Barcelona is calmer, the insurrectionists have taken to the suburbs and the outlying country, where they are sowing the seeds of revolt and inflaming the populace to maintain the struggle to the bitter end.

Barcelona Province is in the hands of prowling hands of workmen, heavily armed, who occupy the railroads and highways to prevent communication, and who refuse entrance to new comers. Cassan de la Selva is in the hands of revolutionaries, and at Palamis, where the monastery was fired upon and the monks tortured, the situation is described as critical and the lives of foreigners endangered.

The opinion in semi-official circles here concerning Spain's internal condition is pessimistic and the belief is expressed that the trouble is not yet over. Official Madrid announces that Barcelona is tranquil, but qualifies this statement with the words, "This is especially so in the centre of the city."

From Melilla comes the news of another Spanish convoy being ambushed and several of its officers being wounded before the troops succeeded in extricating themselves from the attack of the tribesmen.

Rumors are afloat that a general strike will be launched to-day at Madrid, and that strike is being organized in the Biscayan region. All persons subject to military duty are forbidden to leave Spain under grave penalty, and elaborate measures have been adopted to forestall a possible outbreak in the other provinces of the country.

Official denial is given to the report that the temper of the Madrid garrison is hostile. Another official statement says that the number of victims of the fighting at Barcelona is unknown, but frontier reports, one of them of alleged authoritative inspiration, declares that the killed or wounded will aggregate 3,000 and that the number of insurrectionists summarily shot as between 40 and 120.

Official Version.

Madrid, Aug. 2.—An official statement issued yesterday says that the latest advices from Barcelona are to the effect that order reigns, especially in the centre of the city, where the public is circulating and a majority of the stores are reopened. Work has been commenced again in several factories. The newspapers probably will reappear to-morrow. A French torpedo boat is awaited to take official correspondence. The number of victims of the outbreak, according to the official note is not known exactly. Troops are actively engaged in clearing the streets and demolishing the remaining barricades erected for the revolutionists.

Stricken In Church.

Fergus, Aug. 2.—During church service yesterday morning, James Pattison, a leading merchant of Fergus, and a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian choir, took a hemorrhage of the stomach and was carried from the choir in a dying condition, passing away almost instantly.

Several in the congregation fainted and the service was discontinued. Mr. Pattison is the only son of a widowed mother. He was at one time a member of the council, is a director of the Fergus Horticultural, the Agricultural Society, a prominent Mason, and leading Conservative.

Wright's Fast Time.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Orville Wright traveled 47.431 miles an hour in his flight Saturday in returning from the Alexandria end of the course to Fort Meyer. This is the official report made by the trial board at the War Department yesterday. His speed to Alexandria from the Fort Meyer end of the course was 37.735 miles an hour, making his average 42.438. The Wright brothers will receive $30,000 for their aeroplane, $5,000 of which is the bonus for excess in speed over the contract requirement.

Doukhobors on the March.

Winnipeg, Aug. 2.—A despatch from Canora, Sask., says: Word has been received among the Doukhobors here that another nude parade was instituted among their people in the vicinity of Swan River last Sunday. During the march one old woman died and was left by the roadside, while the deluded procession sped onward.

MILES OF WARSHIPS.

Cowes, Eng., Aug. 2.—The last of the great naval pageants, which for the past few months have played such a prominent part in the campaign waged around the question of Great Britain's sea power, took place Saturday afternoon in the Solent, where eighteen miles of warships were reviewed by King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

Anchored in three main columns, with smaller craft in flanking lines, every ship dressed and newly painted, the fleet presented a magnificent spectacle, and the scene was strikingly picturesque, as the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, bearing Their Majesties, and escorted by the Admiralty yachts, and the White Star Line steamer Adriatic, on which members of the House of Lords and the Commons had gathered, passed down the lanes of ships.

The surrounding waters were crowded with steamers and craft of all kinds, which were thronged with spectators. The gaiety of the scene was greatly heightened by the permission given the officers to entertain their friends. Every warship was dispensing hospitality with naval lavishness, and the preponderance of women in summer garments gave the quarter-decks the appearance of garden parties in miniature.

Last night the Indomitable, the Invincible and the Inflexible — three battleships of the Dreadnought class —sailed to meet the Russian Imperial yacht Standart and escort Emperor Nicholas and the Russian Imperial family to Cowes. This will be the first official visit of the Russian monarch to Great Britain. The coming of Emperor Nicholas to-day is regarded as sealing the triple entente between Russia, France and Great Britain, and indicating that the period of estrangement and suspicion between Great Britain and Russia is now ended.

Officially, the visit will be afloat, although it is expected that the Russian monarch will land privately at Cowes Tuesday and pay visits. King Edward, Queen Alexandra and the Prince of Wales will sail at 10.45 on the Victoria and Albert, to meet the Russian Imperial party, who will board the King's yacht for luncheon, and the subsequent review of the British fleet.

Mexico Again Shaken.

Mexico City, Aug. 2.—Mexico City was again severely shaken by an earthquake Saturday. A shock more severe than any yet experienced rocked the city for one minute and 40 seconds at 12.43 p.m.

No great damage was done, though innumerable public and other buildings were cracked. The national palace suffered considerably.

Reports from Governor Daminia Flores, of the State of Guerrera, declared that in Acapulco, the largest and strongest buildings were razed by the force of Saturday's tremors, and there has been heavy property loss throughout that section.

At Acapulco the custom house with its warehouse, the military barracks and a number of other prominent buildings were absolutely destroyed, while the municipal palace suffered serious damage.

Swept Out to Sea.

Avalon, N.J., Aug. 2.—Swept out to sea in a disabled sailboat, Dr. A. A. Sargent, his wife and two children and three friends, all of Philadelphia, were rescued late Saturday night by the Avalon life-saving crew, who found the party drifting helplessly on the ocean.

The life-savers went out twice in search of the disabled boat, finding the party on the second trip drifting up the coast off Sea Isle City.

Miners Adjust Differences.

Pittsburg, Aug. 2.—There will be no further suspension of work in the mines of the Pittsburg Coal Co. All the differences were amicably adjusted at the conference between President Lewis of the U.M.W. of America and the operators.

A Tragedy Near London.

Husband of Mrs. Martin Jenkins of London Township Says She Was Kicked in the Head by a Stallion—Neighbors Are Aroused Over the Affair and an Inquest Has Been Opened.

London, Aug. 2.—The mysterious death of Mrs. Martin Jenkins of London Township has convulsed the whole neighborhood. Excitement is intense and the sole topic of discussion is the mysterious death.

The coroner's jury after viewing the remains Saturday night adjourned until Tuesday night when all available evidence will be heard.

On Friday morning the husband, James C. Jenkins hurriedly despatched two of his sons to neighbors houses with the news that Mrs. Jenkins had been kicked by a horse and was dying. Mrs. Morrow and Wm McNaughton, the neighbors summoned, hurried to the scene, and when they arrived found the woman lying in one of the stalls in the stable unconscious. Her head was battered and bruised, and she died within an hour. Just beyond the stalls there is a box stall in which a stallion is kept. The door of this was open and the stallion was found in the barn yard. There were horses in the other stalls.

Dr. McNeil of Arva was summoned but the woman was dead when he arrived.

Dr. McNeil is the coroner and in consequence of the rumors afloat, in the neighborhood, he ordered an inquest, but after consultation with the legal authorities decided to call on Dr. Ferguson to conduct the investigation. Upon the facts being laid before Crown Attorney McKillopin he ordered an inquest, which opened on Saturday night.

The story told by the husband is that he was in a field near the barn and noticed the stallion in the barn yard. He drove it into the barn and there found his wife lying on the floor with her head smashed in.

The woman was carried into the house, where she died soon afterward.

The family moved from Westminster Township six years ago, and there are six children.

The funeral of Mrs. Jenkins was held yesterday, and was an immense one. The services were conducted by Rev. John Mahan of Arva, assisted by Rev. B. L. Hutton of London. Interment was made at St. John's.

In the neighborhood of the tragedy there appears to be considerable ill-feeling towards Jenkins, though apparently with little real grounds. Jenkins is about 55 years of age, and the deceased, who was his second wife, was 42. They have not always lived happily together, having been living separately for about a year. The farm is well tilled and is about seven miles from London.

Various theories are advanced as to how the woman met death. When found she was laying in the middle stall with her head in the passage leading to the box stall in which the stallion was kept. The most likely accidental theory is that the door of the box stall was left open or loose and that the stallion broke out while the woman was in the barn gathering eggs and knocking her down, crushed out her life. The left side of the skull was caved in and the scalp badly torn. There were also wounds on the left eye and on the top and back of the head. The injuries were more than sufficient to cause death.

Vice-Consul Is Murdered.

New York, Aug. 2.—Dr. Luke Wing, Chinese vice-consul at New York, a graduate of Lehigh and Yale Universities, and married to an American woman, was mortally wounded at his offices in a lower Broadway building Saturday afternoon by a man of his own race, who gives voluble but confused and contradictory reports of himself in pigeon English.

Dr. Wing died last night in St. Gregory's Hospital shortly after 8 o'clock. He had been shot in the back with a revolver.

Michael McDonnell, for 27 years special watchman at the Chinese consulate, identified the murderer as Wong Bow Chung, who, he says, was formerly a steward on the U. S. battleship Indiana.

Makes a Hero by Surgery.

Paris, Aug. 2.—"Such emotions as fear and melancholy are conveyed by a small nerve which springs from the human brain near the medulla oblongata, the top of the spinal cord."

So announces Dr. Bonnier, a distinguished surgeon, who adds that he has removed this nerve and so relieved greatly persons suffering from melancholia and timidity.

Other surgeons seem sceptical about the value of Dr. Bonnier's discovery. But newspaper paragraphers find opportunity to discuss the possibility of turning a coward into a hero by a surgical operation.

Building Burns; Five Killed.

St. Paul, Aug. 2.—An explosion of gasoline, followed by a destructive fire in a four-storey building on West Third street Saturday afternoon, is known to have caused the death of five persons and the injury of six others. The police believe that the bodies of four other persons are still in the ruins.

The dead: Roam Bouska, 3 years old; Mrs. Gagnon, 50 years old; child supposed to be Clifford Gamble, 3 years old, and two unidentified men.

The explosion blew the building to fragments in an instant and set fire to and badly damaged the central police station and another adjoining building.

French Element Is Pleased.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—Naturally the French-Canadian element are elated over the new Senatorial appointment from the west replacing Senator Perley.

It was at first announced that a Mr. Price had been appointed, but the man who really got the job is no other than the Hon. Benjamin Prince, a French-Canadian from the Province of Quebec, who went west and grew up with the country. He was formerly a member of the Northwest Assembly and a Conservative; but went over with a good many of his compatriots in 1896.

He is well and favorably known here, and should, with Senator Roy from Edmonton, make a good French-Canadian team from the west in the Upper House.

More Sharp Shooters.

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Nearly two and one-half millions of trained, disciplined sharp shooters have been added to the defensive forces of the German empire last week by the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. Bethmann-Hollweg. The chancellor has taken this far-reaching step by given permission by degree to 2,402,644 members of 27,676 veterans' societies to practice rifle shooting on the military rifle ranges throughout the country, with army rifles at an annual charge of 87 cents a piece. Cartridges will be supplied to the shooters at 62 cents a hundred.

Heretofore all requests made by the veterans' societies in this direction have been refused.

The Premier's Holiday.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left yesterday for a three weeks' holiday. This week he will be the guest of the Shawinigan Fish and Game Club near Charlotte Mills, Quebec, and the following two weeks will be spent with Lady Laurier at the Premier's old home in Arthabaskaville. During Sir Wilfrid's absence from the capital Hon. Charles Murphy and Hon. Mackenzie King will be left in charge of affairs.

Large Hailstones.

Morden, Man., Aug. 2.—A hail storm on Friday wiped out an area six miles wide extending to the boundary. Hailstones were reported to be seven inches in diameter. Some were picked up one hour after the storm one inch in diameter.

Turret Bell Is Raised.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 2.—The freight steamer Turret Bell, stranded three years ago, on the north side of the island during a big gale, which wrecked several other vessels, was towed into this port yesterday afternoon.

Fruit Farmer Suicides.

St. Catharines, Aug. 2.—Stephen M. Clemens, aged 50 years, committed suicide Saturday by hanging himself. About two months ago he came to this district and purchased a fruit farm a short distance from the city.

Saturday evening his family missed him and after a search his son found him dead hanging to a tree a short distance from the house. He came here from Drayton.

Despondency is given as the cause of the rash act. He leaves a widow and one son.

White-Black Man Dies.

Thomas' color in the last twelve years changed from the darkest hue of the negro to white, so much so that he would be passed in the streets as a white man.

O'Hara-Walker.

POPULAR FIRE FIGHTER WON A BRIDE THIS MORNING — MARRIED AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

At 6.30 this morning a wedding took place at St. Michael's Church, when Mr. Thos. O'Hara and Miss Margaret Walker, both of this city, were married. Rev. Father Spratt officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss Bessie Walker, of Minneapolis, and Mr. James O'Hara, a brother of the groom, did honors for him. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was partaken of at the residence of Mr. D. Bradford, North Front street. The happy couple left for a trip to Rochester, N.Y. The groom is a popular member of No. 2 fire company, and his comrades gave him a handsome hall rack. Mrs. O'Hara was the recipient of many presents, including a shower of linen and graniteware from the employees of Miss Campbell, where she was formerly employed. Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara will reside in this city.

FORMER BELLEVILLE BOY FINDS A BONNY BRIDE IN THE WEST.

On Wednesday afternoon, July 21st, Mr. Clarence W. Bush, of New Ottawa, Sask., formerly of Belleville, was united in marriage to Miss Ada B. Curry, formerly of Almonte, Ont. The event took place at the home of Mr. R. H. Curry, brother of the bride, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Grenfell. Only the relatives of the contracting parties were present. The house was prettily decorated with roses for the occasion. The bride and groom received many tokens of esteem, among them being a handsome silver tea service, with suitable inscription, from the Boys' Home Club, of Almonte, a club which the bride organized a number of years ago. The groom's gift was a fine driving horse. Mr. and Mrs. Bush will reside at New Ottawa, Sask., where Mr. Bush has a large farm.

Hansen-Westfall.

A very pretty and pleasing event was the marriage, on Wednesday evening, July 28, 1909, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Geo. Griffin, Stirling, Ont., of Miss Lizzie Westfall, formerly of Campbellford, Ont., to Mr. Haken M. Hansen, of Neillsville, Wis. The bride was charming in a gown of pale blue silk and wool cricket cloth, cut en princess, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses. Mr. George Griffin, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her away. Miss Ethel Brown, of Bayside, in white India lawn, was bridesmaid, while little Misses Carrie Griffin, of Stirling, and Mamie Ibey, of Glen Miller, nieces of the bride, in white silk dresses, made sweet little flower girls. The groom was supported by Mr. Frank Westfall, of Trenton, Ont., brother of the bride. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. Leonard Phelps, of Stirling, Ont., after which the party repaired to the lawn, where a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen left on the 9.45 train Thursday morning for Chicago and Milwaukee, en route to their future home in Neillsville, Wis., followed by the best wishes of every one for long years of happiness in their wedded life.

Bishop-Rodger.

SON OF PASTOR OF BRIDGE ST. CHURCH WAS MARRIED IN TORONTO ON THURSDAY LAST.

Toronto, July 31. — A quiet house wedding took place at the residence of Mr. W. P. Rodger, 73 Bismarck avenue, Thursday, July 29th, at 1 o'clock, when his youngest daughter Margaret Frances, became the wife of Rev. Charles W. Bishop, B.A., of Calgary. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Bishop of Belleville, father of the groom, assisted by Rev. T. A. Rodger of Owen Sound, brother of the bride. The bride wore a gown of Mechlin net and carried lilies of the valley and orchids. Miss Elma Carroll was bridesmaid, wearing white and carrying pink roses. Little Miss Helen Buik was flower girl. Dr. W. E. Ogden of the Free Hospital, Gravenhurst, was best man The bride entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march, played by her sister, Mrs. A. Hartley Stephens, of Pittsburg. After a trip to the Adirondacks, Mr. and Mrs. Bishop will leave for their home in the west about the first of September.

TRAVEL POSTCARDS SCORE A HIT, SMALL SUPPLY STILL ON HAND GET A SET.

The Travel Club is growing, and the demand for the set of postcards being given away keeps getting stronger. A few sets still on hand. The cards are given for three coupons appearing elsewhere in this paper together with 15 cents. You must be a regular subscriber of the paper in order to get these cards, but others, by agreeing to take the paper for eight weeks, are eligible under the same terms. 50 postcards of views taken from all over the world by the famous traveller, Charles H. Stoddard, make up this handsome set. They are scoring a great hit in this city and hundreds of sets have been given out. Call at The Intelligencer Office while they last.

Daily Intelligencer.

Fire and Fury.

The Freeman's and Catholic Register, a journal published in New York, a copy of which lies before us, indulges in a column and a half of vituperation against England and her government of India, which displays a hatred worthy of the most rabid Fenian.

The article is called forth in a semi-defence of the murderer of Sir Curzon Wyllie in London, a short time ago.

In order that our readers, who never see this venomous sheet, may judge of its utterances, we cull a few sentences from this hater of everything British.

"The infamous rule under which three hundred millions are robbed systematically and so kept constantly on the verge of starvation. It is appalling to think that such a state of things exists in the twentieth century. Yet England, with a hypocrisy which almost surpasses belief, poses before the world as a benefactor of the millions she first ruthlessly plunders and then mercilessly leaves to die of starvation.

"A murderer on a gigantic scale, John Bull would have mankind believe that he is in India from the most benevolent motives.

"We are not, then, indulging in the language of exaggeration, but making a plain statement of fact, when we assert that English rule in India is summed up in these three words: Murder and robbery. Eighty million murders in the space of half a century and an annual loot of five hundred million dollars. What a record of criminality and rapacity!

"She reminds us of that sanctimonious pirate described by Shakespeare 'that went to sea with the Ten Commandments, but scraped one out of the table.' England has stricken from the decalogue not only 'Thou shalt not steal,' but likewise 'Thou shalt not kill.' Therein she is more conscienceless than Shakespeare's sanctimonious pirate. India has been for her a magnificent and lucrative field, in which she has given free rein to her predatory instincts."

This is the kind of teaching which the young and old Roman Catholic readers of the United States have dished up to them by an organ of their church, without one tittle of evidence to sustain its charges. With such teaching is it any wonder that a certain class in the United States are English haters?

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

SPORTING NOTES

Toronto Eastern Leaguers have struck a winning streak and are now in third place. Montreal is third from the other end.

Bloomfield beat Demorestville 12-5 at baseball on Saturday.

Three-fingered Brown of the Cubs held Philadelphia to one hit yesterday.

Johnny Summers, the English featherweight pugilist, defeated Jimmy Britt, the American lightweight in the ninth round at the Memorial grounds in West Ham, England. The contest was scheduled to go twenty rounds, and was for $500 a side and half of the gate receipts. Britt, who was somewhat fat and slow, was outclassed from the beginning, and was knocked out in the ninth round.

Tom Longboat ran seven and three-quarter miles in the twelve-mile race against Alfred Shrubb at Scarboro Beach Saturday night and then chucked it up. The fleet Englishman had a lead of more than a lap on the Indian when the latter quit, and was running easily, although bothered by a blistered foot, which will prevent his running against Frank Nebrich of Buffalo in a ten-mile race, which had been arranged for Scarboro Beach tomorrow night. Nebrich sprung a surprise by giving Percy Sellen a good beating in the five-mile preliminary. In spite of the fact that Shrubb is regarded as being practically unbeatable at twelve miles, a crowd of between four and five thousand people saw the race. Alf. shot out in front at the start, as usual, and was never anywhere but first. He gradually drew away from Longboat and had gained a lap at the end of six miles. Tom tried to get away from Shrubb in the seventh mile and set a hot pace, but the effort was too much for him and he gave up the contents of his stomach. He slowed down almost to a walk, and his lack of condition, which was apparent throughout the race, asserted itself so strongly that he was forced to leave the track. Shrubb finished at his leisure.

A new world's record in the hop, step and jump was made at the annual field day of the Knights of Columbus at the Locust street grounds by Daniel F. Ahern of the Irish-American Athletic Club of New York, who made the distance of 50 feet 2 7-10 inches. The previous record was 48 feet 6 inches, made by E. B. Bloss, Chicago, in 1893.

Cost of Freight.

The Dominion Government is making tests regarding the cost of carriage of goods between Montreal and Canadian ports on the Pacific coast by the way of Mexico, and a Government official sailed on the Elder Dempster steamer Bornu from Halifax on her last voyage to supervise the test. The scheme is to have freight carried by water from Montreal and other Canadian ports to a point near Vera Cruz in Mexico, thence overland by the Tehuantepec Railway, a distance of 200 miles to Tehuantepec, on the Pacific seaboard, and thence by water again to the place of final destination. It is claimed that by this route freight can be carried from Montreal to British Columbia ports 20 per cent. cheaper than overland via the C.P.R. Should the experiment prove a success, the Mexican Railway mentioned, which has recently been completed, will be double tracked in order to accommodate the large traffic to which this route would give rise. The possibilities for development by the proposed route are great, notwithstanding the fact that the total distance is several times as far as by the direct overland railway line.

Checking the Preacher.

In the Garrison Church at Halifax a clanking of the soldiers' side-arms used to remind the preacher if he had exceeded the regulation eight minutes, and this drastic remedy seldom needed to be applied. Until a similar protection is devised for civilian congregations, the bishops, the assemblies and the conferences should be invoked to set a hot weather limit, for some preachers will not condense except under compulsion.

Literary Notes.

The illustrations in the August Canadian Magazine are a particularly strong feature. In no popular magazine do more brilliant half-tone illustrations appear, and the tints this month, which are used as complimentary to the black, are very effective. The pen and ink drawings by Miss Maude McLaren illustrating the story "A Broken Pathway," by E. S. Kirkpatrick, are reproduced in half-tones instead of by the ordinary zinc-etching process, and a faint buff tint is spread over the whole, giving the charming effect of an etching.

"Make it a Million" is the motto of the Canadian National Fair, Toronto, this year, and they are raking the world for exhibits and attractions that will make a million people pass between the turnstiles between August 28th and September 13th.

Ten Dead In Wreck.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 2.—Ten persons were killed and at least sixty were injured in a head-on collision of two electric trains on the Spokane and International Railway late Saturday afternoon.

The wreck occurred at Coldwell, Wash., a station between Couer D'Alene, Idaho, and Spokane. Both trains were going at the rate of about 15 miles an hour. They crashed together without warning.

The heavily-laden coaches were crushed, and the men and women in them were thrown from their seats, some being hurled to the tops of the coaches, while others were sent flying through the windows. Several coaches left the tracks, and passengers were caught under the pile of broken wood and steel.

A partial list of the dead includes: Will Allee, Wenaichie, Wash.; Walter Lalquist, Spokane; A. T. Whitney, an attorney of Memphis, Tenn., and an unknown woman and son.

Snow In Nebraska.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 2.—The annual spectacle of snow falling in July in Omaha occurred during an early storm Saturday night, which followed an extremely hot day. The flakes fell intermittently for nearly ten minutes.

Oil at Prince Albert, Too.

The discovery is the chief topic of conversation, and a great rush to the new mineral field is expected within another week.

A large number have arrived in the city to enquire into the discovery and several parties have left for the field, among whom are Dr. J. A. Moran, a well-known mineral authority, and H. Harrington, a mining engineer.

A great deal of resentment and dissatisfaction has been expressed lately on account of the fact that the Dominion Government has charge over the minerals of the province. All that the province will get is a grant, and the people of Prince Albert look upon the regulation as an unfair one. It is expected that this will figure as the biggest political issue in the next provincial election.

G. E. Parkinson, a representative of the Imperial Oil Co., has returned from Buffalo Lake, Northern Saskatchewan. He brought back with him a quart canful of crude petroleum of excellent quality, also samples of rock which, when set fire to, burned for several minutes. He says that he has discovered an extensive oil territory within 20 miles of a railroad.

STORY OF AIRSHIP INVENTOR.

Criticism at a Picture Exhibition. What Will Happen When Famous Artists Become Dress Designers. Room Hung With Black Paper.

Dear Elsa—What on earth will women do next in the name of fashion? It seems to me, though, that the limit has been reached when a live parrot is considered a smart automobile accessory. During the winter limousines have been turned into traveling conservatories by means of bright bunches of flowers held in cut glass vases, but it now looks as if an auto aviary were the ambition of the up to date woman who drives in a motor car. La Mode's latest decree is that a big green parrot shall roam at his own sweet will about the tonneau, and a handsome car was actually seen on Broadway the only occupants of which were a stunningly gowned woman and a great green parrot. Small traveling menageries may be looked for in the future. This parrot fad reminds me of a good story. A friend of Dick's recently brought together at a dinner Wilbur Wright and some capitalists interested in airships. The feast progressed in fine style, but up to the last course Wright had said nothing about his wonderful invention. The host, losing patience with such unprofitable modesty and getting desperate, whispered to the guest of honor: "Say, Wright, get busy and talk about your aeroplanes. These people came here to form a company if you can interest them sufficiently in your venture. Out with it, man!" Wright looked calmly at his tormentor and drawled, "Don't you know that the parrot is the greatest talker and the poorest flier of the whole bird creation?" Lovely, wasn't it?

A MANNISH WATCH FOB.

The academy exhibition this season was a very interesting one, and I wish you could have enjoyed the pictures with me. You know that dressmakers are now making it a part of their business to see all the good portraits, both antique and modern, with the object of gaining inspiration for their designs. I was very much amused at the criticism overheard from one of these technical experts in dress. "Smudges," "blurred masses" and "indistinctness" were the three terrible accusations brought against the gown of a lady painted by an impressionist artist. And deep down in my heart I voted them deserved, but I didn't expose my views, for I was making the rounds with one of the "hung" men, a well known exhibitor. Another objection raised by the couturier critic and one with which all people possessed of a sense of humor will be in full accord is the absurd practice of winding wisps of chiffon or tags of tulle around the arm of fair subjects. Was it not Michelangelo who said that beauty consisted in the purgation of superfluities?. And this is true no less of dress than of face and form. A piece of crushed looking chiffon or a ragged feather boa thrown carelessly over the arm is a superfluity in every sense of the word. The same critic took exception to the scarcity of trimming on the painted frocks. The very name "trimming" is suggestive of superfluities, of publicans, of sinners. It distracts the eye, it detracts from the individuality of the wearer, and it hovers perilously near vulgarity.

However, this carping critic set my "think tank," as some one expressively termed his brain, working. Why should not artists design gowns for their beautiful sitters to wear—nothing archaic or crushed, nothing sad looking or mad looking, nothing of a blankety or nightgown description? In other words, why shouldn't the fashions of the season emanate from the Academy of Design? It may be that artists are too much engrossed in capturing the personalities of their sitters to bother about their frocks. They may think that the portrayal of "grandeur and moral quality" is of infinitely more importance. So it is in a sense, but there is no getting away from the fact that clothes have a certain relation to character. I, for instance, revel in tailor mades, which probably accounts for my business acumen (?). A celebrated French novelist once wrote: "I have theories about little things—about gloves, about boots, about curls, and so forth—and I attach a great deal of importance to all this. I have discovered that there is a relation between the temperament of a woman and the whim or logic which makes her select such and such a stuff." To come back to my original proposition, artists as fashion designers, if they would do this we should probably hear less in future about the ugliness of modern styles. The term "artistic" has been too long applied to attire that is limp and languishing, to grewsome greens and jaundiced yellows. There is really no reason why a chic frock should not be artistic as well, and, if our best artists would give some thought to the matter and reproduce their ideas on canvas, fashion, instead of being, as it often is, a distorted and ugly thing, might become a synonym for grace, distinction and beauty. After this tirade I feel like a full fledged art lecturer. But, seriously, has not Charles Dana Gibson's influence been for good in the sartorial world? And what would we do in summer without a Gibson waist to play tennis in?

I must tell you about my very sporty new watch fob that I am going to use when traveling. I am so tired of timepiece bracelets and belt fobs. The new trinket is a mannish looking affair of leather—a strap, in fact—exactly like that worn by the men suspended from the coat lapel that gives the watch enough leeway to drop comfortably into an upper coat pocket. When this fob adorns my blue serge traveling coat it will give an air of smartness to the costume. I hesitated between purchasing this style rather than a leather fob which hangs from the belt in the usual fashion, but at the end has a round opening in which is incased the tiny watch, so that, while the face shows, the watch cannot drop out. The clerk explained that this fob had been especially designed for the business woman and as a real comfort "it couldn't be beaten."

I presume you will be horrified to know that I am having the living room papered in black. Funeral? Not a bit. Listen to the scheme, and you will gain some faint idea of the dainty and cameo-like finished effect. The woodwork I have had painted white, and the dull black cartridge paper on the wall is divided into four foot panels, with slender strips of white molding all around the room. Oval mirrors in white frames alternate with pictures in white frames. Orange and red cushions will be piled on the davenport, and, by the way, I've had all the upholstered furniture done in this old fashioned material. Several pieces of red and orange pottery are to be scattered about the room to give character to the dignified and otherwise cold background.

Picnic luncheons—really restaurant parties, at which each guest orders and pays for herself—are the craze of the moment. Mother thinks the idea barbarous, and one can readily understand that with her old time ideas of hospitality the notion would be repugnant to ask a person to take a meal with you and expect her to pay her share of the bill. However, in these independent times the old courteous methods are brushed aside, and nobody seems to think there is anything odd about assembling a luncheon party at which each guest orders what she likes and pays for it. No two persons in our party were eating the same things. One woman who was on a diet ate digestive biscuits and drank a glass of milk, another nuts and bananas, a third roast lamb and peas, and so on. Truly, this is a mad social world, but I am glad to live in these exciting days. Ever most sincerely yours,

MABEL.

Decorated Book Covers.

A linen or crash book cover may be made to harmonize with the surroundings of any room. Measure your book carefully, allowing a sixteenth of an inch for slipping on and a quarter of an inch for turning in. As shown in the diagram, allow four inches for the inside fold. The other dimensions represent the size of an ordinary book and are given merely for basic measurements. Grayish white crash with a stenciled border in dull blue, green and brown is the design used in the cover illustrated.

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

prerogative of another branch of the Teutonic family. The Countess von Weldenord had become a very great little lady, but the clannish feeling for which these three gentlewomen were remtrkable had never weakened under the pressure of separation and changed conditions of life. The correspondence between the sisters had remained unslackened through the years that at last left but two to continue it, and, among her many sons and daughters, the Countess never forgot that there were two boys on the other side of the Atlantic who were of her blood, and each the only child of a mother whose concentrated adoration she could measure by her own more widely diffused affections.

She had never seen the son of her oldest sister, Mrs. Winter, but Eugene Merriam had been born before she left America, and had twice visited her, once at her husband's fine old house in Herren-Strasse of Vienna, once at the little schloss perched high among the mountains of the Tyrol.

She was very fond of Eugene, whose wayward graces showed to much advantage against the background of the solid and sturdy virtues of her young Austrians. She had been sorry when he went away from her, and always glad to hear of him through less personal channels, and what she heard was not invariably to his credit, but he claimed always from her kind heart that material indulgence of which her own good and rather heavy lads stood in small need.

Of course she was profoundly thankful for this extraordinary blessing, but there was always in her that sense of frustration which comes from unemployed powers. Not for worlds would she have had things other than as they were, but if there had been any need of immense sacrifice, of heroic endurance for her children, she knew herself to be so capable of bestowing both. But Rudolph had married early and wisely, and settled beyond question the succession of the Weldenord title and estates. Hugo had entered the diplomatic service and acquitted himself with sober ability. Franz and Fritz had become sturdy young officers, only betraying such indication of gay tastes as seems indispensable to the military profession. Her daughters had married creditably and even brilliantly, the one an Austrian noble, the other an English gentleman of wealth and learning. A happy woman altogether would have been Eliabeth, Countess of Weldenord, had it not been for the delicate health of her husband, an industrious scholar whom she dearly loved, and on whom she had long been urging the necessity of employing a secretary who should be something more than the faithful automaton that he found in the serious and solid young German whom he employed.

Now the Countess had an amiable liking for playing the part of an amateur Providence in the lives of her family and friends, and when it was possible that she should so adroitly fill this important role as to kill two birds with one stone, she felt much harmless delight. She had heard through a former companion of Eugene's Paris days that his affairs were far from flourishing, and she had lived long enough in America to know that the supply of poetry there, limited though it be, largely exceeds the demand. She knew Merriam to possess the accomplishment, rare among his countrymen, of being a linguist of exceptional excellence, and that her husband was well able to offer a handsome compensation for the services of a secretary who should have more than mechanical qualifications for his office. The remarkable dovetailing of circumstances which rendered her husband's need of such an assistant contemporaneous with Eugene's need for employment was too evident to slight, for the little old Countess retained very American ideas, and saw no reason why her husband and nephew should not assume the relations of employer and employed.

It took some little persuasion to bring the Count around to her point of view, since he was Austrian of the Austrians, but he had long recognized that the irregularity of choosing an American wife led to others of a less momentous character, and was besides inclined to docility both by nature and conviction. So he was soon imbued with the belief that Eugene Merriam as secretary was necessary to the completion of the great work which he was now anxious to bring to a long delayed close, and his wife had the pleasure of inclosing in the formal letter offering the position to Merriam a motherly little note from herself, in which she told her nephew that nothing would make his loving aunt more happy than to have him with her in her Austrian home, which had seemed rather lonely since the baby Hildegarde had married and gone to England.

Merriam had thrown this carelessly aside, while he put the Count's letter away to answer with becoming gravity He had not dreamed for an instant of considering the proposition seriously. The letters had now been in his possession for a fortnight, and with the necessity for immediate reply had come suggestions which for the first time made him contemplate acceptance as a possibility. He was heartily sick of New York and his associations there. He moreover believed it to be the worst possible atmosphere for literary work of the fine and finished order which was his choice. He felt that the intensely material spirit of the age had reached its apotheosis in the western metropolis, and that amid the hurry and roar of its commercial life, the glitter and gaudiness of its social arrangements, the fight for wealth, the scramble for position, and the jaded weariness following all indulgence in pleasures that are entirely of the senses, there was little chance for a poet to follow the methods which insure a lasting fame; for if in his poems Merriam deified the senses, it was always with a bitter perception that nothing else was left after vain seeking, while to the majority of those about him nothing else had suggested itself as a better possibility. It demands a personality of immense strength and reserve to succeed in the most delicate of all the arts in the midst of such untoward surroundings, and Merriam, always fatally frank with himself as with others, did not underrate his susceptibility to disturbing influences.

"'Napoleon himself would have succumbed to Issodun,'" he quoted in self-justification, and then sneered at himself for seeking to explain a fact instead of accepting it without comment.

"As if I cared how I stood with myself! Some of these inherited aptitudes hang on to a dessicated conscience like a hungry leech to an anaemic patient," he said, with a shrug of disgusted resignation to his own inconsistencies.

To be sure, Vienna, for all its thrifty splendors and the pomp and circumstance of a very stately court, was among the least romantic of European capitals, but it was an incalculable improvement on New York, and besides, they should probably be much at the schloss. In the cool green depths of the Austrian forests there

FOURTH OF JULY TEA

COLOR SCHEME IS LAVENDER.

A Daughter of the American Revolution, a Colonial Dame or the woman who affects things colonial will find no more fitting or charming way of marking Independence day than by giving a colonial tea. The decorations for the table may all be carried out in crape paper, and the pleasure of making the dainty favors, etc., will be great and the result very original. The colonial table seen in the illustration is carried out in tones of lavender, rose and white. Nearly covering the table top is a circular flounce of palest lavender crape paper, with the outer edge stretched between the fingers so that it lies in soft ripples. The central decoration is a square colonial basket such as our great-grandmothers used for flowers. The four panels which compose it are cut from heavy cardboard, covered with flowered crape paper and laced together with pale lavender ribbons. The basket is finished with a high handle of ribbon wound wire and is filled with natural branches covered with tissue cherry blossoms. Miniature baskets of the same pattern stand beside each plate and are filled with bonbons, or each may contain a nosegay of violets.

A COLONIAL TEA TABLE.

Tall rose colored candles in brass stocks of colonial pattern are shaded by flounces of white crape paper trimmed with clusters of cherry blossoms.

The daintiest of menus, comprising old time delectable favorites in modern settings, if one so desires, should be provided. The following menu, which is given rather as a suggestion, to be changed to suit individual preference, would answer nicely for such an occasion:

Cold Sliced Ham with Apple Jelly.
Hot Biscuits. Strawberry Preserves.
Chicken Salad. Cheese Wafers.
Tea. Coffee.
Sillabub. Tea Cakes.

All food except the sillabub and tea cakes should be on the table when the guests enter the dining room.

Missed Woman's Ready Wit.

"Don't always rely upon the ready wit of a woman," said the man who is sometimes pleased to consider himself an oracle. "That ready wit business is sometimes prone to get away off.

"For example, my wife and children had been staying in the country for several weeks, and I was regular with my letters, as every loving husband should be. Finally, on the day before my wife was to start for home, I concluded my letter to her with these words:

"'This will be the last letter I will write to you for a long, long time.'

"When I got down to my office the next morning I found a telegram from my wife waiting for me. 'What on earth do you mean?' read the dispatch.

"Later a registered letter came from her. She had blotted almost every line with tears. What it was all about I could not imagine.

"Then my telephone bell rang, and when I answered I heard my wife's voice speaking over the long distance phone.

"'Oh, John,' said she, 'is that really you? I thought you had committed suicide!'"

A Novel Belt.

Very new in belts is a casing of white linen with a conventionalized border worked in colored mercerized cottons the same tone as a heavy ribbon belting which is run through it.

The casing is cut about an inch wider than the belting and has an irregular viney edge and different shaped medallions embroidered on each edge, with vertical designs running through them. The edges of the casing and medallions are worked in narrow buttonhole stitch and then cut out. The latter thus make slides which come over the belting. The flowers are worked in satin stitch.

A clover design worked in green is effective for wearing with a green belt, while with a brown one a conventionalized motif of chestnuts and leaves should be embroidered and buttonholed in browns. The edges of the oval, oblong or square medallion slides are finished in straight buttonhole stitch about a sixteenth of an inch deep or less.

The Ross Rifle.

The silly season can alone palliate but not excuse the editorial comments which have appeared in the Toronto Globe, and, to the surprise of every one, the Kingston Standard.

The attitude of the former is a matter of regret, but not of surprise, for its weekly descent from the religious sublimities of its Monday to the immoral depths of its Saturday edition is so regular that it appears to be constitutional. That of the latter excites not only regret, but surprise, for the reason that as a Conservative journal it should know better. If a newspaper, so far associated with a party as to be known as a party paper, believes that any policy of that party is of sufficient importance to affect the interests of the country is wrong, or even open to question, it is not only its right but its duty to the public, to its readers and to the party itself, to point out the error, and to assist in withdrawing the party from its wrongful course.

One condition should however exist, or such reproof instead of being commendable, is simply mischievous, that is, that the writer should have given sufficient study to the question to at least know what the facts are, before expressing an opinion. It is of this omission on the part of the Standard that there is cause of complaint.

Now for the facts: Over seven years ago the Government made the contract of which the Globe is so proud—but which it is evident it never read, if it did, it misrepresents its provisions—with the Ross Rifle Company. It is this contract, and the subsequent dealings thereunder, in violation thereof, and in additions thereto, of which the Opposition and the Conservative Press have complained.

The whole damning story is told in the Government Blue Books, and consists of the contract itself, the official reports sent in to the Militia Department, the sworn evidence before a Parliamentary Committee and the answers to questions given by the Government on the floor of the House. There is thus no excuse for ignorance, or escape from detection for misrepresentation.

The Opposition's position in Parliament is this: It censured the Government for making a contract for an unknown and untried rifle that the Imperial authorities had declined to accept, the defects in which had been pointed out by their own expert advisers.

Also for making a contract in perpetuity so that for all time to come Canada has to purchase her rifles from this favored company.

Also that while the United States Government paid $14.90 for its rifle, and the Conservative government of 1896 had bought 20,000 Lee Enfield rifles from the Imperial Government for £2 17s. 3d. each, a little less than the American price, that for this experimental rifle we had to pay $25 each.

Also that we had to advance 75 per cent of the price, viz.: $18.75 (more than the whole cost), for materials and labor while the work was proceeding, although as the government inspector pointed out no one could possibly tell how the rifle would turn out, and if rejected we were out our $18.75.

Also that when all civilized armies were experimenting to improve their bayonets we bought a rifle not only without a bayonet, but unfitted for one.

Also that when years later a bayonet was found necessary, that without competition the government ordered bayonets from the Ross Rifle Company at $5.25 a bayonet, although the United States Government only pays $1.43 and the Imperial Government in 1896 only charged us 7/4, say $1.75, and for a scabbard, 2.4½, less than fifty cents.

Also that, although by the contract the company had to erect their factory in Quebec, that within three months after the signing of the contract, the Government without rhyme or reason or consideration, made a present of about 20 acres on the Plains of Abraham to the Company, which land was worth thousands of dollars.

Also that so improvident was this grant that it actually covered buildings owned and occupied by the government.

Also that although the contract recited as a justification for its existence that our rifles should be manufactured in Canada, that not a single part is manufactured here, but all are brought from abroad, mainly the United States, and merely put together here.

Also that although the contract required 1,200 rifles to be delivered between 1st Jan., 1903, and 1st Jan., 1904, that at the end of 1905, nearly four years after the contract was made, that only 136 rifles had been delivered, though $600,000 had been paid.

And that although their inspector refused to certify to the value of the material and labor, for reasons given, that without any certificate and in defiance of the law, the government advanced over $800,000 to their favored company.

Also that when at last 10,000 Mark I rifles had been received and some distributed that it was found that the danger to the man in front of the rifle was so problematical, and the injury to the "man behind the gun" so certain that the troops refused to use them and sent them back.

Also that although the original rifle was so absurdly and conspicuously defective that the committee required six changes before they would even examine it, that changes having been going on ever since and more than 100 having been made that even now when a rifle is required that will stand the strain of shooting that none of the 50,000 accepted and paid for can be used, but a new, different, longer, heavier rifle for which $42 is charged had to be devised.

Also that not having provided for plans and specifications in the contract, although expressly warned so to do by their experts, that the government provided for a sealed pattern rifle to which all must conform, and by which alone, as a standard, rifles could be rejected. That having such sealed pattern there was only one possible way to continue their bungling and that was to lose their standard, which they forthwith did so for years, there has been no guide under the contract by which defective rifles can or could be rejected, hence the government is liable for damages for every one the Inspector rejects.

Also that although the contract was made over seven years ago, and the country has paid the Ross Rifle Company over a million and a quarter of dollars, that the troops to-day are armed practically as they were in 1902 and all the country has to show for its money is $50,000 antique curios piled away where the Minister of Militia perhaps knows.

The foregoing and for many other reasons, prove that the Opposition attacked not so much the quality of the Ross Rifle, but the Government which is responsible for such transactions, many of which, only an exercise of the broadest charity can attribute to incapacity.

The Ross Rifle was attacked by the Military experts, by the Inspectors who had to accept them, the N. W. Mounted Police, who refused to use them, by the permanent force, who declined to carry them when sent from Toronto to Hamilton at the time of the street railway riots, and by the Militia from the Atlantic to the Pacific wherever a few were issued.

Just a year ago, precisely the same chorus was raised because a shield was won at Bisley by a soldier who used a Ross rifle, and the Globe called on the Opposition to forever hold its peace —a few days later the decision was revoked because the rifle was not a service rifle—but the Globe's apology for its misstatement and its misapplication of its misstatement has yet to arrive.

A deliberate fraud was attempted last year, Parliament will no doubt investigate whether the same thing was successfully done this year.

In the meantime, it is certainly significant that the National Rifle Association has already passed a rule that will prevent similar attempts in the future. But even if a rifle made by the Ross Rifle Company could be used for shooting in the year 1909, or if in ages to come some ingenious disciple of Darwin should confirm his theory by the evolution of a serviceable weapon from the Ross Rifle at a not too unreasonable cost, will the Globe or Standard tell us, what in the world that would have to with the above and many other similar charges against the Government, and why the Opposition should blush for having made them or weep for having proved them true.

Yet in the face of these facts, and others equally potent, a Conservative journal coolly asks the withdrawal of further opposition to this Ross rifle fraud upon the taxpayers of the Dominion. That the Globe should ask such withdrawal, might be expected, as it has proved the apologist of every act of the Government from the G.T.P. scheme down to the Halifax Dockyard scandal and Department of Marine and Fisheries extravagances.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY ?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion."

ARMED WITH KNIFE, DEFIES NEIGHBORS WHILE WRECKING WILLIAMSBURG FLAT.

His mind supposedly unbalanced by constant reading of the testimony of the Thaw hearing Edward Cordin, a bookkeeper, thirty-seven years old, of No. 467 Grand street, Williamsburg, N. Y. became violent to-day and wrecked his apartment. Armed with a knife, the man defied his neighbors to come into his rooms, and it was not until a policeman and an ambulance surgeon arrived that the man was subdued. After being put in a strait jacket Cordin snapped the straps and had to be bound with ropes before he could be taken to Kings' County Hospital. He was placed in the observation ward.

Cordin is married and has two children. Last week his family went to the country and he was left alone. Ever since the murder of Stanford White Cordin has taken great interest in the Thaw case and attended many sessions of the first two trials. He is also said to have written numerous letters to Thaw telling him to keep up his spirits and that all would go well.

A couple of months ago Cordin's friends got him to go to a sanitarium where he remained for a couple of weeks. When he returned he seemed to be all right again. When the present Thaw hearing began he began to act strangely and would talk only on the subject of the trial.

Early to-day Cordin's neighbors were aroused by the sounds of crashing crockery and splintering furniture. Several men went into the house, but were driven out by Cordin. By the time Policeman Freestone, of the Bedford avenue station, arrived nearly all the furniture in the house had been smashed, and the man was starting to break the windows and doors.

NO LINIMENT LIKE "NERVILINE"

FIFTY YEARS' USE PROVES IT THE STRONGEST, SAFEST, BEST.

1,000,000 BOTTLES SOLD ANNUALLY.

The unexampled success of "Nerviline" is due to the fact that it is five times stronger, three times more penetrating, more pain-relieving than any other liniment.

One million bottles used every year —think what this means! Surely stronger proof is not possible that Nerviline is a trusty liniment, a household remedy upon which mothers can depend in case of accident or sudden sickness. Scarcely an ache or a pain that Nerviline won't cure—among the hundreds of ailments for which it is guaranteed are the following:

Headache.	Neuralgia.
Sciatica.	Rheumatism.
Lumbago	Chest Colds.
Sore Back.	Toothache.
Earache.	Cramps.
Diarrhoea.	Bowel Disorders.

Doctors will tell you that nothing but the purest and most healing antiseptic drugs are used in Nerviline —that's why it is so safe for general family use, for the baby as well as the parent. If you haven't tried Nerviline, do so now—your neighbors are almost sure to know of its manifold merits and uses.

Refuse any substitute for Nerviline, sold the world over in large 25c bottles, five for $1.00, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TWO REMARKABLE MEN

ENGLISHMAN AND GERMAN WHO WERE FAMOUS FOR WEALTH.

Charles Morrison of Basildon Passes Away at Age of 92, Leaving Sixty Millions Which He Had Piled Up by Investing, and Died a Shabby Old Man—Ernest Nister, the Art Publisher, Was Well Liked.

Two remarkable men have just died one in England the other in Germany. The German was the better known, for his name was on millions of books sold in this country.

"Until his death, few people outside the City and Berkshire village had ever heard of this man of millions," says The London Chronicle. "Inheriting a million from his father, who had come down from Scotland with only a few shillings in his pocket, and who had built up this fortune as a 'general draper,' Charles Morrison, the son, had made it the business of his life to go on adding money to money, by investing here and investing there, by buying up properties of increasing value, by lending money, on safe securities, to foreign Governments and great companies at home, by watching, quietly through the years, the steady way in which money breeds money, and millions are multiplied by millions.

"With this almost incredible wealth Charles Morrison might have taken a great lead in public life; he might have become world-renowned as a great philanthropist; he might have given five, six, or even the magic eight, Dreadnoughts to the nation; he might have been a peer of the realm; he might have made or ended wars by offering or refusing loans by which war alone is possible.

"But he did none of these things. He just went about, a shabby old man, never taking a cab when he had strength to walk, unknown to those who rubbed shoulders with him, unapproached even by the professional beggars who knew nothing of his wealth, and sitting nearly all his life in his City offices, now at Basildon House, E.C., watching his money grow, and like a spider weaving a golden cobweb about him, in which at last he died.

"He bought pictures, for instance, and had several Vandykes, and a magnificent Rembrandt, and one of the greatest pictures of Jan Steen. He was also a great reader in French as well as English literature.

"But he lived a lonely life, chiefly in the City, always busy with his loans and securities and investments, and to-day the only interest the world has in the death of a man so little known to fame, was to discover how he had disposed of his wealth."

The German was Mr. Ernest Nister, the famous fine-art publisher, who died at Nuremberg recently. "The immense success of Mr. Nister's publications in this country was responsible to some extent for the outcry against the sale of so many books and pictures 'Printed in Germany'; but he was merely first in exploiting a market which had been neglected by British enterprise," says The London Daily News.

"'Even after Nister had shown the way,' said Mr. Robert Mack, who was associated with him from the beginning of his business in England, to a representative of The Daily News, 'I could not find an English printer enterprising enough to do the work, though I tried hard, because I thought it such a pity that all this printing should be done abroad.'

"Nister had a small printing business in Nuremberg when Mr. Mack first met him. 'I saw that his was a really master mind,' said Mr. Mack; 'and that he was doing beautiful work; and I found that he combined the artistic sense with commercial qualities in an unusual way.

"'At that time the "Kate Greenway" books were proving very popular, and we came to the conclusion that there were immense possibilities in the reproduction of the work of English artists on the lines that have since been followed. Nister must have made a great fortune. The exterior of his factory at Nuremberg is almost like that of a royal residence, with its gorgeous iron gates and its bronze figures. He paid about $50,000 a year to the British artists who worked for him.'

"Mr. Nister, who was not more than sixty years of age, had been in failing health for some time. His industrial genius was recognized officially by the German Government, who made him a 'Knight of Labor'—a title which is bestowed upon distinguished commercial men."

A Corner In Autographs.

Mascagni, the Italian composer, does not speak foreign languages, so he usually travels with a secretary, who helps him out in this respect. When in Vienna he was struck with the immense number of autographs which were requested of him every morning by his secretary. Sheet after sheet was laid before him until he was thoroughly tired. One day, taking up a newspaper, he caught sight of his own name and with languid curiosity asked a friend to translate. It was an advertisement and ran as follows: "Maestro Mascagni, in consequence of the immense number of autographs asked of him, has decided to sell them for a florin each, the proceeds going to a charitable institution in Vienna. Please inclose florin in demand."

He computed that his secretary made upward of a thousand florins by this transaction.

Antiquity of Tin.

We find that brass, and consequently tin, existed in Tyre, the great seaport town of the Phoenicians, on the coast of Syria, about 1,000 B.C. They are frequently referred to in all works relating to tin or to Cornwall. The Phoenicians were merchants and carried on an important trade from the ports of Tyre and Sidon. These cities rivaled each other in magnitude, fame and antiquity.

Trio From Tweed In County Jail.

On Saturday evening, County Constable Sedore brought three young men from Tweed to the County jail, where they will remain for 15 days on a charge of vagrancy. Their names are Chas. Howard, George Acomb and Wm. Crashly. It appears that they have been hanging about Tweed for some time and apparently had no visible means of support. It was reported that one of the parties was charged with shooting, but this, it seems, was an accidental affair. The parties were in a boat on the river near Tweed, and one of them had a revolver with which he was shooting at a mark. Another of the party moved and a bullet from the weapon grazed his neck. The authorities consider the men to be rather suspicious characters.

Tweed Fire Company Did Excellent Work,

Tweed, August 2.—(Special.)—Fire broke out at 2.30 this a.m. in the Crescent, a restaurant and confectionery store operated by Evan Sexsmith. It started in the cellar, but the cause is unknown.

The Tweed Fire Company did good work and confined the fire to the first story, but the contents were destroyed by fire and water.

English Lad Found A Watery Grave

Napanee, Ont., Aug. 2.—(Special.) Tommy Crowe, an English immigrant lad of eleven years, was drowned yesterday evening in the Napanee river near here. While getting from a row boat on to the dock he fell into the water. He was alone and unable to swim, so was an easy victim.

Former Deseronto Lady Drowned

WAS THE WIFE OF A ONE-TIME BUSINESS COLLEGE STUDENT OF THIS CITY — SECOND DROWNING FATALITY IN THE FAMILY.

At Bellingham, Wash., on Thursday last, Mrs. Guy Hudgins, was drowned whilst bathing. Deceased was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stainton, of Deseronto, and was known to many in this city. She was an estimable lady only 24 years of age, and the sad fatality occurred on the first anniversary of her wedding. Mr. Hudgins was well known in Belleville, having been four years ago a student at a business college here. The unfortunate affair has caused universal sorrow at Deseronto, as only four years ago, Mr. Martin Stainton, a brother of the deceased, was drowned in Lake Superior. The body of Mrs. Hudgins will be brought to Deseronto for interment.

Auto Killed a Dog.

Yesterday afternoon, Mr. Burgess, who resides on Dundas street, had a valuable dog killed by an automobile. The canine was following Mr. Burgess' buggy along the Trent Road when an automobile passed and the dog in some manner got in front of the machine and was run over. The dog's back was broken and death ensued in a few minutes.

A Dangerous Practice

Complaint has been made that some parties residing on George street, during the evenings, are practising shooting at a target, which is situated in the yard, and some of the stray bullets fall into the neighbors' yards. This practice should be stopped, or an accident of a serious nature is liable to occur.

Golden Wedding

The Winnipeg correspondent of the Christian Guardian of last week had the following: Rev. Andrew and Mrs. Gordon recently celebrated their golden weding in Fort Rouge, Winnipeg, where they have resided for a few years. Their family of five—two sons and three daughters—were present, with a number of other relatives. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon will unite in wishing them many years of health and happiness. The numerous relatives and friends of the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon in this city and county, will join the Intelligencer in congratulations.

Got a Wetting, But Were Not Drowned.

A report became quite freely circulated yesterday that Mr. P. Pitney and two other parties had been drowned in the bay near Massassaga park. Fortunately such was not the case, although there might easily have been a drowning accident, as Mr. Pitney and two friends were upset on Saturday afternoon, in the bay, but were rescued before any fatality occurred.

Big Seizure of Nets and Skiffs.

On Thursday last, between Amherst Island and Gananoque, Capt. Hunter, on board the fishing Patrol yacht Navarch, seized 2 skiffs and about two miles of nets used in illegal fishing.

Deseronto Boy Met Death in The West.

Deseronto, Ont., July 30. — Thos. Hannan, overseer at the Deseronto Iron Works, received the grievous news to-day of the death of his only son.

The deceased was about 24 years of age and was killed in a railway accident near Bo ell, Washington. The body is to be sent to Capac, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Hannan leave for that place to-night.

Good Fishing.

Messrs. George T. Woodley, R. Zufelt and A. Davis, of this city; Wm. Vantassel, of Montreal; Capt. and Mrs. Stein, of Rochester, N.Y., have returned to the city, after spending a few days at Loon Lake. They report having had a good time and good fishing.

His Fourth Year.

For the fourth year in succession, the Rev. H. Bruce Hunter has returned to this city to occupy the pulpit of Bridge St. Church during the absence of its pastor. No higher compliment could be paid by this congregation to Mr. Hunter, than this.

CEMENT WORKS INSPECTION.

Several gentlemen connected with the Lehigh Cement Company are in town, and, in company with Mr. Sydney Matcham, the local manager, inspected the mill. The party consisted of Mr. A. W. Thorn, Hugh A. Sloan, Buffalo, J. D. Johnson, Toronto; H. J. Robinson, Montreal, Mrs. Thorn and Miss M. Sloan also accompanied the party.

Just Complaints

Complaints have been made to the police about boys going in swimming near Cooper's dam without proper apparel. If the practise is continued there will be police court cases.

THE HOME PHYSICIAN

Some Hints to Keep People Well.

As you know, these organs are the great purifiers of the human system. They filter impurities from the blood and pass them from the body. If the kidneys, bowels or skin weaken or get tired out or fail to do their regular work—then the blood becomes laden with impurities and poisoned. If it be the fault of the kidneys, then the skin is overworked in its efforts to throw off the excess of urea or waste matter. The glands become inflamed and enlarged—pimples break out—and there may be a rash or eczema of the skin. If it is the fault of the skin, then the kidneys are strained by overwork and there is constant pain in the back, dizziness, neuralgia, headaches and rheumatism. If it be the fault of the bowels, the blood is poisoned, the skin and kidneys weakened, the stomach upset—and, of course, there is Constipation and Biliousness.

How easy it is, then, to be free of all these troubles!

"Fruit-a-tives" is not merely a remedy for any one of these troubles but a cure for all. "Fruit-a-tives" acts on the skin, the liver, and the kidneys. "Fruit-a-tives" keeps all these great organs well and strong, and thus insures the blood being always pure and rich. With "Fruit-a-tives" in the house to take at the first sign of not feeling well, you need not have a day's sickness. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

SETTLED AT LAST.

United States Senate Adopts Payne Tariff Bill.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The House on Saturday night adopted the conference report on the tariff bill, 195 to 183. The Republicans shrieked in their delight over the final outcome, and Chairman Payne was the central figure of an admiring and congratulatory crowd of colleagues.

Twenty Republicans voted against the report and two Democrats for it.

The day opened with what appeared to be part of an organized filibuster against the conference report, when Mr. Mondell, Wyoming, demanded the reading of a lengthy document. This proceeded for about an hour and a half, when with about two-thirds remaining to be read, Mr. Mondell permitted the debate to go on.

Chairman Payne defended the report and appealed to his Republican colleagues to support it, prophesying at the same time that when the bill was enacted into law it would meet with the approval of the country.

Mr. Clark, the minority leader, and many of his colleagues denounced the bill and chastised the Republicans for failings, as they alleged to revise the tariff downward, and thus keep their party pledges.

Perhaps the most sensational speech of all was by Mr. Mann of Illinois, Republican, who said he would vote against the report, provided the rates on pulp and print paper as reduced by the House, were not retained. He denounced that particular schedule and declared that Canada would take such action regarding pulpwood, and print paper as to place an almost prohibitive price on paper in this country.

At 9.07 p.m. the House with the conference report ready to be messaged to the Senate for action, adjourned until Monday noon.

Irish Best Administrators.

Montreal, Aug. 2.—An interesting story comes from Ottawa supplementing the many rumors anent the coming appointment of an archbishop of that archdiocese.

It appears that the Irish-Canadian element sent a document to Rome declaring amongst other reasons why one of that nationality should be appointed, that the French-Canadians, while good and faithful missionaries, were failing in administrative capacity, and as administrative talent would be required in a very high degree in the capital, an Irish-Canadian should be the successor of the late Mgr. Duhamel.

Thief Gets Jewelry.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 2.—Mrs. E. D. Smith, who was robbed of jewelry valued at $1,000 three weeks ago, is to-day mourning the loss of about $250 in cash and jewelry. Between one and four yesterday morning her house was entered and rifled. Several rooms were entered and jewelry, the property of guests, stolen.

This house was robbed three weeks ago by Edward Barrymore, who was sentenced to five years for robbing the Walker House in Toronto. It is believed the thief may be a friend of Barrymore's.

Paper Under Ban.

Sbaretti Off for Rome?

Montreal, Aug. 2.—It is learned today that the rumor to the effect that his excellency Mgr. Sbaretti had gone to Rome on an official mission is to say the least premature.

One thing is certain the papal delegate did not give it to be understood that he was leaving for the city of the Popes, and that it was only supposed that he had taken his departure for the eternal city. As a well-posted gentleman in ecclesiastical matters observed yesterday if the delegate has really gone to Rome he certainly never intimated to anyone of either high or low estate that such was his intention.

20,000 HOUSES BURNED

City of Osaka, Japan, Visited by Terrible Conflagration.

Many Thousands Are Homeless and and Confronted by Starvation—Populace, Firemen and Troops Unite In Struggle With Fire—Temple, Museum, Banks and Many Beautiful Buildings Are Destroyed.

Osaka, Japan, Aug. 2.—Confusion still prevails here as a result of Saturday's disastrous fire. Thousands of persons are homeless and hunger is staring many of them in the face.

A system of relief has been organized by the municipal authorities, but it is inadequate. Outside cities and towns are assisting.

The number of casualties has not yet been determined, but hundreds of injured persons are crowding the hospitals.

The latest estimates are that 20,000 buildings were destroyed, including banks, the stock exchange, the museum, Government edifices, and factories.

Losses are given roughly at several million yen. It is feared that consequently some of the insurance companies will fail.

The conflagration lasted more than 25 hours. The streets of the city are very narrow, and the houses mostly of wood constuction.

Under a strong breeze therefore the buildings were easy prey for the flames. The firemen fought valiantly against the odds of lack of water and wind, and many of them fell unconscious.

The belongings of the people who were able to save anything from their burning homes are piled in great heaps along the railroad tracks from Osaka to Kobe, where they were removed early Saturday morning when the fire broke out.

All day Saturday and far into the night the male populace assisted firemen and the troops in quenching the conflagration. An area of over four miles square, containing some of the city's handsomest structures, including the Buddhist temple, the largest in the world, was burned over before the fire was controlled. The stock exchange, one of the most important ...ery similar to the costly Direct... of this country, was entirely destroyed. This loss, it is believed, will tend to dislocate the business of Osaka, which, with its manufacturing concerns, is one of the chief commercial cities of Japan.

Comic Editor Shot.

Havana, Aug. 2.—Postmaster-General Nodarse Saturday night entered the home of Senor Torriente, editor of an illustrated weekly, Policia Comica, and fired several shots, seriously wounding Torriente. Nodarse then escaped.

The cause of the attack is said to be rumors concerning the relations of a certain high Government official with Nodarse's wife. The publication of a scandalous cartoon Saturday is believed to have induced Nodarse to attack Torriente.

Doctor Gave Him Up.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE WITH KIDNEY DISEASE AND DRAGGING BACKACHE.

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY.

To get well and keep well after being pronounced incurable by his physician, was the wonderful experience of Mr. A. P. Chapman, who was snatched from the very jaws of death by the timely use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"For two years I had suffered from advanced kidney disease, was stooped, back-weary, hollow eyed and completely played out. One Saturday night I was seized by an acute attack and became so sick I had to call in my physician. For a week he attended me constantly, but I grew weaker and sicker every day. The pains in my back, the blinding headaches, the awful weakness from which I suffered almost killed me—the doctor saw it was hopeless.

"As a last hope I was persuaded to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They brought back my strength, aided my stomach, created new appetite, cleansed my blood and gave me relief from pain. After I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills for a month I was like a new man. I continued the treatment for three months and was cured."

Surely there is an obvious moral and lesson here for all men and women. If you are suffering from any derangement of the system, if you are tortured and distressed by indigestion if you are weakened by the ravages of constipation, kidney, liver or bladder complaint,—if your blood is weak and your system run down, — then use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, take them continually till you are fully restored to health again.

Give Dr. Hamilton's Pills an immediate and thorough trial, your faith in them will not be disappointed. 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00 at dealers or The Catarrhozone Com-

Trade Expert From Germany.

London, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The German Commercial Treaties' Association has memoralized the German Chancellor for the appointment of a German trade expert in Canada. The request is based upon replies received to a circular addressed by the association to a large number of firms trading with Canada, by whom such an appointment is considered highly desirable. At the same time many firms remark that the end of the tariff war is of far greater importance, as before normal trade relations have been restored between Germany and Canada, no very great results are to be expected from the appointment of a trade expert.

Glenallah Hits Breakwater.

Port Colborne, Aug. 3.—The steamer Glenallah, owned by the Inland Navigation Co. of Hamilton, struck the breakwater here early yesterday morning, doing twenty to thirty thousand dollars' damage.

The steamer had passed through the canal and was on her way out. When nearing the breakwater, her wheel chain became clogged. She struck the breakwater head on. Her forward compartments are full of water. She was loaded with a general cargo, Montreal to Fort William.

Fatal Exhibition.

Providencetown, Mass., Aug. 3.—"It was not a prize fight nor a boxing bout, but an exhibition for a moving picture machine," said Admiral Seaton Schroeder yesterday, in reference to the death of Hanson H. Foster, a colored messmate on board the battleship Vermont Sunday night, after going six rounds with a messmate on Friday evening. Foster died of cerebral hemorrhages, caused by a blow or fall.

Scarcity of Labor.

Port Arthur, Aug. 3.—J. Dix Fraser, manager of Atikokan Iron Co.'s blast furnaces, states that the blow-in will take place early this week. Everything is practically ready to recommence the manufacture of pig iron.

Contractors who are endeavoring to hire men for railroad work on the N.T.R., north of Nepigon, are finding it very difficult to procure labor.

11,300 Buildings Burned.

Tokio, Aug. 3.—An official report on the damage by the great fire at Osaka places the number of dwellings destroyed at 11,368, including eleven office buildings, eight schools, four banks, ten business blocks and twenty temples. There was but one death, due to illness, caused by the fire.

An investigation of the disaster has been begun. About 500 are receiving public assistance.

British Control of Railroads.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Franklin K. Lane, a member of the Inter-State Commerce Commission, is at present in France studying the regulations applied to French railroads.

He has just come from England, where he found the control, both in the matter of rates and the issue of capital, to be most effective.

Car Thieves Rounded Up.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 3.—A gang of thieves who have been responsible for a long series of robberies from Canadian Pacific cars, were rounded up Sunday night. They gave their names as D. Lambert, C. Hunter and G. Cardell. Many hundreds of dollars' worth of goods were found at the homes of the men.

Invents Noiseless Cannon.

Kartford, Conn., Aug. 3.—Hiram Percy Maxim announced yesterday that he had invented a noiseless cannon of large bore and that in October he will go to Europe to demonstrate it. He is making preparations for the test here. His patents for noiseless weapons cover Japan as well as European countries.

C.N.R. Crop Report.

Winnipeg, Aug. 3.—The Canadian Northern Railway crop report yesterday is very optimistic. All crops are in fine condition. Barley cutting has started and will be in full swing in a few days.

Wheat cutting in southern Manitoba will start about the 10th of this month.

SILVER DART WRECKED

Aviator McCurdy Has an Accident in Landing.

Aeroplane at Petawawa Makes a Trial Carrying Baldwin as Passenger and Makes Successful Flights Up and Down the Field, But Strikes Knoll While Alighting—Principles of the Machine Are Proven a Success.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 3.—From the aviators' standpoint, the future of the preliminary trials of the "Silver Dart" over Petawawa common early yesterday was the successful working of the new motor.

The aerodrome attained the highest speed yet made in Canada — forty miles an hour or over—and carried for the first time an additional passenger.

Four flights, or hops, were made, the first three being about half-mile each and the fourth about three-quarters of a mile.

Unfortunately, when making the fourth landing, the sun dazzled the aviators and the forward wheel of the aerodrome struck a knoll at an angle and the machine ricochetted and fell on its side, wrecking the wings and framework. The motor remained uninjured. The aviators received only a few scratches.

The trials were held before sunrise. No wind was blowing and weather conditions were perfect. J. D. McCurdy, with whom the "Silver Dart" has always been associated, was in the front position, in charge of the controlling apparatus, and Casey Baldwin went along as a passenger.

The propeller was started and, under heavy pressure, the aerodrome moved swiftly forward. After traveling a short distance along the ground until proper speed had been acquired, a slight turn in the bow control was made and the "Silver Dart" gracefully slid into the air, moving at a uniform distance of ten feet from the ground.

The aerodrome made three successful flights up and down the field, northwest to a clump of jack pines and back again to the shed, maintaining perfect balance and being under control all the time.

The surface of the field on which the trials took place is uneven. The ground is anything but level, and little rounded hummocks rise irregularly here and there, leaving countless small depressions, separated by tiny ridges. One walking might notice these irregularities, but it would be difficult to do so when riding and on account of the thick scrub, almost impossible when sailing through the air.

When the aviator is seeking a landing, the idea is to light on a crest and slide gently down the slope, but if the air is bad and he strikes a knoll at a greater angle than on the level, the shock is much worse. This is just what happened yesterday. On the fourth flight, McCurdy sought a landing about seventy yards from the shed, but owing to the sun, could not see the knoll. The machine was traveling eastward at an high speed and the forward wheel struck the ground heavily. The machine bounced and fell on its side fifty yards further on, and about twenty yards from the shed a shapeless mass of splinters, twisted steel and torn silk.

The loss of the "Silver Dart" is keenly felt by Baldwin and McCurdy. It was the first flying machine made in Canada and represented months of painstaking work at Baddeck, N.S., and from its hundred or more successful flights it had become an object of affection. But the purpose for which it was set up has been achieved, and the principles are amplified in "New Baddeck No. 1." Work on this new machine has begun and the motor will be installed without delay. This will not take long. Numerous changes in the "Dart" made the assembling difficult, but the "Baddeck" already looks like a "drome," and by Friday or Saturday next an aerodrome mightier than the "Silver Dart" will be flying over Ottawa Valley, a fitting exponent of Canadian enterprise.

Connaught Forced to Retire.

London, Aug. 3.—It is reported as a sequel to the Duke of Connaught's resignation last month, of the inspector generalship of the Mediterranean forces, on the ground of "the ineffective nature of the work and the useless expense to the nation involved therein," that the Army Council has requested the duke to retire from the presidency of the selection board, which deals with the selection and promotion of officers in the army.

Played Indian; Two Boys Burned.

Montreal, Aug. 3.—As a result of playing Indian, two boys were burned, one badly and another slightly, at Outremont, a suburb. The two boys, who took the part of Indians, tied a younger playmate to a "torture post" as a white prisoner. Sparks from the fire set fire to one of the bigger boy's clothes. Both "Indians" then ran away, leaving the little fellow, who was released by a neighbor.

A Marine Innovation.

Washington, Aug. 3.—All American steamship companies are directed to equip the boilers of their vessels with an independent water feed by Oct. 31 next in a decision by Assistant Secretary McHarg of the Department of Commerce and Labor, under penalty of having their licenses revoked.

Spain Is Now Quieting Down

Situation at Barcelona Seems to Be Slightly Improved.

Censored Reports Say That Authorities Have Been Victorious In Barcelona, But That Revolutionists Are Strong in The Rural Parts—Some Districts Have Declared Themselves Republics.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The international situation in Spain to-day seems to be improving. Barcelona has emerged from her isolation and the threatened general strike in Madrid appears to have been averted, at least temporarily.

The first train out of Catalonia's capital city since the beginning of the tragic events there reached the French frontier last night, bringing censored and plainly inexact newspapers accounts of the insurrection in the outlying parts of Catalonia. The rest is shrouded in mystery.

Several of the smaller cities are reported to be in the hands of the revolutionists, and many villages have proclaimed the district a republic. Troops are being steadily distributed throughout the rebellious district, and barring new serious outbreaks, the insurrectionists eventually will be forced to capitulate.

It is said that the authorities are determined to crush the insurrection before the return from South America of Deputy Alejandro Leroux, chief of the Republicans at Barcelona, whose period of exile for political reasons was set aside by the Chamber of Deputies last April.

Reports from San Felise, Palamos and Cassa de la Selva say that these places are still in the hands of the revolutionists.

In striking contrast of the estimate of the victims of the disorders given by the Barcelona newspapers, which arrived yesterday at Cerbere, is one of 5,000, emanating from private advices received from Madrid. This latter estimate, however, is labelled "Perhaps exaggerated."

GENERAL WEYLER,
Military Ruler of Spain, Who Is Blamed for a Large Port of the Disturbance In That Country.

An official statement issued in Madrid last night concerning the proposed general strike there says that numerous masons failed to report for duty yesterday, but it is explained that this was due to a fear of a clash with the unionists.

Spain's censorship to-day is more inexorable than ever. No news has been received from the various points in the north, where the trades unions had planned a general strike.

Refugees arriving at the frontier speak of the "terrible slaughter" and estimate the dead at thousands, but allowance must be made for their panic. Whether or not the ringleaders who were captured and tried and condemned by court-martial actually have been executed is not yet clear. Some reports declare that General Santiago has not yet approved the death sentences in the cases of these men. It is known, however, that Emiliano Iglesias, editor of The Progresso, was shot without trial in the fortress.

Some reports insist that a republic already has been proclaimed, and that a regular junta is directing the operations of the revolutions.

A special despatch from Cerebere reiterates previous reports that a number of communes in Catelina have proclaimed a republic, and declares that the municipality of Palmos has declared that city to be free and independent.

Butchery Was Terrible.

Oran, Algeria, Aug. 3.—The steamer Imir came in here yesterday from Melilla and her officers, referring to the fighting there between the Spaniards and the Moors of July 27, say the former made the mistake of advancing in solid masses through a gorge dominated on both sides by hills, when the enemy mowed them down as fast as they issued from the pass. The unfortunate soldiers of Spain did not know where the fusilades came from. The butchery was terrible.

Firemen's Tournament.

Parry Sound, Aug. 3.—The annual tournament of the Northern Volunteer Firemen's Association will be held here on Wednesday. It is expected that at least 10,000 visitors will be present. Special trains are coming from all directions. Band competitions and various contests between volunteer fire companies have been arranged, as well as a big program of athletics. Capt. Alex. Gunn and Wm. Simpson of the Toronto fire department will act as judges.

Mob Lynches Murderer.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 3.—George Johnson (white), who murdered John W. Moore, a farmer, near Platte City, Mo., June 20, was lynched at Platte City early yesterday.

Two men took a third man to the jail, representing him to be a prisoner. When the sheriff opened the jail door the three overpowered him and fifty other men soon appeared and battered down the door of Johnson's cell.

A Valuable Handbag.

New York, Aug. 3.—A handbag found on an excursion steamer July 9, was claimed yesterday by Mrs. Grace Livingston Wheeler of Philadelphia. The bag contained $2,755 in new bills, two gold watches, two diamond rings and other valuables.

George Washington Lincoln, the colored porter on the steamer, who found the handbag, was rewarded with $100.

"Oleomargarine Used Here."

New York, Aug. 3.—"Oleomargarine used here," must be printed plainly conspicuously, beginning yesterday, on all bills of fare in those restaurants throughout the state which serve substitutes for butter. Lunch carts, boarding houses and other eating places which do not rise to the dignity of menu cards, must post signs in places where they can easily be seen and read.

International Aviation Congress.

Paris, Aug. 3.—It is reported here that France intends to call an international conference to discuss the question of aviation.

A summer's activity and progress in aviation in France will be crowned by the assemblage of the most renowned aeroplanists at a "week of aviation," arranged to open at Rheims on Aug. 2.

May Prove a Check.

London, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Morning Post remarks that the important movement towards West Indian reciprocity with Canada, which the royal commission has been appointed to further, is likely to be checked again by the threats contained in the Payne U. S. tariff law.

Suffragettes In Town.

Boston, Aug. 3.—A flying cohort of woman suffragists started by trolley from this city yesterday to make a tour of the state in the interest of "votes for women." The suffragists expect to take advantage of the county fairs in holding their rallies.

One Experimenter Hurt.

L'Orient, France, Aug. 3.—While experimenting here yesterday with a new military aeroplane of his invention, Lieut. Cros of the French army was caught in a squall and dashed to the ground. He sustained severe injuries on the head.

Legion of Honor for Paderewski.

Paris, Aug. 3.—Ignace Paderewski, the Polish pianist, has been made an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

Wealthy Man Goes to Chain Gang.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 3.—The last chance of escape from a sentence to the chain gang passed from William H. Mitchell, for years one of the most prominent men in Southern Georgia, when the state court of appeals affirmed the lower court's sentence that he must serve a year for assault and battery upon his relative, Miss Lucile Linton.

Mitchell nearly a year ago disguised himself as a negro woman and attempted to abduct Miss Linton. She is wealthy and a social leader of the community in which Mitchell lived, in and about Thomasville.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Crops, they say, are doing fine, particularly the corn crop. Some people think the new granolithic walks have much to do with that. Perhaps. Anyhow, it's worth a bunion or two to be able to walk at night without breaking your bones or the commandments.

◆ ◆ ◆

Front of Sidney people object to the plan of the Canadian Northern, which proposes, it seems, to carve up the Front. To a man in the middle of the road it would appear that this city and district needs more railway service, and anything which tends to prevent new railways coming should not be encouraged. With a railway on the Front, Belleville would surely put up a better front, and be able to do more in the way of attracting new industries and providing better freight service for the industries we now have.

◆ ◆ ◆

However, justice should rule in all things, and it is to be hoped that the C.N.R. will be able to make its entry into the Bay of Quinte district without injuring either the interests or feelings of Front of Sidney property-owners.

◆ ◆ ◆

As showing how some Front of Sidney people feel in this matter, we are told of the case of one gentleman who lives near the cemetery. The proposed line of the railway is staked out within ten feet of his front door. He is shedding no tears. "They can come through my parlor if they want to," he said. He knows he will get compensation, and does not propose to be a brake on the wheel of progress.

◆ ◆ ◆

In objecting to the scorchers and "joy riders" who make living a dangerous amusement on the Trent road, the Front of Sidneyites are well within their rights. Every man in this world is entitled to a chance to live out his days in peace and quietness. Some people say the residents of the Front dwell in a state of perpetual nightmare because of the reckless work of autoists. Their wives and daughters are almost afraid to drive horses to or from the city, for fear of meeting scorching autoists who throw caution and common sense to the winds and act as though the world belonged to them and the people who live on it were mere excrescences on the face of nature. This kind of thing will not do. The motorists must respect the rights of others. Otherwise they will soon find that their own rights — and they undoubtedly have some — will be taken entirely away. Verbum sap.

Kingston Whig: The Council should insist on the muffling of all exhausts on motor boats. How long will it allow the nuisance to exist?

Action on the above line is also needed in Belleville. Some of the put-puts in the harbor make more noise than a steam calliope. Muzzle 'em.

The ruffianism continues at Glace Bay among the strikers. On the 29th July four Italian strikers living in a shack at No. 3 colliery were arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. Two soldiers caught them setting off powder, and when arrested there was found in their possession two large cans of bull-dog powder. They were seen making experiments by filling bottles with the powder and igniting it by short fuses. These men were bailed out by the U. M. W. leaders. The unions repudiate all knowledge of these outrages or sympathy with the criminals, yet as soon as they are discovered and arrested they are bailed out of jail by union men. People draw their own conclusions.

"We would utter this vital warning to the west: Never sell or cede a water-power. Always lease them. Do not sell or cede your resources, apart from farm lands. Retain the people's ownership in the heritage of the people." This advice, given by the president of the Union of Canadian Municipalities to the people of the western provinces, and which is applicable to the east as well as the west, is advice to which no right thinking citizen can take exception. Whether our natural resources are directly operated by the people, ownership of them should remain as far as possible with the people.

The result of a fire in Toronto was the discovery of an illicit still. The still is a most complete one, and the Inland Revenue officers claim it is the best one of the great number they have seized all over the province. More than 300 gallons of illicit whiskey were destroyed. Only a small quantity of this was ready for consumption, but the rest would have been ready for delivery in a very short while had not the fire stopped the further operations of the "moonshiners." When this can be carried on in Toronto, what may be expected to exist in outlying districts?

Everyone knows in what estimation the colored man is held in the United States. They are looked upon and treated in every respect as of an inferior race. They have, however, shown themselves the equals, if not the superiors, of their white competitors in rifle shooting. An instance of this was found the other day when regiments in the department of the East and the department of the Gulf of the United States army sent their crack shots to Niagara for the purpose of competing for places on the team to represent the army at the national meeting to be held at Perry, Ohio. There are twenty men on this team, and of the twenty, five fell to members of colored regiments. Not only did the colored men win more than a fair proportion of the places on the team, but they carried off first and second places. Marksmanship requires a number of good qualities in a man, and these the colored soldiers seem to possess in no mean measure. How do the white Yankee soldiers like this? They will have to grin and bear it.

Peter Bardy Took Mrs. Maracle's Cow.

AND GOT INTO TROUBLE—A DESERONTO COURT CASE.

Before Magistrate Bedford, at Deseronto, yesterday afternoon, Peter Bardy had a preliminary trial on a charge of appropriating to his own use a cow, the property of Mrs. Maracle. Bardy worked, on shares, a place belonging to Mrs. Maracle, and it is alleged he took the cow for his own use. The accused was committed for trial at the December sessions, but was allowed out on bail on his own recognizances. Mr. Anderson, for Crown and Mr. Mikel, K. C., for the accused.

Debt and Taxes.

All countries are at the present time seeking new devices to raise money. England is proposing to tax people to an extent which will compel them to sell their real estate and leave the country.

The United States Senate is proposing schemes from which it is expected that from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 extra revenue will be extracted from the people.

France finds itself with a deficit of $21,000,000, of which, says the Finance Minister in his budget speech, "nine millions is charged to the budget of 1911." The Minister recommends that the remaining $12,000,000 be raised by a new tax of a cent a litre on the petroleum used in automobiles; a tax on dogs; administrative rearrangement, and a stricter enforcement of the taxes on colonial obligations and mines, and a new tax in connection with the inheritance of property.

The Minister explained that it was planned to levy this tax on the capital revealed by inheritances, thus paving the way to the institution of a more important progressive tax on capital, by which the Government hopes to raise the $20,000,000 or $24,000,000 necessary to cover the working men's pensions, now being discussed by Parliament.

Yet, in the face of this state of their financial affairs, the countries are spending hundreds of millions of dollars in armaments.

Front of Sidneyites Gather in Conclave.

AND TAKE ACTION ON SEVERAL MATTERS WHICH CONCERN THEM — THE BAY FRONT, THE CANADIAN NORTHERN AND MOTOR CARS.

A representative gathering of farmers and property owners on the Front of Sidney met at the School House on Saturday night to renew their protest against the proposil of the Canadian Northern Railway to expropriate the land and houses on the Bay front and to cross and to recross the Trenton road with level crossings, writes a correspondent.

A committee was formed, composed of Messrs. Ostrom, Onderdonk, Gunn and Hunt, to complete organization, and counsel was engaged to lay the case before the Railway Commission at Ottawa.

The whole township regard the Bay of Quinte water front as a valuable public asset, and object to having the front of their farms carved by a railway. They think that the C.N.R. should parallel the G. T. R. after leaving Belleville, as it proposes to do west of Trenton, and for this purpose many of the owners would donate the right of way rather than have their farms and water front ruined.

United proceedings will also be taken to enforce the law against motors speeding on the Trenton road, or, failing the law, effective practical means will be taken to make the road unpopular to "joy riders," who have made this Bayside road a terror by night. If we had Provincial Police there would be some respect for the law. Our present county constable system, many people think, is a mockery.

SELL ROAD AT AUCTION.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 3. — A real railroad will be put on the block here to-day and knocked down to the highest bidder. It is the Savannah, Augusta & Northern, which was promoted by former Senator Lynn of New York. The road is now operated by Bowdre Phinizy as receiver.

The decree of sale was handed down by the court at the application of W. J. Oliver, the contractor who built the road from Statesboro to Louisville. He will receive the sum of $286,515.84 from the proceeds of the sale.

BIG HUNTING PARTY

San Francisco, Aug. 3.—One of the largest hunting parties ever organized in California, composed of over a thousand men, will spend the next ten days in beating the country in Mendocino county for bears, deer and coyotes. A great circle will be formed by the thousand Nimrods, and this will gradually close in on the doomed beasts.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

SPORTING NOTES.

Jeffries and Johnson are hurling oceans of hot air at each other, and keeping many miles apart. It promises to be the greatest talking match on record.

In Toronto yesterday the Toronto lacrosse team beat the Tecumsehs by the awful score of 15—3. The Indians were away off color, and the fast Torontos made them look like a lot of cripples.

"Billy" Hart, of Little Rock, Ark., in his twenty-third year in professional baseball, is leading the Southern League as a twirler.

Ty Cobb and Sam Crawford, of Detroit, are running neck and neck for the leading batting honors of the American League champions. Cobb has the better of him by two hits, having made 114 in ninety games, while Crawford has secured 112 in ninety-one contests. Cobb is steadily increasing his stolen base record. He has stolen forty-eight up to date.

Among the American owners who have horses in England, the stable of Henry Payne Whitney is the only one to figure on the list of big winners for the season, according to cable advices received in New York. His stable is among the first twenty, his eight horses having won $17,000 in thirteen races.

RARE MINERALS OF THE NORTH.

The Northern Pyrites Company have a rich and rare mine on the Lake Superior Branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific. Seventy-five men are employed in development work. An aerial railway is being constructed by the Mining Co., to reach the Transcontinental, and when the latter is open for traffic and the Aerial Railway is completed, the company expect to begin ore shipments at the rate of 10 tons a day. Pyrites is used in many chemical industries and there is a big market for it in Detroit, Chicago and other manufacturing centres. This is said to be the only mine of this kind on the continent and it is capable of great development.

Although the Lake Superior Branch has been open for traffic under the construction department for only a few months, a great deal of freight is being handled. Many saw mills are in operation. One Pelican Lake fishing firm is already shipping four tons of fish to Fort William for distribution. Also the Sturgeon Lake gold excitement is carrying many prospectors and supplies up the new line to Superior Junction. In fact the gold fever is becoming a great hindrance to the contractors, who are rushing the work to finish the main line from Superior Junction to Winnipeg. Of a party of 23 laborers whose fare had been paid to the front, 17 escaped on the first night and hiked with their borrowed picks and shovels to the gold fields.

We make Sunshine Furnace firepot in two sections—so constructed with fins that they throw off every unit of heat, so constructed with straight walls that it is impossible for ashes to gather and intercept the heat, so contructed that the upper section can expand independent of the lower, thus making it impossible in a Sunshine Furnace for any heat to loaf around the fire-pot, any heat to be nullified by ashes, any cracks to take place as a result of the shock following contraction or expansion.

This fire-pot has greatest weight & longest life

The fire-pot naturally bears the brunt of a furnace's work, and it bears it just in proportion to its original strength.

SUNSHINE FURNACE

Because steel is more powerful than gray iron, we make Sunshine Furnace firepot of semi-steel. This is an exclusive feature, and indicates that in Sunshine Furnace firepot alone you find smooth-as-glass surface, secure maximum fire-resisting strength, can rely on only minimum disintegration and can be assured of long life.

INTELLIGRAMS.

A legal point. The Kingston Standard says: The civil servants at Ottawa are exempt from an income tax for civil purposes under an old agreement with the Ottawa Government. It is questionable whether such an agreement is legal, as the Ontario assessment is strict in forbidding exemptions, and this is a discrimination in favor of one class in the community. Why should civil servants not pay an income tax and why should their salaries not be subject to garnishment, as are the salaries of other people?"

Dr. Orr has cabled asking that the Bisley trophies be exhibited at Toronto Exhibition, but the N. R. A. only can grant the request.

Briar, the root used in making pipes for smoking, is not the root of a briar, but a tree heath found near the Mediterranean, the name being a corruption of "bruyere," the French for "heath."

The "aviators" will have to organize an insurance company of their own. The regular companies are placing them in a class by themselves and declining to accept their risks. The Travellers' Insurance Co., of Hartford, has issued to its agents these instructions: "Concerning those who take one balloon trip, with no expectation of repeating the experience, we will not require waiver for that trip, but if another one or more are to be made, the waiver must be executed or the policy cancelled." Discouragement already!—Hamilton Times.

LAFONTAINE.

LaFontaine, patriot and statesman great,
Colleague of Baldwin in those days of yore
When men strove not for self but for the State,
His people's champion, he their burden bore.
Loyal in service, by no devious ways
He won the fight and nobly played his part,
Conscience his guiding star, and not men's praise,
Firm for the right, his the true patriot heart.
Raise now aloft the monumental stone,
And as his name is blazoned to our sight
The lesson his life speaks in trumpet tone
Be ours to profit by in days of might,
And, bound as brethren, let us firmly stand
For lasting concord in our common land.

OLD-TIME REPORTERS.

W. H. Orr Tells of Historic Discussions at Quebec.

"No one ever reported Sir John A. Macdonald or Hon. George Brown without omitting about 25 per cent. of what they actually said when in the heat of discussion," said W. H. Orr, of Toronto, the veteran reporter, in addressing the Chartered Stenographic Reporters' Association recently.

Mr. Orr is the only survivor of the seven reporters who "took" the Confederation debates in the Quebec Parliament Buildings in February and March, 1865.

Speaking of Sir John and of George Brown, he said: "If any reporter had given their actual words, and had printed them as spoken, I feel sure there would have been a loud guffaw in the corridors of the House. They were both in the habit of frequently going a half or three-quarter way through the intended sentence, and then at a gesture, or 'Hear, hear' from some member, nervously abandoning it to its fate and dressing the bright idea in another form. Neither of them, so far as I know, ever took the trouble to revise his speeches before they were printed. The reporters gave the public what the speaker really intended the public to know, and in a really readable garb."

The pay then was $4 per column of 1,400 words for Parliamentary reporting, and Mr. Orr's earnings were about $125 per week.

A leading reporter of those days was Mr. J. K. Edwards, of the Globe, who was afterwards editor of the Montreal Daily Transcript. He was a skillful condenser, and was presented with a service of plate by the members of both sides of the Legislature for his work on the Confederation debates. It was he who organized the shorthand staff for the Quebec conference.

Spruced Up.

Mrs. Lion—Well, of all the mane guys! Was the barber crazy or were you?

Mr. Lion (apologetically)—You see, my dear, I may get within range of some camera hunter any day, and I want to appear half civilized at least. —Puck.

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

would be every needed influence and inspiration for his rather feverish muse. Even his uncle's demands on his time would be useful, for Merriam well knew the purposeless delays which are apt to befall work which is not confined to fixed hours of labor, but has the whole empty day at its disposal.

Added to all these excellent reasons for acceptance was the fact that in marrying Rhoda he felt anxious to have some definite bread-winning employment. He might be, and was, perfectly willing to have her wealth make the difference between decent subsistence and modest luxury, and expected, with no Quixotic sensitiveness, to profit by it to the last degree but he was a gentleman and an American, and therefore willing to live openly and without even perfunctory duties upon his wife's money. He carried the proposition to Rhoda, in true masculine fashion, after he had made up his mind to accept it. She was frankly pleased, and bade him arrange for a speedy entrance upon his new duties.

"I shall miss you greatly, but I think you should go at once," she said.

"I agree you. And I shall miss the beastly American summer," said Merriam. "Besides," he added, "it is only until autumn. You will let me come back for you then, Rhoda? There is no reason why our plans should suffer any alteration from this decision of mine."

"I am not sure," hesitated Rhoda. "How could you arrange to have me with you?"

"Oh that is nothing; it will arrange itself. We can take an apartment near the Herren-Strasse or stop at a hotel, and I could go daily to my uncle. And there would be no difficulty about your presence at the schloss. There is an unused wing, if I remember rightly, which you could have fitted up for yourself."

"That sounds very pleasant Eugene, but you know you are going there in the capacity of secretary to Count von Weldenord, and I am afraid a resident wife is not among the qualifications required."

"Oh, well! Don't look a year ahead. They are sure not to be at the castle again till next summer. My uncle can't stand the cold. You see no objection to living in Vienna in either of the proposed methods, I hope?"

"None in the least. And I shall like it very much. I have always wished to see that city."

So it was settled. Merriam wrote a graceful letter of acceptance to the Count and a few caressing words to his aunt, acknowledging his sense that he owed the offer of so agreeable post to her, and by the middle of July had arranged his affairs and sailed away from his native shores with the frankest indifference to the chances of returning to them again save on that momentous errand which should bring him back to claim his bride.

In spite of Rhoda's pleasure in what she felt to be the conferring of a grave responsibility on Merriam—poor child, every tribute paid to him, especially to his capacity for serious work, was like a much-needed tonic to her—she felt the parting keenly, and was almost tempted to beg him to remain until she could arrange to go with him, when she saw him turn away from the door of the carriage in which she had accompanied him to the steamer. She would not wait to see him off. There was always something inexpressibly mournful to her in the departure of a great ship, and in her sorrow at bidding her lover farewell was an intricate inner regret, a wheel within a wheel of consciousness, that in all her grief at parting with him, which was unfeignedly keen, was a certain deadness. She did not feel quite what she expected to feel. It was less hard than she had feared it would be. She lacked that absolute anguish of deprivation which would have enabled her, for his sake, to be strong, and repress that expression of emotion in public which was his especial horror. If it had been more terrible for her, she could have been braver for him; as it was, she felt—uncertain.

This strain over, she began to make her own preparations for the flight to to the mountains delayed by Merriam's departure, and it shocked her to find how light her heart had grown. She would never admit to herself that Merriam's absence was a relief, and only told herself that her content lay in the knowledge that he was doing best thing possible for both of them that he had put himself beyond the reach of undesirable associations which would not have been easily broken in New York, and found work which must surely be congenial to one of his tastes.

She began to discover in that quiet sumer among the Berkshire Hills how great a boon peace is, and to tell herself that the supreme human felicity is that negative bliss which is found in absence of pain. She did not realize that this was a state of mind not natural to a woman but little past twenty-six years of age, and that she was only thoroughly tired and in need of rest after the long strain of the past months. Merriam had drawn largely upon her vitality by his constant demands for an excited sympathy, and she mistook temporary mental exhaustion for a permanent realization of the truths of existence. She avoided the chattering groups of women which daily grew more numerous as the season slipped on towards autumn, in hall and piazza, and dressed herself in cotton gowns, spending most of her time lying in a nest of steamer rugs and traveling shawls in a delightful pine grove at the back of the hotel reading Merriam's poems and dreaming herself into a phantasmal passion for their author as the lovely lines and images fascinated her into forgetfulness of the bitterness and mockery of the spirit that animated them.

Cousin Agatha was placidly disturbed by these proceedings. She was very proud as well as fond of her splendid young relative, and, sometimes to Rhoda's annoyance, but oftener to her amusement, was disposed to play showman and dilate upon the advantages, graces, and possessions of the tender benefactress who made up in her own person all the dramatic interest of the stout, elderly spinster's life.

"You are not going off for another walk, Rhoda!" she would exclaim, looking up from her worsted work, which she plied incessantly in the midst of a garrulous group on the piazza. "Not to the village? You are crazy, child! Well," as Mrs. Starr gave no evidence of alarm for the safety of her sanity, "I don't blame you much for preferring it to the dreadful conveyances they have here. You were so foolish not to bring your horses, my dear."

Rhoda would only smile in answer as she passed down the steps and across the lawn, and would use all her charity in the effort to suppress a

GIRLS' ENVELOPE DRESS.

Paris Pattern No. 2929

All Seams Allowed.

Grass-green linen has been used for the development of this frock, which is made in two pieces, the front and back; the fullness of both distributed in narrow tucks. The band which trims the square neck is simply stitched and the frock fastens at the underarm seams with pearl buttons, the belt being held in place by the buttons at the sides. The separate guimpe is made of figured lawn, the figure being in green, matching the frock. The pattern is in 5 sizes—4 to 12 years. For a girl of 8 years the dress requires 3¾ yards of material 24 inches wide, 2⅞ yards 27 inches wide, 2¾ yards 36 inches wide, or 2 yards 42 inches wide; the guimpe needs 2⅜ yards 18 inches wide, 1⅝ yards 27 inches wide, or 1¼ yards 36 inches wide; 2 yards of insertion and ⅜ yard of edging.

Price of Pattern, 10 Cents

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver.

SUN PRANKS.

Irregularities For Which Science Cannot Altogether Account.

The sun is generally looked upon as a model of regularity which never fails in its duty, but the ancient historians mention several instances when it failed to give forth its usual amount of heat and light for periods varying from three hours to several months. Data on the subject have been compiled by the St. Louis Republic.

According to Plutarch, the year 44 B. C. was one in which the sun was "weak and pale" for a period approximating eleven months.

The Portuguese historians record several months of diminished sunlight in the year 934 A. D., and, according to Humboldt, this uncanny period ended with "strange and startling sky phenomena, such as loud atmospheric explosions, rifts in the vaulted canopy of blue above and in divers other rare and unaccountable freaks."

In the year 1091, on Sept. 29 (see Humboldt's "Cosmos"), the sun turned suddenly black and remained so for three hours and did not regain its normal condition for several days.

According to the noted Helmuth's "Solar Energy," the days of seeming inactivity on the part of the sun (the days following the sudden blackening of the great orb) were noted for a peculiar greenish tinge and are marked in old Spanish, French and Italian records as "the days of the green sun."

February, 1106 A. D., is noted in the annals of marvelous phenomena as a month in which there were several days that "the sun appeared dead and black, like a great circular cinder floating in the sky."

"On the last day of February, 1206," says an old Spanish writer on astronomy, astrology and kindred subjects, "the sun appeared suddenly to go out, causing a darkness over the country for about six hours." In 1241 the European countries experienced another siege of supernatural darkness, which the superstitious writers of that time attributed to God's displeasure over the result of the great battle of Liegnitz.

Even today there are certain irregularities of the sun that science cannot altogether account for. These are the so called sun spots—enormous dark splotches which appear from time to time on the solar disk and which are supposed to have great influence on the atmospheric conditions of the earth. Scientists have long studied these phenomena, but neither their extent nor periodicity has ever been determined.

MEXICAN HOTELS.

They Close Early, and Guests Out Late Must Tip the Porter.

"I'm glad to be back in the land of the latchkey," said a mining engineer who had been in Mexico for the past year. "In France, Spain, Italy and throughout Latin America there is a servant in every house and hotel whose business it is to open the door. In Mexico you would think, being so near this country, that the American latchkey would be common. But even in the finest hotels in the capital the big doors are closed at 11 o'clock, and to gain admittance after that hour you have to pound on them with the great knockers that hang outside. After five minutes you hear a sleepy grunt within, then some mutterings and the Spanish word which means 'I'm coming.' Finally the small door in the center of the big one will be unbarred, and you step inside. Then if you don't want to sleep in the park the next night you are kept out late you give the 'portero,' as the keeper of the gate is called, a piece of silver. Between 11 and midnight the fee is 10 cents. From 1 on until morning the gratuity, regulated by custom, steadily increases. Between 1 and 3 it is from 25 to 40 cents, and after 3 it is half a dollar.

"Many a night I have been awakened by the pounding of the knockers in the neighborhood of my hotel. I timed one man for ten minutes before I fell asleep. Probably he had neglected to fee the 'portero' or else the keeper of the gate was drunk, as he frequently is. These 'porteros' usually sleep curled up in blankets just inside the door on the stones with which every interior courtyard and entrance is paved, and all of them have colds. Yet it is a position much sought after, and the gatekeeper ranks highest among the servants."—New York Press.

The Honeymoon.

The honeymoon has no definite duration, but is longer or shorter according as the temper of the high contracting parties determines, or their relatives, or the weather, or the mode or the comparative cost of traveling and staying at home. Briefly, it is that interval during which the man, going out in the morning, remembers his kiss and forgets his overshoes as distinguished from the interval during which he remembers his overshoes and forgets his kiss.—New York Life.

Pluck.

"Pluck," said the financier, "is the secret of success."

"Well," interrupted the shabby man, "I'll give you £10 if you'll teach me your method of plucking."

Slow to Laugh.

The Briton—As the old proverb says, y' know, "He lawfs best who lawfs lahst." The Yankee—If that's so, what good laughers you English must be!—Cleveland Leader.

To deal honestly with others is not so difficult. To compel others to deal honestly with you—that is power.—Smart Set.

WANTED

Boys and Girls to Join The Evening Intelligencer Travel Club

And Visit All the Countries of the World via the Postal Card Route

IT INTERESTS EVERY MEMBER OF THE FAMILY

COPYRIGHT BY C. BLAKE WILLSDEN FEB. 1909

If you join our Travel Club, you have the opportunity to study and become better acquainted with the historical spots of the globe. Our Travel Club offer is one that should not be overlooked by the children attending school. Prominent school teachers and principals say that the educational features of the post cards we offer are unparalleled and every boy and girl attending school should be in possession of a set of these views.

How To Become A Member

Your parents must be regular readers of The Intelligencer. You must clip three Travel Club coupons like the one which appears in this advertisement. If you are a resident of Belleville and an Intelligencer subscriber, bring the coupons and fifteen cents to this office and you will be presented with fifty highly colored views of the historical spots of the globe, post card size. These views have been reproduced from actual photographs taken by Charles Warren Stoddard, the celebrated poet and traveler, and have been colored by a new water-coloring process, giving them a beautiful hand-colored effect and making every one of them a gem of art.

Among these views you will find a view of the Parliament building, London; Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington; Stratford-on-Avon, England; St. Peter's, Rome, Italy; a bird's eye view of Venice; Scott's monument, Edinburgh, Scotland; Jung Frau, the Swiss Alps; Lake Como, Italy; the Lakes of Killarney, Ireland; the great Nile bridge, Egypt; King's House, home of the governor, Kingston, Jamaica; and many others equally interesting and instructive.

If you are not a regular reader of The Intelligencer, it is necessary that you become a subscriber and agree to continue your subscription for a period of eight weeks. Fill out the new subscriber blank and bring it and fifteen cents to the office.

A Handsome Legacy

Reference was made a few weeks ago to the death of Mr. T. W. H. Leavitt, Provincial Library Inspector, at Bancroft. This week the substance of his will, in part has been made known, says the Athens Reporter. Mr. Leavitt had travelled quite extensively and as a litterateur and author was known beyond the bounds of the Dominion. He never aimed to accumulate wealth and at his death perhaps his most valuable asset was his library which consists of about 500 choice volumes This library, with a number of articles in silver, he has bequeathed to the Athens high school, which, as his alma mater, was known as the Farmersville Grammar school. The only condition attached to this gift is that it be called in honor of his wife, "The Lydia Leavitt Library." It is understood further that the interest of the deceased in 700 acres of land in the Bancroft section will also revert to the A. H. S.

SEND THE BLIND TO SCHOOL

Principal Gardiner asks the assistance of The Intelligencer in impressing upon the parents and friends of children with defective sight the advisability of sending such children to the Ontario Institute for the Blind to be educated. The Institution, located at Brantford, and maintained by the Government of Ontario free of charge for board and tuition, is a school for the education of children and youths of both sexes, under the age of twenty-one. It is not a hospital, nor an asylum, nor a home, but a school where children, who cannot see well enough to attend the Public schools, are given an English education (including music) and taught to do such useful work as the blind are capable of doing. Such education and training must promote the comfort, happiness and independence of those who are deprived of the blessing of sight, therefore The Intelligencer recommends those interested to correspond with H. F. Gardiner, Principal O. I. B., Brantford, in time to complete arrangements before the opening of the next session on September 22nd.

Delicious Preserves

No housekeeper need again apologise for "store" goods, when guests arrive unexpectedly.

It is so easy to make appetising, wholesome and less expensive preserves with ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED SUGAR, that every housekeeper is putting up her own stock this summer for next winter.

Their reward will come when they delight their friends and guests with preserves of their own make. And what just pride they can take as these delicious home-made preserves are praised.

The children, too, will enjoy the pure, luscious fruit as it is preserved by ST. LAWRENCE SUGAR.

ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED SUGAR is made from PURE CANE sugar, and contains more saccharine substance than sugar made from other natural products.

In preserving, a smaller quantity of ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED is required. It is therefore more economical for the thrifty housekeeper.

It is sold in bulk in smaller quantities at your grocer's, but we recommend the 20-pound cotton sacks, put up at the refinery specially for the home. This quantity is convenient for preserving time, and besides, you can be sure of the genuine brand by buying it in these original packages.

Ask your grocer to supply you with ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED in these 20-pound sacks, and get clean sugar and strictly full weight.

If he cannot supply you with these 20-pound bags, send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

G. T. R. Has Established Buffet Cars on Night Trains Between Toronto and Montreal

Commencing Sunday, Aug. 15, from Montreal, buffet club cars will be operated daily, leaving Toronto on train No. 2, 10.15 p.m., and Montreal on train No. 3 at 10.30 p.m. These cars will be in a position for occupancy a short time before the departure of the train from each city, and also for several hours after the departure of the trains, not only for passengers occupying the six private staterooms which each car contains, but also for passengers using the other Pullman cars on the same trains.

The club room to the rear in the new cars is equipped with large comfortable armchairs, library, writing desk with stationery, buffet, etc.

The increasing demand for private staterooms and for additional accommodation for passengers desiring to smoke on those two limited trains has led the Grand Trunk to introduce this new move, which is expected to prove decidedly popular.

The Curved Ball.

It was not until 1878 that the question of pitching a curved ball was settled once for all. George Wright's Boston nine was playing the final series of that year in Cincinnati. The curve ball controversy raged in the city of the Red Stockings. Wright was asked to prove that a ball could be curved. He agreed to test the matter after the final game.

The Cincinnati team put up two ten foot fences about twenty yards apart, with a post between them, all on a line. Tommy Bond, a right handed pitcher, stood at the left of one fence. After two trials he threw a ball which went to the right of the post and finished to the left of the second fence. He repeated this six or seven times.

"The wind did it," said the doubters.

"Then we'll try it the other way around," said Wright. He stationed Mitchell of Cincinnati, a left handed pitcher, to the right of the first fence. Mitchell threw a curve ball to the left of the post, which finished to the right of the second fence. News of this, telegraphed to every part of the country, settled the question forever.—Collier's Weekly.

His Shipwife.

The suburbanite was entertaining a friend who followed the sea. Showing him his room after his arrival, the host noticed that there was but one pillow on the bed.

"By the way, captain," he asked, "do you use more than one pillow?"

"Well, I use one for my head," replied the captain, "and one for a shipwife."

"Shipwife! What in the world is that?"

"It's evident that you're a landsman. Every sailorman knows what a shipwife is. It's an extra pillow placed under the legs or arms to ease the position. It isn't so necessary on land, where you have a wide, comfortable bed, but it's almost a necessity at sea, where you are cramped up in a narrow berth, with no room to stretch. Any one who has been at sea for a long period knows what a shipwife is. We get so used to using one that we're not fully at home on land unless we have one. Better let me have another pillow for a shipwife, John." —New York Press.

Henry Clay's Fame.

Erskine M. Phelps of Chicago was introduced at Nice to Lord Blank of England. As he was smoking, he said to Lord Blank, "Will you have a cigar?"

"Thank you, but I smoke only one brand, the Henry Clay."

"All right; I'll order some," said Mr. Phelps.

The box was brought. It was embellished with the familiar picture of "Harry of the West." As he took his cigar Lord Blank said, "When old Clay was alive he made a good cigar, but his sons don't keep up his reputation."

"Henry Clay! Why, he didn't make cigars. He was a statesman and ranked as high with us as Gladstone and John Bright do in your country."

"I beg your pardon," said the noble lord. "I've smoked these cigars all my life, and I tell you old Clay made a —— sight better cigar than his boys do!"—Argonaut.

How Victor Hugo Proposed.

Adele, bolder and more curious than Victor (for she was a girl), wanted to find out what was the meaning of his silent admiration. She said: "I am sure you have secrets. Have you not one secret greater than all?" Victor acknowledged that he had secrets and that one of them was greater than all the rest. "Just like me!" cried Adele. "Well, come, now; tell me your greatest secret, and I will tell you mine." "My great secret," Victor replied, "is that I love you." "And my great secret is that I love you," said Adele, like an echo.—"Love Letters of Victor Hugo."

Women In Trousers.

In the pretty Alpine village of Champery, in the canton of Valois, Switzerland, the peasant women wear trousers and waistcoats in place of skirts and boleros, and the only distinguishing badge of their sex is a scarf knotted around their hair, the bright red ends of which float coquettishly over their shoulders. The women of Champery work in the open air, performing the same kinds of labor as the men, and long ago their ancestors found that they could work more easily in trousers than in skirts.

Chas. N. Sulman.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. Trio at Tweed Made Things Very Lively.

STOLE BOAT AND PIG, AND ARE ACCUSED OF ROBBING A B. OF Q. CAR.

A despatch from Tweed goes to show that the three tramps, whose doings were referred to in these columns yesterday, made things quite lively in the vicinity of that village. It is alleged that the desperadoes, for such they are proved to be, stole a boat in the afternoon and started to row up to the Lost Channel. On their way up they stole a pig, the property of W. Bowers, killed it, and took the pork along with them.

In the evening the citizens were surprised to see J. Marshall, of Lost Channel, driving into the city with a wounded man, who proved to be one of the tramps, According to the story told by the trio, one of them was handling a gun when it accidentally discharged, the bullet entering the back of the wounded one's head and passing down into his shoulder. The man who was shot was taken to the lock-up, and a doctor summoned. His condition is serious. He two companions walked into the town and were arrested by the authorities.

Last Thursday night a B. of Q. Railway car was broken into at Tweed and eight bottles of whiskey stolen. The tramps are suspected of being the thieves.

Some Peterboroites Have Queer Ways.

Peterboro Review: There are some person or persons in this city who, not only have very little sense of what is decent and right, but who do not hesitate to do a wrong thing for the gratification of a debased sense of humor.

Yesterday evening, between the hours of five and eight, somebody went into the evangelistic tent, on the custom house lot, and proceeded to put it decidedly hors de combat. The chairs and tables were overturned, and a large number of hymn books were stolen. Such jokes are bad at the best of times, but when an organization like this is made the butt of them something ought to be done about it.

Was Assaulted by An Unknown Man.

MR. FRED ANDERSON HAD DISAGREEABLE EXPERIENCE LAST EVENING.

Mr. Fred Anderson, who resides in West Belleville, reports to the police that, between 11 and 12 o'clock last evening, whilst walking over the lower bridge, he was accosted by a man who claimed that he was a private detective. The latter desired some information, but not receiving it, struck Mr. Anderson a violent blow in the face and then decamped. Who the party was is not known.

Young Madoc Man Sent Up For Trial

Edward Hudson, a young man who claims to be a printer, was this morning brought to the County jail to stand his trial on a charge of theft. It is alleged that Hudson went into a store in Madoc village and took some articles and then sold them. He had a preliminary trial yesterday afternoon, and was committed to the December sessions.

Liked The Kilties.

The Belleville Kilties continue to gain golden opinions in the Antipodes. The Bendigo Evening Mail says of them: "The Kilties do not by any means depend on their uniforms and fine appearance for their success. Their music is their advertisement, and this afternoon those who attended the Masonic Hall and heard them play were fain to confess that they have not only the art, but the soul of music. To this end, their conductor, Mr. Cook, is the chief constituent. It is not a solo band, but a concert band, an orchestra, and a military band, rolled into one. This afternoon those who heard them play felt that here was a combination superior to the Besses o' th' Barn. It is a full band, that is to say, not only are the brasses represented, but the reeds—the wood-wind — without which no orchestra can get its effects is here also."

Needs Repairing

Complaints are made of the dangerous condition of some of the planks on the upper bridge, which are said to be a menace to pedestrians. It seems to be up to the Public Works department to get busy.

Rough House Ruled At Point Ann Last Saturday Night.

WILLIAM JOYCE'S HEAD GOT IN THE WAY OF A BLUNT INSTRUMENT, AND WILLIAM RETIRED TO THE HOSPITAL—MAY BE A POLICE COURT CASE.

The injured man was William Joyce, but who inflicted the injuries upon him is not known.

Joyce was evidently struck over the head with some blunt instrument, and sustained a scalp wound nearly six inches long.

After being temporarily cared for the wounded man was on Sunday taken to the hospital, where he received proper treatment.

It is alleged that Joyce, who was considerably under the influence of liquor, was the aggressor and the cause of all the trouble. The matter may possibly be ventilated in the police court.

A Six-Legged Calf.

A six-legged calf was born on the farm of Mr. Frank Ward, Otonabee, just out of Peterboro, Saturday. The calf, like most monstrosities of the kind, was short lived and only lived a couple of hours. It was developed in every respect with the exception of the extra legs, which were only about half the natural length.

AUSTRALIA WANTS CONTROL.

Must Have Full Charge of Navy and Troops, Says Argus.

Melbourne, Australia, Aug. 3.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Argus says that the Imperial Defence Conference deliberations cannot lead to a successful conclusion unless Britain makes a full, intelligent provision for the diversified interests and local aspirations of the colonies. Australia is unalterably determined to build her own navy and train citizens by a system of compulsory cadet service.

"But," The Argus continues, "Australia, first and foremost, demands the service both of our soldiers and of our ships, and cannot permit another voice in their control. In an imperial crisis, Australia would gladly place the whole armament at Britain's disposal, but by consent not by compulsion."

The Argus remarks that the Little Englander now seems as rare as the Canadian or the Australian who would wish to cut loose from the Empire.

KING WELCOMES CZAR

Emperor Nicholas Gets Imposing Greeting at Cowes.

Large Gathering of Royalty Present and 150 Warships Grace the Occasion — Extra Effort Made to Discount Denunciation of Czar by English Labor Members — Diplomats Take Part In Conference.

Cowes, Aug. 3.—The Russian imperial yacht Standart, bringing the Emperor and the Empress from Cherbourg to Cowes, on a visit to King Edward, anchored in the Cowes roadstead shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday.

Their Majesties were given an official welcome even more imposing than usually attends such occasions. Not only were King Edward and Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales and a large gathering of other members of the royal family present to greet their guests, but 150 of the pick of the British war fleet, dressed in flags from stem to stern and flying the Russian ensign, encircles the anchorage allotted to the Standart.

The presence of the English Foreign Secretary, Sir Edward Grey, M. Iswolsky, the Russion Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Count Von Benckendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, further emphasized the significance attached in the diplomatic world to this visit of the Russian Emperor to England.

The unusual welcome of yesterday morning was arranged designedly for the double purpose of helping to strengthen the links in the chain binding Great Britain, France and Russia in a triple entente, and to dissipate any ill-feeling engendered by the harsh denunciation of Emperor Nicholas and his methods, so frequently vented by the members of the Labor party both in and out of Parliament since the coming of the Emperor was first announced.

The function, however, was distinctly official in character and so strongly were the spectators entrenched behind the cordon of steel walls that there was no chance for a popular demonstration either for or against Emperor Nicholas.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra went out on board the royal yacht Victoria and Albert and met the Standart outside of Spithead. King Edward went over to the Standart and welcomed his guests, and then escorted them to the Victoria and Albert, where luncheon was served. After this repast the two sovereigns reviewed the assembled fleets from the Victoria and Albert.

King Edward, Emperor Nicholas and the Prince of Wales and Admiral Sir John Fisher, chief naval aide to King Edward, and Reginald McKenna, First Lord of the Admiralty, and a number of lesser officers, were on the bridge of the Standart.

At night the Russian Emperor and Empress dine with King Edward and Queen Alexandra and the members of the British royal household on board the Victoria and Albert. All the ships in the harbor were illuminated last night.

The dinner was a brilliant function. The dining-room was beautifully decorated with red roses, and on the table was a magnificent display of gold plate.

Besides the King and Queen and the Emperor and Empress, the guests were the Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Sweden, the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Premier Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, Reginald McKenna and M. Iswolsky.

The King then proposed a toast to the Russian monarch, declaring that the navy was only in the interests of peace. His Majesty also referred to his pleasure at recently meeting a number of members of the Russian Douma, and made allusion to Emperor Nicholas' former visit to England.

In responding, Emperor Nicholas said that the magnificent naval review he had witnessed bore full testimony to England's greatness. His Majesty said he always would remember the days he had spent with the beloved and venerated Queen Victoria.

Czar Will Visit Turkey.

Cherbourg, Aug. 3.—Foreign Minister Iswolsky yesterday confirmed the reported intention of Emperor Nicholas of going to Italy and Turkey, but said these visits would not occur until the fall. Emperor Nicholas will go to these countries direct from the Crimea.

Repression In Russia.

London, Aug. 3.—A letter protesting against the unrelaxed repression of liberty in Russia is published here.

It is addressed to Sir Edward Grey, the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and asks whether it is impossible to bring friendly pressure upon the Russian Government to ameliorate the alleged conditions. The letter is signed by over 100 clergymen, newspapers, members of the House of Commons and others.

The Times in an editorial on the letter denounces the choice of the day of arrival in British waters of Emperor Nicholas for the publication of such a letter, as bad taste, and gratuitous boorishness.

Changes at the Penitentiary.

Kingston, Aug. 3.—Changes are under way at the penitentiary. Two stone buildings are being erected, one on either side of the main gate, for the warden's office, the accountant and the storekeeper. The present office wing is to be vacated, and the woman's prison built elsewhere on the grounds. The deputy warden will vacate the living rooms and be provided with a new house on the farm.

Boy Drowned.

Napanee, Aug. 3.—Tommie Crowe, an English emigrant lad of 11 years, was drowned in the Napanee River while getting in a row boat.

SWEDISH OUTLOOK BAD

Citizens of Stockholm Expect Trouble and Go Armed.

Shops Are Practically Denuded of Small Arms by Frightened Citizens and Troops Are on Guard Throughout the Capital—Yesterday's Strike Not as Effective as Was Feared—Food Supplies Are Low.

Stockholm, Aug. 5.—The labor conflict in Sweden showed sign yesterday of becoming more acute and the ranks of the strikers were considerably swelled. But the general strike called for yesterday has not yet become entirely effective. Many organizations, although sympathizing with the strikers, hesitate to join them actively.

The employes of the street car lines and the cab drivers stopped work. Troops are protecting the gas works and the electric lighting plant, and this step has incensed the workmen, whose leaders threaten to call a strike unless the soldiers are withdrawn. The printers' union held a meeting yesterday, but resolved to postpone for the present any decision in the matter of going on strike.

A corps of workmen, some thousand strong, is being organized with the object of maintaining order and the people generally, bankers, merchants, etc., are arming themselves for self-protection. The gun shops of the city are practically denuded of revolvers and small arms.

All the tourists have left Stockholm, and the number of visitors now in the city is smaller than for many years past.

The streets of Stockholm present a curious appearance. They are filled with idlers who promenade back and forth, noting the changed conditions and chaffing the volunteer street cleaners, many of whom belong to the better classes. All the saloons are closed, and only the best restaurants are permitted to remain open, and, even then it is possible to get wine only by ordering a solid meal.

All the ferries have stopped running, and there is little communication between Stockholm and the suburbs reached by water routes. This fact will result in a further diminution of food supplies. Trouble is expected when stocks of foods begin to run low.

New Cable Line.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Colonia, the cable-laying steamship of the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance Co. of London has arrived in port, having just completed the laying of the Commercial Cable Co.'s new cable from St. John's, Nfld., to New York.

Long before the Colonia's big gray hull loomed up through the mist of the early morning the cable was carrying messages through the station at Cuckhold Cove, near St. John's, at the rate of 50 words a minute, and, according to the experts of the cable company, was showing excellent electric qualities.

According to Engineer Petley, the shore end of the cable weighs about 16 tons to the mile, while the deep sea cable, but an inch in diameter, weighs one-eighth as much. In the sweep of the circle made from St. John's here to avoid shoals the cable lies for more than 150 miles in 3,600 fathoms, or 18,000 feet, of water.

French Gold for Canada.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—Lemoyne De Martigny, a French Canadian banker, who has for twenty years resided in Paris, where he also represents L. J. Forget & Co., is now in the city and says that the time is very ripe for educational work amongst French capitalists as to the resources of the Dominion.

They are, he says, particularly well disposed towards us, and all they want is the knowledge that the investment is safe.

He says it was a great pity that C.P.R. shares had not got into the hands of French investors, when they went to Hollanders many years ago for such a transaction would have been a great "ad" for Canada all these years on the French money market.

DAMAGED BY HAIL.

Heavy Loss to Wheat In Parts of Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Aug. 5.—Great damage by hail was done during the past twenty-four hours throughout Manitoba. Around Thornhill over seven thousand acres were thrashed out entirely. A large area around Strathclair suffered similarly, while Birtle, Carman and Stonewall also report severe damage. Around Pierson it is estimated that 175,000 bushels have been destroyed.

At Glenboro, Man., wheat cutting has commenced, L. McFadden having started his binder on Tuesday in a forty-acre field. He reports a good crop, and the sample promises to be of high standard. Numerous farmers are busy cutting oats and barley. Farm laborers are scarce, and the demand is great.

Portage la Prairie—Wheat-cutting started yesterday near Burnside. Barley and oat thrashing also begins this week.

Carman—Farmers are busy harvesting barley in Dufferin, and some expect to start in on wheat next week.

ANOTHER MINE STRIKE.

North Sydney, N.S., Aug. 5.—An official of the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. is authority for the statement that the company look forward to a strike of the U.M.W. miners in their collieries as inevitable in the near future.

An active supporter of the U.M.W. said last night that there would be no strike at Sydney Mines. At No. 3 colliery, where he is employed and where about 90 per cent. of the men are U.M.W. supporters, there is no talk at present of such a step. There is a good deal of dissatisfaction among the men with the recent award of the conciliation board. The chief issue is recognition of the union, which the company is not disposed to grant.

Manager T. J. Brown is at present in New Glasgow, where a conference is being held by the chiefs of the Nova Scotia Steel Co.

The U.M.W. have very little strength in Sydney Mines, Florence being the only point in which they outnumber the P.W.A.

Aviators Will Be Cautious.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 5.—So rapid has been the progress of assembling Baddeck No. 1 that unless something unforseen happens the new aerodrome will be completely set up by Friday. The framework is ready for the motor, one wing and bow control have been attached, and the other wing is nearly ready.

A feature of the new machine is the entire absence of parts which cause any air resistance. The conical shaped gasoline tank is not seen, and the space formed by the construction of the double surfaces is utilized for the purpose. The radiator, common with all automobile motors, is inserted at the side. Wood has been displaced by steel and aluminum for the body.

Stories that flights over the Ottawa River may be attempted are fictitious. All tests will be developed when the performance of the aerodrome is seen. The aviators will proceed with caution.

Elopes With Heiress.

New York, Aug. 5.—It became known yesterday that on Saturday Miss Dorothy Lehrmann of Montclair, N.J., and Harry E. Marten of Calgary, Alberta, were married by Rev. Dr. Houghton of the "Little Church Around the Corner."

The fact of their elopment was made known by a letter received here yesterday by her sister, Mrs. Henry J. Lehrmann. The bride wrote the facts en route to her Canadian home.

The bride is an heiress, having inherited considerable money from her father's estate. Mr. Marten owns a large wheat farm near Calgary, and is also known to society in Toronto. The bride is well connected, pretty and a skilled musician.

Somnambulist Plunges to Death.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 5.—Victor Nicholson, a 15-year-old boy, plunged from a third storey window last night and fell 40 feet, crushing his skull, from the effects of which he died.

Nicholson was a somnambulist and arose from his bed while asleep. His mother heard a noise in his room and rushed in to find her son climbing out of the widow. She attempted to catch him but could not.

Boy Beats Sister to Death.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 5.—While Jos. Isset and wife (colored) of Boylston, Guysboro County, were away on a picnic Tuesday, a son 11 years of age, tied his six year sister to a ladder, and beat her to death.

The boy who is charged with the deed, was arrested. Two brothers, one younger and another older, are held as accomplices.

Hay at $200 Per Ton.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—C.P.R. Colonization Agent Armstrong, who is just back from the mining country, states that contracts have been made for the delivery of hay at $200 per ton in Gowganda. The contract is held by the Bisco-Gowganda Transport Co. and Mr. Armstrong says that the company considers the price on the low side.

To Enlarge Thorold Smelter.

St. Catharines, Ont., Aug. 5.—So greatly has its business grown that the large smelter at Thorold is to be enlarged so that all the ore offered it can be attended to. The ore all comes from Cobalt, and before it gets there is refined to some extent.

The Bloodshed Is Not Over.

Spanish Authorities Now Exacting Retribution.

Wholesale Shooting of Prisoners is Reported by London Daily Telegraph's Correspondent in Barcelona—Desolation Spreads Over Entire City—Children on The Streets Play at Revolution--Soldiers Deserting.

London, Aug. 5.—The Barcelona correspondent of The Telegraph says that for the present quiet is restored, yet there are certain doubts whether the revolution has received its death blow. Martial law is still in force. The civil guards and police, armed with rifles, still patrol the streets. The wholesale shooting of prisoners after court-martial still goes on at the Fortress of Montjuich. Rumor states that the revolutionists will recommence outrages unless the remaining prisoners are released. Arrests continue on a large scale. Prisoners are constantly seen with their hands tied behind their backs and escorted by civil guards. Two well known journalists of Anarchistic tendencies were arrested Monday. Many officers and soldiers are deserting and crossing the frontier. Many bodies have been found under the ruins of the convents. Members of the Red Cross can be still seen transporting charred remains. Optimists should not omit to note the large bloodstains on the uniforms of the Red Cross men.

The correspondent, in a despatch dated Monday, describes children playing at revolution, shooting at each other with toy rifles, and crying "Viva la Republica." He declares it would take volumes to describe the desolation now spreading its cloak over Barcelona. In speaking of the convent Church of the Magdalen, he says: "The whole place is a heap of ruins, which are still smoking, although the place was set on fire five days ago. In the garden there were thirty vaults where dead sisters were buried."

Killed by Tight Lacing.

Cincinnati, Aug. 5.—Miss Elsie Gasser, eighteen years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gasser of No. 2,419 West McMicken avenue, is dead. Dr. Gustave Strohbach, the family physician, says her death was caused by the tight lacing of corsets and clothes.

Miss Gasser was stricken about ten days ago with what appeared to be appendicitis. An operation followed, but the surgeon could trace no harm to the appendix. All of the consulting physicians who attended her joined with Dr. Strohbach in saying that the young woman was a victim of fashion.

Former Cashier Under Arrest.

Brockville, Aug. 5.—Miss Grace Henderson, a young woman of Gananoque, is under bond of $6,000 to appear in Brockville Police Court next Monday for a preliminary hearing on the charge of stealing $2,690 in cash, and converting to her own use two checks for $572 and $96.04 respectively. The complainant is the Thousand Island Railway Co., in which offices at Gananoque Miss Henderson was employed as cashier and bookkeeper for four or five years previous to the end of January.

A Pastor Accused.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 5.—Thirty-one indictments against Rev. John J. Holtgrave, pastor of the Catholic Church at Plaquemine, La., were returned by the grand jury of Iberville parish yesterday. Twenty-eight of the counts charge grave crimes and the other three allege criminal libel.

Fortune for Eva Strangway.

New York, Aug. 5.—The Herald says: If Eva Fox Strangway, a young English woman, who in September, 1907, was arrested in Toronto and was sentenced here to ten years' imprisonment, charged with having given dressmakers worthless checks, will go to the Tombs and ask for Rev. George Sanderson, chaplain, she will be placed in possession of information by which she may come into a large legacy, left by a relative in Ireland.

Centenarian Dies.

London, Ont., Aug. 5.—Alex. M. Scott died last night, aged 100 years and two months. He served under Papineau in 1837, was in California during the gold rush and was a veteran of the American civil war. He had lived here 40 years.

His father lived to be 107, and a sister died in Scotland three years ago aged 102. Of a family of six, the youngest to die was 96.

Smelting of Ores.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 5.—Dr. Haanel, director of mines, has prepared a report on the electric smelting of ores, which from experiments in Sweden and at Sault Ste. Marie, he believes can be carried on to great advantage in Canada. In Sweden the process costs $12.40 per short ton, and Dr. Haanel believes that the figure will be lower in Canada where great water powers exist.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

A very slight earthquake was felt in San Francisco yesterday.

King Manuel of Portugal has accepted an invitation from King Edward to visit England in the early autumn.

William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., will be allowed to remain in the service until he is 67, or two years over the regular superannuation limit.

Percy Woodruff, an aeronaut, who has figured in several sensational balloon ascensions in the east, was drowned by the upsetting of a launch in the Hudson off Yonkers, N.Y.

The plans for the visit of Lord Charles Beresford, with Premier Whitney, the Cabinet Ministers and other members of the Legislature, include a seven-hour daylight visit to Cobalt.

Winnipeg and western labor men intend to run W. J. Bartless, ex-president of the Trades and Labor Congress, for president of the Dominion Trades Congress, which meets in Quebec in September.

Prince Hermann of Saxe-Weimar-Eisenach, the heir presumptive to the Grand Duchy of Weimar, has renounced the succession of himself or his heirs to the throne of the Grand Duchy or its property in consequence of the prince's extravagance.

The Nipissing Mining Co. has devised a means to stop the illegal sale of liquor in their part of Cobalt. In the new leases one of the clauses reads that if one conviction has been registered against any of the lessees of the land or any of his tenants, the lease will be promptly cancelled.

Prohibition Bad for Cities.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—"That the establishment of prohibition in Chicago, or other large cities, would be impracticable and would put a premium on the illegal sale of intoxicating drinks," was the opinion expressed yesterday by Cardinal James Gibbons of Baltimore.

Coming from the only cardinal of the Roman Church in America, and in Chicago at a time when fifteen thousand Catholic total abstinence advocates are gathering here to adopt measures for a further advancement of their cause, the observations of Cardinal Gibbons are considered of especial importance.

"In the rural parts of the country and in the smaller towns and cities there are signs of progress which must mean widespread prohibition. However much I am in favor of total abstinence, though, I fear that in the larger cities like Chicago it would not prove feasible," he said.

Suicides After Whipping.

Harrisburg, Aug. 5.—Because she had received a whipping in the morning, thirteen-year-old Clara Braithwaite last evening hanged herself in her father's orchard.

She chose a tree which her father, G. J. Braithwaite, an hotelkeeper, would pass on his way home.

Neighbors, however, discovered the body about 7 o'clock, when it was thought there were signs of life, but as telephone wires were out of order it was not for over an hour that doctors could be secured.

The little girl had hanged herself with a strap, and she had drawn her legs up to be clear of the ground.

It appears the girl had been chastised by her stepmother yesterday morning. She was around the village yesterday in a despondent mood, and was seen in the vicinity in which the body was found. She had been out gathering apples previous to this at a neighbors.

Bisley Team Near Home.

Montreal, Aug. 5.—The steamer Tunisian, with the Canadian Bisley team on board, passed through the Straits of Belle Isle yesterday. The officials of the Allan Line expect the vessel to reach Quebec at 2 o'clock to-morrow morning and Montreal in the evening. While no official reception has been arranged there is every indication of a rousing welcome.

Col. McDougall Promoted.

London, Ont., Aug. 5.—Lieut.-Col. J. C. McDougall, R.C.R., now in command of Wolseley Barracks, will be transferred on September 1 to Halifax as chief staff officer of the Maritime Provinces. The command is the most important in Canada of its kind.

Nice quiet holiday yesterday. There was really no cause for anybody in this city to drop dead with heart disease, super-induced by excitement. A lot of people went fishing; others went on private picnics, and others went out of the city looking for joy. Perhaps they found it. But some of 'em don't look any too joyful to-day. Moral—An empty pocket the next morning is a poor return for a dark brown taste in the mouth.

Mark how history keeps on failing to repeat itself. The Wellington baseball team met its Waterloo here yesterday. Party who threw them down was one Napoleon Smith, the Belleville pitcher.

Up to the hour of going to press the C. N. R. was still a few inches from the Front of Sidney, but 99 people out 100 are hoping they get there before the robins nest many more times. And we're among 'em.

Borden and Brodeur, Laurier's representatives at imperial defence conference, will, it is hinted, promise the "moral support" of Canada in case the Empire gets into a row. Very nice. Canada's moral support would be worth about as much against Germany as the guns on Q. V. park would be against the German navy.

Col. Denison, who has just returned from a visit to England, is given credit for saying "war between Britain and Germany is inevitable." It is difficult to understand why it should be so. Unless it be that Germany is ambitious and thinks it can repeat its success in a combat with England that followed its war with France. It were well for Germany to reflect a moment or two before making the attempt. It should not forget that it is the Empire as a whole that it will have to meet and not any one portion of it. As to the result there can be no doubt.

The explanation re sewers, in another column, is timely, and should be digested by interested parties. And interested parties, in this connection, should certainly include all Belleville people.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

BASEBALL.

Wellington Was Outclassed.

About the only holiday attraction yesterday was the baseball match between Belleville and Wellington teams, which took place on the Driving Park. What kind of a game it was may be gathered from the score, which was 23-5 in favor of Belleville. The number of spectators was not surprisingly large. Some nice play was shown at times, but for the most part the match was too one-sided to be very interesting. Mr. George started as umpire, but his decisions were kicked on and he retired, Mr. Illsey finishing the game. Wellington played with only eight men, one of them a pick-up from this city. These were the teams:

Trenton Regatta Will be a Big Affair.

Trenton, Aug. 3. — The greatest fleet that ever assembled on Bay of Quinte waters is expected at the Trenton regatta on August 9, following the big meet at Cobourg. The fleets of Watertown, N.Y.; Rochester, N.Y.; Sodus Bay, N.Y.; Clayton, the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, Toronto; Hamilton, Kingston, Picton, Belleville, Cobourg, Napanee, Deseronto, Brighton and other points will be represented. All information in regard to entries can be obtained from Rev. F. W. Armstrong, Trenton.

SPORTING NOTES.

Mr. Syd. Vermilyea and party had some splendid sport trout fishing recently. Some of the speckled beauties caught weighed as much as three pounds.

Ions, the Tecumseh lacrosse player, is getting a lot of free advertising, but it is not of the most desirable kind. Kicking a man in the face when he is tying his shoe is not good sport.

At Scarboro Beach, Jack Tait beat "Chuck" Skene by 30 yards in a mile race. Time 4.26 2-5.

New York Telegraph: A great feature of the Tigers' play in the series was the work of Tyrus Cobb. This wonderful youth is right in the zenith of his career, and never batted or ran bases any better, while his fielding and the way he sends the ball where it ought to go look infinitely better than in previous seasons. The crowds went wild over him, and they had good reason to yell, although Tyrus saved the Tigers the one game they took by an unholy capture of a hit that no man had a right to even get near.

The Senate--How Composed Politically.

The Senate of Canada is fast becoming Liberal in politics, and unfortunately uncompromising supporters of the powers that be, owing to the fact that nearly every new appointment is made from the ranks of defeated Liberal candidates at the last or at former elections. Not having shaken off the trammels of partyism, they carry their former prejudices, regardless of rights, into the consideration of almost every question that comes before that body, particularly if it emanates from the ministerial side of the chamber. This, from a close observation of the actions of the new class of Senators, is the conclusion to which the student of passing events must come.

A day or two ago The Globe, in announcing the appointment of a gentleman to fill the chair, made vacant through the death of Senator Perley, stated that there were now but 21 Conservative Senators left.

The Montreal Gazette, in drawing attention to the filling of the vacancy, is led into the same error. It says:

> "The appointment to the Senate of Mr. Benjamin Price, of Battleford, to succeed the late Mr. Perley, makes the standing of parties in the Red Chamber 63 Liberals to 21 Conservatives, with some vacancies yet to be filled. The Senate, it will be noted, has been well re-formed, from the Government's point of view. If the current comment of Government newspapers is taken as evidence it has at the same time been degraded till it is no longer worthy of public respect. A legislative chamber, even when its members owe their places to a party's favor, should be something more than a refuge for political hacks."

Not quite correct as regards the relative strength of parties in the Red Chamber, though unfortunately, in the interests of the Dominion, there is but the slight difference of four as to numbers. A reference to the Canadian Parlimentary Guide Book for 1909 shows that the Conservative Senators number at the present time 25.

As this question of numbers has been referred to by the press on both sides of politics, it may not be uninteresting to our readers, and to those who take an interest in the welfare of the country, to know who these twenty-five Conservatives who remain to check, when possible, reckless legislation of the Liberal party are and the provinces they represent. Here are the names:

ONTARIO. — The Hon. Dr. Donald McMillan, Dr. Sullivan, Peter McLaren, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir John Carling. FIVE, whose combined ages reach the three figures of 386.

QUEBEC.—The Hon. C. E. Boucher de Boucherville, C.M.G., Sir George Drummond, Joseph Bolduc, Hypolite Montplaisir, P. Landry, William Owens, Geo. B. Baker and Louis I. Forget. EIGHT, combined ages 554.

NOVA SCOTIA. — Hon. William Miller, Thos. McKay, William McDonald and David McKeen. FIVE.

NEW BRUNSWICK. — Hon. Pascal Poirier, Geo. T. Baird, and Isaiah Wood. THREE.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.—Hon. Andrew A. Macdonald and Donald Ferguson. TWO.

BRITISH COLUMBIA. — The Hon. William John Macdonald. ONE.

MANITOBA. — The Hon. John Nesbitt Kirchoffer. ONE.

SASKATCHEWAN. — None. The death of Senator Perley leaves this province unrepresented.

ALBERTA.—The Hon. James Alexander Lougheed. ONE.

If, as The Gazette says, the "current comment of Government newspapers is taken as evidence, it has at the same time been degraded till it is no longer worthy of public respect." It is the Government that has made it so, and upon it rests the responsibility. True, as The Gazette says, "the Senate should be something more than a refuge for political hacks." Under the present regime it has not been so treated.

A good deal that has been said and urged against the Senate by Liberals in the past has been that it does not represent the sentiments of the people. Yet most of the new appointments which have been made have been of gentlemen who have been rejected by the people as unworthy of confidence. A defeat at the polls by the people was a sure recommendation for a seat in the Senate, and the more partizan the defeated, the more certain of being selected.

Children's Aid Notes.

A few days ago the Agent received a letter from a Belleville lady enclosing a cheque for the sum of $2.00 which was the proceeds of an entertainment given by her children in aid of the work among the little ones who are unable to help themselves. What a beautiful spirit is shown by the children who are anxious to help, and we wish to thank them most heartily. Permission is not given me to publish the names, but I may say this is the second entertainment given in this way which shows what is in the minds of the boys and girls.

Rev. Dr. MacLaren is Dead in Toronto

WAS EX-PRINCIPAL OF KNOX COLLEGE, AND FORMERLY PASTOR OF JOHN STREET CHURCH, THIS CITY FOR ELEVEN YEARS — A THEOLOGICAL GIANT — PREACHED AT JUBILEE SERVICES HERE NOT LONG AGO.

Toronto, Aug. 5.—Rev. William MacLaren, D.D., ex-principal of Knox College, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at the residence of his son, Rev. David MacLaren, 57 St. George street, who with his daughter, Mrs. Mowat of Edmonton, were with him when the end came.

The venerable clergyman, who had held the highest position in the gift of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was a few weeks ago arranging for a sojourn at the seaside. He was then in the best of spirits, and visiting the church offices at the Confederation Life Building. In speaking of his health at that time he said that the hot weather was affecting him, but despite his 82 years he hoped to be greatly benefited by a trip to the sea shore. Before he could complete his arrangements for the projected trip he was taken seriously ill.

The late ex-principal of Knox College had a distinguished career both as a minister of the Presbyterian Church and as an educationist. He was a native born Canadian, the town of Torbolton, Carlton County, claiming him as its most illustrious son. He was born on Jan. 26, 1828. His parents, David and Elizabeth MacLaren were natives of Perthshire, Scotland. He was the fifth son.

At the Ottawa Grammar School and Toronto Academy, William MacLaren gave early promise of distinction in the sphere of learning, and availed himself of the opportunity to take a theological and arts course. He was ordained to the Presbyterian ministry in 1853, and inducted minister of the Presbyterian Church at Amherstburg, Ont., where he remained for four years. The young preacher's fame had become widely recognized to the people in Canada and the United States, and in 1857 he was induced to accept the pastorate of Knox Church, Boston, Mass., since known as Columbus avenue Presbyterian Church. An invitation from the Belleville, Ont., Presbyterian Church to the pastorate there led to his return to Ontario, and he remained at Belleville for eleven years.

THE LATE DR. MACLAREN.

In 1870, the Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, succeeded in securing him as pastor, and he ministered there until his coming to Toronto as a member of the faculty of Knox College in the year 1873. During these three years he lectured in apologetics in the Montreal Presbyterian College.

For the past 36 years he has been closely identified with Knox College, and the demise of the late Principal Caven in December, 1904, became acting principal and chairman of the Senate of the college, which position he held with great acceptance until the appointment of Rev. Alfred Gandier, as principal in November, 1908.

During these four years he was also ex-officio a member of the University Senate.

His professional chair at Knox College was that of systematic theology, his best energies being devoted to a course of lectures on the gospels and the life of Christ. He received the degree of D.D. from Queen's College, Kingston, in 1883, and of LL.D. from Toronto University in 1906.

Rev. Dr. MacLaren was a picturesque figure, and acting member of the Presbyterian General Assembly. He was for 16 years convener of its foreign mission committee. In 1884 he was elected moderator of the General Assembly of Canada.

Sunshine grates have maximum strength

Sunshine Furnace has four triangular grate bars, each having three distinct sides. In the single-piece and two-piece grate no such-like provision is made for expansion or contraction, and a waste of coal always follows a shaking. On the left- and right-hand sides are cotter pins, which when loosened permit the grates to slide out. These four grate bars are made of heavy cast iron, and are finished up with bulldog teeth. The teeth will grind up the toughest clinker; and because the grates are made in sections, not only can nothing but dust and ashes pass through, but after each shaking a different side can be presented to the fire. Also, with the Sunshine grate there is no back-breaking movements attached to the shaking. By gently rocking the lever, first on the left and then on the right, the ashes are released on both sides, and fall through into the pan.

Here is the epitaph of a Watchmaker:

Here lies in Horizontal position
The outside case of George Toutleigh, Watchmaker,
Whose abilities in that line were an honor
To his profession
Integrity was the mainspring
And Prudence the Regulator
Of all the actions of his life,
Humane, generous and liberal
His Hand never stopped
Till he relieved distress.
Sincerely regulated were all his movements.
That he never went wrong,
Except when set a-going,
By people
Who did not know His Key
Even then he was easily
Set right again
He had the art of disposing his time
So well
That his Hours glided away
In one continual round
Of Pleasure and Delight
Till an unlucky moment put a period to His existence
He departed this life
November 14th, 1802.
Aged 57.
Wound up,
In hopes of being taken in hand
By his Maker.
And of being
Thoroughly cleaned, repaired, and set a-going
In the world to come.

"IN THIS MOUNTAIN"

Word "Mountain" In Holy Writ Is Always a Symbol of the Kingdom of Heaven—The Feast Is the Message of Divine Grace for Which the World Was Starving—Present Feast Is of Spiritual Things.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 1.—The Bible Students' Convention is in session here. Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, addressed the Convention twice to-day. One of his discourses was from the text, "And in this mountain shall the Lord of hosts make unto all people a feast of fat things" (Isaiah xxv, 6).

As you are all undoubtedly aware, the word "mountain" throughout the Scriptures is used as the symbol for kingdom. Earthly governments are represented as mountains and hills, while the Lord's government is represented as being established "in the top of the mountains." It is this mountain or Kingdom of God that is referred to in our text. It has not yet been established in the earth, and hence the blessed work foretold in our text is not yet realized. We still properly pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." True, a beginning has been made: For more than eighteen centuries since our Lord's ascension, and the bestowment of the holy Spirit at Pentecost, the Church has been in process of selection, and the Church is sometimes styled the Kingdom, because its members when glorified will constitute the Kingdom class—the Bride—who, with the heavenly Bridegroom, will share the Kingdom honors and services for the world.

It is true, also, that our Lord is exalted a Prince and a Savior, and that shortly, at his second advent, he is to take to himself his great power and reign as King of kings and Lord of lords—but he has not yet done this. He declared at his resurrection, "All power in heaven and in earth is given unto me," yet he also in his last message to the Church distinctly pointed out that the time for taking possession of his Kingdom was future, and that the time will surely come when he will take unto himself his great power and reign, because the time to reign will then have come (Revelation xi, 17).

More than this, the signs of the times, read in the light of the lamp of Truth, the Word of God, seem clearly to indicate that the time is nigh at hand for the setting up of Christ's Kingdom. How glad we all should be! What rejoicing it should cause to the whole world of mankind, to know that the reign of sin and death is nearing its conclusion; that Satan, the prince of this world, will shortly be bound for a thousand years that he should deceive the nations no more until its termination! How we should rejoice that "the night is far spent and the day is at hand;" that the Millennial morning is already dawning; that the Sun of Righteousness is already rising, and that soon the whole earth will "be full of the knowledge of the glory of God as the waters cover the great deep."

The bare announcement of the Kingdom of God would strike mankind variously in proportion as the character of the Kingdom and its work might be understood or misunderstood. Thus to-day to many the mention that the Kingdom of God is nigh at hand would carry the thought of a wreck of matter and the crush of worlds. Not only our Second Advent friends believe, but the creeds of practically all denominations of Christians recite, that our Lord's second advent and the establishment of his Kingdom will signify to mankind the end of probation, the end of hope, and usher in to all except the elect few a great burning day.

Far too long we have allowed these traditions of men to becloud our judgment, to come between our hearts and the great blessings set forth in God's Word as now due to the Church and to the world. It is very proper that those who are living in alienation from God in wilful sin should realize that the establishment of his Kingdom will mean a reign of righteousness which will be strictly opposed to their pernicious ways—opposed to every form of immorality, opposed to every form of injustice and iniquity, opposed to every form of trickery and sham, and false pretense. But surely Christians who are seeking to live in harmony with the Divine Law of Love for God, for the neighbor, for the brother, for enemies, have every reason to look forward, to long for, to hope for the coming of the Lord's Kingdom as the most desirable thing possible to be imagined. Indeed, it is thus described in Bible language: "The desire of all nations shall come" (Haggai ii, 7).

However much the few, favored by present conditions, may be pleased to have them remain as they are, the masses of mankind, if they were but converted from ignorance and superstition and brought to a knowledge of the truth as God's Word presents it, would be glad and rejoice in the salvation which is to come to the world through God's Kingdom. The god of this world hath blinded the eyes of understanding of mankind and put darkness for light, and under the terrors of the words "doom's day" has obscured the glorious blessings which belong to the day of the establishment of the Kingdom of the Lord (II Corinthians iv, 4).

True, the Kingdom of the heavens will be introduced, the Scriptures tell us, by "a time of trouble such as never was" before and never will be afterward: a time of trouble which will involve all nations, and peoples, and kindreds, and tongues, and every part of the world; a time of trouble from which there will be no escape except for those who have made the Lord, even the Most High, their refuge and habitation (Psalm xci, 9). But then, even that plowshare of trouble the Lord proposes shall be overruled so that it will constitute a channel of blessing to mankind, by preparing their hearts for the message of divine love and grace centered in Christ and his redeeming work at Calvary.

Turning from the ignorance and superstition and darkness and terrors of the dark ages, let us look still further—to the inspired Word of God through the Apostles and Prophets. From these let us hear some description of the blessings which God intends His Kingdom shall bring to our sin-cursed race. The Scriptures tell us that God has prepared a great feast for humanity; they intimate figuratively that mankind has been starving for the message of divine grace—that the millions of our race have gone down in ignorance and superstition, famished for lack of the Word of God. The Bread which came down from heaven—the message of truth and grace which our dear Redeemer brought and exemplified—has indeed been supplied lavishly to some. Some of us have feasted upon the good things of our Father's Word and plan. But the great mass of mankind have been so deaf and so blind that they see not, neither do they understand or receive the grace of God under present conditions. How glad we are that "all the blind eyes shall be opened, and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped" (Isaiah xxxv, 5), and that the whole world will thus be prepared for the true knowledge of God, whose goodness and loving kindness and tender mercies will undoubtedly have a softening and mellowing effect upon hard hearts. At all events, the divine program will be carried out; the Kingdom of God will be established amongst men: they will have the opportunity of contrasting the reign of righteousness with the reign of sin and death. So many as will be rightly influenced by this knowledge may lay hold upon eternal life by accepting the divine arrangement. Truly it is the goodness of God that leadeth to repentance.

There are many hungry hearts in the world; many whose bodies are well nourished have famished hearts which cry out for love and sympathy. He who reads the hearts, who knows what is in them, has prepared this feast which will surely satisfy every legitimate, righteous desire. Those who already are the Lord's people, and who have already feasted at the bountiful table spread for the Church, can approximate to some extent the bounty that will be spread before the world in this great feast foretold through the Prophet, in our text. There will be several differences, however, between our present feast and that one for the world.

(1) The present feast is merely a feast of promises which must be partaken of by the exercise of faith. The feast described in our text will be a very actual one; the realities of the blessing of restitution, of health, of strength, mental, moral and physical, will there be bountifully supplied, to be partaken of freely by all who appreciate them.

(2) The present feast spread for the Church is a spiritual one relating to a heavenly Kingdom glory and honor—things not seen as yet, except by the eye of faith. To the contrary, the feast for the world, referred to in our text, will consist of earthly bounties and blessings, most tangible in kind as well as excellent in quality; all that was lost in Adam will be tendered to such of his children as will accept the mercy. The Prophet in attempting to describe the bounties of that feast uses highly symbolical terms, and describes it as "a feast of fat things, full of marrow and of wines on the lees, well refined." Assuredly no language that we could use could fully and properly set forth the riches of God's grace provided for the world of mankind under the ministration of his Kingdom. The earth shall yield her increase, streams shall break forth in the deserts, the wilderness shall blossom as the rose, the solitary place shall be glad (Isaiah xxxv).

The Lord through the Prophet, after describing the feast of blessings and refreshments, portrays the destruction of things injurious to mankind, saying, "And he will destroy in this mountain the face of the covering cast over all people,—the veil that is spread over all nations" (verse 7). This veil is none other than the veil of ignorance and superstition which hinders mankind from seeing that the Creator is their friend, that righteousness and truth are to their advantage, that the ways of the Lord are righteous altogether. The sunlight of the new dispensation, the reign of righteousness, will scatter the clouds and the darkness, the veil of ignorance, and let into the hearts of mankind "the light of the knowledge of the goodness of God as it shines in the face of Jesus Christ our Lord." What a wonderful change, and how glad mankind will be, not only to have that feast prepared, but also to be rid of the darkness which would hinder them from appreciating it and coming to a knowledge of the Lord and his grace!

The Prophet proceeds to describe further, saying, "He will swallow up death in victory." For several thousand years Death has had the victory, and the human family have been swallowed up by it. The Scriptures describe the six thousand years of earth's history as a period of the "reign of Sin and Death." It is conservatively estimated that death has swallowed up twenty thousand millions of humanity, and that ninety thousand are going to the tomb every day. The Lord tells us through the Prophet that with the establishment of his Kingdom will come a wonderful change; instead of death continuing to swallow up the race, dying shall cease. None shall die then except for wilful sin. How glorious a time that will be! All of our sorrows are more or less intimately associated with "the reign of Sin and Death." How we may well rejoice in the new dispensation which divine love will execute for the releasing of our race from this dying process—from this bondage of corruption; permitting them to return to the liberty of the sons of God, freedom from death, freedom from sin.

But even this is not enough. The Lord purposes that he will not merely restrain the power of death, so that it shall cease swallowing up our race, but additionally he purposes that he will "swallow up Death in victory." The tomb, which figuratively has engorged itself with twenty thousand millions, will be forced to disgorge, to release its victims. "All that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man and come forth." The saintly few whose faithfulness to God has already been tested will come forth to the perfection of life. The unsaintly masses, the majority of whom have never known God truly, will come forth to the resurrection of trial, of judgment, of discipline. Death itself shall be destroyed.

St. Paul quotes from the Prophet Hosea, saying, "O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?" He does not quote this as applicable now, for Sin and Death still have their victory in the world. Thousands are still slaves of sin, and millions are still bounden by the power of the tomb. St. Paul and the Prophet pointed down to the glorious epoch of the Millennial Kingdom (following the resurrection change of the Church) when all shall be brought to a knowledge of the truth, from the least to the greatest; and when all that are in the prison-house of death shall come forth, because Jesus has redeemed every member of our race from the power of the tomb.

We remember our Redeemer's tender words, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Those of us who have accepted his gracious invitation, and obtained from him the rest of faith, found that it meant to us the wiping away of our tears, the cancellation in a large degree of our troubles. We, then, should be able to understand the next statement of the Prophet in our text, "The Lord God will wipe away tears from off all faces." It is the same message given to us in Revelation, where the same Kingdom, under the figure of the New Jerusalem, is brought to our attention. It will be the Heavenly Father who will wipe away the tears, not directly but indirectly through his Son, the Redeemer. More and more as we come to an understanding of the grace of God, as illustrated in his divine plan of the ages, we come to realize that "all things are of the Father and all things are by the Son"—that the two, while distinctly separate, are also distinctly one in love, in sympathy, and in co-operation in the work of relief which has already begun in the Church, and which ultimately is to extend to the world during the Millennium.

Tears are the marks of sorrow, pain, suffering; and the poetic statement that God himself will wipe away the tears of mankind is a beautiful and forceful suggestion of how the power of the Highest is shortly to be employed, not in the eternal torment of the world, but in its blessing, its uplifting, the wiping away of its tears and sorrows.

When we remember that there are no tears in heaven, and that the joys of that blessed state are because of its sinlessness, our hearts overflow with thanksgiving as we catch the poetic thought included in the assurance—that all sin, and all sorrow as the result of sin, and all tears and marks of sorrow, will forever pass away in that happy day. Truly we may be glad and rejoice and give honor to our God as we see his righteous dealings with our race manifested—as the clouds and shadows flee away and permit the sunshine of divine love and grace to take their proper places before the eyes of our understanding.

Let no one imagine that this signifies universal salvation. Other Scriptures show us that while universal opportunity for salvation will be accorded, none except those who avail themselves of it by a hearty acceptance of the Divine arrangement, and a hearty obedience to the laws of the Kingdom — these only will get the great blessing of life eternal; only their tears will forever be wiped away. All others, wilful sinners, will be destroyed in the "Second Death."

From Pro-Boer to Premier.

Hon. John Merriman, whose Privy Councillorship heads the recent list of Birthday honors, is one of the most prominent figures in Cape politics. He was one of the strongest pro-Boers at the time of the South African war, but in spite of this was made Premier of the Cape last year. No one can deny his brilliant ability, and Somersetshire—the county of his birth—has good reason to feel proud of him. His father was the Bishop of Grahamstown, known as the City of Saints, on account of its many churches. It was there that Mr. Merriman received his early education, afterwards coming to England and entering Oxford University.

The Ontario Clay Belt.

That part of Northern Ontario tapped by the Provincial Railway is attractive from an agricultural as well as from a mining standpoint. Mr J. L. Englehart, chairman of the Provincial Railway Commission, just returned from an inspection of the country contiguous to the line, speaks enthusiastically of the richness of the soil and of the wealth of timber which clothes it. Much building is going on at new settlements along the route, and the prospect is that before many years the great "clay belt" 500 miles north of Toronto will support a considerable and a prosperous population.

Sausage.

Sausage has even from very early times been a popular table delicacy. Aristophanes was familiar with it, and in Roman days the sausages of Lucania were in high esteem. They were made from pork and the nuts of the stone pine, flavored with bay leaves and other things more familiar. Bologna was celebrated for its sausages long before the German sausage had even thought of invading the rest of the world, and until quite lately it was commonly called in England a "polony."

Had the Old Man Cornered..

Do you think you can support me in the style to which I have been accustomed?' she asked.

"I don't know," he replied, "but I know this—I'll be able to support you in a better style than you will be accustomed to after this if you don't accept me. Your dad has sold short on wheat, and I've got is cornered."

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

quick frown of irritation as she heard Cousin Agatha's resonant voice declare that "no one ever did look so well as Rhoda in evening dress, and such beautiful things as she had, too, and not a decent gown brought away with her, though to be sure she did pay her tailor an outrageous price to make those ginghams and linens, a thing he would never do for any one else, my dear; you know what airs the creature gives himself. I will say for Rhoda that she is particular about fit, and won't wear anything unless it's just so, though she's careless about everything else."

"She is going to marry Merriam, the poet, you know."

Any vagary might be expected and even admired in the affianced bride of a poet, and in this all-inclusive statement the good lady found consolation for the personal loss which it indicated, for Merriam had no mind to include Miss Mortimer in his arrangements, and indeed Rhoda would not have asked it, and Cousin Agatha would soon realize the wisdom of her course in that prophetic preservation of the play-bills. She was going back to Pomeranda, which village would henceforth reverence her as a link with the outside world, would hang upon her words of wisdom, spoken with the assurance of one who has seen life in all its varied phases, and copy her gowns to the last fold, conscious of the value which a home-made garment acquires when it can be described as "made up from a New York pattern."

Altogether, Cousin Agatha's sorrow in returning to her native place had many mitigations. And besides, had not Rhoda promised that she should spend two months of each winter at an extremely "select" boarding-house, where men-servants were employed, and a person willing to pay for it could always have a private table.

CHAPTER VII.

OVER THE SEA.

Merriam's first letters were extremely satisfactory, even enthusiastic. They were not at the schloss, some peculiarity having developed in the Count's constitution which rendered the air there not desirable for him, but at a villa which he had taken near Salzburg, well sheltered by a great rolling hill. Merriam was stopping at the hotel, preferring the freedom of this mode of living to the restraints of a stately household, and went each morning to his uncle, assisting him from ten to one, and again from three to five. After that his time was at his disposal, the German secretary being retained for all merely mechanical work of copying and reference hunting.

He chose sometimes to spend his evenings at the villa, assisting in the solemn courtesies between his relatives and the Austrian and German dignitaries who were their chief guests but for the most part he preferred to linger at the hotel, where he found a number of smart people, among them some Parisian acquaintances who volubly detested the noble and sombre mountain setting of the ancient capital, but were braced for further endurance of their beloved boulevards by the keen, clear air. He liked his work fairly well, wrote that he was surprised to find his uncle so much of a fellow, praised the beauty of his cousin Minna, who was visiting her parents with her husband and little son, and seemed altogether in a very desirable state of mind.

But as the summer waned, his letters became less and less pleasant reading. He was desperately tired of Salzburg. No one for whom he cared had stayed on. The great, frowning mountains were staring him out of countenance. His uncle was tedious as only a Teutonic pedant could be. His aunt was always wanting to hear about the changes in America since she had last seen it. His cousins were sticks. He had had enough of climbing up to the fortress to see the view with a large crowd of people who were disgustedly enthusiastic. If he had to linger much longer in this moldy old town he would throw up the whole thing. He wanted to get back to Vienna, which was, on the whole, the city best worth living in after London in the season and Paris at all times. For though Merriam had his theories about the advantages to be derived from the contemplation of natural scenery, he always found that this gained its chief charm from retrospect, and that his muse was most at home wandering over the asphalte, the poor goddess with the classic limbs and drapery, and the restless modern soul looking out from sad eyes that always seemed to see clearest amid the dusty crowds and glaring lights of a great city. He needed the high pressure of metropolitan life as a drunkard needs his dram.

His letters became so undecided and indefinite that Rhoda felt that it would be almost wiser to suspend the arrangements she was making for a three years' lease of her house. He had even hinted at a permanent return to New York. Of course this could not be helped, if he should so decide, but she would be very sorry on his account, and a little sorry on her own. She had always been rather anxious to spend some time on the Continent, and had wondered a little that she had permitted herself to be satisfied with the few months in Paris which proceded her one London season. She wrote to Merriam, however, asking him if she should stop proceedings with regard to the house, and received in reply the assurance that she should not have taken seriously his reference to the possibility of return; whatever his plans might be, they did not include any intention of living in America for some years to come.

The summer passed quickly as all time does when there are no decided events to mark it off, and the monotonous days slip by with the swiftness of a river that forever glides out to the sea, yet forever remains between its narrow banks. October was nearly ended and November close upon Rhoda, the month in which Merriam was to return for their wedding. The day was set for his sailing, when she received a cablegram telling of the serious illness of the Count.

This illness was aggravated by the fear that his work, now at a most important point, should be doubly delayed by his own incapacity and Merriam's absence. The latter had given the old nobleman much trouble from his periods of inattention and indifference, but he had shown so much ability that the Count had come to depend upon him greatly. He begged piteously that his nephew would not

GIRLS' BATHING SUIT.

Paris Pattern No. 2887

All Seams Allowed.

Developed in any colored or white mohair, French flannel or pongee, this is a simple bathing suit for the growing girl. The Russian blouse is cut with a round Dutch neck and short flowing sleeves; the fullness being held in place by the belt, which fastens in the front with a small pearl button. This belt is slipped through narrow straps at the under-arm seams and is of contrasting material; similar material being used for the trimming band, under which the blouse closes. The full bloomers are attached to an underwaist of cambric and are gathered into the knees by elastic, run through the wide hem-casing. Cotton soutache, matching the band in color, trims the neck and sleeves. The pattern is in 5 sizes—4 to 12 years. For a girl of 8 years the bathing suit requires 4 yards of material 27 inches wide, 2¾ yards 36 inches wide, 2⅝ yards 42 inches wide, or 2 yards 54 inches wide; as illustrated, 1 yard of contrasting material 6 or more inches wide and 4 yards of braid.

A pattern of this illustration wil be mailed to any address on receip of 10 cents in silver.

JAIME STANDS ASIDE.

Spanish Pretender Will Not Countenance Revolution.

Vienna, Aug. 4.—Don Jaime, the pretender to the Spanish throne, declares in an interview here that he has no intention of interfering in the present crisis in Spain and that his retirement to Frohdorf, in Lower Austria, far from the Spanish frontier, is proof of his peaceful purposes.

"The Carlist party is a party of order," said Don Jaime. "I never will take upon myself to bring an entire people into danger for my own ends. Never will I lead Spaniard against Spaniard. Should I return to Spain at the head of an army it will be only to restore order. This might happen should the revolutionaries drive out King Alfonso, or the welfare of the country require it. The popularity of King Alfonso is declining through no fault of his own and Queen Victoria is certainly less liked than the King. Spaniards dread foreign influence; Victoria has remained a stranger too long, and the people never will forgive her."

Two Thousand Were Killed.

Hendaye, France, Aug. 4.—A copy of El Mundo, a newspaper of Madrid, received yesterday places the number of killed at Barcelona during the rioting of last week at 2,000, and the wounded at 2,500.

Can't Return to Boston.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 4.—Through the action of U. S. officials here, Mrs. Gallant, an elderly woman, a native of Summerside, P.E.I., but for twenty-four years resident in Boston, may be prevented from returning to her relatives in Boston.

The woman had been visiting in Summerside and on her way back to Boston was stopped here by the U. S. immigration officials as she was penniless. Relatives in Boston sent $80 to her, but through an attack of rheumatism, she is now helpless and U. S. officials refuse to allow her to proceed until her relatives file a $500 bond that she will not become a public charge. This, she claims, they are unable to do.

Emperor Off Cruising.

Cowes, Aug. 4.—King Edward, accompanied by his guest, the Emperor of Russia, who arrived here Monday, spent yesterday cruising on his old cutter, Britannia, and in the meanwhile M. Iswolsky, the Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs; Count Benckendorff, the Russian Ambassador to Great Britain, and Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Secretary, are discussing matters of diplomacy aboard the Admiralty yacht Enchantress.

With the exception of the cruisers forming the escort of the Russian Emperor, the great fleet that was here on Monday has dispersed and the roadstead remains in the possession of the racing yachts, assembled for the regatta.

Mickey Ions Surrenders.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—Mickey Ions, the lacrosse player, gave himself up to Detective Nat Guthrie yesterday afternoon when he learned that there was a warrant out for his arrest, on a charge of committing an aggravated assault on George Kalls during the lacrosse match between the Torontos and Tecumsehs on civic holiday.

He was allowed out on his own bail of $200 and an added $100 by Chas. Querrie, manager of the Tecumsehs.

The case will be called in the Police Court to-day. Ions, who is the goalkeeper of the Tecumsehs, deliberately kicked Kalls in the face while the latter was tieing his shoe strings.

Drowned in Running Rapids.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 4.—News has just been received from Athabasca Landing that Count von Hammerstein, the famous northern oil inspector, with a party while trying to run the Grand Rapids in a light boat, were swamped.

The party consisted of von Hammerstein, Ed. Lafrance and R. Volkoffsky. The two latter were drowned, but Hammerstein miraculously escaped by being washed ashore. All their supplies were lost.

New Torpedoes.

London, Aug. 4.—The Government is about to commence the manufacture of new torpedoes which will have a speed of about 30 knots an hour and range of five miles. They will be used principally from submerged tubes on battleships and cruisers.

Winnipeg Electricians Ask Increase.

Winnipeg, Aug. 4.—Three hundred electrical workers are likely to go on strike Wednesday night because the contractors offer only 35 cents an hour in reply to their demand for an increase from 30 and 50 cents.

Mine Promoter Drowns.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 4.—George F. Fagan, a well-known promoter and mine-owner of Chicago, who has been in the Soo for some time, was drowned in the Goulais River, near Searchmont.

Strike Takes on Serious Turn in Northern Country.

Socialists Are Taking Hold of Labor War and Trying to Make It Revolutionary in Character—Stockholm Will Be Declared In State of Siege at First Sign of Trouble—Over a Hundred Thousand Idle.

Stockholm, Aug. 4.—A labor war throughout Sweden, scheduled to begin to-day, threatens to develop in Stockholm into something approaching a miniature revolution.

The trouble will be enormously aggravated by the present general strike and lockout.

The members of the Young Socialists party are striving to give the movement a revolutionary character and the Government, warned that a political campaign is going on at the same time, has taken steps to nip expected disorders in the bud.

The authorities have decided, at the first signs of insurrection, to declare Stockholm in a state of siege. Soldiers are being quartered in different sections of the city and suburbs, and the entire standing army of Sweden is ready for eventualities.

King Gustave has summoned the members of Parliament to Stockholm, and a special session of the Rigsdag is expected.

Great consternation prevails in the capital at these unexpected and dangerous developments in the situation. A civil guard corps is being organized for the protection of property, and the banks are closed and carefully guarded. All the ferries running out of Stockholm have ceased operations, and the large steamers engaged in the summer in carrying visitors and residents to the seaside resorts in the Archipelago have suddenly stopped running, discharged their crews, and are being laid up for the winter. This summer traffic is usually continued until the month of October.

It is expected that the present total of about 100,000 idle workmen will be largely increased by to-morrow.

It is anticipated also that the cab and street car services in Stockholm will stop running Wednesday, and arrangements are being made to-day to run the waterworks and the electric light plants by soldiers.

The bridges leading to the islands adjacent to Stockholm are closely guarded. Many stores already have been closed and no milk is being delivered in the city. The sale of spirits, beer and wine has been prohibited in both shops and restaurants.

The labor conflict that is at the bottom of this trouble originated in a dispute over wages in the woollen and cotton industries. In the beginning 13,000 men were locked out and other industries since have become involved, until to-day the employers' federation declared a lockout of the iron foundry hands, numbering about 30,000 men. A total of 80,000 men were reported locked out yesterday.

The employes of the Stockholm municipality and the state telegraph linemen have joined the strike movement, but the railwaymen's union have declined to do so.

Scarcity of Teachers.

"As the time approaches for the reopening of the rural schools, it becomes necessary to draw attention once more to the available supply of teachers for vacancies occurring at this season. I may say that from the experience of a number of trustee boards, who have been advertising for teachers possessing the legal qualifications, it appears that no one so qualified can be secured for any salary less than $400."

Credentials for Canadian Agents.

London, Aug. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In order to confirm the official status of the Canadian Government appointees in foreign countries and place them beyond the possible restrictive influence of British resident officials as was attempted during the recent Preston controversy in Japan, the Colonial Office has consented to be the medium through which notification shall be given to foreign Governments of the appointment of Canadian officials to foreign countries.

Officers Help Aviators.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 4.—Officers of Canadian permanent force are evincing enthusiastic interest in the science of aviation, and willing hands are assisting in assembling the various parts of "Baddeck No. 1."

Capt. Tyrrell, R.E., and Lieut. Perrin, R.C.E., both of whom are well-known in Toronto, are working with head and hand. "Baddeck No. 1," will be tried out Friday or Saturday of this week.

Nearly Broke Jail.

London, Aug. 4.—Robert Colby, who was brought in from Candeboye on July 24, made a sensational attempt to escape from the jail yesterday morning. He climbed up a water pipe and managed to get on the wall, which is 12 feet high and is covered with broken glass. While running along the top of the wall he was seen by the turnkey. Colby had been committed to the asylum at Orillia.

Cattle Killed by Lightning.

London, Aug. 4.—A bad electrical storm passed over Yarmouth and the district south yesterday morning. The barns and crops of George Doan were burned. Cattle belonging to Archie F. Campbell and others in the same district were killed in the pastures by lightning. Around Mount Brydges many cattle were killed.

Boy Killed by Fall.

Cornwall, Aug. 4.—A fatality is reported from the North Branch, a few miles from here. Lawrence Fraser, aged 11, the young son of John Fraser, fell off a lumber wagon, his head striking a stone, death resulting two hours later.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The emigrants to Canada from Britain for June numbered 8,115, against 7,768 in 1908.

Three French battleships will participate in the Hudson-Fulton celebration at New York next month.

The airship Zeppelin II. again broke a propeller blade yesterday and was unable to leave Frankfort for Cologne.

Dog owners at St. Catharines may hire a private detective to find out dog poisoners, who have been busy lately.

At Arnprior the body of Mrs. G. A. Tough, aged 48, wife of G. A. Tough, traveler for the Sanitaris Co., Ltd., was found in a well.

The bursting of an immense reservoir near Fort Morgan, Col., deluged half a mile of rich farming country and did half a million dollars damage.

The bylaw at Bracebridge to raise $65,000 for the purpose of developing additional water power at Wilson's Falls, two miles up the Muskoka River, was carried by over one hundred majority.

The Peary relief expedition sailed yesterday afternoon on the schooner Jeanie from St. John's, Nfld. The vessel is bound for Etah, Greenland, to obtain any despatches that may have been left there by the Arctic Explorer.

One hundred and seventy-five locomotives, to which an engine is added every six days, are now ready to couple on to the 1,500 freight cars that are ready to haul the wheat from the two hundred elevators along the prairie division of the G.T.P.

Uproar In Cortes.

Lisbon, Aug. 4.—Free thinkers from all parts of Portugal, represented by a Liberal committee, yesterday presented to the Cortes a petition for the suppression of the religious orders in Portugal and the abrogation of the existing laws against freedom of conscience. The committee was accompanied to the Houses of Parliament by an immense crowd. Among other things the petitioners asked the abrogation of the recent law permitting religious associations to acquire landed property.

Senor Camacho moved the consideration of the subject, and when the motion was voted down, the galleries broke out in protestation. The deputies engaged in a struggle in which desks and chairs were overturned and the chamber had to be cleared twice.

England Must Control G.T.R.

Montreal, Aug. 4.—"Financial control of the G.T.R. must remain on the other side," declared Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the road, in an interview here yesterday morning. British directors had the greatest confidence in General Manager Hays, and the management was left practically in his hands, but financial control was another matter. Canadian directors with no great financial interests at stake would be liable to be lavish with the company's money, and such a state of affairs, said Sir Charles, would be detrimental to any road.

Sir Charles said that the G.T. could make no alliance with the Allans or any other steamship company till their lines were completed.

Twice Injured; Farmer Dies.

Kincardine, Aug. 4.—Samuel Irwin, aged 30, a well-known farmer of the 6th concession of Greenock, was engaged cutting hay, when his team started to run away, throwing him in front of the knife. His thigh was fearfully mangled.

The horses were stopped and Irwin was being conveyed home in a buggy, when the team, which had been unhitched from the mower and left in charge of his young son to bring home, got away from the lad, and, running down the road in the wake of the buggy, one of them jumped into it, crushing the injured man against the dashboard, breaking his shoulder and further injuring him. He lived some hours.

Hon. Sydney Fisher Goes West.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, left yesterday on an extended trip through Western Canada. He proposes to see crops while standing, having heretofore been in the west only after the crops had been cut. Mr. Fisher will travel by both train and team. He will go over the Grand Trunk Pacific and will make a number of addresses. He will take six weeks to reach the Pacific coast, and will visit the Seattle Exposition before returning.

Hon. Mr. Fisher is the fourth Minister of the Government to make a western trip this summer.

Got Back at Constable.

St. Catharines, Aug. 4.—Constable A. B. Tufford of Beamsville, was fined $2 and costs, amounting in all to $4, by Magistrate Riggins at Beamsville for being drunk and disorderly.

The constable secured liquor in this city a few days ago, Beamsville being a local option town, and on returning to Beamsville under its influence was espied by James Karr, whom Tufford had arrested some time ago, for being drunk. Karr laid the charge against him.

Friendless Man's Death.

London, Aug. 4.—Charles Wadge, aged 70, claiming to be of Toronto, died yesterday morning. Wadge got in a crowd on the train at Toronto station about July 19 and did not get off the train until he reached London. He said he had no home or friends and as he was very ill, he was taken to the hospital.

Toronto Girl Leads Strike.

Miss Murray was formerly a Toronto girl.

Taft to Meet Diaz.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 4.—President Taft of the United States and President Diaz of Mexico are to meet in Elpazo, Mexico, on Oct. 18.

M'KELVIE COMMITTED

Cobalt Mining Man to Be Tried on Bribery Charge.

Director In Temiskaming & Hudson Bay Mining Co. Is Arraigned on a Charge of Giving J. Piche Money to Withhold Evidence In Suit—Mrs. Burwash Testifies to Acting as Go-Between In Deal.

Haileybury, Aug. 4.—Andrew McKelvie, a director in the Temiskaming & Hudson Bay Mining Co., prominent in the Cobalt district, was yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Atkinson on a charge of having bribed John Piche to leave the country and avoid giving evidence in a suit intended to prove that the company's claim had been "blanketted."

Two witnesses, Mrs. Elizabeth Burwash and her brother John Piche swore that McKelvie had given him (Piche) $1,000, and 100 shares of the company's stock to disappear.

Magistrate Atkinson in giving the decision said, "It is better that I should commit Mr. McKelvie for trial, as in a higher court his innocence, if he is innocent, can be established, whereas, if I were to let the matter drop now, there always would be more or less doubt in regard to his sending Mrs. Burwash (Piche's sister), out west."

There was a large attendance in the magistrate's court yesterday, and intense interest was manifested. A. G. Slaght appeared for Mr. McKelvie. Crown Attorney Browning prosecuted. Mr. Slaght objected that, as the alleged offence occurred three years ago, the prosecution was debarred. He was overruled.

Mrs. Burwash swore that relations between the company and Piche, it's original prospector, became strained on account of the filing of certain affidavits. She then became the agent through which Piche and McKelvie got together and arranged the terms, $1,000 cash, and one hundred shares of stock.

She had seen McKelvie and then wired for her brother. She had not taken part in the conversation, as the men were inclined to be quarrelsome.

"McKelvie wanted to come to a settlement and my brother would not listen to him," she said. Asked to relate what had been said, she could not remember, nor whether an agreement was reached that night. She had seen McKelvie and demanded $2,000 and the stock, but McKelvie had only agreed to $200 cash and a check for $800 on the Union Bank, in addition to the stock, which was made out in her name. She said she sent the proceeds to her brother in the west. The check had been signed by one McCamus, payable to her.

She also said that she got $200 from McKelvie later to go out west and tell Piche there was a warrant out for his arrest, and have him keep out of the way.

After an hour and a half Piche was called. He was asked: "Are you the man who made the discoveries on the Hudson Bay?" and replied "Yes."

During cross-examination Piche said he knew he was to be the chief witness in the case of the Attorney-General vs. Thompson, and said that William Pinkerton of the law firm of Pinkerton, Clute & Bartram, Toronto, was dickering with him for the purpose of having him withhold certain evidence which he had. Piche said he was going to leave the country, anyway, as he was afraid of Pinkerton, as the former had got him to sign a paper that he had not read, and he also did not want to go on on the stand against the company and without evidence.

Mr. Browning: "Tell me again the exact reason for your leaving."

Piche: "It was because I expected to get something out of the hundred shares given to Mrs. Burwash, and at the same time, that I would not appear in court concerning the pending suits."

Mr. Slaght, in arguing for a dismissal, said that as no date had ever been fixed for the Attorney-General's action against the company, it could not be said that there was any occasion on which Piche was to appear as a witness, nor had he ever been subpoenaed. Hence Piche had been perfectly free to go where he pleased. He declared Piche had not been in concealment and charged that Piche and his sister were "accomplices up to the hilt."

Rescuer Nearly Drowned.

Kingston, Aug. 4.—In an effort to save a drowning lad at Brooklyn, N.Y., Dr. Harry Hunter, son of Justice of the Peace George Hunter, came within an ace of losing his life.

The lad took cramps and Hunter went in after him. His clothes held him down, and just as he was about to pull out the lad, his feet got fast in the mud and he, himself, fell face downwards. The boy then went down, but a mounted policeman succeeded in rescuing Hunter, who recovered after they had worked over him an hour.

Firemen and Enginemen Meet.

Winnipeg, Aug. 4.—The big convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers opened yesterday. The opening address was given by W. S. Carter, international president, while E. A. Ball, Brantford, second vice-president was in the chair. The sessions are secret.

Blown to Bits Splitting Wood.

Easton, Pa., Aug. 4.—Milton Shive, of Pattenburg, N.J., on Monday was splitting discarded railroad ties when a terrific explosion occurred, and he was blown to pieces.

It is believed that a dynamite cap had been concealed in the tie.

Fears Trade War With Canada.

New York, Aug. 4.—Chairman Morris, of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, in explaining the effect of the new tariff on pulp wood imports, says that a serious tangle is threatened, and fears a trade war with Canada.

MAY STAY ALL WINTER

Troops to Make Permanent Quarters at Mines Says Rumor.

Hon. Mackenzie King Said to Be Collecting Evidence Against U.M.W. Preparatory to Prosecuting For Infraction of Lemieux Act—Springhill Miners Meet and Discuss Their Grievances—Strike Talk Prevalent.

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 4.—It was currently reported yesterday morning that the Department of Militia had completed arrangements with the Dominion Coal Co. for the purchase or lease of a piece of land at Glace Bay, where it is intended to erect a barracks for a company of soldiers, so that they can stay here all winter.

It was reported at strike headquarters yesterday morning that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, is collecting information in connection with the strike of the laborers at Inverness with a view of prosecuting officers of the U.M.W. for unlawfully ordering a strike or committing a violation of the Lemieux Act. It is clamied that the men were called out before the board of investigation made and inquiries into the trouble that existed.

Springhill Mines.

Springhill, N.S., Aug. 4.—Strike talk has been prevalent to a certain extent among the Springhill miners for some time past. The award of the conciliation board, of which Judge Longley was chairman, is claimed by the men to be couched in indefinite terms. There is one recommendation of the board which the employes are disposed to accept. This is with respect to fines and docking, though it is less favorable than they had asked for.

With respect to recognition of the union, the board seems to have left that an open question and this tends to bring about an acute feeling. The men say they will insist on the demand for recognition. On the other hand, it is claimed the company has asserted that recognition of the United Mine Workers will never be granted.

There was an immense private meeting of the men of the U.M.W. held last night. Vice-President McCulloch and District President McDougall made carefully prepared speeches. McCulloch said he did not come here to advise the Springhill men to strike, but left that matter wholly in the hands of the local union. The whole resources of the U.M.W. would be at their back. He complained bitterly of the despotism on the part of the troops in turning back the procession the other day at Glace Bay.

He also said the prospects for the U.M.W. winning out in the fight could not be brighter.

Young Bather Drowned.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—John O'Connell, aged 15, an inmate of St. John's Industrial School, was drowned yesterday afternoon while bathing in the lake at Victoria Park.

About sixty of the boys of the institution, accompanied by some of the teachers, were in the lake. O'Connell, who was a good swimmer, was about 100 yards out, when he was seized with cramps, and making an outcry, some of his fellows got hold of him and brought him part of the way to shore. They became exhausted and were compelled to swim to shore.

Unconscious From Bee Sting.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 4.—Miss Lizzie Sawyers of this city has been unconscious 12 hours as the result of having been stung by a bee while picking fruit near Maryville. Her tongue and throat have swollen to an abnormal degree, rendering her speechless and causing her great difficulty in breathing. Her entire body has assumed a livid hue. This is her third similar experience, although the others were not so severe.

Canada Will Control Fleet.

London, Aug. 4.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Speaking to the Canadian Associated Press, with reference to The Times' suggestion that a cruiser squadron on the Pacific be established by Canada, Hon. L. P. Brodeur was emphatic in asserting that if it aimed at the formation of an imperial squadron to be controlled by the admiralty, it was losing time to suggest it, as Canada "will never consent to such control."

Awaiting the End.

Dublin, Aug. 4.—In the belief that the millennium may be ushered in any moment, over 2,000 "Cooneyites" are holding continuous prayer meetings at Ballinamallard, County Fermanagh. The pilgrims have arrived from all parts of the country. Hundreds of persons are baptized publicly in the river every day, and the converts are sleeping out in the open air on the farm of one of the leaders.

Drastic Effort to Wipe Out Rabies.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Dr. Rutherford, chief of the Dominion Veterinary Department, in commenting upon the number of cases of rabies in Western Ontario, says that the Department will probably take drastic measures to wipe out the disease. Over a hundred cases have been reported to the Department during the past two years.

Elk Lake Steamer on Fire.

Cobalt, Aug. 4.—The Upper Lake Navigation Co.'s steamer Adrelexa, while en route from Elk Lake caught fire through the bursting of the packing around the boiler. The fifteen passengers huddled together in the bow of the boat until taken off by the steamer R. J. Booth.

VEGETABLES ALL WINTER.

Not very far in the future—perhaps next year—Montreal will be supplied in the winter time with green vegetables at summer prices. It will be somewhat of a surprise to have young onions and radishes on the table during January, and fresh lettuce will be a striking contrast against the snow. All this is going to happen, and more. These greens will be grown in Quebec. Right in the County of Rouville a firm is in process of construction. It is tucked away in the shelter of the several mountains of Rougemont, St. Hilaire, and Abbotsford. To be more exact, it lies in a rook behind Rougemont. It is called Red Mountain.

There is a perceptible difference of atmosphere at Rougemont. It is nearly always dead calm. This is explained as due to the hills' shelter. In the hollow where the farm lies it is even warmer.

When visited recently the full light of the morning sun was reflected from the glass of a huge hot-house. It covered an acre of ground, and at one end was a brick structure with a big chimney. That is where the heat was generated. In the interior there was a smell of fresh earth. Vegetables were sprouting all about. The farm under glass is divided into sections, eleven in all, and on each section there is something different growing.

Lettuce had the advantage of space. That is because lettuce finds a better market in Montreal than anything else. The Boston lettuce, it seems, is a constant puzzle to the farm proprietors. It is imported to Montreal at a high rate of duty, and it beats most kinds of local growths. However, next year, Cos lettuce, the pride of English market-gardeners, will be produced for the Montreal table, and there will be no chance for Boston competition.

Parsley flourishes in the rich black earth, and so does asparagus, young onions, and radishes. The vegetables cover 36,000 square feet of ground, and that ground is entirely protected by glass. A maze of pipes maintain an even summer temperature. Thus several crops of light green vegetables can be raised from the fine black soil during the season when the market is usually dead. The fame of this little glass farm reached the ears of the Minister of Agriculture. He was so impressed with the importance of the venture that he offered to pay half the labor expenses of the place on condition that farmers' sons were taken in as pupils. This system prevails.

Before the snows of next winter there will have been added five more acres of glass covering to the land. The farm will then begin to meet the demand in Montreal for green stuffs during the winter; it will also begin to compete successfully with imported vegetables, such as the Boston lettuce. The company that is responsible for this little industry behind Rougemont is composed of the principal fruit men of Montreal. They wish to localize fruit and vegetable growing; they declare that fruit farming is shamefully neglected in the province of Quebec.

Making the Best of It.

"Oh, John," she sobbed on his shoulder, "I had baked a lovely cake, and I put it out on the back porch for the frosting to dry, and the dog ate it!"

"Well, don't cry about it, sweetheart," he consoled, patting the pretty flushed cheek. "I know a man who will give us another dog!"—Brooklyn Life.

CANIFTON.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hubbs spent Sunday in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McEwen took a trip down the bay in their new gasoline launch.

Mrs. Miles Truax has gone to Leamington to spend a month with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Gehred, of Cincinnati, have moved into the house lately occupied by Mr. Wm. Collins.

Mr. Fisher Wilmore has gone to Toronto for a few days.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Key of their safe arrival in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Rossiter and little daughter, of Toronto, are visiting at Mr. Wm. Crump's.

A great wind passed through this vicinity on Saturday last and did quite a bit of damage to the farmers' fields of grain and corn.

Miss Annie L. Campbell was the guest of Mrs. G. Horton, of Plainfield, last week.

The work on the new school house is progressing, the masons being busy at the brick work. The building and grounds will certainly be a credit to the section.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Whitely, of North Tonawanda, and Mr. and Mrs. John Black, of Oil City, spent the week-end the guests of their uncle, Mr. Alonzo Black.

Mr. Bird, of Foxboro, occupied the pulpit here on Sunday last.

SIDNEY CROSSING.

Aug. 2nd.—The funeral services of the late Mrs. Juby were conducted at the family residence on Sunday at 10 a.m., by Rev. Mr. Dafoe, pastor. Deceased was a resident here for many years and was most highly respected by a large circle of friends. The sorrowing children have the sincere sympathy of all in their bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Brown, Belleville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Kelley on Sunday.

Mrs. Stanley Sproule, and daughter, of Odessa, are guests of her sister, Mrs. Seldon Ketcheson.

Apple buyers are plentiful through this section at present, but winter fruit is scarce, especially spies and Baldwins, while early varieties are fairly good crop. Prices range from 75c to $1 per barrel.

Mrs. Charles Lawrence, of Campbellford, who has been spending the past few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Young and other friends, has returned home.

Communion services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Dafoe at Wesley Church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement French and son, Garnet, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Kelley.

Mr. Austin Hogle, who was so seriously stung while working with his bees, a few days ago, is fortunately able to be around again, after a very narrow escape from paralysis.

LAWN SOCIAL AT ROSLIN.

A very successful lawn social was held at the Rectory, Roslin, on Tuesday evening of last week. Both in point of numbers present—about 500—and in amount of receipts—$168.43—it far exceeded any of past years. The grounds are commodious and remarkably well adapted for an entertainment of this kind and were very prettily decorated for the occasion. The Chairman, Rev. J. C. Dixon, rector, discharged the duties of the office in his usual able and efficient manner and the many interesting numbers of the programme, consisting of music, recitations and addresses, were enjoyed by one and all. The Tweed Band were present and rendered a variety of selections that added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. To the untiring efforts of the ladies is due no small share of the credit for the success of this delightful event.

FRANKFORD.

Mr. William Vandervoort is able to be on his foot again.

The Gypsy Queen's of West Huntingdon were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCurdy, on Sunday last.

Miss Ethel James and Mr. Parish of Trenton, were guests of her aunt, Mrs. Albert Chapman, Sunday.

Mrs. Bodin, of Brighton, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Parker Corneil for a few days.

GARDENVILLE.

The Strawberry crop for next year will be light owing to the White Grub which are destroying the vines.

Mrs. Doc. Chase and family spent last week visiting friends in Stockdale.

Mrs. George Snider, of Brighton, former resident here died last Sunday.

Mr. B. Brickman sold his estate here to Mr. George Phillips.

Mr. S. Young has improved his residence by a new coat of paint.

Mrs. A. Swan and daughter, of Buffalo, are visiting her father, Mr. A. Young.

Mrs. J. Vandusen is slowly improving in health.

NOTED SHORT STORY WRITER.

Sarah Orne Jewett's Explanation of How She Became an Author.

Sarah Orne Jewett, who recently died at her summer home in South Berwick, Maine, was known for forty years as writer of brilliant short stories of down east country life. She was a pioneer in the field. It was she who made story lovers feel at home in the stiff down east parlors and the prim village streets trodden by the descendants of the Puritans.

Indeed, this clew not merely to her quality as a writer, but her character as a woman, is best expressed in her own explanation of how she came to write. "When I was perhaps fifteen," she said, "the first city boarders began to make their appearance near Berwick, and the way they misconstrued the country people and made game of their peculiarities fired me with indignation. I determined to teach the world that country people were not the awkward, ignorant set those persons seemed to think. I wanted the world to know their grand, simple lives, and so far as I had a mission when I first began to write I think that was it."

Miss Jewett was a woman of charming personality. Although her early education was obtained entirely in her little country home town, it was under the best auspices, for her people were well descended and educated. To this early education and her own natural gifts were added the broadening influences of travel and association. Her intimacy with Mrs. James T. Field at an early age opened to her the doors of the most cultured society in Boston and in Europe, and therefore she was enabled to look upon the people of whom she wrote from a dual point of view.

The author's birthplace and home is a beautiful colonial house, built over 150 years ago, in the old town of South Berwick, Me. Sl. was born in 1849. Her father, Dr. Theodore H. Jewett, was a highly educated physician and a professor in the medical department of Bowdoin College. In "A Country Doctor" is found a glimpse of their happy companionship. Indeed, it was under her wise father's supervision that she obtained most of her education. Much of her time was spent in browsing in his excellent library.

Miss Jewett's first story was accepted by The Atlantic Monthly purely on its merits when she was twenty years old. "Deephaven" was her first success. Since then she had published a long list of books. She traveled extensively.

In personal appearance Miss Jewett was tall and dignified, with a well bred grace and courtesy of manner. She had a bright and piquant face and a low, musical voice. In conversation she was bright and interesting, selecting her words with a quick discrimination. She possessed a keen wit.

The Gladiator.

Do you know the origin of the word "gladiator?" We'll tell you:

Marcus Antoqus and his wife were out one day for a spin on the Adriatic, and Octavia, the mother-in-law, was there. The question arose as to what they should call the new fighters in the arena, and Octavia got so abusive about it that she slipped and fell overboard. Now, sharks were much larger in those days, and one was ready, waiting, with his mouth open. Marcus rushed to the side just in time to see the last of his mother-in-law. Then, being overjoyed at the kindness of the shark, he cried:

"I'm glad he ate her! I'm glad he ate her! I'm glad he ate her!"

Hence the new word for these fighters, and Marcus' first duty on getting back to Rome was to "call or see 'em," because he had a new name "for 'em."—London Scraps.

A Sudden Thing.

It is generally the easiest thing in the world to drive a horse without spirit, but there is one recorded instance where a coach driver in a remote English rural district covered himself with glory for doing so. One afternoon he and his coach and four came rattling up to the hotel door like an avalanche. As the coach stopped one of the horses dropped dead.

"That was a very sudden death," remarked a bystander.

"That sudden!" coolly responded the driver. "That 'oss died at the top of the hill two miles back, sir, but I wasn't goin' to let him down till I got to the regular stoppin' place."

Answered.

A group of men were discussing politics. A young fellow joined in the conversation, but his argument did not please the others, and one of them said to him:

"You are wonderfully well preserved, sir," was the immediate and crushing reply.

Rice In Formosa.

In the seventeenth century a number of Chinese immigrants brought into Formosa seed rice, which they cultivated in the Chinese way, producing larger quantities and better grain than was produced by the Formosans, who had cultivated rice from early times and had produced therefrom a distilled spirit of drinking. The Formosans adopted the Chinese manner of cultivation.

Paraguay Tea.

When the yerba mate, or native tea of Paraguay, is cultivated the seeds are treated to an acid bath before planting. This softens the hard shell which surrounds the kernel of the seeds and enables them to sprout in three or four months. If planted in their natural state it requires three or four years for the seeds to germinate.

An Unfounded Rumor.

"Mrs. Muchmore told me," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "that the new minister came in his vestments when he officiated at your daughter's wedding."

"It ain't true," replied her hostess as she flung one of her ropes of pearls over the back of a ninety dollar rocking chair. "We brought him over in our automobile."

TORPEDO BATTLESHIPS.

They Are the Latest Machine For Naval Warfare.

Naval architects, apparently carried away by the wonders of the Dreadnought, have recently been pinning their faith to the "all-big-gun" ship and have apparently lost sight of the fact that since the end of the Russo-Japanese war the size and power of the destroyer has rapidly increased and likewise the torpedo, the latest type being 21 inches in diameter with an effective range of 7,000 yards. Working on the lines that one torpedo well "home" is of more destructive power than a dozen big shells, pointing as an example the Russian battleship, Kniaz Suvaroff, which at Tsushima received fourteen terrible blows from the Japanese big 12-inch guns alone, and yet continued to steam and fight, the Austrian naval experts have designed a huge heavily-armored ship to carry thirty torpedo-tubes placed twelve in front of the foremost funnel, eight between the fore and midship funnels, and eight between the after-midship funnel and the aft smokestack, whilst a further couple of tubes will be placed right aft. She will also be fitted to carry a gun but little better than our 4.7 weapon, presumably for repelling torpedo-boat attack and commerce destruction. Her bulging sides and rounding decks, all heavily armored, will be constructed to throw off the heavy projectiles of her enemies whilst she is steaming into effective range, and with the speed of three knots faster than any big-gun ship afloat she will be able to out-manoeuvre them.

If constructed on the lines described in the Austrian semi-official naval paper she will present a curious appearance at sea, lying fairly low in the water, with four large funnels, three together forward and one right aft a light superstructure, and masts with only her twenty-two guns showing as her armament. Her turbines and boilers will develop 36,000 horse-power, her tonnage will be approximately 15,000 tons, and her cost is estimated at $1,500,000.

With shipbuilding for war purposes in such an active and progressive state all over the world anything seems possible, but a big armored ship relying on her speed and torpedoes for offensive power seems a product of the distant future. Yet—who knows?—as the torpedo itself caused a revolution in naval warfare, as the advent of the Dreadnought caused an upheaval in battleship construction, so may the torpedo battleship cause the world widespread fear and excitement in the near future, perhaps.

Puzzle Among Nations.

The Basque Provinces lie in the north of Spain, and although for centuries students have tried to trace the real origin of the people and find a key to their language they have failed to do so.

The race is a Catholic one, says The Cleveland Plain Dealer, and their devotion to the Catholic faith is so firm that it is commonly said the devil gave them up as a hopeless object of his sinister attentions, simply because he could never understand or master their language.

All other known tongues spoken by the sons of men have been shown to possess a common origin, traceable to the Arabic and Hermitic. But the Basque language has entirely resisted the philologist. In some aspects the vernacular shows traces of a Chinese admixture; in others it is clear that North American Indian terms are native to it. It also shows traces of barbaric languages spoken on the east coast of Africa.

The people themselves bear physiological traits found in those who speak the said tongues. The native name of Basqueland is Eskuara, and their motto is "Iruracbat," or "three in one." Nor is their political structure anything like that of any known political body, though they belong, of course, to Spain.

Past His Knowledge.

Having decreed that a woman must be polite to her husband, a learned judge immediately was accosted by one of the sex.

"Your decision might fit some cases," she admitted, "but when the husband has forgotten to mail her letters, speaks unseemly of her mother and without warning brings a friend home to dinner"—

The judge, being a learned judge indeed, had had the presence of mind to adjourn court while the questions were being formulated.

"Madam," he rejoined meekly, "I am now but a humble citizen and not entitled to an opinion."

Objection to Women Golfers.

"Farmers don't mind renting their fields to golfers, but they are strongly opposed to women."

"Why?"

"Because women golfers are always losing hairpins and hatpins and stickpins in the grass. Follow the trail of a women's foursome, and I'll guarantee you a cushionful of pins at the end of the ninth hole."

"But why do farmers mind that?"

"Because afterward, when his cattle graze in those fields, they swallow pins. Pins, I needn't tell you, are injurious to health."

Mexico's Rainy Season.

What they call the rainy season in Mexico comes only in the form of showers, which fall in the afternoon. These showers usually occur every day, but sometimes there will be two or three days of perfectly clear weather. There is no steady downpour, however, as in most tropical countries, and in Mexico the rainy season is regarded as the finest season of the year.

Just a Lawyer.

"Has your son had any success as a lawyer?"

"Well, no; to tell the truth, he hasn't. He has been practicing now for nearly eleven years, and he has never been elected to the Legislature or been appointed receiver for anything or even become president of any railroad company. It begins to look as if he may have to eke out a living just practicing law."

AT THE BEEHIVE
Chas. N. Sulman.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

Take Your Pick While the Picking is Good

Could you use another suit at a price? We believe you can and will, after you learn the value of the suit and the price that will buy it. We're going to do some great stunts in the way of suit selling and have taken all broken lines of Men's Suits which have been selling all season for $6.50, $7.50 to $8,50, placed them by themselves and now offer them to first comers for just

$5.00

We want no carry overs and of course to do this we must be willing to accept a loss. We would rather count the money than carry the stock. If your size should be missing from one line you are sure to find it in another.

We have placed a few in our South Window look at them and match them if you can.

Boy Was Run Over By An Ice Wagon.

Norman Phillips, eleven-year-old son of Mr. N. Phillips, residing on Charles street, yesterday morning was the victim of an accident, which fortunately was not as serious as at first reported. The little fellow was riding on an ice wagon when he fell off and one of the wheels of the wagon passed over him. He sustained a severe scalp wound and severe bruises about the body. Norman was conveyed to the hospital, where his injuries were attended to., and no serious results are anticipated.

Boys Are Stealing Forbidden Fruit.

Complaints have been made to the police that boys in various parts of the city have been raiding gardens, stealing apples and other fruit. In some cases they have done damage to trees and bushes. If the culprits are caught in the act or found out they will be severely dealt with.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES P. BRADLEY.

Mr. Charles P. Bradley, who resided on South George street, died yesterday afternoon after a few days' illness. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. Deceased, who was 36 years of age, was born in England, and had lived in this city only two years. He was an employee of the Belleville Hardware Company and was a man who was well liked by his fellows. Mr. Bradley was a member of St. John's church. A wife and small family survive.

The Band Concert

More ideal conditions for an al fresco band concert than those of last night it would be hard to imagine, and many people went down to Q. V. park and let the mosquitoes bite them while they listened to the music handed out in clever fashion by Bandmaster Robinson, of the Fifteenth Band, and his merry men. A nice programme of popular music was played. A pleasing feature was a cornet solo by Mr. J. Burgess, who did some nifty triple tongueing.

Joyce Doing Well.

Wm. Joyce, who a few evenings ago was severely wounded on the head in a fracas at Point Ann, is progressing nicely, notwithstanding reports to the contrary.

Harris-Calman

At the residence of Rev. R. M. Pope, Albert street yesterday afternoon, Mr. Wareham T. Harris, of Madoc, and Mrs. Jennie Calman, of Ameliasburg, were married. The couple, who are somewhat advanced in years, were attended by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Calman, of Thurlow.

EXPLODING SUBMARINE MINES.

Ships to be blown up on the Waterfront at Exhibition Grounds.

The submarine mine which plays such an important part in naval warfare will be part of the military display at the Canadian National Exhibition. These hidden guardians of every port in war time will be laid in front of the Exhibition grounds and every day at 5 o'clock a ship will be blown up by one of them. There is nothing more spectacular than what happens to a ship when it runs on to one of these hidden dangers of the deep.

HAVE YOU A SNEEZING COLD?

Is your head stuffed up? Are you snifling; gag in the throat; fullness in the nostrils; eyes watery and weak; You have all the symptoms of Catarrh, the kind that hangs right on unless stamped out. For quick relief and sure cure, inhale the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone. It passes over the raw irritated membranes, leaves antiseptic soothing balms on the spots that need medication. You feel better in an instant. Every breath of Catarrhozone means cure. In half an hour you're well. Nothing so magical, so safe, so pleasant as Catarrhozone. It's good for Catarrh, Bronchitis, and Asthma; cures them so thoroughly as it does a simple cold. The dollar outfit contains a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler and sufficient liquid to last two months, small trial size 50c. all dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

An Explanation re The Sewerage Scheme

In connection with the above, an impression seems to prevail amongst many that the trunk sewers are merely 9-inch tile. On enquiry the City Engineer informs us that the trunk sewers are in all cases 24 inches at the outlet, being graded from 15 inches upwards on standard methods of grades and velocities. Those fronting on streets having such trunks, however, only pay the frontage cost as for a 9-inch tile, of which the printed notice speaks. This likely has given rise to the false impression mentioned.

It might be stated also, in this connection, that all sanitary conveniences, baths, lavatories, closets, etc., all drain into this scheme. Here again parties have thought that bath water is debarred.

This explanation should set at rest any further doubts as to the limiting of the usefulness or the capacity of the intended scheme.

Canada's Oldest Piper is Dead.

Beaverton, Ont., Aug. 4.— Lachlan McNeil, the oldest bagpiper in Canada, died last night at his home, Portage road, Thorah Township. Mr. McNeil was born in Islay, Scotland, in November, 1808. His hundredth birthday was celebrated last November by a gathering of Beaverton Scotchmen on the farm which Lachlan McNeil took up in 1847, and on which he died.

At the birthday celebration Piper Lunan filled Piper McNeil's bagpipes and the old man fingered the tune he had played when he had won a prize at the wedding of the late Duke of Argyle, playing on a set of bagpipes made by himself.

Rural Teachers Want Higher Salaries.

SUPPLY IS SHORT AND PROPERLY QUALIFIED PERSONS CANNOT BE OBTAINED FOR LESS THAN $400 PER ANNUM.

"As the time approaches for the reopening of the rural schools, it becomes necessary to draw attention once more to the available supply of teachers for vacancies occuring at this season. I may say that from the experience of a number of trustee boards who have been advertising for teachers possessing the legal qualifications, it appears that no one so qualified can be secured for any salary less than $400."

POLICE DOGS.

The use of dogs as guardians of the public welfare and in the detection and capturing of criminals in Europe is interestingly described from information gathered by Consul General Diederica, in Antwerp, and Consul Johnson in Liege. There are in Germany nearly 500 police departments where dogs are used in the work. In France, the Common Council of Paris is earnestly discussing the advisability of spending about $2,500 a year for the development of the police-dog system.

The difficult and wonderful feats accomplished by the Belgian shepherd dog are strikingly shown. The animal is required to undergo a long, difficult training for attack, defense and scouting. Several animals which came up for civil service examination won diplomas by going through the training lessons with remarkable accuracy and intelligence. The service of the police dog includes guarding any object in the absence of its master; defense of its master when suddenly attacked; tracing individuals; making known hiding places by barking without biting; and keeping individuals at bay until the arrival of its master. If fight is attempted, the dog must attack and follow the fugitive.

When a man pretends to strike the policeman, the dog becomes savage and leaps at the throat of the aggressor. Though prevented by the muzzle from seizing such aggressor, the dog will throw himself against the chest with sufficient force to knock down the strongest man. A 50-pound dog, well trained, can easily throw a powerful man while on the run.

Police dogs are also being used at Rotterdam and in about 30 towns in Belgium. Great difficulty was experienced in selecting the animal best adapted to such service, but the Belgian shepherd dog finally was chosen. He was found to be the most intelligent, possessed of remarkable qualities of endurance, an excellent watch dog, active and courageous. It is contended that no matter how well trained police dogs may be they can be of little practical use in large cities or densely populated quarters. The best results are obtained in suburban districts where night watchmen patrol a large territory.

Japanese Self-Control.

The Japanese are trained to conceal unhappy feelings and only to publish to the world the record of things bright and cheerful. Of this wise discipline of self Lafcadio Hearn gives a good instance in his "Kokoro":

"I had a male servant in the house who seemed to me to be the happiest of mortals. He laughed invariably when spoken to, looked always delighted at work and appeared to know nothing of the small troubles of life. But one day I peeped at him when he thought himself quite alone, and his relaxed face startled me. It was not the face I had known. Hard lines of pain and anger appeared in it, making it seem twenty years older. I coughed quietly to announce my presence, and at once the face smoothed, softened, lighted up as if by miracle. It was a miracle, indeed, of perpetual and unselfish control."

Vastly Different.

As will be seen, it makes a great difference how one uses the muscular resources at one's command. A member of an athletic club, after swimming the length of the large tank in the basement of the institution, came out puffing and blowing, apparently exhausted.

"You don't manage your breathing right," said the swimming instructor. "It ought not to tire you so. As to the upper part of your body, including your arms, you use exactly the same muscles and in very much the same way in swimming as in sawing wood."

"No, sir!" gasped the swimmer. "When it comes to sawing wood I use the muscles of some other man."

Her Apology.

The local singer was resenting mildly to the hostess the large amount of praise which her guests was bestowing upon the visiting vocalist.

"They didn't applaud me that way," he complained.

"Oh, well, you know," she said apologetically and sympathetically, "he is a visitor whom we don't hear often, while we think of you as the Bible says, 'The poor we have with us always.'"

Then she was very much hurt because he refused to accept her apology and left the house in a huff.

Like a Cat on a Wall.

A Scotch Highland minister was very fond of commenting on each verse as he read it out. On reading the precept, "Walk circumspectly," he said: "Ye've all seen a cat, my brethren, walking on the top o' a wall covered wi' broken bottles and bits of glass. See hoo it lifts ae fit and then anither fit and hoo slowly and carefully it puts it doon to keep clear of the sharp bits of glass. And so, my brethren, in this warld o' snares and pitfalls we should be like the cat on the wall—we should walk circumspectly."

Wasteful.

"It's too bad," said little Bessie, "that there isn't another little Peters boy."

"They have six," said her mother. "I should consider that about enough."

"Well," said the little girl, "they can all take each other's clothes as they grow up, but there isn't any one to take little Johnnie's, and it seems kind of wasteful."

Not Quite Certain.

"How many children have you?" said the tourist affably.

"I dunno exactly," answered the tired looking woman.

"You don't know?"

"Not for certain. Willie's gone fishin', Tommy's breakin' in a colt, Georgie's borrowed his father's shotgun to go huntin' an' Esmeralda Ann is thinkin' of elopin'. I never know how many I've got till supper time comes, so's I can count 'em."

$1,200 In Fines.

Owen Sound, Aug. 5.—Fines totalling $1,150 were collected yesterday from three hotels and one drug store, for selling liquor contrary to the local option law, as a result of a campaign by Chief Inspector John Ayearst.

Leaves Two Millions to Pope.

Rome, Aug. 5.—The will of the late Don Carlos, the Pretender of the throne of Spain, leaves to the Pope works of art and money to a total of $2,000,000.

Fined For Blocking Road.

Chatham, Aug. 5.—Conductor Sylvester Pitt of London was found guilty of allowing his C.P.R. train to block Raleigh street crossing for 14 minutes on July 27, and was fined $1 and costs, $9 in all, in the Police Court yesterday. Magistrate Houston stated that in future heavier penalties would be imposed. City Solicitor Lewis stated that the city is going to rigidly enforce the law.

Caused Collision to Prevent Arrest.

Sebastopol, Russia, Aug. 5.—Lieut. Aquilonoff, in command of the submarine sunk off Sebastopol last June by collision with a battleship, with the loss of twenty lives, has been sentenced to five years' penal servitude for embezzling naval funds. The newspapers accuse Aquilonoff of intentionally causing the collision to hush up the embezzlement charges.

Typhoid at Brockville.

Brockville, Aug. 5.—Brockville's two hospitals are treating 31 typhoid cases which have developed within a week or two past. Suspicions are cast on the milk and water supply, and samples of both are being analyzed. Meantime citizens are boiling water.

A Peculiar Accident.

North Bay, Aug. 5.—Emma Dubo, a young woman of eighteen years, from Wanup, was walking with her sister along the track when wings of the gravel plow struck her full in the face, breaking her nose, and cutting and lacerating her face.

A Tragic Death.

Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 5.—Wm. R. Mitchell, a graduate of Brown University this year, was killed by eight tons of pig-iron which broke through a ceiling and fell upon him while he was at his desk.

Perhaps Fatally Hurt.

Guelph, Aug. 5.—Arthur Skinner, commercial traveler, brother of Dr. Skinner, sustained serious injuries yesterday morning and may not recover. Falling from a load of hay, he was trampled under the feet of the frightened horses.

With the intention of working on the farm for a short time for his health, Skinner had gone to the country. Yesterday morning was his first on the farm.

New Fisheries Regulations.

Ottawa, Aug. 5.—Information has been received by the Government to the effect that the new international regulations to govern the fisheries of Canada and the United States agreed to by Prof. E. E. Prince and Prof. David Starr Jordan will not go into effect until 1911. They will be published simultaneously in December next, so that a full year's notice will be given to all concerned.

Child Killed by Train.

Hagersville, Aug. 5.—Yesterday morning about five miles from Hagersville, the two-year-old son of Mrs. J. Fyle, while playing on the railway track, was struck and instantly killed by a train.

About 18 months ago the child's father, during a snowstorm, was killed about the same place by the train.

The crossing is a level one.

Loses Hand In Threshing Machine.

St. Mary's, Aug. 5.—At the farm of W. H. Graham, when John McMaster, employed by R. S. Lang, implement agent, had his left hand taken off just above the wrist in the cutting box of a new threshing machine which was being put in operation for the first time. McMaster was helping to put up the machine.

I.C.R. Loss by Fire.

Halifax, Aug. 5.—The loss to the I.C.R. as a result of fire at Richmond will be under $10,000. Twenty-four cars were burned, including 1 box cars, one flat car and ten coal hoppers. There was between 1,000 and 1,500 tons of coal in the shed, and half of it was lost.

Orders an Aeroplane.

Plainfield, N.J., Aug. 5.—Although he knows little about aviation at present, Howard Colby has ordered an aeroplane from the Wright Bros., to be delivered in two months. The price is $5,000.

Czar Goes Ashore.

Cowes, Aug. 5.—Emperor Nicholas who is here on a visit to King Edward, came ashore from the Imperial yacht Standart yesterday afternoon for the first time since his arrival last Monday, and in company with King Edward, visited the naval station at Osborne. Their Majesties drove in a closed brougham.

Before returning to the British Royal yacht Victoria and Albert for luncheon, Emperor Nicholas and King Edward visited Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester.

Sugar Beets In the West.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 5.—It is yet impossible to determine what the yield of sugar beets will be this year, but everything points to even more favorable returns than last year, when from $40 to $116 an acre was paid.

Colleges Cause Race Suicide.

Boston, Aug. 5.—Prof. Emerick of Smith College, a leading educator here, says that the modern college is responsible for race suicide and for the prudence of families which bars infants.

EXPRESS IS DITCHED

Atlantic Is Wrecked at Woman River and Several Hurt.

Two Pullman Coaches, One Observation Car and a First-Class Car Are Piled Up In Ditch and a Number of Passengers Are Injured, But Names Cannot Be Obtained Yet—None Are Seriously Hurt.

North Bay, Aug. 6.—The C.P.R. Atlantic Express, due at North Bay at 8.55 last night, was ditched at Woman River, 200 miles west of here, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Details are meagre as yet but it is known that the express was speeding along at good rate when, without warning, the passengers were startled by terrible shocks and the crash of smashing timbers as the cars left the rails, buckled and reared, and then rolled down a six-foot embankment.

Two Pullmans, one observation car and a first-class car were piled up in the ditch and investigation revealed a number of passengers injured, but none seriously as far as has been ascertained. The names of the injured passengers cannot be obtained yet.

The cause of the accident is unknown here. Traffic was delayed from five to ten hours.

Payne Tariff Bill Signed.

Washington, D.C., Aug. 6.—In the midst of a heavy thunderstorm, President Taft late yesterday afternoon signed the Payne tariff bill, adding to his signature, "signed five minutes after five o'clock, Aug. 5, 1909. W.H.T." He used a pearl pen sent from the Phillipines for the purpose, and which he presented to Congressman Payne.

The President joked merrily with those who were present.

The new tariff becomes law to-day. The President issued a statement last night declaring that while the measure is not by any means perfect, it is a sincere and honest effort to carry out platform pledges and embodies a real revision downward.

Entitled to Month's Notice.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 6.—Judge Finlayson yesterday decided against the Dominion Coal Co. in a test case brought to evict Angus Young, one of the U.M.W. miners, from one of the company-owned houses. Young's defence was that he was illiterate and had been unable to read the agreement he signed with the company and which he believed was simply an agreement to pay $3.50 per month rental. The judge held that the agreement was not a lease and that the tenant was entitled to a month's notice of removal.

Two Marine Accidents.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 6.—After lightering about 500 tons of pig iron from the cargo of the Canadian steamer Mapleton, ashore on Grave Island shoal, near Detour, the vessel was released with her fore peak full of water. The accident occurred in a dense fog, the boat being on her maiden trip up the lakes.

The steamer Gargentwa, belonging to Ganley Bros. here, struck something while making the turn near the dark hole yesterday morning, and it was necessary to beach her.

Bribing Deposed Shah.

Teheran, Aug. 6.—It is understood that the Government has now offered Mohammed Ali, the deposed Shah, an annual pension of $75,000 on condition that he will deliver up the jewels enumerated in the Nationalist inventory, or inform the Government how he disposed of the missing gems. It is believed that Mohammed Ali will accept this new offer, and his departure from Persia, probably for Russia, is expected within a fortnight.

Bisley Team Nears Home.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—A wireless message received here last night from Captain Fairfull of the Tunisian, due here to-day, gives the following members of the Bisley team as being on board: Mercer, Jones, Gougeon, Mortimer, Blackburn and Bloomfield. Captain Fairfull also adds: "All well, delightful passage."

ANDERSON ARRAIGNED

Bank Clerk Charged With Forgery Is Back in Toronto.

Young Man Who Was Captured In Vancouver While Trying to Cash a Check Appears In Police Court—Has Had a Long Tour of Europe and America—Two Little Stamps Responsible For His Success.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—John E. G. Anderson, the young Bank of Montreal clerk, who was arrested in Vancouver, B.C., charged with forging checks in various parts of the world, was brought back to Toronto last evening by Detective Alex. Murray. To Murray he has admitted having forged two checks cashed by the T. Eaton Co. for $50 and $75.

Anderson says the toughest proposition he ran up against was a pawn broker in Chicago. He was pawning some articles and suggested that if he could only find a bank open he'd be alright, as he had a marked check for $200.

The markings and other endorsations satisfied the broker and he said he'd cash it, but insisted on a 10 per cent. discount. After considerable parley, Anderson got $180 for the paper and bought the broker a cigar in the bargain.

He says he had a good time in his various rambles, and met City Treasurer Coady at the Hotel Cecil, London. His itinerary included Buffalo, New York, Liverpool, London, Paris, back to New York, to Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, one day in Toronto, when he cashed the checks, Detroit, St. Paul, Denver, Seattle, Victoria, and finally Vancouver. He was trying to pass a $100 check when caught.

His success was due, he told Detective Murray, to two rubber stamps, "Entered" and "Marked" which he had made in the States.

In the Police Court this morning his counsel, T. C. Robinette, K. C., reserved election and plea and asked for a week's remand. He appears in good spirits and in splendid health.

Stockholm Famine Grows.

Stockholm, Aug. 6.—Stockholm today is suffering seriously from a shortage of food, a result of the labor conflict. Bread is held at terms practically prohibitive. the restaurant prices for meals are very high.

The strikers themselves are living practically on fish. Thousands of them are camping out and spend their time in angling.

Soldiers are distributing milk in limited quantities and supervising the sale from milk cars at the railroad stations. Deliveries of ice have ceased.

Paupers from the state poor houses have been enlisted to replace the striking grave-diggers and undertakers, and instead of hearses, stretchers are being used to carry corpses through the streets to the cemeteries under military escort.

Catholic Foresters' Rates.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—Although the motion to increase the rates of the Catholic Order of Foresters carried yesterday, the two-thirds vote required was not obtained, consequently the matter is tied up for the present.

The officers elected are: High Chief Ranger, Thomas Cannon, Chicago; high vice-chief, F. X. Bilodeau, Montreal; high secretary, Thomas F. McDonald, Chicago; high treasurer, H. G. Keller, Appleton, Wis.; high medical examiner, Dr. J. P. Smyth, Chicago; high trustees, Thomas P. Flynn, Chicago; J. A. Collier, Shakogee, Minn.; M. J. Herbert, Cleveland; J. G. Stephen, Chicago; S. Viger, Lawrence, Mass.; M. H. Kern, Menominee, Mich.; L. J. Nichoff, Chicago; J. E. McGuiley, Chicago. Auditors, C. C. Kolars; Lesueur Cener, Minneapolis.

Gold Fields In North.

Haileybury, Aug. 6.—Word has been received here of rich finds of gold quartz in Whitney Township, 12 miles west of Matheson, or about a hundred miles north of Cobalt. Other finds are said to have been made in Munroe and Ginbord Townships.

Haileybury men are heavily interested in the new gold fields, and it is reported here that some of the discoveries assay as high as 400 ounces of gold to the ton.

Boy Killed at Play.

Kingston, Aug. 6.—Stanley Sharpe, the 17-year-old son of Major Sharpe, Barrie street, was fatally injured at Lake Ontario Park Wednesday evening. He was swinging two other lads when an iron bar attached to the swing broke at the cross-beam and crashed down on his head. He died yesterday.

Double Tragedy at Railway Crossing.

Wawanesa, Man., Aug. 6.—Mrs. H. H. Grainger, aged 37, of Moosomin, and Mrs. F. H. Grainger, her sister-in-law, aged 30, of Wawanesa, were killed through the horse they were driving being frightened and dashing into the train from Souris to Winnipeg.

Seized Carload of Beer.

Port Arthur, Aug. 6.—Dominion Police Commissioner Quibell made a new record at Superior Junction Tuesday by the seizure of an entire carload of bottle beer, ultimately intended for sale within the prohibited territory of the Transcontinental Railway.

To Sell The Gillies Limit.

Ontario Government Will Dispose of 380 Acres of Land.

Prospectus Is Issued of Public Silver Property Which Was Exempted From Settlement at Beginning of Cobalt Rush—Thirty Acres Lie Just South of the Famous Nipissing—Work Done on Property.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—The sale of the provincial mine on the Gillies' Limit, which comprises some 30 acres immediately south of the Nipissing mine and Cart Lake, has been decided on by the Ontario Government.

The other portions of the limit, which have not been previously disposed of, about 350 acres in extent, will also be offered for sale at the same time. These have been divided into 20 parcels. Surface prospecting has been done on these.

Public tenders will be received for the purchase of the properties up till September 13.

The conditions of sale include the payment of 10 per cent. royalty at the mouth of the pit, which should net a substantial revenue to the province.

An official prospectus of the condition of the mine, with particulars of its operations and the results achieved is being prepared by Thomas W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Mines, after conference with Hon. Frank Cochrane for the guidance of intending purchasers.

It is understood that the Government experts thus set free from actual mining operations, will be utilized to make further explorations on the limit.

Diamond drilling in July on a vein in the provincial mine on the eastern boundary of the property near the Savage claim, resulted in a strike of ore at a depth of 125 feet, while two or three other veins were cross cut deeper down. A shaft has been sunk here to a depth of 70 feet.

There is also another shaft 140 feet deep on another vein, with levels at 65 and 125 feet respectively.

There are good buildings and a good boiler and compressor plant on the property, with all the other machinery necessary for the working of the mine.

Three cars of ore have been shipped to date, two of cobalt and one of silver, and there is still some ore in stock.

Canadian Bounties.

London, Aug. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Respecting bounty-fed steel, The Glasgow Herald asks the grave question: "Is it right from an imperial viewpoint that Canada should grant bounties on the production of material exported in competition with the Mother Country? Is it right that bountied Canadian iron should be shipped over to the Mother Country if it is to be there sold against British iron?

"This question of bounties on manufactures within the Empire will have to be fought out. It should be one of the subjects taken up with earnestness at the next Imperial Conference."

Hebrew Bakers Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 6.—A strike of the Hebrew bakers in the city is beginning to assume considerable importance. Wednesday five of the strikers were arrested and yesterday morning seven more warrants were sworn out, as the result of the wrecking of a bakery by a mob. Yesterday morning a bread wagon was demolished in the street and the driver assaulted. Another wagon was stoned. The situation is a serious one, for the eight or ten thousand Jewish residents of the northeast quarter of the city, as many families are unable to get any bread at all.

Stolen Bank Bills Circulating.

Kingston, Aug. 6.—Some of the Traders' Bank bills stolen a few months ago from the Dominion Express car between Ottawa and Toronto are being put in circulation in the northern part of Frontenac County, and station agents, storekeepers, etc., have been notified to be on the watch for them. Detectives are at work. The bills are all of one denomination, namely, $5, and are only partly signed.

Rabies Will Be Fatal.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—Advices have been received from the Pasteur Institute, New York, that there is no hope for the three-year-old son of Bert Martin, Elgin street, bitten here by a mad dog, owing to the lapse of time before treatment was administered.

It was three weeks before the analysis of the dog's head was made, determining that it had had rabies.

Guilty of Serious Crime.

Edmunston, N.B., Aug. 6.—Huband Michaud, charged with obstructing the free use of the Temiscouata Railroad, by placing ties on the track, was found guilty by a jury before Judge Carleton. The only direct evidence was given by a son, Paul Michaud, aged 14, who was at first arrested with his father, but later turned crown's evidence.

Kinrade Not Appointed.

Hamilton, Aug. 6.—T. L. Kinrade will not resume his position as principal of the Cannon street school. The committee of the Board of Education re-engaged all the other teachers. Mr. Kinrade did not apply for re-appointment.

Ottawa Boy Drowns.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—Edmund Normoyle, aged 11, son of Patrick Normoyle, Cumberland street, was drowned in the Rideau Canal last evening. He took cramps. His little brother and two other youngsters saw him drown.

Chain Works Closed.

Sarnia, Aug. 6.—The Standard Chain Co. has been closed indefinitely. The losses of the company have amounted to about $1,000 a week.

The company will refund to the town a bonus of $12,000.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Edward Goring, aged 14, was drowned at Bracebridge.

Gen. Charles Louis Tremeau has been appointed commander-in-chief of the French army, in succession to Gen. De La Croix.

"Bob" Burdette, humorist and Baptist preacher, who is seriously ill at Los Angeles from an injury to the spine has been placed in a plaster cast.

The National Council, Knights of Columbus, will meet next year at Quebec. James A. Flaherty was elected supreme knight, and M. H. Carmody, D.S.K.

The Militia Department has issued certificates to 6,573 South African veterans and warrants have been issued by the exterior department to 6,259 ex-soldiers, 2,000 of whom have definitely located on the land.

Hon. G. P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, who have been in Europe for some weeks, will sail for Quebec on the Empress of Ireland, on Friday, the 13th, and should reach Ottawa about the 21st. Mr. Oliver will then go to Seattle.

Four Men Drown.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Aug. 6.—A drowning accident, resulting in the loss of four lives, occurred here yesterday. A party of eight left the city for a pleasure resort opposite Charlottetown, in a lobster boat to prepare for a picnic to be held next Monday. It was necessary to land in a punt, a leaky craft. Seven of the men were on board it, and when half the distance had been traversed, sank. The drowned are: Ephraim Gallant, Harry Gallant, James Barnett and Daniel McAuley. Ephraim Gallant leaves a widow and one son. The others were from 20 to 25, unmarried.

Half-Buried Rancher Dies.

Lethbridge, Alta., Aug. 6.—Norman Lewis Johnson, aged 36, single, a homesteader in Porcupine Hills, dug a hole beside a huge boulder, with the intention of burying it. The boulder, however, slipped in prematurely, half burying Johnson and forcing his pickage into the leg from ankle to knee. He was pinned there forty-eight hours before neighbors found and rescued him. He was hurried to Pincher Creek Hospital, where he soon died. His brother is a doctor in Toronto.

4,500 Men at Work.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 6.—The general situation at the collieries of the Dominion Coal Co. is considered satisfactory by the company, which has now 4,500 men at work, all told. Of these 3,000 are at work in the collieries, 2,200 being underground. The output Wednesday was 9,400 tons, an actual increase in the quantity taken from the collieries. The falling off is in the amount taken from the banks.

Fourteen men were arrested at No. 2 for loitering.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.
Transfiguration.
Tennyson born, 1809.

TIMELY TOPICS.

The Grim Reaper, these days, is busy among Belleville folk. He cometh like a thief in the night. May Heaven send its consolations to the afflicted ones.

◆ ◆ ◆

People who are skilled in reading the signs of the times look for a busy fall in this district. A busy fall, of course, helps to put spring in winter's trade.

◆ ◆ ◆

Talking about railroads, what particular good would it do to put the C. N. R., when it comes into this city, parallel with the present line of the G. T. R.? Is not one of the objections to the Grand Trunk the fact that its depot is situated so far from the business part of Belleville? Why, then, try to compel another line to locate as far off?

◆ ◆ ◆

The above pertinent questions are these days being asked by many people in Belleville, and when you come to think of it there appears to be a lot of sense in their line of talk. Let the road come where it will do the city and district the most good. That seems to be the view of the very large majority.

◆ ◆ ◆

Hon. Mr. Murphy, a member of the Laurier Cabinet, who has just returned from a tour in the Canadian West, says the people of that great and growing district are much more interested in box cars than they are in battleships. This remark, somehow, seems to be just what one would expect from Mr. Murphy, a gentleman who was pitchforked into the Laurier Cabinet as a matter of expediency. But most people will want proofs before they believe Mr. Murphy. There is such a thing as the wish being father to the thought.

◆ ◆ ◆

If you hear a couple of citizens, these days, talking a bit loud, don't be alarmed. They're probably discussing the sewerage question. And the same appears to be rather a red rag to a bull to some people.

◆ ◆ ◆

A High School pupil, in another column, indulges in some rather severe strictures on the Belleville High School. But then, as Mr. J. J. B. Flint will no doubt agree, it is much easier to write letters than it is to pay taxes.

◆ ◆ ◆

DO WE MAKE DISTINCTIONS?

Two men were discussing the case of a man (a native Bellevillian) who, it is said, does not treat his wife too well.

"Why," said one, "if one of these poor English immigrants was to treat his wife like that fellow does he'd be rode out of town on a rail."

Is that true, men and brethren?

◆ ◆ ◆

A delegate to the Imperial Defence Conference says things are going the wrong way, which sounds ominous. But then we can't tell what this particular delegate's point of view is. He may be a "Little Englander."

◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆

A medical expert now says that the Toronto lacrosse player who kicked another in the face was suffering from brain storm, as a result of being struck with the ball. Perhaps it was a high ball.

◆ ◆ ◆

Ontario Government will sell the Gillies limit. Now listen to the Globe exclaim: "Well, ain't that the limit?"

◆ ◆ ◆

Anderson, the young forger, is back in Toronto. He had a royal old time on his velvet, but will pay for it now. Honesty pays best in the long run.

◆ ◆ ◆

C. P. R. express was ditched at Woman River. Woman and trouble go together.

COST OF ADVERTISING TO BE DISCUSSED.

BY MEN WHO HAVE FOUND ITS WORTH.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4. — Advertising, its necessity in the conduct of every big business, and its legitimate place in American commerce, will be discussed at the fifth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which will meet here August 25, 26 and 27.

"I am spending $2,000,000 a year in advertising," says Frank Van Camp, of Indianapolis, "in order to create and stimulate a demand for something people haven't bought very largely before. I spent $100,000 in a week in New York City, and before the week was over I had to cut out advertising and give day and night orders to my factories."

Mr. Van Camp will speak on "Advertising, What It Is and Its Effect on the Consumer."

Hugh Chalmers was getting $72,000 a year as advertising and sales manager of the National Cash Register Company when he left that job to take the Presidency of the Chalmers-Detroit Company. "I didn't know anything about automobiles, but I did know something about advertising," explained Chalmers naively. He developed an idea for a new type of car, spent $28,000 in a week to let the country know about it—and sold 984 machines as a result. He also will speak.

Mrs. Seagram Dead

Berlin, Aug. 5.—Word reached here to-day of the death of Mrs. Joseph E. Seagram at Portland, Me., where she had been spending the past three weeks, being one of a party of six. Death was due to heart failure, and was entirely unexpected. The deceased was 63 years of age. She had been an active worker in the Anglican Church, and took great interest in all philanthropic work.

Unrestricted Reciprocity.

Unrestricted Reciprocity and Commercial Union are not yet dead, that is, so far as some citizens in the United States are concerned. An Illinois citizen suggests that in the tariff, which the Senate of the United States is now busily engaged in revising, there should be a clause inserted providing that "as soon as "the Canadian Confederation makes "its own tariff laws identical with "ours in all respects, there shall be "by mutual agreement complete free "trade between the two countries."

Upon this proposition of our Yankee friend the Toronto News comments:

> "This ingenious soul appears to believe that with the tariff wall levelled there would soon be a majority of all living west of the Ottawa in favor of political fusion with the United States. Had our Illinois correspondent been in Toronto on Pretoria night, or were he aware of the enthusiasm with which Canadians greet Mr. Chamberlain's name, he would long ago have been cured of his delusion."

While this is correct at the present moment, it is not many years ago, since the leaders of the Liberal party in Canada advocated as strenuously as the Illinois politician does to-day both unrestricted reciprocity and commercial union, the adoption of which they knew would result ultimately in a political union. So convinced of this were some of the more sensible of the party that they refused to be dragged into the vortex of a union with our neighbors—Edward Blake, the most talented of the crew, among them. Fortunately for the honor of parties in the Dominion to-day, the feeling of the reciprocity days no longer exists, except probably in the minds of a few, who care little for British connection or British institutions.

On Your Holidays.

When on your holidays take a package of our Travel Club Postcards with you. If you are a subscriber to The Intelligencer they will cost you fifteen cents, accompanied by three coupons cut from advertisement. Cannot be bought elsewhere. If they could be purchased outside of this office you would pay $1.00 or more a set for them. 18-6t

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

School Conditions.

Dear Mr. Editor,— We, enthusiastic pupils of the High School, having read the letters of Mr. Flint and others, feel compelled to voice the sentiments of the majority of the pupils in regard to the building of a Collegiate Institute.

We feel that we know better than others (who think they know it all) the exact condition of the present High School building. The equipment of the school from basement to garret is that of an establishment of thirty years ago. First, the class rooms are decidedly small for the number of pupils which they are obliged to accommodate, and the only hall which the building contains is so dark and narrow that in case of fire the pupils and teachers would run a dangerous risk. The heating and ventilation are probably the worst features of the school. They are such that the air in the room may be stiflingly hot, while the draught coming through the crack beneath the door thoroughly chills the feet of the pupils, thus causing severe colds in winter. On bright days the light is fair, but on dark or stormy days it is almost impossible to read even large print, and there being no means of artificial light, the result is that the eyes are often strained, as for the basement nothing need be said about that, as everyone who has ever been through the school has seen for himself the condition of affairs existing in that unsanitary place.

But people say we do not need a new school. There is that splendid institution, Albert College. Why can not the High School pupils attend that? Well, probably if the persons so anxious to fill Albert College would build a street car line running from the college might have been more the end of Bridge St. to College Hill pupils than it has. Again, are all the parents able to pay the fees which the college charges? We were under the impression that Ontario, like most of the other provinces in the Dominion, was supposed to have free education. We beg pardon if mistaken, but that is what we have always been taught. In our High School at present we have a staff of first-class teachers. One of these days when these teachers send in their resignations, the city will begin to wonder why first-class teachers should not be content to teach in a third-class school.

At any rate, if the passing generation fails to see and appreciate the need of a new school in our city, the growing generation does not, and if we ourselves cannot have the advantages we need, when the city passes into our hands our children shall go to a school which equals any in Ontario.

We remain, sir,

Yours respectfully,

F. F.

AQUATICS.

Trenton Regatta Will Be a Big Affair.

Trenton, Ont., Aug. 5. — Some 35 cups, valued at over five hundred dollars, are offered as prizes in the regatta to be held here on the 9th. Twenty-four of the cups will be given in sailing events, and eleven in the motor boat races.

Two special awards are the Porter cup, given by Mr. E. Guss Porter, of Belleville, for which the Trenton and Belleville motor boats will compete, and the famous oil painting, "The Rudder," given by Mr. T. Fleming Day to the club having the most entries at the regatta.

The fleets of Watertown, Rochester and Sodus Bay, Clayton, N.Y., R.C. Y.C., of Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Picton, Belleville, Cobourg, Napanee, Deseronto, Brighton and other points will be represented at the regatta.

Hepburn's dock will be used as an anchorage for the motor boats, and the cold storage dock for the yachts. Among the competitors will be the "Senaca," the famous winner of the Canada cup in 1907.

Fleets of motor boats from Watertown, Kingston, Picton, Napanee and Belleville will also be here, including the Red Devil, from Napanee, the 30-mile boat, as well as The Eel, Juanita, Wild Fire and other famous craft.

There are two sail boats in Trenton, the Portia and the Little Nell, that will give some of the visitors a hard run.

The sports will begin at 9 a.m. In the evening there will be an illumination in the harbor, and the band will play. A record crowd is expected.

EXHIBIT,

of specially selected plants and seed taken from seed plots of members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, Toronto Industrial Exhibition, Aug. 30 to Sept. 13, and Canada Central Exhibition, Ottawa, Sept. 10 to 18 inclusive. With a view to giving greater publicity to the work which is being done in Canada by the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in the improving of cultivated plants, and in order that a medium may be provided through which the officers of the Association may come in touch with a greater number of those who are specially interested in the problem of crop improvement, arrangements have been made to place a special educational exhibit of selected plants and seed in the Agricultural building of each of the above mentioned Fairs. The exhibit will be in charge of the Secretary or some other officer qualified to discuss the general work of the Association. It is to be hoped that a large number will take advantage of this opportunity to learn more of this important movement.—L. H. NEWMAN, Sec. C.S.G.A.

To Drive Away the Mall Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they did'nt get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine cases out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. You must tell your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use these columns.

ON THE TRENT ROAD.

The very atmosphere's a cure for care.
The peace that comes—(Honk-honk!) Hang those machines!
That automobile missed me by a hair.

The dew still lingers on the shining leaf;
The tree frog chirps within his green abode.
I love to hear the sweet—(Honk-honk!) The thief!
I wonder if he thinks he owns the road!

The woodland glades are passing fair to see;
There's poetry in each walk and shady tower.
The rapture of the season comes to me—

I love a country stroll, but what's the use?
Henceforth I'll stroll at home in my back yard.

OPTIMISTIC.

(Houston Post.)

"My wife is a very optimistic woman."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

The more bargains the less buy.

A man likes to be generous about something so he can feel what a fine fellow he is to do it.

The happier a man could make his wife by taking her on a trip with him, the more she oughtn't to expect it.

The first time a girl is engaged she is afraid other men will try to flirt with her; the next time that they won't.

When a woman says she has nothing fit to wear it's a sign she would be madder than a hornet if somebody else said it.

is always extended to those in distress, but we have no sympathy to waste on the man who borrows his neighbor's paper when he can have one of his own at a mere nominal expense. Your home paper stands for your interests and the interests of your home town. It deserves your moral and financial support. If you are not a member of our family of readers you should begin now by sending in your subscription.

One of the most welcome among the many exchanges which come to our desk is THE NEWS, of Toronto. THE NEWS has recently made wonderful advances, so much so that old friends of the paper would hardly recognize in this great Canadian newspaper the old News of a few years ago. THE NEWS now contains from fourteen to twenty pages each day, with twenty-four to thirty-two on Saturday. A specialty is made of political and Parliamentary news and questions affecting the welfare of the public receive fair editorial treatment by clever writers. We are safe in saying that there is no paper more widely quoted in Canada and its cartoons are reproduced by many of the leading journals. Through an arrangement made with THE NEWS we are able to offer The Intelligencer and THE NEWS in a club for one year at the remarkably cheap price of $4.00. a21-dtf

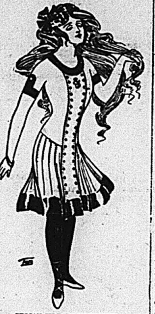
IN FASHION'S REALM.

Summer Frocks Turned Out by the "Little Seamstress."

MODISH PIQUE FOUR-IN-HANDS

Fascinating Effects In Swiss Negligees. A Conservative Though Smart Bathing Suit—"Swish" Sticks For Seashore Board Walks.

My Dear Elsa—For the last two weeks I have been up to my eyes in dressmaking. A "little seamstress," as the French call the undercrust of the couturiere class as distinguished from the great artists, has been here, making under my supervision some charming wash frocks. One is obliged this summer to have so many of these dresses, for it is going to be a muslin season, and is there anything more refreshing on a broiling day than a tub frock spick and span from the laundress? And in most of these frocks one's conscience is not troubled about the expense of doing them up, for the average home belle of the tubs can turn them out in fine form at short notice, as a number of the best styles are buttoned down the entire length of the front and open out in one solid piece like a sheet. You know the kind of one piece frock I mean that is so smart in linen and in the heavier wash goods. Several of my linen frocks have two waists, for you know how much longer a skirt keeps clean than a waist, and for this reason I have made two, a shirt waist for cool days and a jumper for hot ones. In some cases I have added a coat, though the fashion for top wraps of extra thin cloth has rather put the coat to the frock out of commission.



TUSCAN SILK BATHING SUIT.

As braiding is the keynote of almost every gown of the summer, I have developed soutache into all kinds of fanciful contortions. I am particularly happy over my success with a pale gray linen gown en princesse that has panels of braided white soutache that start under the arms, beginning at each side of the armhole and extending nearly to the knees. This is the very latest note in trimming arrangement, and I must tell you that the design is an Egyptian affair that looks intricate, but is nothing more than sharp pointed triangles placed close together—that is, as closely compact as they can be sewed together. To relieve the grayness of this gown there is a tiny touch of orange in the collar and about the cuffs, both of which have been braided. Worn with a big gray chip hat faced with orange and trimmed with shaded marigolds, I hope to outdo the queen of Sheba and make her glory pale into insignificance.

Another smart little gown I am sure you will be interested in is of natural colored pongee with a plaited skirt, one of the new models that are perfectly tight fitting and gored to the knees, where a kilted flounce finishes out the skirt. The waist is a Gibson affair and perfectly plain save for a fastening of brown satin covered buttons and simulated buttonholes made of the satin put on decidedly on the slant. Another new wrinkle that is appearing on coats and dress bodices and not alone is the satin button confined to unwashable materials, but seen on linens as well.

As we shall be spending one month of the summer at a Maine coast resort, I was obliged to have a new bathing suit. It is carrying coals to Newcastle to tell you that the one piece fad in gowns is repeated in bathing suits. This is a model becoming to a slender figure, giving a lithe, mermaid effect, unusually attractive. These suits, however, should be developed in inconspicuous materials and colors, although there is no doubt that we shall see them in startling effects on the beaches, for there are certain types of women who are not content unless they are the center of attention. My suit is of navy blue tuscan silk, a new variety that sheds water splendidly, and the only touch of color on the suit (I wonder whether white is a color) is the Dutch collar of Irish crochet [illegible] The effect of the white [illegible] the neck is very dainty [illegible] distinctiv feminine tou[illegible]ture. The sash, which you will see in the sketch I am sending you, is another note introduced this season and is draped loosely about the waist and tied low at one side with short ends. I have the pattern of this suit if you would like to have it, and I think the kilted skirt with front panel and close fitting bodice would be becoming to your figure.

Blue silk stockings and white canvas shoes are to be worn with the bathing suit, and I have not quite decided what to wear on my head.

Perfectly sweet is the white swiss negligee which we have just finished. The swiss is fine and has a small dot. The negligee is made in two pieces, put together on one belt, which is covered by a broad sash of pale green satin. The coolest thing you can imagine! To be exact, the negligee is high waisted at the back, and the sash finishes at the left of the back with a large rosette and two long ends. The neck is open in V shape, and about it is a deep ruffle of lace (Valenciennes) and a bow of satin at the back. The tight elbow sleeves have deep ruffles of lace and bows of satin.

If you will listen a moment longer to a recital of the smart pique ties I have been making I will let you off from the dress subject. Pique four-in-hands are very smart this summer, and the fad is to wear them in violent contrast to the color of one's frock. I cut the pattern of mine from a tie of Dick's. The ends can be finished in any shape, but I prefer the oval outline edged with a tiny buttonhole scallop, in the center of which I put a small dot done in satin stitch. An oval medallion of dots I worked on the inner part of the ends with a few scattered dots above it reaching to the half inch projection. These ties can either be made double or turned back in a narrow hem and stitched on the machine in a color to match the embroidery. With my gray linen morning frock I am going to wear a four-in-hand in a bright green with dots of the gray cotton.

At Brighton Beach recently I came across several women who were carrying something resembling a riding crop. Upon asking the reason why I was told that they were the latest caper of fashion. So if you happen along the boardwalk while at some seashore place this summer and notice some smartly gowned young women twirling abbreviated canes that look like riding whips don't be surprised and imagine they are going on a canter. They are not. They are simply demonstrating the fad of carrying "swish" sticks. Sometimes this stick is gray, sometimes red or perhaps a walnuty brown. The top may be of horn, silver, or perhaps it will have a topaz, ruby or some gem sunk in a little silver cap just big enough to sparkle and yet not be conspicuous.

Mademoiselle it seems may find plenty of uses for one of these sticks, for she can use it as a riding crop or to keep her small pet in order when she takes "doggie" for a walk. It will hold her hat in place on a windy day, or she may simply carry it to afford employment for her little hands, but whatever particular use she has for the stick, serious or otherwise, if she wants to be down to the minute she'll have one. And so, I reckon, will you, but not yours devotedly.

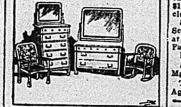
SUMMER BEDROOM SET.

White Furniture Upholstered In Chintz Attractive For Cottages.

The most attractive furniture of white enamel and flowered chintz is found in the stores these days, being designed specially for use in summer cottages, though never out of place in any home. Bedroom furniture of all white is surely more restful than any made of more costly or magnificent woods. It is easily kept clean, as it requires no polishing and needs only to be wiped off with a slightly dampened cloth.



IN WHITE ENAMEL.

Ice on the Table.

A neatly cut block of ice on the dining table in a glass or china bowl will keep flies at a distance and on a hot day will make the diners feel cooler. The rough edges can be rounded by hot water or standing in the air. A charming addition is to hollow out a trough in the ice and fill this with water and put ferns or pond lilies or flowers of some sort in it. The trough can be made by very carefully chiseling the ice with chisel and mallet or by taking an old flatiron, heating and setting it on the ice and melting out a hole. This is longer and not as exact, but easier for most women.

Vanilla Ice Cream With Pineapple.

Crush and dissolve a junket tablet in a tablespoonful of cold water. Heat a quart of milk, a cupful of double cream and a cup of sugar to about 90 degrees F. Stir in one tablespoonful of vanilla extract and the dissolved tablet. Let stand in a warm place until the mixture jellies, then let cool and freeze. Put a tablespoonful of canned grated or crushed pineapple in [illegible] bottom of a sherbert glass. Above [illegible] se a rounding tablespoonful of ice cream. The canned pineapple [illegible] sweet enough for general use.

leave him, or rather his book, at this juncture, and his wife added tearful entreaties. Merriam liked the old couple well enough to wish to please them, was aware of the social weight of their countenance and approval, and was by no means an impatient lover. Accordingly, he condensed the state of affairs as nearly as possible into a message that darted along the wondrous length of the Atlantic cable and was speedily rewarded by an answer that bade him remain with his uncle by all means.

Rhoda had made no elaborate preparations for the wedding, as they were to have been married with the utmost simplicity, and she was conscious of a relief that was almost pain in the thought that she could still be Rhoda Starr, living the old life for a little time longer. She had found her work, her appointed task, she thought but the familiar unsatisfied existence became suddenly fair and peaceful to her, brightening after the proverbial fashion of blessings as it took its flight.

She had rented her house and established herself temporarily with her cousin Agatha at an uptown hotel, when al etter came from Merriam which startled her with that disagreeable sense of disarrangement and confusion which the unexpected always brings about in some minds. It told her that his aunt, Mrs. Winter, and her son Reginald were to spend the winter in Italy instead of Florida, which had been the refuge for the lady's delicate lungs for many seasons, and asked her to cross the ocean with them and meet him at Florence, where he would join her. They could be married at the American consul's, and return to Vienna together.

"I know it is asking a great deal," wrote Merriam, "but you have never been a slave to the minor proprieties I really ought not to leave my uncle now, and I do not know that it will be easier to do for many weeks, perhaps months. I never want to see America again; why should I? You are the only thing in the country which is not associated with disgust and failure. Since my aunt and Regy want you to come with them, and I want you, and you want to be in Europe, I don't see why any doubts should be raised. They sail in December, so you will miss some of the amenities of our delightful New York climate this winter. I hope you will not feel obliged to say no."

Rhoda had no desire to say no, after overcoming her first sense of resistance and disturbance. The journey from Vienna was a long and unnecessary one for Eugene, and she disliked to recall him to New York, recognizing its peculiar undesirability for him. She was also not unwilling to escape the changeful rigors of our American winter. It certainly would be best for them both to be away. She admired Mrs. Winter very much, though she had seen little of her, owing to the elder lady's invariable flight southward with the appearance of the first snows, and thought she should enjoy her companionship. Regy and she were great friends, for he was one of those delightful little mortals whose limitations give only a sense of exquisite finish and completeness.

So, when December came with its bright, bleak sunshine and bitter winds, Rhoda found herself on the deck of the Etruria looking wistfully back at the receding shores, wondering rather sadly when and how she should see them again, and finding a pathos even in the menacing torch of the Statue of Liberty as they slipped out from the beautiful harbor to the open sea.

Once fairly afloat, the invigoration consequent upon change came to her. Her mood freshened as her cheeks did beneath the sea-breeze. She liked the Winters, and perhaps turned even more easily to Regy than to his mother, a rare woman whose earnestness demanded more from her wearied spirit than it had to give in this welcome parenthesis of her life. Regy demanded nothing of any one. After all, it was not fair to call him limited, for he was quite perfect in his way. There is a glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars, and there are certain small planets that go quietly about their business in the universe and light up their little corner of the wide heavens in the most agreeable and satisfactory maner, and the solar system would be more disarranged by the absence of these modest luminaries than is at first perceptible in encountering their mild rays. Rhoda sometimes wondered what counter influences his dead father had brought to bear on the mother's strong personality in the production of this son who showed no trace of resemblance to his remaining parent.

He was a rosy youth, short like his mother, but of a firm and comfortable roundness, and her delicately carved features had given no hint to the easy curves of his. His bright black eyes were round also, and glanced from side to side with the amiable inquisitiveness of a contented but alert bird. He was very fond of his mother, attentive to agreeable young women, and interested in the future of German opera in America. He was also much devoted to the progress of decorative art and to the more elegant forms of literary achievement. In fact, there was scarcely a refined taste lacked by this young gentleman and he had withal a certain easy gayety of temper which was delightfully agreeable. He was always serene, deliberate, and healthy, and never strained one up to an uncomfortable moral or mental altitude. He was not in the least the typical young American, save in the possession of a goodly share of the national humor and Rhoda felt that what she had at times mistaken for shallowness was but the limpidity that has no treacherous depths and hideous aquatic monsters to conceal. A more turgid stream might have been given greater effect, yet measured no more from bed to surface.

They stopped but a week in London and a fortnight in Paris, going from thence to Nice, where they found letters awaiting them, sent up that morning from the Credit Lyonnais, among them one from Merriam to Rhoda which necessitated a further change of their plans. The Weldenord family had been long settled in Vienna but the winter had set in in that city with almost unexampled severity, and the Count had suffered a relapse. It would be imposible for him to attend to the correcting of the earlier proofs of his book, of which the first section was already in the printer's hands; the necessity for Merriam's presence was more than ever imperative. What could he do? Furthermore, he had had reports from Florence that that Mecca of sensitive souls was justifying its reputation as a "winter" city in a fashion not intended in the bestowal

MISSES' AND GIRLS' CHEMISE.

Paris Pattern No. 2923

All Seams Allowed.

Nainsook, jaconet, thin cambric or batiste are all adaptable for the development of this useful undergarment. The fullness of the round neck is regulated by narrow ribbon-run beading finished with lace edging; similar edging trimming the ruffle at the lower edge. If a petticoat and corset cover effect is desired, beading may be sewn along the waist line and run with ribbon to regulate the fullness. Narrow edging trims the armholes and an insertion is used along the middle of the ruffle. The pattern is in 5 sizes—9 to 17 years. For a miss of 15 years the chemise requires 2⅞ yards of material 36 inches wide or 2¼ yards 42 inches wide; 1⅛ yards of beading, 4 yards of ribbon, 2⅝ yards of insertion, 3⅝ yards of wide edging and 3⅝ yards of narrow edging.

Price of Pattern, 10 Cents.

A pattern of this illustration wil be mailed to any address on receip of 10 cents in silver.

FAMOUS EXPLORER'S STORIES

Extraordinary Experience of Dr. Sven Hedin In the Land of Mystery.

The famous Swedish explorer, Dr. Sven Hedin, who has recently returned from Asia, tells of his singular experiences during the three years since he left Stockholm for the far east, in most interesting manner. He spent no less than 25 months in the hitherto unexplored regions of Thibet.

Many of the lamas, or priests, Dr. Hedin says, voluntarily shut themselves off from the world. They go into separate grottoes, the entrances to which are closed against them for the rest of their lives, and there, in solitude and absolute darkness, they spend their days. The reason for this awful martyrdom is the lama's belief that it insures his being reborn, after death, into a very happy existence. He has no communication whatever with the outside world, and the other priests of the temple send in his food by means of a long pole with a bowl attached to one end. When the food and drink contained in the bowl are withdrawn in an untouched condition the inmate of the grotto is known to be dead.

Thibet is a land of superstitious and strange beliefs. In one part there is a sacred mountain called Kailas, 13 pilgrimages around which are believed to purge one of every sin. Many pilgrims to the mountain prefer, however, to go down upon all fours, and crawl around it in zig-zag fashion, breathing a prayer every time they reach one side or the other of the track, because one journey performed in this manner is believed to have as much virtue as the 13 wanderings on foot.

When Dr. Sven Hedin was prevented from entering the unexplored region from the south, he determined to get in from the north, and, to put the authorities off the scent, set out in the direction of Pekin, with 40 ponies and 12 men. Subsequently, the caravan was turned west.

"Soon after this," said the doctor, "I had my worst experience. Traveling to the east of the Karakorum Pass, we came upon a river, which followed so erratic a course that we were compelled to cross it 21 times. The cold was intense, and the roads were strewn with the carcasses of ponies and sheep. In two hours' ride we counted 62 dead ponies."

After several weeks, when many miles to the south, Dr. Sven Hedin disguised himself in native costume, and blacked his face every morning with Indian ink. One morning eight or ten natives came up and entered the tent of the caravan leader. They had been sent by the authorities to examine the caravan, and were to escort all its occupants to the governor of the province, unless a written statement was given to the effect that they had nothing to do with the European who was known to have entered the country. Dr. Hedin thought it would be too serious a cheat to give any such statement. So he went alone to the council of chiefs and electrified the assembly by calmly announcing:

"I'm the man you are looking for."

He resolutely declined to return the way he had come, and explained that there was a law in his own country that no one should walk in his own footprints. "The Thibetans," he says, "found this quite a reasonable law, and I was finally permitted to take one of the courses I wanted to take, provided I was escorted by 10 soldiers on horseback."

A Startling Illusion.

Eugene Henard, who attained fame with his palace of illusions at the Paris exposition in 1900, has just completed a similar but larger piece of eccentric architecture for exhibition in that city. The impression made upon the person who enters the mirror walled space is that there are 64,000 electric lamps burning. The hall is hexagonal in shape, and standing in its centre one sees six halls of equal size and beyond these twelve more and then eighteen, and so on. The inner space is illuminated by 2,500 colored incandescent lamps, 1,800 of which are turned on at one stroke, and the one who stops to count the lamps in sight, if this could be accomplished, would find 64,800. To add to the illusion the pillars marking the six corners revolve on their axes, and the whole effect is startling.

A Gruesome Story.

Some years ago a young officer, seeing a funeral taking place in the vaults of Christ Church, Dublin, was induced by curiosity to enter them, and was not heard of for some time after. Later a search was made, and his remains were found picked to the bone by rats. The remains of hundreds of their bodies, however, lay around, destroyed by the young officer's sabre, which still was held clutched by his bony fingers.

Corncob Bricks.

In some parts of Europe corncobs are used for building purposes. The cobs are collected and taken to a factory, where heavy compresses crush and mold them into blocks of various sizes, just as bricks are variously molded. These blocks are bound with wire so as to make them hold together. They are then soaked in tar to make them water tight and are ready for use after this treatment.

Railway Lucidity.

The time table of a south of France railway announces: "Half-tickets for children are not issued on this line. In the case, however, of two children of one family traveling together a single ticket will be sufficient for the two. Should the family consist of one child application should be made to the booking clerk, who will issue a portion of a ticket at a moiety of the usual fare."—St. James's Gazette.

An Indo-Chinese Venice.

The royal palaces of Bangkok form a city in themselves. They consist of several hundred individual palaces, surrounded by magnificent gardens and pagodas. It is an Indo-Chinese Venice. More people live in floating homes on the Menam, "the Nile of Siam," and on many canals than in permanent buildings.

One of the most welcome among the many exchanges which come to our desk is THE NEWS, of Toronto. THE NEWS has recently made wonderful advances, so much so that old friends of the paper would hardly recognize in this great Canadian newspaper the old News of a few years ago. THE NEWS now contains from fourteen to twenty pages each day, with twenty-four to thirty-two on Saturday. A specialty is made of political and Parliamentary news and questions affecting the welfare of the public receive fair editorial treatment by clever writers. We are safe in saying that there is no paper more widely quoted in Canada and its cartoons are reproduced by many of the leading journals. Through an arrangement made with THE NEWS we are able to offer The Intelligencer and THE NEWS in a club for one year at the remarkably cheap price of $4.00. a31-dtf

BRIDAL SHOWERS.

Essentially Feminine Affairs—The Groom Elect Not Invited.

WAYS OF PRESENTING GIFTS.

At a Shower Given In June the Hostess Entertained Upon Her Piazza—An Amusing Surprise For the Guest of Honor.

Bridal showers are becoming more and more popular every day. To the bachelor girl whose friends all get married at once, with concentrated demands upon her time and purse, these overfrequent disturbances of the weather are somewhat of a strain.

But from the standpoint of the less beleaguered mortal the bridal shower is a charming function. And to the bride the pieces of linen for her chest or the more prosaic contributions toward her household furnishings will carry with them from the occasion a bit of sentiment that endears them to her even more than their daintiness and usefulness.

Showers are essentially feminine affairs. Not even the groom [illegible] receives an invitation, though if he knows the character of the occasion and is inclined to step in and assist his fiancee to carry home the donations of her friends he is permitted to do so.

To present the bride with the gifts in some particularly novel, dramatic or dainty fashion is the natural desire of every shower hostess. Here are a few of the ways in which the deed can be done or has been done by clever hostesses:

At a shower given in June, described in the Boston Cooking School Magazine, the hostess entertained upon her piazza. The guests were all assembled before the bride to be arrived. Her invitation had been for a later hour than those of the rest of the guests in order to accomplish this. The victim of the shower was promptly led up to a window that opened from the living room. Out of this window trailed all sorts of strings. To the other end of the strings, within the living room, were attached the gifts. The bride was instructed to pull the strings, one by one, and see what she got. The result was very amusing. The occasion was a household shower, and according to the description of one guest, "Sometimes she pulled out a cake spoon and sometimes dragged forth a clotheshorse."

THE SHOWER OF TIN.

A THINNING DIET.

No Necessity For a Too Rigid Dietary. Perseverance Wins.

The girl who would train down should not starve herself. She should eat plenty of the right kinds of food. Most people are fat because they overeat fat making foods.

Here is a diet list that, faithfully persevered in, never fails to take off pounds of superfluous flesh. If you want to get thin you may eat:

Fish—Nearly all fresh fish, boiled.

Eggs—Boiled or poached on toast.

Farinaceous—Stale bread, dry toast or crusts (sparingly).

Vegetables—Spinach, lettuce, celery, cresses, asparagus, cauliflower, onions, white cabbage, tomatoes, radishes, olives.

Desserts—Ripe fruits only, acid varieties preferable.

Drinks—One cup of tea or coffee without milk, cream or sugar or one glass of pure water sipped at the end of the meal.

You must not eat:

Soups, salmon, bluefish, eels, salt fish, pork, veal, sausages, made dishes, fats, potatoes, macaroni, oatmeal, hominy, spices, rice, beets, carrots, turnips, parsnips, puddings, pies, pastry, cakes, sugars, sweets, milk, cream sweet wines, champagne, malt or spirituous liquors.

A Hint to the Housewife.

For the careful housewife intent upon detecting adulterants in foods the following hint from the Scientific American may be acceptable. It is a test for determining the amount of copper used as coloring matter in canned peas, and, while perhaps not so simple as tasting a bit on a spoon or wetting a finger and holding in the breeze, the experiment readily may be carried out in any household fitted with a $10,000 laboratory properly equipped. Here it is:

"The quantity of copper may be determined by incinerating the vegetables, leaching the ash with nitric acid, evaporating to dryness, dissolving the residue in hydrochloric acid, neutralizing the solution with ammonia, acidifying it slightly with hydrochloric acid and precipitating the copper with zinc in a vessel of platinum." Do you think you'll try it?

Delicious Preserves

No housekeeper need again apologise for "store" goods, when guests arrive unexpectedly.

It is so easy to make appetising, wholesome and less expensive preserves with ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED SUGAR, that every housekeeper is putting up her own stock this summer for next winter.

Their reward will come when they delight their friends and guests with preserves of their own make. And what just pride they can take as these delicious home-made preserves are praised.

The children, too, will enjoy the pure, luscious fruit as it is preserved by ST. LAWRENCE SUGAR.

ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED SUGAR is made from PURE CANE sugar, and contains more saccharine substance than sugar made from other natural products.

In preserving, a smaller quantity of ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED is required. It is therefore more economical for the thrifty housekeeper.

It is sold in bulk in smaller quantities at your grocer's, but we recommend the 20-pound cotton sacks, put up at the refinery specially for the home. This quantity is convenient for preserving time, and besides, you can be sure of the genuine brand by buying it in these original packages.

Ask your grocer to supply you with ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED in these 20-pound sacks, and get clean sugar and strictly full weight.

If he cannot supply you with these 20-pound bags, send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co., Limited, Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

Economic Value Of Woman's Work.

DECISION OF A NEW YORK JUDGE IN A RECENT CASE. — NOT DULY RECOGNIZED. — CENSUS TELLS THAT ONLY ONE FAMILY IN TEN KEEP HELP.

The economic value of women's work in their homes is not fairly recognised or appreciated, even by the men whose profession is supposed to be the administration of justice. That has just been shown by the decision of a Judge of the New York Sessions Court on the complaint of a wife that she had been financially abandoned by her husband on the plea that he "could not support a household upon wages of $6 per week." The man was discharged, and the woman's complaint was dismissed with the curt admonition: "Let the wife go to work for a living."

Evidently women in New York have no share in the appointment or election of Judges! That decision was based on two popular fallacies in the minds of men: First, that housekeeping and homemaking are not "work," and, therefore, secondly, that the performance of these does not impose upon the husband any economic obligation. It was not stated in the Judge's decision whether or not in that special case the aggrieved wife was or was not the mother of minor children, nor whether or not the husband was continuing to enjoy possession and comfort of a home provided at her expense. Nor did the Judge base his decision on any such consideration. He simply accepted the estimate of wives made by the United States census as "persons having no occupation" and "not engaged in industry." But, as a matter of fact, almost all wives engaged in domestic duties work harder, longer hours and more productively than any other class of laborers, yet receive, instead of wages, only "food, clothing and medicine"—too often, as in the present case not even these.

Is not the conversion fo flour into bread an addition to the value of the flour? Is not the transformation of the same industry for which the "chefs" in hotels and restaurants are paid in many cases larger salaries than are paid to the President of Harvard University? Is not the expenditure of vitality in bearing children and rearing them to maturity greater and more engrossing than day labor in shop or factory? Is not the resulting perpetuity of the nation and the race a more valuable addition to the wealth of the world than the making of clothing or the building of the houses? Should not the woman engaged in the rearing of children be entitled to a share in the earnings of her husband, however insufficient those earnings may be? Did not this learned Judge overlook the fact that a married woman, unless childless, has already a double task to perform, incompatible with work outside of the home, and that such outside work would be, in most cases, a cruel injustice to her family?

Marriage, therefore, so far from placing the wife outside economic producters, imposes upon her a double burden which entitled her to an equal share in the earnings of her married partner. Our census returns tell us that only one family in 10 keeps regular hired help. If so, nine wives out of ten are doing general housework, even if no families kept more than one hired servant. Does housework cease to be productive industry simply because a husband shares in the beneficial results? — Woman's World.

Every man ought to be doing something more worthy of himself than just making a living.

As Seen by a Reporter.

Sir Hugh Graham, the proprietor of The Montreal Daily Star, is one of the newspaper-owners who have occupied much space of late in London, England,—and the cable reports. Sir Hugh has been especially prominent, and has been quoted very largely for after-dinner sentiments which do honor to his convictions as a proprietor and a patriot. Incidentally he has been given an honorary LL.D., by Glasgow University. But there are motes in these beams of fame, and one which must have seemed particularly large-sized to Sir Hugh was a description of himself by a London newspaper writer. The owner of The Star, by the way, is a particularly spruce and dapper man of about fifty or little over. He is as active and energetic as a boy and is generally effervescent with vitality. In a word he is one of these men who look less than their years and feel younger still—and rather like it to generally recognized. Judge then of the pleasure with which he must have heard himself described as "the white-haired veteran of seventy, still alert and active!"

Hardest Prospecting He Ever Did.

Possibly the last man in the north country whom the casual observer would mistake for an actor is the quiet and dignified secretary-treasurer of the Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Mining Co., Mr. F. L. Hutchinson. Yet who of us is there that has not at some time rejoiced in a footlight triumph? Mr. Hutchinson's excursion into stageland was long ago but is still recalled in vivid recollection. In those days the hard worked secretary and auditor was not the giant of endurance he is to-day, and, after the stress and strain of the public appearance he hurried home, threw himself on the bed with his grease-paint on, and was soon fast asleep. Then it was that some joker got in his work. When the rising young actor arose next morning the materials necessary for the removal of his "make up" had disappeared.

That trip about town in search for vaseline, decorated as he was like a wild red Indian, is an adventure that will not soon be forgotten either by Mr. Hutchinson or the friends whom he chanced to meet.

SEASHORE LUNCHEON.

Tinted Marine Photographs Make Charming Place Cards.

A lovely little luncheon motive for country or town is that of the sea and its treasures. For the centerpiece secure a child's seashore bucket, preferably of wood, with shovel. Fill the former with sand in which flower stems may be inserted. Get a square of thin board or cardboard about half a yard across to go under the bucket. Sprinkle this lightly with sand on which a few shells should be strewn. With a doll's shoe make little footprints in this. Any kind of wild flowers will be pretty for the bucket.

If possible have nice large white clam shells at each corner of the table filled with the usual relishes—nuts, radishes, candies, and so on. Small shells, especially the crinkly ones, may be placed at each cover for butter plates. For place cards have squares of rough white water color paper which might be touched around the edges with green to suggest the oceanic tints. On each one are pasted a bit of dried sea moss and a wee bow of red bebe ribbon, with, of course, the name of the guest who is to occupy the seat where the card is laid. Have as favors the red crabs, lobsters and the fish which can be secured at any candy shop filled with bonbons.

FOR LUNCHEON.

Or, if just as easy to secure, the place cards may be tinted marine, photographs with the name of the guests upon the margin and the favors little wooden buckets or woven baskets filled with shells. Necklaces made of colored stones or shells would be an attractive idea if the expense limit is not too tightly drawn.

In the way of good things to eat have the courses somewhat as follows. Too many or too heavy viands are unappetizing in June:

Muskmelons iced, with sherry flavorings; French pancakes, pineapple filling; roast or fricasseed chickens, with one or two vegetables; asparagus or deviled egg salad, frozen cherries, cake and coffee.

CHEESECLOTH CURTAINS.

Inexpensive Ways of Making Summery Looking Hangings.

Cheesecloth is the material from which is fashioned some of the most charming window draperies. Any woman who thinks that because the stuff is simple the curtains are plain has much to learn. For example, some recently hung in a beautiful living room of a big country house are barred at intervals with bands of cluny insertion an' inch wide, making squares eight inches in size.

A wide band of the same lace is set around the edge and across the bottom four inches from the hem, and on the edge is a wide flat scallop of the same lace. This style is by no means inexpensive, but is suggestive of the way the material may be adapted to limited incomes.

Such hangings in small rooms where the curtains do not drop below the sill need a band of lace or insertion down the sides four inches from the hem and across the bottom, with an edge to correspond, and so are not costly and are certainly pretty.

When heavy laces are used they should be laid on flat, but lightweight ones are effective if the edge is sewed so the border will not be more than four inches wide and put on full as one would jabot lace. If these are caught back above the middle or hang straight they will be effective for summer. Most oriental effects may be obtained by a girl who is clever with her fingers by embroidering the cheesecloth in colored cottons, such as dull reds and blues, with traces of yellow—indeed, any of the so called "Indian" tones. This embroidery should be in the form of a wide band set in from the edge and is an effective but bold design. These wash admirably.

A fad of the moment that has been adopted by two girls who are planning a furnished summer house was to apply cretonne figures to the cheesecloth background. Many persons would not care for this combination, but when the two fabrics are together they are effective. The flowers could be arranged in wreaths, buttonholed on with coarse cotton the same tone as the background. The birds could be flying apparently across the window, each curtain being made to correspond perfectly with the other.

Draperies such as these are not expected to reach the floor and, as a rule, are prettier pushed back from the center if allowed to fall straight. There should be a little but not much fullness. If draped take them above the middle, as they are less stiff than when caught directly at the center.

A valance in the middle always adds to the attractiveness of windows when the center is otherwise bare. It is merely a piece, perhaps twelve inches deep, put between the two long halves. It covers the window casing and gives a trimmed effect.

Chas. N. Sulman.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

Take Your Pick While the Picking is Good

Could you use another suit at a price? We believe you can and will, after you learn the value of the suit and the price that will buy it. We're going to do some great stunts in the way of suit selling and have taken all broken lines of Men's Suits which have been selling all season for $6.50, $7.50 to $8.50, placed them by themselves and now offer them to first comers for just

$5.00

We want no carry overs and of course to do this we must be willing to accept a loss. We would rather count the money than carry the stock. If your size should be missing from one line you are sure to find it in another.

We have placed a few in our South Window look at them and match them if you can.

Why we Advertise.

We believe that a large percentage of the people still need to be educated to the importance attached to modern "eye-strain." Many realize that it is necessary to correct deficient vision, but comparatively few yet appreciate the extent to which eye-strain affects the Nervous System, even in cases where vision is apparently normal; we are constantly having those consult us who have been treating for months and years for most distressing nervous affections that are caused by eye-strain. We believe that seven tenths of all headaches have their origin in eye-strain. All these conditions may not only be much relieved, but in many cases permanently cured by wearing the proper glasses that correct the latent eye defects, or lack of balance, or weakness of the muscles governing vision. We find even the most intelligent people are at times astonished at the benefit derived in certain nervous troubles from wearing the CORRECT glasses; but they must be CORRECT, THAT is the kind WE give, BECAUSE we make a SPECIALTY of LATENT EYE-STRAIN, THEREFORE we have succeeded where others (who introduce Optics as "side line") have failed.

Mr. George Denmark's Sudden Summons.

WAS WALKING DOWN BEAVER HALL, HILL, MONTREAL, WHEN DEATH OVERTOOK HIM — AT THE TIME WAS APPARENTLY IN HIS USUAL HEALTH.

The news of the sudden demise at Montreal, yesterday afternoon, of Mr. George Denmark, barrister, of this city, was a shocking surprise to the members of the family and his friends.

On Tuesday the deceased gentleman left this city to visit his daughter, Miss Ida, who is a trained nurse in one of the hospitals of Canada's metropolis. He was at the time apparently in his usual health. On Wednesday he strolled about Montreal and spent the evening with his daughter. When leaving in the evening he made an engagement to revisit her on Thursday afternoon, and was walking down Beaver Hall hill when he fell unconscious to the walk. Parties passing went to his assistance and an ambulance was summoned to convey him to the hospital. Before the latter was reached death had ensued.

The deceased was taken to the hospital where his daughter is a nurse, and the shock to her must have been a severe one.

Mr. Denmark was 67 years of age, and had spent the greater portion of his life in this city, where he was well known. He was born in Seymour Township. After studying law and passing his examinations the deceased commenced practising in this city, having been, during his residence here, a member of several legal firms. In addition to practising his profession, Mr. Denmark was for three years, namely, 1873, '74 and '75, a member of the City Council, being one of the representatives from Baldwin Ward. He also sat in the Council in 1903. The deceased also for a brief period acted as City Clerk, and was employed by the city to consolidate the city by-laws. The only secret society to which the deceased belonged was the A.O.U.W., he being at the time of his death Recorder of the local lodge.

Mr. Denmark was a member of John Street Presbyterian Church, and in politics was a Conservative. A widow and four daughters survive. The daughters are Mrs. Strong, of Mexico; Mrs. Powley, Northwest Territory; Mrs. McKay, of Seattle; Mrs. Walter Mills, of Toronto, and Miss Ida, of Montreal. The remains will be brought here for interment.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES W. POLE.

Mr. Charles W. Pole, who had been ill for some time, passed away last night. Deceased, who was about 65 years of age, was born at Cork, Ireland. When a young man the deceased came out to this country and for some time resided at Ottawa. He had been for many years a resident of Belleville. Some 20 years ago Mr. Pole was appointed to a position in the Inland Revenue department here, and filled that position until a few months ago when he was superannuated. Deceased was a capable official and a gentleman respected by all who knew him. He was married to a daughter of the late Mr. Henry Corby and sister of Mr. H. Corby, ex-M. P. She preceded him to the tomb some years ago. One son, Frederick, who resides in the States, survives. Mr. Pole was a member of St. Thomas' church.

MRS. ELIZABETH FOWLER.

At the hospital here last night Mrs. Elizabeth Fowler, relict of the late Mr. John Fowler, of Colborne, died. A few days ago the deceased was brought to the hospital to undergo an operation for a tumor, but owing to her advanced years and delicate health she was unable to recover from the shock. The deceased was 72 years of age. Mrs. Fowler had been for years a resident of Colborne village where she was highly respected. She was a member of the Anglican church. One son, James D., of Brockville, and one daughter Mrs. McEwan, of Medicine Hat, survive. The remains were sent to Colborne to-day for interment.

Candidates For Matriculation.

LIST OF JUNIOR PASSES IN RECENT EXAMINATION — NAMES OF CANDIDATES WHO WROTE UPON ONE OR MORE PAPERS AND HAVE OBTAINED FORTY PER CENT. ON EACH PAPER WRITTEN.

(1) Those who have written upon and fulfilled the requirements of the University of Toronto in a sufficient number of subjects for complete pass junior matriculation;

(2) Those who have written upon one or more papers or part papers of this examination, and have obtained 40 per cent. on each paper written.

Matriculation candidates who also wrote on the Normal entrance examination, in whole or in part, should note that the fact of their names appearing in this list indicates only that they passed on the actual matriculation papers taken.

The matriculation value of the standing obtained on the Normal entrance examination can be ascertained only by presenting the certificate of standing to the Registrar of the university or college concerned.

The certificates containing the marks will be sent to the principals of the High Schools and the Inspectors in about a week. Candidates will apply to these officials, not to the Department, for their reports in detail.

Following are the names of the successful candidates in Hastings and Prince Edward Counties:

Two Good Dramas.

Once Crack Liners, Their Day Is Done.

ETRURIA AND UMBRIA SINGLE SCREW VESSELS ARE TIED UP USELESS, AND CUNARDS WILL SELL CHEAP.

New York, Aug. 5.—The day of the single screw liner is done. The once crack Cunard racers, Etruria and Umbria, which first cut under the six-day record, are tied up useless at Birkenhead, England. Yesterday the Cunard Line agents announced that these two vessels, which cost nearly $400,000 each to build, were for sale, and that no reasonable offer would be refused. The reason is they are too costly to be operated in this day of twin and quadruple screws and of the turbine engine.

The Umbria was launched in 1885 and the Etruria came out a year later, Registering 8,120 gross tons each, they were the wonder of that day. They were considered ocean mammoths and it was debated whether much larger vessels would be built.

"LITTLE DIGESTERS" SURPRISE PEOPLE

They Make Even Chronic Dyspeptics Forget Their Stomachs

When a man who for years has been unable to eat a square meal without being thoroughly miserable afterward—who has tried doctors and medicines without relief—who is, in fact, a chronic and almost hopeless dyspeptic—when this man finds that by taking a "Little Digester" regularly he can eat 3 hearty meals a day, and feel good over it, he is nearly as much surprised as delighted.

The number of those who have had this experience with "Little Digesters" is steadily growing. More are hearing of them—trying them—being cured by them—every day.

The makers have such complete confidence in them that they guarantee them to cure any case of Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Indigestion or Dyspepsia—or you get your money back.

DEVASTATION BY HAIL.

Many Farmers In West Are Suffering Heavy Loss.

Winnipeg, Aug. 6.—The present are anxious days with the western farmer. Mid-August frequently sees night frosts, which occasionally do great damage, but so far the lowest temperatures have been well up in the forties. However, a danger peculiar to extremely high temperatures is violent rain, which is not infrequently preceded by hail. Manitoba and Saskatchewan are being daily visited by these storms, traveling erratically. The areas affected usually are small and individuals are sufferers rather than communities, and the aggregate will not materially suffer from this cause.

Rosthern, in central Saskatchewan, had 2,000 acres devastated by hail on Wednesday, while yesterday Langham, Yorkton and Hanley, in the same province, suffered, four townships in the latter and two in Langham being reported totally destroyed, Yorkton's loss being appraised at a thousand acres.

The rain will invigorate and help to fill the later grains. It will delay the maturing of riper grains, giving rust and fungoids a chance to attack the grain, but this is not likely to affect anything seriously, and with the settling of the weather it is safe to say that better than an average crop will be garnered.

GOING WRONG WAY.

Colonial at Imperial Defence Conference Is Pessimistic Over Outcome.

London, Aug. 6.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A colonial delegate to the Imperial Defence Conference remarked yesterday, "All we are doing is so far absolutely secret. All I can tell you is that things are going the wrong way, and I'm sorry for it."

At the United Service Club dinner to the Imperial Defence Conference delegates, Major-Gen. Arbuthnot presided. Sir Frederick Borden, Canadian Minister of Militia, speaking in response to the toast, "Our Guests," said that some few years ago the forces of Canada were an unorganized mob; now they had got their different departments of the army, in the Dominion, and could at once put 50,000 men in the field, and in a few weeks another 50,000. They were also going to try to do their duty with regard to the navy at the moment.

They in Canada were convinced that if there was danger or risk they would do as they did at the time of the South African war. They would come to the rescue of the Empire with all the money they could get and all the men that might be necessary in order to help this country man its fleets. They in Canada were going to begin at once to do their duty to lay the foundation in building up a navy which could co-operate with and be part when trouble arose of the great British navy. (Cheers.)

Gen. Smuts of South Africa said blood was thicker than water, yet in another sense there was something that was thicker than blood. The tie of honor was even greater and stronger. (Cheers.) He hoped that as time went on it would be more and more realized that it was no tie of blood which held them together, but the tie of community of interests, justice, fair play and equality.

Boy Charged With Murder.

Guysboro, N.S., Aug. 6.—The preliminary enquiry into the charge of murder against Andrew Joby Issard, a colored boy, for beating Maggie Ash to death, in the absence of his parents, was held yesterday. He was sent to the Supreme Court on the murder charge.

It appears that Joseph Issard, father of the boy, was paid by the overseers of the poor for Manchester district, to look after Annie Ash and her two children, Maggie, aged 6, and a younger sister, aged 9, all being parish charges.

On Tuesday the boy's parents left to attend a picnic. As soon as they had gone, the boy attacked the mother of the children, Annie Ash, who is a cripple, and beat her brutally. He then turned on Maggie, knocked her down with a stick and then struck her on the head with a rock, killing her.

The dead child's mother and the boy's young brother were eye-witnesses and gave evidence.

Gen. Otter to See Trials.

Petawawa Camp, Ont., Aug. 6.—The aerodrome "Baddeck No. 1," was taken from the assemblying shed yesterday afternoon. The wings are set up, but the motor remains to be installed and small adjustments made. The preliminary trial may be commenced this afternoon. Gen. W. D. Otter, chief of general staff, and Col. Gwatkin, director of operations and staff duties, with other staff officers are expected to visit the camp next Monday.

The first practice in Canada with 18-pound quick-firing field guns has been held with good effect. The guns worked easily and the drill is simple and gave satisfaction to both officers and detachments. A departmental trial of fuses for these guns was held yesterday.

Thaw to Be an Author.

New York, Aug. 6.—Harry K. Thaw will devote his life to literature if he wins his fight for freedom from the Matteawan Asylum, and, anticipating such a victory, his mother, Mrs. William Thaw, and her daughter Alice, the former Countess of Yarmouth, have spent about $25,000, it is reported, in fitting up a corner of the new Thaw home on Fifth avenue, Pittsburg, as a literary den for Thaw.

Alice Thaw has also decided to cast her lot with her brother in his literary career in case he is liberated, and she has already shown herself a good business woman by making contracts for Thaw's writings.

Sockeyes In Canadian Waters.

Seattle, Washington, Aug. 6.—Dr. David Starr Jordan, the American fishery expert, and Prof. Prince, the Canadian commissioner, announced yesterday that the sockeye salmon are all Canadian hatched. This point, it is said, will be brought forward by the Canadians if the American fishermen, protesting against the Canadian hatcheries, carry out their threat to procure retaliatory measures forbidding export of fresh salmon.

Ninety Men Fell to Ground.

Chatham, Aug. 6.—Two serious accidents happened at the barn-raising on the farm of Hector Johnson, River road, Raleigh. A beam fell, throwing 90 men to the ground, but only five were slightly injured. Alex. Rice, while working on the barn, fell 12 feet, breaking his collar bone and injuring a lung. His condition is serious.

Etruria and Umbria for Sale.

New York, Aug. 6.—The day of the single screw liner is done. The once crack Cunard racers, Etruria and Umbria, which first cut under the six-day record, are tied up for sale at Birkenhead, England. They cost nearly $400,000 each to build, but no reasonable offer will be refused. They were launched in 1886.

New Teacher for Brantford.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—J. C. Thompson, for four years science master at St. Thomas Collegiate Institute, has been appointed by the Brantford Board to succeed G. A. Robertson, now principal at Owen Sound.

Sewer Laborers Strike.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—Thirty-five employes of Reid and Mitchell, contractors doing sewer work in West Brantford, have struck for $1.75 per day. They get $1.50.

Ontario Wheat Yield Large.

Toronto, Aug. 6.—Fall wheat is being threshed in various parts of Ontario and the yields are larger per acre than for several years. The average, though, is less by several thousand acres in the province. Dawson's Golden Chaff has been the favorite wheat for some years. Alsike yields are also good. R. Guthrie & Sons of Whitby Township report 30 bags from one day's threshing. Samples of seed received in Toronto show a wide variation in quality. Price is offering about seven dollars.

Brockville's Bad Bridges.

Brockville, Aug. 6.—By a majority of 25 Brockville ratepayers yesterday voted down a bylaw to raise $16,000 by debentures for rebuilding six concrete bridges, which have been pronounced dangerous for traffic. Temporary repairs will be made and next year it is proposed to reconstruct the bridges out of cement.

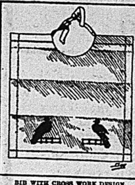
REVIVAL OF CROSS STITCH.

An Absurdly Easy Embroidery That Is Seldom Well Done.

Cross stitching is "one of those absurdly easy things," so we are assured, "that even the smallest child can do." Yet one rarely sees an entirely satisfactory piece of this old time fancy work, a perfect expression of the real art of cross stitching. If you will resurrect some sampler done in particolored yarns by a faroff grand dame when almost in her babyhood, but under the watchful eye of a quaint mother of the olden times, you will find, contrary to your expectation, that even she did not know how. The cross is seldom made so that each and every top stitch slants but one way and the same way. There is an intangible method in cross stitching that produces the perfect piece of work, just as there is in knitting. No second person can take it up and continue exactly as it was begun.

It is generally known that a coarse stuff called penelope canvas is first basted over the material as a guide. The colored stitches are made through its squares, and its separate linen threads are pulled out when the work is completed. The only correct way to cross stitch is the working in of the understitch in one direction and the crossing of every top stitch in the other direction.



BIB WITH CROSS WORK DESIGN.

On only a few materials of a canvas, scrim or basket weave and perchance a linen or burlap of unusual evenness can the work be done without this penelope canvas. Cross stitching is quite as dependent upon the design as any other of the embroideries. It may be just plain monotonous or else positively fascinating in the way the pattern develops.

The bib illustrated is a bit of cross work with a design of blue peacocks comfortably perched on their red fence. The hemstitching on this linen huckaback is no finer than the hand done hem about the neck, and even the tapes are finished at the ends.

Perhaps a child's bib is the most simple of all the garments on which this cross work may be shown, but it serves quite as well as any other to prove the whys and wherefores of nice cross stitching.

DOMESTIC FINANCE.

Pitiful Ignorance of the Average Girl Concerning Household Expenses.

Miss Grace Pitman, who lectures on domestic finance before schools and colleges, had an interesting experience recently when she lectured before a fashionable school for young women. She happened to have just been reading something about the army and noticed that the salary of lieutenants is $1,500. So when she stood up before her audience she announced that she would explain to them her system of administering an income of $1,500, which was the salary of a lieutenant in the United States army. A smile ran round the room, which became almost a titter. One girl right down in front of the lecturer had a very rosy face, but did not look at all happy. Miss Pitman divided up the income, showed what such a family would have to have and what the things would cost. She could allow only $10 a month for service, and that, she showed, would secure only one pitiful greenhorn in the kitchen. The lecturer's scheme allowed only $7.88 a week for food, and she showed what could be got for that amount. A young housekeeper, she said, could hardly be expected to feed her family for less than $10 a week, but an experienced housekeeper could do it for $6.

As the lecturer continued the girl down in front looked more and more sober. That evening she called upon the lecturer and explained the cause of the cheerful smiles of that afternoon. She was engaged—as all her schoolmates were aware—to a lieutenant and expected to marry him as soon as she was graduated in June. But now she was frightened. She did not know whether she would marry him or not.

"She had actually," said Miss Pitman, "had no idea of what it meant to live on $1,500 a year. She was planning to keep three servants. She had no idea that three servants could not be kept on this sum, and her mother was allowing her to marry this man with no conception of what it meant to live on his salary. Talk about $6 a week for food! Twenty dollars a week would not have sufficed for that girl."

Probably Hanged.

A writer in the Argonaut tells of the sister of Lord Houghton, who was frequently annoyed at the guests whom her brother brought to the house.

"Do you remember, my dear," he asked her at dinner one day, "whether that famous scoundrel X. was hanged or acquitted?"

"He must have been hanged," she replied, "or you would have had him to dinner long ago."

MORE MEN AT WORK.

Nova Scotia Mines Report Steady Gains In Workmen.

Glace Bay, N.S., Aug. 7.—With the exception that more men are reporting for work there is little change in conditions at the collieries. Another batch of men from Montreal were landed Thursday night and were taken to the mines.

The output on Thursday amounted to 10,468 tons, of which 5,900 tons came from the collieries, the rest being from the banks.

The cases brought by the Dominion Coal Co. against some of its tenants for eviction are still being heard before Judge Finlayson. Yesterday morning the court granted an order for the eviction of Alexander McEachren and Alexander McLeod, both of Reserve mines, and of Frank Baker of New Aberdeen.

Thursday night 34 men were arrested at No. 2 Mine, charged with loitering on the streets. These men were at the time doing picket duty for the U.M.W. The police committee of the Town Council, being all employes of the coal company, appointed 25 of the coal police as special town police. These sallied forth and arrested the pickets.

Quebec Timber Changes.

Quebec, Aug. 7.—At the next session of the Legislature the Government's new timber policy will be introduced.

Hon. Jules Allard, Minister of Crown Lands, declared Thursday that the stumpage duties would be considerably increased and some action would be taken to prevent the exportation of pulpwood in order that it might bring about the manufacture of paper in this province.

CHECKED BOY SMOKERS

Law of 1908 Prohibiting Cigarette Smoking by Boys Under Sixteen Resulted in a Big Decrease—Owing to Increase in Population the Real Decrease Will Amount to Fifty Millions—Use Still Extensive.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—There were thirty million less cigarettes smoked in Canada last year than the year before. The decline is held to be entirely among boys of sixteen years or under, and to be entirely due to the restrictive legislation put through Parliament by the Government during the session of 1908. It is believed that the law actually prevented the smoking of from forty to fifty million cigarettes by the boys of the country, as the consumption was increasing, and if it had not been for the law there would have been an increase of from ten to twenty millions instead of a decline of thirty millions. This is a fair assumption, as the consumption was increasing more and more each year, and during the six years prior to 1908 the increase amounted to over seventy-five millions.

The total consumption of cigarettes last year was about three hundred and seventy millions. There were three hundred and fifty-six and three-quarter millions of domestic cigarettes consumed, or a decrease of twenty-eight millions, and there were twelve and three-quarter millions of imported cigarettes smoked, a decrease of about two millions.

The results are more impressive when it is remembered that the law was in force for only eight months of the year. It became effective on July 20, 1908, and the year closed for statistical purposes on March 31, 1909.

C.P.R. Will Fight Viaduct.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—Information from C.P.R. sources indicate that the road will not accept the Toronto viaduct ruling, as was rumored, but will carry the case to the highest court.

Kitchener Promoted.

He is Appointed to Succeed the Duke of Connaught.

K. of K. is Made Inspector-General of the Mediterranean Forces From Which Duke is Said to Have Resigned Because of Unnecessary Expense—Intention is to Place Him at Head of Imperial Forces.

London, Aug. 7.—Lord Kitchener, commander of the British forces in India, has been appointed to succeed the Duke of Connaught as inspector-general of the Mediterranean forces, which post the duke recently resigned on the ground of "the ineffective nature of the work and the useless expense to the nation involved therein."

Lord Kitchener will take the rank of field marshal and also become a member of the committee of imperial defence. The inspector-general has command of the garrisons at Malta and Gibraltar and all the British troop in Egypt, the Soudan and Cyprus.

The appointment of Lord Kitchener is coincident with added importance being attached to the post. The Duke of Connaught, in an official announcement said: "In view of the new developments in the organization of the Mediterranean command assumed increased importance and will be taken up by Lord Kitchener in the object of giving it it's proper place in the scheme of imperial defence.

LORD KITCHENER.

It is understood that as a result of the Imperial Defence Conference which is now sitting, it is intended to co-ordinate all the military forces of the Empire and place Lord Kitchener at the head of an organization having the imperial army for it's special care. As a preparation for this work, for which he has gained valuable experience in India, on vacating the Indian command in September, Lord Kitchened will go to Japan to represent Great Britain at the Japanese grand manoeuvres in November and afterward make a tour of Canada, Australia and New Zealand to study the military organizations and consult with the colonial Government concerning them.

Lord Kitchener, who became 59 years old in June, is the youngest field marshal in the history of Great Britain. Lord Roberts was 60 years old when he was raised to the rank and Lord Wolseley 62.

Divorced In New York.

New York, Aug. 7.—Mrs. Alice Montford was yesterday granted an interlocutory decree of divorce by Justice Crane. The action was undefended. The defendant in the suit is William Sidney Montford, a wealthy manufacturer of automatic photographing machines. Named as co-respondent is Miss Anne McLean, the private secretary of the defendant.

Mrs. Montford testified that she married the defendant in Toronto, Canada, Feb. 23, 1888 and that there is one issue of the marriage, a daughter Edna, who is now 19 years of age. Because of the facts that she had ascertained concerning her husband's conduct she separated from him last February.

Put Feet on Desk.

Brantford, Aug. 7.—Principal Gent has been dismissed by the Paris public school board as a result of dissatisfaction among the trustees over alleged misconduct during school hours.

Mr. Gent stated that he would hold the trustees responsible for his dismissal. His letter was filed by a vote of 6 to 5.

The principal is said to have placed his feet on the desk during class hours.

His dismissal was not unanimous among the trustees, a number of whom have regarded the results shown as most satisfactory.

Will Not Use Whole Line.

Montreal, Aug. 7.—There is a story here to the effect that the C.P.R. will not use the whole distance of the line from Smith's Falls to Peterboro in the formation of their great grain line from Montreal to Victoria Harbor, but that a cut-off section will be built that will reduce the distance very considerably.

This week the company's double track from Vaudreuil to Finch, a distance of 55 miles, will be finished, thus completing the double track on the Montreal and Smith's Falls section.

No Tuberculosis Hospital.

Albany, N.Y., Aug. 7.—State Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss yesterday denied the application of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for permission to acquire real estate for the purpose of erecting a hospital for its employes and selected policyholders afflicted with tuberculosis.

Crooks Leave Country.

St. Catharines, Aug. 7.—The three American crooks arrested at the regatta last week were chased out of the country by Magistrate Campbell yesterday morning.

STOOD UP IN BOAT.

Kingston Woman Is Drowned and Two Men Narrowly Escape.

Kingston, Aug. 7.—By the upsetting of a skiff off Point Frederick yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Charles Steer, Rideau street, was drowned and her husband and Samuel Murray had a narrow escape.

Murray was rowing and was about to change off with Steer. As they stood up in the boat, it upset, and all were thrown into the water.

Steer hung on to his wife until he was so exhausted he had to let her go, and Murray clung to the boat. Harry Stanbridge heard cries, swam out and got them to shore.

Steer was almost dead, but came to after a doctor worked over him. Search was made for the body, but it was not recovered up to a late hour.

Deceased had a family of five children.

This is three rescues Stanbridge has made within two weeks.

Greer Investigates Death.

Bayfield, Aug. 7.—Interest in the strange death of Mrs. W. J. Burns, who was found dead in her home July 17 last, with a bruise on one of her temples, and a stocking knotted loosely about her throat, has been revived by the appearance of Provincial Detective Greer.

The detective was sent here at the request of the woman's husband, who desired to set at rest certain rumors. A coroner's jury a few weeks ago found the woman came to her death from causes unknown to it, but it is understood Detective Greer, as the result of his investigations, has decided that death was due to heart failure.

Hustling Baddeck No. 1.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 7.—The finishing touches were given to Baddeck No. 1 yesterday afternoon, and J. D. McCurdy confidently expects to attempt flights to-day, when much is expected of the new aerodrome.

Casey Baldwin said yesterday that, "it was a refined product of the inventors' art."

As soon as the trials at Petawawa are concluded, Baldwin and McCurdy will visit England with an all Canadian aerodrome, to carry out a program of flights which will be arranged later. That they will surpass Bleriot's recent performance over the English Channel is earnestly wished.

Stringent Immigration Bill.

Washington, Aug. 7.—A bill providing for stringent exclusion of immigrants was introduced in the House Thursday by Representative Austin (Tennessee). It provides that all Asiatics, except public officials, merchants, students and travelers, shall be prohibited from coming into the United States, Porto Rico, Hawaii or the Philippines.

It also excludes European adults who cannot read or write, who are not industrious, and who have criminal records, as well as all members of the so-called "Black Hand" or similar organizations.

Girl Drinks Carbolic.

Chatham, Aug. 7.—Delia Howle, a 20-year-old girl, employed as a cook in a local restaurant, was found on Thursday night at a boarding-house suffering from a strange sickness, which proved to be carbolic acid poisoning. Medical aid was summoned and a stomach pump used. Dr. H. J. Sullivan thinks the girl will recover. Trouble over a young man is supposed to have led the girl to attempt suicide.

TIMELY TOPICS.

Belleville is a fine summer resort in August. Especially if you can't go anywhere else.

◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆

It is worthy of note that an Indiana preacher was given a deed to sixty acres of land, worth $125 an acre, because he preached short sermons. Good deeds always bring their reward.

◆ ◆ ◆

Every day crowds of women try to kiss Harry Thaw. Some of them should be on trial for their sanity.

◆ ◆ ◆

◆ ◆ ◆

No Bellevillian, these days, could be a successful aviator. That requires coolness.

◆ ◆ ◆

The woman of fashion will soon be more wonderfully clothed than she is now. The new style hats are said to be 18 inches high, or about twice as high as the male "stovepipe," and the directoire gown is to give place to a voluminous flowing robe which will make the thin lady look like a clothesline on a windy Monday.

News: One would think from the attitude of many Liberal newspapers towards Col. Denison that loyalty to the Empire was treason to Canada and offensive to the Canadian people.

Such is the case with all who, like Laurier, day dream and look forward to the time when Canada will sever her connection with the Mother Country.

Enormous figures. The United States Secretary of Agriculture expects that American farms this year will yield 3,161,174,000 bushels of corn, 409,704,000 bushels of winter wheat, 253,796,000 bushels of spring wheat, 183,923,000 bushels of barley, 31,928,000 bushels of rye, 962,933,000 bushels of oats, and over 11,000,000 bales of cotton. In the face of such a prospective abundance the prices of bread and other foodstuffs advance.

◆ ◆

The United States Treasury suffered a decrease of $7,500,000 in revenue last year from the sale of intoxicants. This is set down as consequent upon the prohibition wave which swept over the Republic. The country is better off with a lessened consumption of beer and whiskey. The revenue can be replenished from other sources. At the same time has not part of the decrease in drinking been due to trade depression?

◆ ◆ ◆

The highest point in the United States is Mount McKinley, in Alaska, with an elevation of 20,300 feet.

◆ ◆ ◆

The Toronto Globe has discovered a cause for attacking the Hon. Mr. Cochrane. It says in offering timber limits for sale he has not given sufficient time for lumbermen to examine the limits, and then with consummate coolness compares his action to that of the late Ontario Government. We venture the opinion that when the explanation is made there will not be found a tittle of foundation for the charge. If the present Minister were one-tenth as bad as his predecessors in the Mowat-Hardy-Ross Governments he ought to be turned out. But he is not.

◆ ◆ ◆

The dual language system is unfortunately already creating trouble in the schools of the Orange River Colony. The educational authorities insist on the use of the Taal as well as English, and, as a result, half the time of the pupils is wasted. The Transvaal "Leader" asserts that the situation justifies an appeal to the Imperial authorities for intervention, and that this, broadly speaking, undesirable course has become unavoidable.

◆ ◆ ◆

"I say, Mr. Topics, do you suppose any of the city Aldermen or Street Surveyor ever walk up the east side of Front street northward, just after a rain storm?" asked one of the city grumblers.

"Why that question?"

"Why? Because if they ever do they could not fail to have discovered a little pond at the corner of Front and Campbell streets, around which they would have to trot, if they desired to keep their feet dry. That's why I asked the question."

◆ ◆ ◆

Why, dear inquirer, that depression in the sidewalk at the corner of Front and Campbell streets in front of the Bank of Commerce, has been there for many long years. Why the sidewalk has not been repaired cannot be explained, unless for the reason assigned by the Arkansas Traveller, who gave as a reason why he did not repair the roof of his cottage, which allowed the water on every rainy day to fill his rooms "that he could not repair the roof when it rained, and when it did not rain the holes in the roof did no harm." Such is generally believed to be the reason why the pond hole has not been filled up.

◆ ◆ ◆

This weather is making things awfully dry. That's another reason why the sermons to-morrow should be short.

◆ ◆ ◆

It is said that a Hamilton bank accepted a $50 Confederate bill. Somebody should go and wake 'em up in Hamilton.

◆ ◆

Jack Johnson, the coon pug, was fined $55 at London for over-speeding his auto. Johnson will hurt somebody yet in his mad pranks. Then he'll do some training in jail. Which will be good for him.

◆ ◆ ◆

Seen the new School Readers yet? They're great. And so cheap, too. All together, now, you dads who have to buy school books, one cheer more for Sir James P. Whitney and the Square Deal Government.

A Picton motor boat—the Eel—made the trip from Kingston to Trenton—77 miles—in four hours and 15 minutes. Which was going some.

A Yankee publication, the Canadian headquarters of which are in Toronto has loosened up on $100, the same being given for the best version of words set to the tune of O. Canada. Seems to be the easiest money since the boys and girls picked up gold and silver on Tom Tiddler's ground.

COMEDY IN FIREWORKS.

"The Battle of the North Sea" and "The Siege of Kandahar" are the features but by no means the whole of the fireworks display at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. In addition there are 62 distinct numbers on the fireworks programme and they include everything that can be imagined in pyrotechnics. And in these numbers comedy has its place. For instance a Punch and Judy show is one of the numbers. Another number pictures a boy fishing. A big policeman comes along and orders him away. Another boy seeing this brings on a giant firecracker, sets it behind the policeman and fires it off—result a big policeman kicking on the ground and boys disappearing around the corner.

THE LAKE ROUTE TO WESTERN CANADA.

The palatial steamers Saronic, Hamonic and Huronic of the Northern Navigation Co. sail from Sarnia wharf, Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. The "Hamonic" is a new steamer, put in commission this year, and is the finest and most up-to-date vessel on the Upper Lakes. The fresh water sea voyage through Lakes Huron and Superior to Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth is a magnificent trip and unequalled in America.

Homeseekers' Excursion tickets August 11th and 25th, September 8th and 22nd, are good via this route and the return rates from Ontario points are very low:

Winnipeg and return	$32.00
Edmonton and return	$42.50

Proportionate rates to other points in Western Canada. Tickets and further information from H. C. Thompson, City Agent; T. H. Coppin, Depot Agent. 7-3td-1tw of the name. He felt it most unsafe that his aunt and Rhoda, neither of them among the gifted beings who are above the weather, should change the balmy air of the Riviera for the keen winds and biting cold of the Tuscan capital, always among the least genial of Italian cities in atmosphere. He knew Mrs. Winter to be afraid of Rome, and therefore proposed that if they wearied at the thought of a longer stay in Nice than they had intended making, they should try Cannes, decidedly a more elegant resort in these days, or go down to Naples, which none of the party had seen. "I may be able to join you there in February or March," he wrote, in conclusion.

Rhoda was not gifted with that perspicacity which reads between the lines, and had no suspicion that Merriam might possibly exaggerate his uncle's need of him, nor in fact would it be true to say that he did so to any appreciable extent, but he certainly gave it its full value. What he did not mention was that some neglect on his part had so retarded the completion of the work as to make him almost morally responsible for the Count's second attack, and that for very decency's sake he could not increase his offense by deserting the old nobleman in a crisis of health and labor, the discomforts of which were largely due to his own shirking of duties that had been generously offered him and were generously rewarded. He really felt very penitent toward his uncle, and meant to make amends and it was the more easy to do so in the showy act of again delaying his marriage because of certain suggestions in that mixed consciousness which determines motive. He really dreaded the cold of Florence and Vienna for Rhoda, but, mingled with this laudable regard for her health and comfort, was the sense that this was his last "fling," for a while at least. He would be both conventionally and morally bound to devote some time to his bride, he should wish to do so, and must say a reluctant farewell to those rather tempestuous evenings with which he had atoned for his morning dullness in the Austrian capital. He had, to be sure, no intention of settling down into the regulation Benedict demanded by some American women, but he meant to be all that was civil and considerate, and her presence would prove an undeniable interruption to something more than his duties as secretary. To be sure, he wanted to see Rhoda again, even longed for her in moments of weariness and depression, but it was a pleasure he would be able to enjoy at will during the rest of their natural lives after this brief separation. Even in the moment of this consoling reflection Merriam winced. He had an unconquerable aversion to the condition of married man even though its responsibilities be worn at their lightest.

Rhoda's answer ran thus:

"Do not think, dear Eugene, that I am satisfying any uneasy feminine susceptibilities in proposing that we definitely postpone our marriage until spring. I fully realize your uncle's claims upon you, and it would be both unjust and ungenerous for you to leave him now when his need of you is greatest, especially as we neither of us retain any illusions concerning that obsolete institution, the honeymoon. Since our original plans have been broken, I do not see why another delay of a month or so should make much difference, though it is very good of you to say that it seems an eternity to you. You generally do observe the forms, I notice, despite your non-conforming protests.

"And also since I have crossed the ocean with the avowed intention of marrying you, I do not see why I should not make the whole journey subject to sense and convenience, and come to you at Vienna when the weather grows warmer and Mrs. Winter joins her sister there. Do not think of trying to join us at Naples or even Florence. I know how much you dislike Italy—unnatural poet that you are!—and you know that I am not of sufficient importance to myself personally, or to the world socially, to be obliged to consider a merely nominal conventionality. If I were, we could pretend that I was a royal princess en route to marry an heir-apparent. I know that you will believe my suggestion to be actuated by that intelligent affection which must always keep me

"Devotedly yours,

"RHODA."

It was not an impassioned love-letter, but neither had his been, though abundant in gallant phrases; he was always civil to his betrothed on paper. And Merriam was quite satisfied. He wrote in answer an admirable epistle in which regret at her decision was tempered by admiration for her judgment, offered some valuable suggestions for their comfort and convenience at Naples, which city the Winters decided to make their abiding-place for the present, and concluded with a sentiment which had the advantage of being both true and graceful:

"I can always live without your presence while I know your thoughts are with me. I could not give you up, but I can lend you to yourself when circumstances seem to demand the sacrifice."

So everyone was satisfied, and Rhoda found herself traversing the Campagna Felice on a glorious day made all of bluest sky and brightest sunshine and softest breezes, such a day as only Italy knows, while away there in the north, Eugene was being driven over the snow to a breakfast given by some Austrian officers to a number of pretty actresses of various nations having found it easy to excuse himself for the day to his uncle in view of the sacrifice he had just made to that nobleman's interests.

"We don't know how to be happy in the North," said Rhoda, looking out of the window as the train swept along and, at each station, a great shout of gay laughter, a gleam of white teeth, and a flash of dark eyes greeted them.

"I am of the north to the last fiber," said Mrs. Winter "and I think I know how."

"Dear Mrs. Winter," said Rhoda, bending forward to lay her cheek caressingly against the frail jeweled hand that rested on the elder lady's knee, "you were never happy in your life!"

"May I ask what you know about my life?"

"Everything! Your experience is written on your face, and it makes a beautiful story," said Rhoda tenderly. "You have been blest, oh, a thousand times! You have been ecstatic, rapt as many more. Your whole nature has risen in that sacred riot of the emotions which maternity evokes in some women. You have known the deep, painful bliss of sacrifice for those whom you love, you have been exalted, consecrated, but happy—never! No northern woman with just that breadth of brow, that clear, pale light of eyes, those straight, delicate lines of lip, was ever happy, as the nymphs are. I am northern, too, if birth counts for anything, yet I'm sure my soul is Latin."

"With your tormenting modern conscience? Nonsense!"

"Well, I'm not like you, you Puritan matron, you cross between a white violet and a Jonathan Edwards sermon No, you're not even a violet. You're an air-plant. Your roots do not go down into the earth."

'And do yours?"

"Yes, deep."

"And that is where you find your happiness?"

"Alas, no! The roots go down, but they don't send anything up to the surface. Not a blossom. I've never seen the sun."

"But, my child! with Eugene—"

"Oh, Eugene and I see everything by electric light. We sleep by day and walk by night, like the rest of our kind. There is a fine light cast on some dark corners, to be sure, but it is a special glare, not an illumination."

"I should never accuse you of seeing things in the same light that Eugene does," said Regy placidly.

"It should not take the form of accusation. I thought you were fond of Eugene, Regy."

"I am fond of him, but I don't think I like him. Somebody said once that it was an indication of morbid taste to like Eugene Merriam, and I'm not morbid."

"Then I suppose I must be."

"Not altogether. I don't think you like Eugene. You are devoted to him I hear, but that's a different thing. Love is not liking, and not half so much fun. Besides, you live in a morbid atmosphere. Take you out of it, and you would be a different woman. Though, to be sure, that would be a great pity," concluded Regy, gallantly.

"For me?" asked Rhoda, laughing.

Aching in the Stomach.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURED.

"From using a cheap remedy recommended by an unscrupulous druggist, my condition was made much worse," writes Miss Minerva E. Michie, daughter of a well known citizen of Portland. "I suffered so terribly with indigestion and biliousness that the very sight of food made me shudder. It was two years ago my health began to fail. At first I had constipation, liver sluggishness and occasional headaches My appetite was variable—I wanted too many sweets—then I lost all desire to eat and had constant aching in the stomach, attacks of dizziness, pains between the shoulders, stifling feeling after meals and felt I wasn't going to recover.

"The moment I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills I felt better. After I had taken a few pills my chest and back were relieved of pain, and my head felt clear and no longer was full of blood and rushing noises. I kept on using Dr. Hamilton's Pills and slowly but surely my appetite returned and I gradually regained strength, color and spirits. To-day I am as well as ever and attribute my present splendid condition entirely to Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

If you are troubled like Miss Michie was (and most people occasionally are) no medicine will do you so much lasting good as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Beware of the druggist that asks you to take anything in place of Dr. Hamilton's Pills which alone can help and cure you, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

BUSY MAN'S MAGAZINE.

The August issue of Busy Man's Magazine is an educational number. The rapidly passing mid-summer vacation reminds parent and child, teacher and taught, that school days are again not far off. There are bright, snappy, special articles on the great subject of education, among them being "Life in Residential Schools," "In Advance of the Pullman," "What Canada's Public Men Read," and "The Necessity of a Business Training." Other clever and interesting contributions are "When an Emperor Ruled in Canada," "The Rival Rain-Makers of the Yukon," and "The Light Side of Finance." There are half-a-dozen catchy and captivating novelettes. The August edition of Busy Man's is superbly illustrated from cover to cover and is undoubtedly the best warm weather copy yet produced.

The Feed Door of a No. 200 Sunshine Furnace is 12 x 13 inches. This means that the largest shovel can safely be emptied into our smallest size, and that good-sized chunks of wood require no chopping in order to be used as fuel.

To keep the correct humidity for sanitary purposes, we place the water pan in right over the main door, a place where the heat and the householder can reach it. So in Sunshine Furnace the water never gets stagnant, and the householder never complains about the awkwardness of pouring the water in.

Automatic Gas Damper allows furnace to be checked shortly after coaling. This saves fuel and protects plants in rooms above.

To make "Sunshine" the easiest-to-be-cleaned furnace, we construct two flue doors, and place same not only at an equal distance from each other, but at an equal distance from the large feed door. So the operator with an ordinary soot-cleaning brush can go completely around the radiator without inconvenience; and, what is more important still, can do this without having to put out the fire or take down the smoke-pipe.

Kept Tryst With His Daughter in Death Instead of Life.

The Montreal Star gives the following account of the shockingly sudden death of the late Mr. Geo. Denmark, of this city, which occurred in Montreal on Thursday:

"While waiting for her father, who was to accompany her on an outing, Miss Ida Denmark, a nurse at the Royal Victoria Hospital, yesterday received word that he had died suddenly in a cab and was even then at the hospital, having been brought there just too late for medical attendance to be of any avail.

Miss Denmark, to whom this blow came with tragic suddenness, is the daughter of Mr. George Denmark, a prominent lawyer and ex-alderman of Belleville. Apparently in the best of health, Mr. Denmark had come to Montreal a few days ago to see his daughter. Yesterday Miss Denmark was off duty and father and daughter had arranged to spend a happy afternoon together. She was ready and waiting for him, wondering what could have kept him late, when the news was gently broken to her that her father had died suddenly and even then was at the hospital, having been taken there by a kindly passer-by who had no knowledge of the fact that the hospital roof sheltered the daughter of the dead man.

"Mr. Denmark early in the afternoon was on his way to the hospital, walked up University street and suddenly was overcome by illness. A student who was passing at the time came to his assistance and having obtained a cab, assisted Mr. Denmark into it and urged the cabman to make all haste to the Royal Victoria. Mr. Denmark expired in the cab before the doors of the hospital were reached. The first his waiting daughter knew of his illness was the news that her father had kept his tryst with her, but in death instead of life.

"Mr. Denmark had apparently suffered from heart disease for some time, and the cause of death is attributed to heart failure, brought on by over exertion.

FOR PICNIC LUNCHEONS.

The sandwich, which is the backbone of the cold luncheon, admits of wide variation so that all tastes will be satisfied. The bread may be white or brown, Boston, whole wheat or corn, rye or pumpernickel, it may be rolls or biscuit, cold gems or a loaf, but the filling must accord with the "binding."

The bread should be cut thin, but not necessarily crustless, and the butter will spread evenly if first creamed. After making the sandwiches wrap at once in paraffin paper, and they will keep moist for hours.

Sandwich Fillings. — These indeed are legion. A hearty and most delicious sandwich has chicken salad for its filling. Butter the bread lightly. Put a layer of tender lettuce on each slice for a binder to the salad, which should be plentifully moistened with mayonnaise. For a chicken salad filling the meat and celery should be cut finer than for the salad when served alone. Wrap each sandwich separately in paraffin paper. A delectable sandwich filling is made of equal parts butternuts, English walnuts or pecans ground fine and cream cheese moistened with sweet, thick cream and seasoned with salt. Grated American cheese may be used in place of the cream cheese and melted butter be employed to blend the ingredients. Slices of tomato and lettuce with dressing make a good filling, as also slices of Swiss cheese cut wafer thin.

A good hearty sandwich is made of Boston brown bread with minced corned beef seasoned with made mustard and rubbed to a paste with a little butter for the filling.

New Potted Things.—Cheese filled with chopped nuts now comes put up in glass jars for sandwich fillings; also a paste of chicken and truffles to be spread thinly on bread and butter, while boneless imported sardines, domestic sardines put up in mustard, Holland herring, bloater paste, caviare, boneless anchovies, each and all add variety and piquancy to the feast.

Picnic Pointers.—At a family picnic recently the piece de resistance was beefsteak broiled over the coals. A fire was made, and then, when burned down, beefsteaks cut in generous pieces were given each one, who put his portion on a forked stick and tended to his own broiling. Unlimited bread and butter, with radishes for the relish, made a most enjoyable repast.

When carrying coffee to an out of door meal where it is to be cooked tie the ground coffee into a square of cheesecloth. This saves the necessity of using eggs to clear the coffee or of straining it when made.

Celery Stuffed With Gorgonzola Cheese.— This is one of the most popular hors d'oeuvres, whether served at a picnic, a "finger and thumb dinner" or even a state dinner or wedding breakfast. To prepare them take wide pieces of tender celery and fill each one with any of the following mixtures: Gorgonzola cheese mixed with salt, pepper and chopped olives, green or ripe; cream cheese and walnuts or chopped olives, sardines mixed with yolks of hard boiled eggs or caviare and lemon.

FILLMORE CHINA.

Interesting Pieces of Crockery Added Recently to White House Collection.

Interesting pieces of china once owned by President Fillmore were placed recently in the White House cabinets. They were obtained through the efforts of Mrs. Abby G. Baker, who has charge of the White House collection, under the direction of Mrs. Taft. She learned that much of the Fillmore china could be found in Buffalo, the former president's old home. There she found that two sisters, Mrs. B. Terry and Miss Cornelia Burtis, had bought the old Fillmore mansion with almost all the furniture and china. They were delighted to add something to the White House collection and gave an old Staffordshire platter, a willow pattern plate and other dishes.

The present administration is the first for more than half a century that has not been obliged to buy a new set of dishes for the White House, and the reason why is simply that congress soon after Mr. Roosevelt became president gave him $22,000 to spend on an immense outfit of chinaware, imported from England.

FILLMORE CHINA.

Up to Abraham Lincoln's time the executive mansion was supplied with crockery in a desultory sort of way, dishes, plates and cups and saucers being purchased whenever more of them were needed. But Mrs. Lincoln persuaded congress to give her money for a fresh outfit, a very beautiful set, ordered from France, with a blue border, gilt stars for the states of the Union and an eagle and scroll; with the words "E Pluribus Unum" on every piece.

A FINDING OF HEARTS

Financial Reverses That Brought Their Recompense.

By MARION CHOLMONDELEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

The big automobile jarred slightly as it went over the crossing, and the woman, tucked in one corner of the cushioned seat which would have held three comfortably, frowned. Little things had a wonderful power to annoy Marcia Weatherby.

Always she had had more than she wanted, and the deprivation of having nothing to wish for is a far greater one than the ordinary person imagines. From a girlhood home of luxury she had gone to one even richer in the comforts of life when she married Jack Weatherby five years before.

Her path was hedged by people patiently waiting to do her will, to smooth all roughnesses, to anticipate her very thoughts. Yet her latent irritability had grown, fed by a weariness which was becoming chronic.

And Jack himself was no less bound and hampered. She realized dimly that he, too, was helpless through duties and demands custom had fastened on him.

Today as she rolled swiftly along she was overwhelmed with a sudden swift vision of the emptiness of it all. They were forever doing things about which they cared nothing at all simply because it was expected of them to do so. And further and further apart would they grow, even as the last five years had shown her. Marcia Weatherby bit her lip to keep back the tears, for she had cared deeply for Jack when they were married. Perhaps she will now, but she never had the leisure to even wonder about it. And he—his kindness seemed abstracted, secondary.

The machine turned noiselessly into the drive leading up to the big pile she called home. She knew just the process of entering it. First the chauffeur would open the door of the car and help her to descend, the huge front door would swing open, disclosing the footman with his chin at the correct angle, and at the door of the tiny gold and white elevator leading to her rooms Felice, her maid, would be waiting to take her wraps and hand bag and conduct her to the tiresome mysteries of another toilet.

FLUNG HIMSELF INTO A CHAIR, WITH A LAUGH BITTER AND HOPELESS.

The chauffeur and the footman performed their expected duties, but the program was varied when she stepped from the elevator. Instead of Felice, Jack stood waiting for her.

Marcia's surprise died away when she saw his face. That face, with its look of haggard trouble, silenced her. Without a word she swiftly followed to her sitting room, and the door closed behind them.

"What is it?" she demanded breathlessly, terror clutching her heart as she looked at him.

Jack Weatherby had good stuff in him and could dare much, but his throat contracted as he took in her beauty, her fragileness, her costly array. Helpless, sheltered—that was what Marcia was. Then he spoke almost curtly.

"I'll make it short," he said. "Listen, Marcia, and see if you can comprehend. It doesn't seem possible a man could take a fortune the size of mine and drop it into the middle of the ocean, but that's what I've done. Stocks. It's all gone. We haven't a penny to our name." Even this house is gone. Maybe the grocer 'll trust us, but likely not! How many meals do your think your pearls would buy?"

He flung himself into a chair, with a laugh bitter and hopeless, and waited, just what for he hardly knew—hysterics probably.

The woman before him bent forward, with lips parted. "I can't quite realize"— she gasped. Then she straightened out and walked to the window, gazing out over the lake. When she turned and came to him she was smiling. Besides the smile, there was a look he had never seen on her face before, an expression of interest, of energy.

"Jack," she said, slipping down beside him, her arms about him, "I don't know why, but somehow the only thing I can feel is relief. I believe I'm glad. Why, it leaves us—only each other. Do you see? I'm so deadly tired of all this, of this life! Do you remember the Colorado ranch my father left me? How he held it when the crash came I'm sure I don't know, but he did. Well, we'll go there."

Jack Weatherby laughed even as his heart warmed with joy at the way Marcia had met the blow. "You," he cried, "on a ranch, and a small, insignificant one at that—in a calico dress possibly, and one servant, maybe none, and neighbors ten miles away! Oh, no, Marcia; you don't know what you are talking about! I'll begin again here!"

Marcia Weatherby got to her feet, with an excited little laugh. It was novel to have something to do. "You will not," she declared. "It is the ranch for us!"

And, much to his surprise, Jack Weatherby found it was indeed the Colorado ranch. Never had Marcia been so animated, so busy. Her sympathizing friends went away indignant because she had laughed at their condolences.

"This is the happiest day of my life," she told her husband when the train pulled out of the Chicago station and they were bound for the west with only a few hundred dollars to their names, but with life and health and work before them.

One year later Jack Weatherby, coming home at a gallop, swung from his horse at the door to the rough but comfortable house that was home. His face was brown, his eye keen, his dress negligee.

On the porch stood a woman lithe, graceful, in a linen shirt waist suit that had the air Marcia's clothes could not avoid having. There was color in her cheeks, a sparkle in her eyes, and she laughed like a girl as she ran down to meet him. Arms about one another, they turned to watch the sunset across the distant mountains and were silent before the glory of it.

As the chill of coming evening made itself felt they turned toward the house, a peace enveloping them which needed no words.

"And you thought," Marcia said proudly, "I couldn't do it, Jack! That I didn't mean it! I love the life!"

"You are a wonder, Marcia! And so am I, if you did but know it!" he said half seriously. "The best of it all, dear, is that we've found how much we really are to each other. There's time for that out here in this space!"

Why She Learned French.

"I had a new type of pupil last week," said a high priced French teacher, who has the reputation of taking infinite pains in the matter of pronunciation. "A young woman came in and wanted to arrange for a few lessons which would drill her into repeating a few phrases to absolute perfection. I thought it a strange request, but presumed she was going to take part in some theatricals and that the part required some short French phrases. What was my surprise when she quite frankly told me that she was a music teacher and almost all of her pupils spoke French fluently and that their pet dogs understood nothing else. To her pupils she could speak English, but to the pet dog it was impossible. She had her own list of phrases she wanted to learn. I drilled her on 'Good morning, dear little dog,' and 'Goodby, darling Bijou,' and several other expressions of equal importance until she spoke like a native. She also learned how to say 'Lie down' and 'Good dog' and a few endearing pleasantries. She was an apt pupil, and we had good times over the lessons, as we both saw the absurd side. It was the first time I'd ever heard of pet dogs to whom French was, as one might say, a 'native tongue,' but I've inquired since and find it's so."—New York Sun.

Cupid and the Cook.

When a stately cook showed up at the same employment agency for the sixth time on the lookout for a new situation the manager lost patience. Said she:

"What is the matter? That was a good place I found for you last time. Why are you leaving?"

The cook looked sheepish for a moment, then tossed her head, prepared to brazen it out.

"I'm going away," she said, "because I have no chance there. I've got acquainted with every clerk and every delivery man in the neighborhood, and it's plain that none of them means business. I can't afford to waste any more time there. I want to go into a neighborhood where I can get acquainted with a new set, where there may be something doing. I'm all alone in the world, you see, and I've got to look out for my chances the same as yourself."

Sneeze Without Winking.

Bobby came home one day covered with dirt and bruises and trundling a broken bicycle.

"What on earth have you been doing, my child?" exclaimed his terrified mother.

"I ran over a big dog and took a fall," explained Bobby.

"Couldn't you see him and give him the road?"

"Yes; I saw him and was turning out, but when I got within about ten feet of him I shut my eyes, and before I got 'em open again I'd run into him."

"For the land's sake, what did you shut your eyes for?"

"Couldn't help it. Had to sneeze. If you think you can hold your eyes open when the sneeze comes you just try it some day."

If the reader thinks Bobby's excuse was not a valid one let him try it some day "when the sneeze comes."—Youth's Companion.

NERVOUS DEBILITY CURED

Excesses and indiscretions are the cause of more sorrow and suffering than all other diseases combined. We see the victims of vicious habits on every hand; the sallow, pimpled face, dark circled eyes, stooping form, stunted development, bashful, melancholic countenance and timid bearing proclaim to all the world his folly and tend to blight his existence. Our treatment positively cures all weak men by overcoming and removing the effects of former indiscretions and excesses. It stops all drains and quickly restores the victim to what nature intended—a healthy and happy man with physical, mental and nerve power complete.

For over 20 years Drs. K. & K. have treated with the greatest success all diseases of men and women.

If you have any secret disease that is a worry and a menace to your health consult old established physicians who do not have to experiment on you.

DON'T USE A SCARECROW

To Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they did'nt get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine cases out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. You must tell your story in an interesting way, and when you want to reach the buyers of this community use these columns.

$ A Dollar spent at home reacts in its benefits with unceasing general profit. Sent out of town it's life is ended. Kept with the home merchants it is a messenger of continuous benefit. Business men should awake to the importance of keeping this dollar at home and make a bid for it by judicious advertising.

Start the Day Right

and you will be right.
Start it by eating

Shredded Wheat Biscuit

with hot milk or cream and a little fruit. If you eat more than the stomach needs you are wasting both money and strength. Overtaxing the stomach impairs digestion, weakens brain power and lays the foundation for disease. Cut out heavy meats and soggy white flour pastries for ten days, eat Shredded Wheat and see how much better you will feel—then tell your friends about it. Your grocer sells it.

Shredded Wheat is made of the choicest selected white wheat, cleaned, steam-cooked and baked. Try it for breakfast to-morrow with milk or cream. The Biscuit is also delicious for any meal in combination with fresh or preserved fruits.

One of the most welcome among the many exchanges which come to our desk is THE NEWS, of Toronto. THE NEWS has recently made wonderful advances, so much so that old friends of the paper would hardly recognize in this great Canadian newspaper the old News of a few years ago. THE NEWS now contains from fourteen to twenty pages each day, with twenty-four to thirty-two on Saturday. A specialty is made of political and Parliamentary news and questions affecting the welfare of the public receive fair editorial treatment by clever writers. We are safe in saying that there is no paper more widely quoted in Canada and its cartoons are reproduced by many of the leading journals. Through an arrangement made with THE NEWS we are able to offer The Intelligencer and THE NEWS in a club for one year at the remarkably cheap price of $4.00. a31-dtf

Springhill Coal Miners.

The miners of the Cumberland Railway and Coal Company, at Springhill, are, by McCullough, the United States organizer of the United Mine Workers, incited to strike, though he says not, at the same, time he is threatening that if it were found that the Springhill company were filling orders for the Dominion Coal Company he would order a sympathetic strike, and makes the same threat regarding the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company's men at Sydney Mines.

Is not this Yankee threat made in the interests of the United States coal companies, who are sending regularly cargoes of coal from Philadelphia to the Dominion Steel Company's plant, for the reason that the Dominion Coal Company cannot keep up the supply?

The miners, says the report from Springhill, are beginning to ask why the Philadelphians are not threatened with a strike if they do not desist from aiding the mining and manufacturing industries of Cape Breton by furnishing them with coal to carry on their work, which the unions of Glace Bay have struck to prevent.?

It were well if the Canadian unions would watch more closely the workings and machinations of the United States organizations, more particularly those who are, what is termed "running the machine." It is evident from what has taken place in the past and is now transpiring that the strike of the coal miners in Nova Scotia is a bonanza for the coal dealers in the United States, who, it is alleged, are now shipping coal to Nova Scotia to supply the deficit created by the strike. It is a harvest for them.

National Parks.

The National Battlefield Commission, appointed to take charge of the Champlain Tercentenary celebration scheme to utilize the Plains of Abraham for a National Park, in commemoration of the victory of Wolfe, are, it is hinted, to have their powers extended for the purpose of preserving for the people of Canada the various sites of historic interest throughout the Dominion.

There are many old forts and places of great historic interest in the Maritime Provinces, Ontario, Quebec and the West, which are now being left practically to decay or to be appropriated for commercial purposes. It is proposed to give the National Battlefields Commission, which is now concerned solely with the work of nationalizing the Quebec battlefields, charge of this larger work of extending the Quebec project into a national work of restoring and beautifying all the spots in Canada sacred to the struggles and heroism of the men who preserved Canada to the British Empire.

The members of the commission are: The Mayor of Quebec, Sir George Drummond, Mr. Byron E. Walker, Colonel G. T. Denison, Hon. Adelard Turgeon, and Hon. Col. Hendrie. They have now about $4,000,000 on hand to apply to the further carrying out of the Quebec battlefields scheme, and have already secured deeds to a considerable portion of the lands required on the Plains of Abraham.

The Local Paper.

SOME REASONS WHY IT DESERVES SUPPORT AND RECEIVES IT.

Unfair comparisons are sometimes made between the city papers and the local journals. The local paper costs a cent a copy, and often the city journal is sold at a lower rate, and at the same time the subscriber believes he sees an advantage in an additional amount of pulp paper received. The man who is swayed by this consideration forgets that no city paper can take the place of the local journal says the Renfrew Journal. Not only has the local journal the advantage in the important matter of local news but it also has another call for local suport that should at no time be overlooked. The local paper is published solely and wholly in the interests of its own county. Those connected with it have, of necessity, interests that are identical with the interests of the other residents, and no local paper can injure the town without injuring itself, nor help its community without directly benefitting thereby. The city paper, on the other hand, by the very force of circumference and the pull of human nature looks first to its town city. It has no real interests in surrounding towns either to help or to hinder. The desire to make a sensation or to pen a breezy article, will too often outweigh the thought of possible injury to a town nearby, and usually the city paper is too indifferent to make amends for injury so done. The local paper is left to battle for its own town, and to catch up if it can to injurious stories and slip shod slanders thoughtlessly started by city sheets. A case along this very line occurred last week. The Ottawa Citizen editorially suggested that there were several hundred cases of diphtheria in Pembroke. Such a reference could not help but do harm to that town, for naturally, people would desire to shun a place where such a plague were so prevalent. The Citizen could easily have confirmed its information or proved it false, yet apparently it was not interested enough in the matter to do so. Even after the complete falsity of the suggestion was forced to the notice of the city paper, it closed the matter by a brief non-commital item hidden away on an obscure page. For all this, the city papers cannot be burdened with all the blame in the matter Surely some portion of the blame rests on those citizens who give their support to outside journals that care nothing for the community, instead of the local paper that is always and ever expected (and seldom in vain) to fight the battle of its town against all comers.

Gas Distended His Stomach.

"My last wish will be," writes Harry P. Pollard, a well-known boot and shoe traveller of Hartford, "that everyone with a bad stomach may learn as I did, before it's too late, that Nerviline is the one remedy to cure. Why, I was in mighty bad shape, my digestion was all wrong, and every night I would awaken with a start and find my heart jumping like a threshing machine. This was caused by gas on my stomach pressing against my heart. When I started to use Nerviline I got better mighty fast. It is certainly a grand remedy for the travelling man, keeps your stomach in order, cures cramps, prevents lumbago or rheumatism, breaks up chest colds and sore throat—in fact there hasn't been an ache or pain inside or outside for the past two years that I haven't cured with Nerviline. Do you wonder I recommend it?"

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4890.

For general household use Nerviline has no equal; it will cure the aches and ailments of the entire family—refuse anything but Nerviline, 25c per bottle, five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

Why we Advertise.

We believe that a large percentage of the people still need to be educated to the importance attached to modern "eye-strain." Many realize that it is necessary to correct deficient vision, but comparatively few yet appreciate the extent to which eye-strain affects the Nervous System, even in cases where vision is apparently normal; we are constantly having those consult us who have been treating for months and years for most distressing nervous affections that are caused by eye-strain. We believe that seven tenths of all headaches have their origin in eye-strain. All these conditions may not only be much relieved, but in many cases permanently cured by wearing the proper glasses that correct the latent eye defects, or lack of balance, or weakness of the muscles governing vision. We find even the most intelligent people are at times astonished at the benefit derived in certain nervous troubles from wearing the CORRECT glasses; but they must be CORRECT, THAT is the kind WE give, BECAUSE we make a SPECIALTY of LATENT EYE-STRAIN, THEREFORE we have succeeded where others (who introduce Optics as "side line") have failed.

Adulterated Milk; Was Fined $20.

Picton, Aug. 6. — Farmers who adulterate the milk they send to the cheese factories with water, sooner or later discover that there is a law to prevent this kind of "increased yield." Last week a well-known farmer of Ameliasburg—a patron of Mountain View factory—was before Magistrate Welsh, for adulterating his milk. Frank Brenton, of Belleville, prosecuted the action. The offender was fined $20. Another similar case is now pending.

His Last Rest

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mr. Charles P. Bradley, took place from the family residence, South George street. The remains were taken to St. John's Church, where the burial services of the Anglican Church were conducted by the Rector, Rev. Canon Bogert. A number of beautiful floral tributes were placed upon the casket. The bearers were fellow-employees of the deceased of the Belleville Hardware Company.

Mr. Denmark Buried.

The remains of the late Mr. George Denmark, who died suddenly at Montreal on Thursday, arrived in the city at an early hour this morning and were taken to the family residence on Alexander street. Miss Ida, daughter of the deceased, accompanied the remains here. This afternoon the funeral took place and was attended by many citizens. At the house services were held by the Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, of St. Andrew's Church, owing to Rev. A. H. Drumm being out of the city. The bearers were personal friends of the deceased.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last evening the fire brigade were called out, but fortunately their services were not required. A slight blaze originated among some papers and rubbish in rear of Mr. W. Lambert's place on Front street, but was extinguished with a few pails of water.

Babe Met Death in Terrible Accident.

Marmora, August 7. — While Mrs. Sanford Lawrence and another woman were driving past the old Wiley homestead on Wednesday morning the horse became frightened at some object and became unmanageable, with the result that Mrs. Lawrence, who was carrying a baby about seven weeks old was thrown from the rig. In falling the baby struck its head on the rim of the wheel, it is thought, the skull being crushed in and death ensuing in about fifteen minutes. Although severely shaken up Mrs. Lawrence was not seriously injured.

Governor-General Liked Rev Mr Heeney

The Rev. W. B. Heeney, formerly rector of Christ Church, this city, who succeeded the Rev. Thos. Savary, as incumbent of St. Luke's church, Winnipeg, had the honor of preaching to the Governor-General last Sunday. The reverend gentleman did not know he was to preach before His Excellency till Sunday morning when a telephone message was sent, asking that a couple of pews be reserved. The Governor-General was so pleased with Mr. Heeney's sermon that the reverend gentleman was invited to lunch with His Excellency, who thanked him for his sermon.

Peculiar Accident To Kingston Boy.

Thursday evening, Stanley Sharpe, son of Major Sharpe, Barrie street, Kingston, met with an accident at Lake Ontario Park, which resulted in his death. He was standing on the ground swinging a number of young people high in the air when one of the iron rods, which support the swing came down and struck him just above his forehead. The blow inflicted a cut in his scalp and rendered him unconscious.

Concussion of the brain developed, and he gradually sank, dying yesterday afternoon.

Land Warrants.

HAVE BEEN ISSUED TO NEARLY ALL VETERANS.

Ottawa, August 6. — The way the veterans' land grants have been taken up leads to the belief that not many are left to be certified to by the department of militia.

Up to July 31 warrants located by volunteers totalled 281, by substitutes 1,034, certificates issued by the militia department numbered 6,375 and warrants issued by the interior department were 6,259.

While about 8,000 Canadians went to South Africa at different times a large number were men who served twice. This was especially noticeable in the last contingents. A little over 2,000 warrants are off the market for good, 281 being located by volunteers and 1,781 registered by substitutes. Between the decreasing number for sale and the advance in the price of C. P. R. lands $5 per acre there ought to be a rise in prices in the near future.

FRIGHTFUL STOMACH TROUBLE

For Four Long Years He Suffered—Then "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

Stratford Centre, Wolfe Co., Que. May 11th, 1908.

I have been completely cured of a frightful condition of my stomach through this wonderful medicine, "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for four long years with this trouble. My head ached incessantly. I could not eat anything but what I suffered awful pains from indigestion. I used every known remedy and was treated by physicians, but the dyspepsia and headaches persisted in spite of the treatment.

I was told to try "Fruit-a-tives," and I sent for six boxes, and this was the only medicine that did me any good. I am now entirely well, I can eat ordinary food and I never have a headache, and for this relief I thank this wonderful remedy "Fruit-a-tives." My case is well known in this vicinity and you may publish this statement.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The Porte has sent a note to Greece demanding a formal declaration by that country of non-interference in Cretan affairs.

The Canadian Northern will open their line between Quebec and Montreal on the 22nd, the trains running in and out of the C.P.R. Place Viger station.

Following the four Ontario readers published a few days ago comes the "Ontario Public School Speller," issued last night by the Department of Education.

The London Times remarks that one important result of the American tariff has been to increase the feeling in Canada in favor of an imperial conference.

It is announced that Lieut. Shackleton, who got within 111 miles of the South Pole, has accepted an invitation to lecture in Canada and the United States.

Liquor valued at $1,200, and concealed in bales of hay, has been confiscated while being shipped to the transcontinental construction gangs near La Tuque, Quebec.

Japan yesterday officially notified the powers of her intention to proceed immediately with the reconstructing and improving the Antung-Mukden Railroad without the consent of China.

Col. Hugh McLean, who arrived in St. John, N.B., from England yesterday, where he has been before the Privy Council, announced that while dining with Sir Thomas Lipton, that gentleman told him he would be in Canada this autumn.

Hotelman Goes to Trial.

Brockville, Aug. 7.—The charge of perjury preferred a week ago by Rev. Thomas Leech, Anglican clergyman of Lansdowne, against Robert H. Service, proprietor of the Island View House, Rockport, was taken up in the Police Court yesterday. The charge was that on March 13 last Service made an affidavit in which he accused the plaintiff of openly canvassing voters in the polling booth to cast their ballots in favor of local option on Jan. 4.

It was shown that the clergyman had twice entered the polling booth in a private residence during the day, on one occasion just to get a glimpse of those inside and on the other at a time when the poll was about to close and all the votes in. No one heard him canvassing and Plunkett, the man he is alleged to have openly canvassed in the booth, swore that Leech spoke to him concerning a relative who was ill.

Magistrate Murphy considered the evidence sufficient to send Service for trial and accordingly committed him. Bail was fixed at $2,000 and promptly furnished.

Changed His Name.

Toronto, Aug. 7.—By paying 70 cents and signing a deed poll, David S. Kidd, who expects to erect a million-dollar rescue home for fallen women, yesterday changed his name to David S. Burn. The deed was done in the office of D'Arcy Hinds, judgment clerk at Osgoode Hall. The change was made in order to qualify him to a bequest of half a million dollars from Wellington George Burn of Melbourne, Australia.

In 1907, through evangelistic work, Mr. Kidd rescued a girl who turned out to be the daughter of the Australian millionaire, who in his will left him the money to build a rescue home. W. G. Burn desired, however, that Mr. Kidd adopt his name as the money is left to David S. Burn.

Mr. Burn was in some doubt as to whether he would have to be married again to Mrs. Kidd, his wife, but the wife has her name changed automatically.

Boy Lost Two Days.

Halifax, N.S., Aug. 7.—Earl Hines, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hines, of this city, who was lost in the woods at Prince's Lodge, while attending the Sunday school picnic of the Park street Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, was found last night at five o'clock, three-quarters of a mile back of Prince's Lodge.

He was on the top of a rough stubble hill, eating blueberries. He was cool and undismayed, and in good physical condition, despite his two-day sojourn in the woods. The only part of his clothing lost was his hat.

Fifteen hundred soldiers and civilians took part in the search yesterday.

Ten Were Injured.

North Bay, Aug. 7.—Eleven were injured in the wreck of the C.P.R. Atlantic express at Woman River Thursday. They are: J. Taylor and daughter, Victoria, B.C.; Mrs. Butler, Packenham; Mrs. Becket, Calgary; P. Glenn, Henry Smith, Winnipeg; three dining-car employes and Brakemen Wright and Chapleau.

Miss Taylor is suffering from a broken rib and others injured nursing cuts, bruises and ribs broken, but none of the injuries are of a serious nature. The cause of the accident has not been ascertained.

The schoolboys had studied the day before the first chapter of Acts, particularly the story of the election of a new apostle. The teacher began by revising yesterday's work.

"And how was Matthias chosen?" he asked.

The brightest boy, to the teacher's bewilderment, replied, "They all jumped on him and kicked him."

"Why," said the teacher, "whatever makes you say that?"

"Well, sir, you told us. You read out that 'the lot fell on Matthias.'"

Sheep Guarding Birds.

The yakamik, a species of crane, is said to be one of the most intelligent birds known. The bird is used by the natives of Venezuela in the place of shepherd dogs for guarding and herding their flocks of sheep. It is said that, however far the yakamik may wander with the flocks, it never fails to find its way home at night, driving before it all the creatures intrusted to its care.

DAMAGED BY DROUTH

Ottawa Fruit Report For July Not So Encouraging.

Dry Weather Is Expected to Materially Reduce the Crop But Better Than Average Yield Is Expected as a Result of Recent Fine, Growing Weather—Loss to Grain In West Is Not Large, Says C.P.R. Official.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The report of the Department of Agriculture on the fruit crop for July is not so encouraging as was the June report. The drouth of the early part of the month had its effect in reducing the crop materially. However, the latter portion of the month has somewhat revived the hopes of growers and a crop above the average is looked for.

Apples will be a light to medium crop, but the winter varieties promise to be a better quality than usual.

All over the Dominion the pear harvest will be light with the possible exception of Nova Scotia.

Plum, peaches, cherries and grapes will give a medium crop all over Canada, except the plum crop in British Columbia, which is light.

On account of shortage of fruit in European countries, there will be a good market for all the fruit Canada will have to export. The United States will be able to consume all its fruit products, but will likely export some to Europe on account of high prices.

Thinks Damage Is Slight.

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 7.—Thomas Acheson, general grain agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. states that reports of any damage to the grain owing to the storm will not reach him until late to-day, but he does not anticipate anything serious.

Since the beginning of the season Mr. Acheson has kept faithful reports of all damage to growing grains and the amount covering the three large provinces of Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan will not reach more than one per cent. of the total expected yield estimating the 1909 wheat crop at 120 million bushels, which is considered low. One per cent. damage is considered very light in comparison with other years.

"Of course," said Mr. Acheson, "the business communities generally will not feel such a slight loss. At specific points where the most damage has been done there will be a slight depression along the business men, but apart from the local points business men may so far rest easy."

Forty-Five Bushels to Acre.

Sterling, Alta., Aug. 7.—Reports of bumper crops in this district continue to arrive at the offices of the Townsite Syndicate. Word was received yesterday from the Wells' four thousand acre farm, three miles south of here, that wheat cutting will begin on August 8. It is expected that the crop will run forty-five bushels to the acre.

Two new elevators are being erected in Sterling and will be completed in time to assist in handling the big crop.

Chink Murders White Girl.

Frankfort, Aug. 7.—The murder of a white woman by a Chinaman, somewhat similar to the murder of Elsie Sigel in New York last June, occurred in this city yesterday.

Tien Yon, a Chinese merchant, of Berlin, actuated by jealousy, shot Hildegard Hoffman, a music hall singer, and then turned his revolver on himself.

Both died within a few minutes.

Waitress Jumps Into River.

Brockville, Aug. 7.—Miss Minnie Cassidy, aged 25 years, of Prescott, employed as a waitress at Alexandra Bay, attempted to drown herself at that place. Crazed with a toothache, for which she could get no relief, the young woman went to the Cornwall dock and in full view of scores of people threw herself into the river. She was rescued.

Train Kills Twelve Cattle.

Brantford, Aug. 7.—Thirty head of cattle belonging to a farmer named Simons, wandered through a defective fence on the farm between St. George and Paris, and bunched on the Grand Trunk track for the night. A freight crashed into them; killing 12 outright, and so badly injured four more that they had to be killed.

Suffocated In Well.

Drinkwater, Sask., Aug. 7.—John McWherter lost his life from suffocation in a well on the farm of T. Nagle, five miles south of here yesterday morning. He was engaged in coupling the cable in the well when the clasp became unhooked and he dropped 40 feet. McWherter came here from Shelburne.

Bank Manager Shot by Madman.

Logan, Kas., Aug. 7.—Thomas Mullen, president of the state bank, was shot and killed here Thursday night by Gus Beaugess, a farmer, who then shot and killed himself. It is believed Beaugess had been mentally unbalanced for some time. He had threatened to kill other persons.

New King.

Vienna, Aug. 7.—Europe next year will have a new king. According to a report Prince Nicholas of Montenegro has decided to assume the title of king on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of his accession, which will occur on August 14, 1910.

Massive Gold Bricks.

Seattle, Wn., Aug. 7.—Gold bricks weighing 2,400 pounds and worth more than half a million dollars were received in the Government assay office yesterday, coming through the mail from Fairbanks, Alaska, via Vancouver, B.C.

Bisley Men Home.

Quebec, Aug. 7.—Five members of the Canadian Bisley team arrived here yesterday morning on board the S. S. Tunisian, bearing with them the laurels and honors which they won in competition with the marksmen of the Empire. Among those who arrived yesterday were Lieut.-Col. Bertram, commander of the team; Major Mercer, adjutant; Major Jones, Prince Edward Island; Lieut. Morris, Bowmanville; Sergt. Russell and Private Gougeon. The unattached members who arrived were: Pte. Bloomfield, Lockfield, Ont.; Sergt.-Instructor Bayles, Toronto; Lieut. Mortimer, Quebec, and Col.-Sergt. Blackburn.

Sailors Cling to Rigging.

Cape Town, Aug. 7.—Five members of the crew of the British steamship Maori, which ran on the rocks Wednesday night off Slang Bay, are still on board that vessel.

Through the clouds of spray, dashed up by the terrific seas breaking over the wreck, the forms of the men can be indistinctly seen clinging to the rigging.

Their position is most perilous. Lifeboats are attempting to rescue them.

Dredge Columbia Damaged.

Amherstburg, Aug. 7.—The steamship Louisiana, bound up with coal, collided with the dredge Columbia off the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock Co., near Bar Point, yesterday morning. The dredge is being towed to drydock. The steamer proceeded with a badly twisted stem.

NEW JOB FOR M'GUIGAN

Is Mentioned For Presidency of Superior Corporation.

It Is Reported In Montreal That ex-G.T.R. Superintendent, Who Is Now Building Hydro Electric Lines, Has Been Given Position by English Shareholders at a Salary of $25,000 Per Annum.

Montreal, Aug. 9.—It is understood that within a limited period F. H. McGuigan, formerly manager of the Grand Trunk Railway, and now of the F. H. McGuigan Construction Co., which is building the Ontario Government power line from Toronto to Niagara Falls, will become president of the Lake Superior Corporation, that industry having of late come under the control of a group of London capitalists who have been looking around for a man to take charge and reorganize the enterprise.

In the person of Mr. McGuigan, the holders of the controlling interest in a capital amounting to near forty millions believe they have found the right man, for that gentleman has not only the reputation of being a very able railway man—a desirable necessity since an energetic railway policy is to enter into the company's plans—but is, besides, a powerful administrator.

It is stated that before the ex-manager of the Grand Trunk would entertain the proposition, which was submitted to him by an important group of old country capitalists, he demanded a free hand to a very large extent, and especially as regards the new railway policy of the Lake Superior Co.

F. H. M'GUIGAN.

These concessions, it appears, have been freely given Mr. McGuigan, who will enter upon the undertaking with a salary at least of $25,000 per annum.

Besides exploiting the pulp and paper industry and the great ore bodies within reach of the works, the steel rail industry will be carried on very largely.

It is understood that a progressive railway policy has been decided upon, which will embrace the extension of the Algoma Central, now the property of the Lake Superior Corporation, away north to the transcontinental, thus opening new deposits of iron ore, and bringing the products to within easy distance of the Canadian side of the Soo.

It is said that Mr. McGuigan has already sent engineers over the road, and sufficient data has been secured to justify an energetic policy being pursued when the new president's plans are matured.

Charged With Robbing Church.

Preston, Ont., Aug. 9.—Chief Levan made a prompt and important arrest Saturday, when he took into custody a man giving the name of Frank Marshall, on a charge of burglarizing the Roman Catholic Church. The robbery occurred between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., at which time it was reported to the chief, who, inside of 30 minutes, had Marshall in quod, with the stolen goods recovered. The loot consisted of the solid silver and gold communion service, worth several hundred dollars.

Bertie Martin Is Safe.

New York, Aug. 9.—Little Bert Martin, the two-and-a-half-year-old child from Brantford, Ont., who was brought to the Pasteur Institute for treatment, having been bitten by a rabid dog some weeks ago, is entirely out of danger.

He is taking the full Pasteur treatment which consists of one treatment a day for eighteen successive days.

The little child has not shown any signs of affection and the treatment is being taken merely as a precaution.

Two Drownings.

North Sydney, N.S., Aug. 9.—Two drowning accidents occurred here on Saturday evening, the victims being Charles Long, aged 30, while bathing, and George Lerou, a boy of 8, while fishing. A younger brother of his died a week ago from injuries sustained from falling downstairs.

Toronto Firm Get Contract.

Port Arthur, Aug. 9.—The contract of the new Canadian Northern hotel has been let to the Imperial Construction Co. of Toronto. The work will cost about $250,000. Messrs. Montgomery and Grantham, the heads of the construction company, will be here on Wednesday next.

Italy Wants a Treaty, Too.

Rome, Aug. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—It is stated that the Italian Government through its ambassador in London, will shortly enter into negotiations having as their object the conclusion of a commercial treaty with Canada.

HOTTEST THIS YEAR.

Weatherman Says Yesterday Topped the List For 1909.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—Everybody guessed right yesterday. It was the hottest day of the year, and a little bit hotter than any day of last year.

From the lakes region to the Atlantic the heat wave prevailed, with Ontario getting the worst of it. In Toronto the observatory recorded 93.3 degrees of heat, which was the highest temperature registered, while London came second with 93 degrees. It is probable that some parts of interior Ontario had a higher temperature than Toronto. Last year's high temperature, 92.2, was recorded on July 12, followed by 92 on Aug. 4. Prior to yesterday, the warmest day this year was June 21, when 90.4 degrees were recorded.

One death and several prostrations were reported during the day, resulting from the excessive heat.

Timothy Walterhouse of 163 Munroe street, Toronto, died suddenly at his home early yesterday morning. During the night he complained of the heat and went down stairs. In the morning his family found him dead in a chair. About a year ago he suffered from a sunstroke, and ever since had not been feeling in the best of health.

Crazy With the Heat.

New York, Aug. 9.—The heat yesterday moved two citizens of Staten Island to exhibitions of eccentricity that called out the police and fire departments. Anton Civobe, 36 years old, climbed a high tree and hung swaying to the topmost branches, chattering like an ape. Threats to shoot from the police and to chop down the tree failing, a thorough drenching from a fire hose, being ignored, the finemen were finally compelled to run up a 60-foot extension ladder and snare their man from his perch with an improvised lasso. He fought actively.

A little later Ole Anderson, 37 years old, pealed off all his clothes, and climbing to the ridgepole of his three storey house, tried to jam himself down the chimney. The fireman caught him alive.

World's Greatest Flight.

Mourmelon Le Grand, France, Aug. 9.—Roger Somner, a French aviator, who has been driving aeroplanes only for the last three months, Saturday beat Wilbur Wright's record of 2 hours, 20 minutes, and 57 seconds, by circling around in the air for 2 hours, 25 minutes and 15 seconds, and covering more than one hundred miles.

Somner started at fourteen minutes past three o'clock in the bright moonlight. In the beginning he traveled slowly near the ground at elevations running from six to sixty yards. After the machine had become limbered up the aviator increased his speed, and the coming of daylight showed him traveling and manoeuvring easily.

When it became evident that he had beaten the duration record held by Wilbur Wright, the assembled crowd cheered wildly, and as Somner came to the ground at forty-one minutes and fifteen seconds past five o'clock he was given an ovation.

An Alleged Aristocratic Swindler.

New York, Aug. 9.—Marion W. Fortner, a former spectacular real estate operator, clerk, in a fashionable St. Louis hotel, and the son-in-law of a millionaire manufacturer of that city, was brought to this city Saturday night aboard the steamer St. Paul, a prisoner.

He was arrested in France, charged with falsely endorsing a check for $12,000, though his alleged swindling operations, it has been stated, will reach a much larger sum.

Wm. Russell Is Captured.

Lima, Ohio, Man Wanted for Mining Deals is Arrested.

Well-Known American Promoter and Financier is Charged With Obtaining Money Under False Pretences in Association With Frank Law—Is Wealthy Man and a Prominent Citizen

Lima, Ohio, Aug. 9.—Upon the orders of United States Marshall Chandler of Cleveland, Chief of Police Heffein of Toledo arrested William Lockhart Russell, the millionaire oil and mining magnate, at Lima, Ohio, yesterday, awaiting the arrival of a deputy marshal from Toledo with a proper warrant, charging him with obtaining money under false pretences in connection with mining promotions in Toronto, Canada.

Russell returned to his home in Lima about ten days ago from Ecuador, after being engaged there for the past year in the construction of telephone lines.

He is prepared to fight his case in Toronto, claiming that he was in Europe at the time of the alleged misdeeds.

Russell was arrested on the complaint of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department at Toronto. It is claimed he was in partnership with Frank Law of Toronto, now serving a five-year term in the penitentiary for the flotation of the Silver Bird, Lucky Boys, Blue Bell and other mining companies, which the crown alleged were simply fraudulent creations for the swindling of small investors or speculators in mining shares. During the Law trial Russell was said to be in Paris, but it was repeatedly promised that he would return to Toronto to face his accusors. Instead, he went to South America, returning to this city on Wednesday last.

Russell has always been regarded as one of the representative citizens of Lima, and has been a resident here for the past six years, living in elegant style in a beautiful colonial mansion on fashionable West Market street.

Russell, in 1901-1902, promoted the United States Oil Co. and the Sand Fork Extension, both million-dollar flotations, and during the high price of oils paying big dividends. Much of the capital in these enterprises came from England and France. He later took up the Union Oil, Gas & Refining Co., but this proved a failure. Russell retired from the oil trade in the decadence of the stock company period, and organised the Bank of Lima, with a capital of $50,000, a savings bank feature being offered the public. When the Lima man became interested in Cobalt his bank was merged with another, and the room still remains vacant.

Russell has been philanthropic and generous. He has gained a permanent social footing, and in private life his word is as good as a bond. He was elected a delegate to the National Republican convention in 1904, and is a strong supporter of President Taft.

When the Law & Co. case was first mentioned here, Mr. Russell consented to an interview, and stated then that though not fully advised he understood there were objections to the literature which had been utilized by President Frank Law, Russell himself being vice-president of the company attacked.

Early in October last Mr. and Mrs. Russell, which Miss Olive King, sailed to Europe, spent four months in London, and were in Paris at the time the Canadian law suit began. He was planning a South American voyage, but returned directly here and consulted counsel.

Flight Expected To-day.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 9.—In spite of McCurdy's efforts to get the Canadian aerodrome for flight Saturday, many unforeseen adjustments have been necessary owing to the parts being knocked about in transit from Nova Scotia. Tanks and radiators were found to be leaking, and the controlling gear and propeller shaft required fitting.

To-day, however, will doubtless see "Baddeck No. 1" given preliminary try out flights.

'Phone Service In Pekin.

New York, Aug. 9.—The tinkle of 2,500 American telephones installed by New York company will be heard in the heart of Pekin, China, within a year. The Chinese Government has signed a contract with a New York company for the installation of a complete telephone system in the capital city at a cost of $150,000. The plant will have an ultimate capacity of 20,000 lines.

Defying Death.

There is no use of reading any more rules about how to live a long time. An old lady 100 years old has eaten New England doughnuts all her life.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

The Official Goat.

"Your wife doesn't seem to care much for that friend of yours."

"No. He's the man I lay the blame on when I'm detained downtown."—Philadelphia Post.

Domestic Drowns.

Gananoque, Aug. 9.—Catherine MacDonald, of Toronto, was drowned here Saturday morning. The girl is employed in the home of Clarkson Jones of Toronto, who has his summer home here. She came here about a month ago. The girl had gone in bathing and got beyond her depth.

Alabama Prohibition.

Montgomery, Ala., Aug. 9.—The drastic Carmichael prohibition law was passed by the Senate, 23 to 2, and now awaits the signature of Alabama's prohibition governor to become a law. The bill forbids the sale of drinks containing more than 1 1-2 per cent. alcohol.

Dismissed Employes Compete.

Paris, Aug. 9.—One hundred and fifty of the late employes of the Paris postoffice, dismissed as a result of the strike, have organized a competition with the Government for the distribution of newspapers, circulars, collection of accounts, etc.

The association, which calls itself the Laborious, expects to begin operations on Tuesday, and claims the promised patronage of nearly 100,000 business houses. It has engaged commodious headquarters and adopted an attractive trademark and uniform for its employes.

It was conceived as a means by which discharged strikers might earn a livelihood. The scheme developed and obtained pledges of support which promise to build up the greatly-needed institution. Since the strike, however, the French postal service has improved, but the telephone service is as bad as ever.

Deadly Tube Is Lost.

Paris, Aug. 9.—Paris is excited over one of the most curious cases of loss ever known. A gentleman left on a seat in an omnibus a tiny package valued at $50,000. The peculiarity of the package is that it will injure for life the person who picks it up and opens it, being a tube containing salts of radium.

Although only one-sixteenth of a grain, its emanations are sufficient to cause fearful and incurable wounds. The fate of the finder who looks into the tube which is the size of a cigarette, is certain.

No infernal machine was ever so frantically sought as this tiny tube by the Paris police. All omnibuses were searched and swept, and urgent warnings were posted in public places. The newspapers united in advertising notice to the finder not to touch it.

$5 Lectures on Suffragism.

New York, Aug. 9.—Mrs. O. P. Belmont, who has already devoted a great deal of time and money to the cause of woman's suffrage, announced last night that she had decided to open Marble House, her Newport residence, to the public for two lectures on the cause. The first lecture on Tuesday, Aug. 24, will be by Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, and on Saturday, Aug. 28, Prof. Charles Zublin of the University of Chicago will be the speaker. A $5 admission fee is to be charged to raise funds to carry on the crusade for suffrage.

Married 5,000 Couples.

Youngstown, Ohio, Aug. 9.—After marrying his 5,000th couple, according to his own computation, Dr. E. S. Whistlar was taken ill last Friday night and died here Saturday. Dr. Whistlar was known as the marrying parson. Up to three years ago he practiced dentistry, but as a layman of the Christian Church was authorized to perform the marriage ceremony.

Victim of Auto Accident.

This Year's Apple Crop.

Buffalo, Aug. 9.—An apple crop in the United States slightly in excess of that of a year ago and 50 per cent. larger in Canada, is the estimate made by Secretary Rothwell before the International Apple Shippers' Association. The quality of the crop is rated poor to good.

What's causing this awfully hot weather? Spots on the sun or the way some people are getting worked up over the sewerage situation?

Anyhow, to prove that conditions are out of the ordinary, here is a true story: Ten days ago, the captain of an ocean steamer, while in the Arctic current, near Cape Race, took the temperature of the ocean, as his routine of duties compelled him to do, and found it ten degrees above normal, namely, 54, being ten degrees warmer than the captain, in 17 years' experience running into Montreal, had ever found the water in the Arctic current. The naval man made this remark to the writer: "You'll find it pretty hot when you reach your home in Ontario." The captain did not claim to be a prophet, or the son of a prophet, but he certainly tore off a few lines of truth on that occasion. And what made the water warmer? Well, the captain's theory was that the Gulf Stream is changing its course.

Cheer up. It isn't costing us much for coal these days, anyhow.

[illegible] conditions in New Zealand are bad, and the men crowd the towns and look to the Government to care for them. The Lyttleton Times, of Christchurch, says there are many unemployed in the cities, "yet the men decline to go out of the towns to look for work." A like state of affairs exists in Canada to a certain extent. Men who come from cities in the Old Country prefer to half starve in a city rather than go into the country to work.

The Globe has a column in praise of the Ross rifle with which the Canadians won at Bisley, but it does not tell its readers that the rifle used was not the service Ross rifle, but a superior make costing twice as much. Neither does it state that the authorities have passed a rule that, in future, all shooting at Bisley must be done with the service arm, which will bar out the rifle which the Canadian team just used. This is blunt British condemnation of a sharp "Yankee" trick.

The Ottawa Citizen mentions the fact that, 20 years ago, experiments were being made with flying machines, and that they were nearly as far advanced as they are to-day. Which shows that the large expenditure of time and money in the last 20 years has stood for very little. And supposing the fad does turn out successful: will it be of much practical benefit to humanity?

Misfits Deported From Peterborough

AN INCIDENT WHICH SHOWS HOW THE IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS ARE DOING THEIR WORK.

Peterboro, August 6. — Mr. Peter Devlin, the Government official who looks after the deportations from this country, was in the city yesterday morning to look after the deportation of an English family by the name of Walsh. The family, in which there are four small children, came here from Montreal some time ago, and had been living in a small house on Water street. Their circumstances were wretched. There was only one room for the entire family, and this was made to serve not only as an eating and living room, but also as a place for sleeping. A mattress and a few old rags in a corner was all the bedding there was in sight. When night came the children burst themselves in the rags and huddled together to keep away the cold night air. There was nothing to eat in the house. The husband was of a very sickly and weak nature, and was not strong enough to do the only kind of labor that he could get. The mother being absent during the day, the children were allowed to run uncared for on the city streets, and although very young, were rapidly falling into dissolute habits. For some time the family had been living almost entirely on charity, and also it is said paid many visits to the second-hand shops, until finally their stock of saleable articles gave out, and the charity officers were compelled to refuse any further appears for aid.

The family had been in this country too long to deport by the usual means, and for some time it was doubtful whether they would be returned to the Old Country or not. Finally, however, owing to a special charity arrangement between the Canadian Government and the steamboat lines, orders were given for the deportation of the family, which was begun yesterday, Mr. Devlin taking them to Montreal with him on the noon train.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

SPORTING NOTES.

Lacrosse results on Saturday: Tecumsehs outplayed the Shamrocks, beating them 12-5 in a sensational match; Montreal beat Cornwall 9-3.

The New York Athletic Club eight beat Toronto Argonauts at Detroit on Saturday, the Canucks being beaten by only a dozen feet. Jimmy Cosgrave won the senior single sculls, but was disqualified. He was six lengths ahead at the finish.

Cosgrave will go Henley after the Diamond Sculls next year. He seems to be the goods.

Frank Lukeman of Montreal did the hundred in 9 4-5ths on Saturday, on the M. A. A. A. grounds.

The Belleville Driving Park Club have their first Matinee of the Season at the Driving Park on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 11th, when they will have contests for two or more classes. The horses which are likely to compete are Tim Alert, 2.13 1-2, Walter G., Jim K., The Jap, Hal Patron; Togo, St. Peter, Mark Time, Agnes Pointer, Hellmore, Silver King and some others.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

Mrs. R. Gunyou, charged with conducting a disorderly house, and Mrs. F. Renfrew, accused of being an inmate, were this morning up for sentence, having previously pleaded guilty. The Magistrate, considering that both women have small children, imposed a suspended sentence of one year in the reformatory, and will allow them to go when the costs, $10 in each case, are paid. The accused are also bound over for good behavior.

CORPS VS. CORPS.

Real Live Competitions in the Military Competitions at the Canadian National.

The Military Display and Tournament at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, will have more features of real interest this year than anything of the kind previously attempted in Canada. In such competitions as the Victoria Cross and wrestling on horseback, corps will be arrayed against corps, the Royal Canadian Dragoons stationed at Toronto, against the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery stationed at Kingston. The rivalry between these corps is very keen, so much so that the men are also anxious to mix things up a bit with a single stick in the Balaclava Melee, if the permission of the officers can be obtained. However, the officers have not yet decided. Some think a few hard knocks would not hurt the men, while others are inclined to think that the competition would resolve itself into something too much like actual warfare.

"Mauretania" is the all-the-year-round collar. Men who wear it in summer for its style and comfort, wear it all winter for the same reasons.

SINCLAIR'S

Sewerage Matters.

MAYOR MARSH OUTLINES CONDITIONS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE RATEPAYERS.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—So many contradictory statements regarding the proposed "sewerage system" have come to my notice that I believe it wise to make a few general statements outlining the principle and correcting several mis-statements that are being made, and I shall feel thankful if you will allow me the necessary space in your columns.

There are so many cesspools and so many persons turning their sewage into open and ordinary covered drains all over the city that it is generally conceded by those that know the situation that to avoid an outbreak of a serious epidemic it is necessary to provide proper means to take care of the sewage of the whole city. This has been admitted by the city authorities for several years. Some streets, John, George, William, Charles and Bridge, have built sewers at their own expense. Front street, from the Albion hotel to the lower bridge, and Bridge St., from the Post office to the river, have been provided by the city. Outside of these few streets the city has absolutely no disposal for its sewage. This year's Council decided that it would not be wise to allow this existence of affairs to remain any longer. After much deliberation and many meetings it has decided to outline a system of trunk sewers for the entire west side of the city, and also a trunk sewer on Dundas street on the east side to take care of any sewage not already provided for between Pine and Dundas streets. The proposal is to start at the outlets and build these trunk sewers as fast as they may be needed. As they are completed the cross streets or feeders may also be built on the same principle as the granolithic walks, i.e., by petition of residents or by the advertising of the Council as required by the Statutes. None of these feeders need be built until the residents want them.

In order that the cost of the system might be equally distributed over the part of the city it affected it was decided that all properties where fronting on trunk sewers, streets or side streets should pay a frontage tax for the cost of a 9-inch tile only, and where a larger tile was used for trunk purposes the surplus cost would be borne by the drained district as a whole. On the west side of the city trunk sewers would be laid on West Bridge, Commercial and Dundas, Moira, North Front and East Moira streets, all draining into Coleman street and finally into the bay. It is proposed to build some of these trunks at once, others, probably not for some time, at any rate not until they are required.

Let me emphasize the above, and also the following points:

(1) Bridge, John, George, William and Charles streets have paid for their own sewers entirely, without any help from any other portion of the city.

(2) Under the proposed system, sewers will be built only as required and paid for in the same manner.

(3) Corner lots will be carefully considered, and when all details are finally arranged will likely be exempted to a reasonable amount of frontage on the street to which they do not connect.

(4) The city pays the cost of street drainage into the sewers.

(5) A sewerage system is absolutely necessary.

(6) Unless a system of this kind is adopted in the immediate future it will be necessary to close cesspools and forbid all drainage of sewage into open or ordinary covered drains in order to prevent contamination of wells and poisonous odors floating in the air.

(7) The present outlets into the river from East and West Bridge streets are both unsightly and unhealthy and should be closed.

The Engineer has gone carefully over the whole situation and drawn profiles, showing the Engineer's end of the proposition, and these plans are open for everybody's inspection.

It seems to me that every property owner in the city, if he considers at all the health and comfort of his family, or his tenant, to be insured by a general sewerage system, will be only too glad to see the work completed.

Yours respectfully,
L. W. MARSH,
Mayor.

PILES Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and guaranteed cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles. See testimonials in the press and ask your neighbors about it. You can use it and get your money back if not satisfied. 60c, at all dealers or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto.
DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

A GUARANTEED CURE

For Indigestion and Dyspepsia

There is no hesitation or quibbling about the claims which the Coleman Medicine Company make for their wonderful "Little Digesters". They come out straight with the statement that "Little Digesters" will positively cure even chronic Indigestion or Dyspepsia, as well as Heartburn and Sour Stomach.

They GUARANTEE "Little Digesters" to cure. If they fail, you get your money back, promptly and without question.

Of course they would not make such positive statements, or give such a guarantee, if they had not proved, beyond the shadow of a doubt, that "Little Digesters" WILL CURE.

"Little Digesters" do it simply and naturally, too, by helping out the weakened stomach—supplying just what it needs in the process of digestion, and enabling it to assimilate the food. Soon the whole system regains its vigor, and the stomach needs no further help.

"Little Digesters" are put up in little red boxes, sold for 25c by your druggist, or mailed by the Coleman Medicine Co., of Toronto. 29

Women's Needless Suffering.

FULL OF ACHES FRIGHT-BACK PAINS, PALE AND NERVOUS.

With the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, a Wife and Mother Saved From Death.

A few years ago doctors considered that only back pains and bladder disorders were traceable to the kidneys—but to-day science proves that many of the most fatal and dreaded diseases have their source in irregular kidney action.

Such was the case with Mrs. Anna A. Rodriques, a well known resident of Valencia—read her experience: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut."

For perfect health use Dr. Hamilton's Pills frequently—avoid all food which seems to distress and take as much exercise as possible.

No greater medicine exists than Dr. Hamilton's Pills for the cure of indigestion, constipation, flatulence, liver bladder and kidney trouble. Refuse substitutes for Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, or five boxes for $1.00 at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston Ont.

Sprained Wrist and Ankle

After Being Laid Up With Great Pain for Ten Days, Relief Was Gained Instantly By Applying NERVILINE.

One of the most soul-distressing accidents that can befall one is a bad ankle or wrist sprain. "If I had only known of 'Nerviline' earlier, I could have saved myself an enormous amount of pain, and many agonizing nights of sleeplessness." Thus writes P. P. Quinn, a young farmer living near Brockville. "I tumbled from a hay loft to the barn floor and sprained my right ankle and left wrist. They swelled rapidly and caused excruciating pains. It was not convenient to go to the city, and the liniment in the house was useless. When I got Nerviline relief came, quickly. It took down the swelling, relieved the pain, and gave me wonderful comfort.

TESTIMONIAL NO. 4266

"I can recommend Nerviline for strains, bruises, swellings, muscular pains and sore back. I have proved it a sure cure in such cases."

Think what it might some day mean to you to have right in your home, ready for an accident or emergent sickness, a bottle or two of Nerviline. Get it to-day, 25c, or five for $1.00, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

SUPPOSE.

Suppose to you a fortune came.
Your troubles bringing to an end;
How would you juggle with the same
If it should suddenly descend
And with your present holdings blend,
As I much hope sometime it may?
How would you use the money, friend,
Had you a million for a day?

Would you all fellowship disclaim
With poverty, and ne'er extend
A hand to one whose purse was lame—
His broken fortune help to mend?
Or would you graciously unbend
How would you all the money spend
Had you a million for a day?

Oh, would it be your lofty aim
From humble doors the wolf to send
To cheer the loser in the game,
The weakling and the lorn defend,
And on their lesser wants attend?
Or would you turn and walk away?
What would you keep or give or lend
Had you a million for a day?

This is one of the old stories told by Henry Clews, of Travers, the New York stammering wit. Mr. Clews always insists that the average Wall Street broker is the most honest of men.

"Travers," said Mr. Clews, "was once invited to be a guest at a yacht regatta. The waters of Newport harbor were covered with beautiful squadron. Mr. Travers found that each yacht belonged to a banker or broker. He gazed blankly into the distance for a time, and then inquired softly:

"'W-w-w-where are the c-c-customers' yachts?'"

* * *

There is excuse for hesitancy in accepting preoffered information under extraordinary conditions.

"All the latest popular novels," sang out the train boy. Then, holding out a copy of "The Guest of Quesnay" to a prosperous looking passenger, he urged:

"Buy Booth Tarkington's latest work, sir?"

The man looked annoyed. "No! I am Booth Tarkington himself."

"Then buy a copy of "Three Weeks,"" persisted the boy. "You ain't Elinor Glyn, too, are you."

An Independent Miller.

When Frederick built his famous palace of Sans Souci there happened to be a mill that greatly hampered him in the execution of his plans, and he asked the miller for how much he would sell it. The miller replied that for a long series of years his family had owned the mill, which had passed from father to son, and that he would not sell it for any price. The king used every solicitation, offered to build him a mill in a better place and pay him, besides, any sum he might demand, but the obstinate miller still persisted in his determination to preserve the inheritance of his ancestors.

Irritated at last by his conduct, the king sent for him and said in an angry tone:

"Why do you refuse to sell your mill notwithstanding all the advantages I have offered you?"

The miller repeated his reasons.

"Do you know," continued the king, "that I could take it without giving you a penny?"

"Yes," returned the miller calmly, "if it were not for the chamber of justice at Berlin."

The king was so flattered by this answer, which showed that he was incapable of an act of injustice, that he dismissed the miller without further entreaty and changed the plan of his garden.

PRINCESS SUSETTE AND THE SENTRY.

A Spell of Genuine Joy For the Royal Baby.

By HARRY C. CARR.

There was a vivid flash in the sunshine as the sentry by the palace gate raised his saber in salute to the Princess Susette.

Her highness had run away from her nurse and stood peeking out curiously into the great world beyond the gates. The children of the lodgekeeper were making mud pies in the creek that skirted the palace grounds. The Princess Susette wished that she, too, might make mud pies.

The flash from the sentry's saber caught her eye. The Princess Susette meditatively sucked one little pink thumb and surveyed him with round eyed wonder. He looked big and terrible on his great gray troop horse.

"What makes you do that?" inquired Princess Susette plaintively, for the long saber at "present arms" was glimmering with little hot flashes of light.

"I WISH I COULD MAKE MUD PIES," SAID HER HIGHNESS.

"Because you are a princess," said the sentry briefly.

"I don't want to be a princess," she wailed. "They won't let you do nossin' when you are a princess."

The sentry sat in frozen silence.

"I wish I could made mud pies," said her highness wistfully.

The Princess Susette came timidly out from the gateway and touched the sentry's hussar boot with a tiny dimpled hand.

"Mr. Soldier," she said softly, "I wish I could make mud pies."

"The orders are that nobody can pass the gate," growled the sentry.

The sweet lips of the Princess Susette quivered, and the big blue eyes of the Princess Susette filled with tears.

"Oh, Mr. Soldier," she sobbed, "I'm such a lonely little girl! I wish I had some one to play wiz."

The heart of the Princess Susette overflowed with woe. Her highness leaned heavily against the shoulder of the big war horse and wept bitter tears on the sabertache of the sentry. The boot of the sentry was streaked with royal tears, and the black from the sentry's stirrup strap begrimed the face of the princess.

The sentry glared straight out to the front and center through a strange mist that dimmed the outlines of the gatepost opposite.

The gray troop horse bent his head and softly nozzled the plump, heaving shoulders of the unhappy little Princess Susette.

The light of an inspiration came into the tear stained face of the princess. She sat down in the middle of the road and peeled off her shoes and stockings. The little barelegged maid in stiff white lawn presented a queer figure of a princess as her highness paddled back to the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier," she began tentatively, but the speech died on her lips. She had just discovered that making figures in the dust with one's bare toe is the most fascinating amusement in the world. She was recalled from her absorbing occupation by the distant rattle of pony hoofs. Her nurse was in pursuit.

The princess looked up eagerly at the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier!" she said.

The sentry looked straight out to the front and center and paid no heed.

"Mr. Soldier!" this in a breathless panic.

Still the sentry would not look, so she gave his leg a vicious pinch.

The sentry's saber flashed again to "present arms."

"Can I go now?" asked the Princess Susette.

"Nobody can pass," said the sentry gruffly.

The princess looked up at him slyly.

"Mr. Soldier, nursy wouldn't let me go barefooted because she said only little nobodies went barefooted. I'm nobody now."

And the Princess Susette held up her shoes and stockings for him to see.

On one side the sentry could hear the hoof beats growing louder, and through the shrubbery he caught a glimpse of a pony cart driven hard. On the other side he heard the splash of water and the happy shout of the lodgekeeper's children. The lips of the lonely little princess were beginning to quiver again when the sentry's saber flashed a defiant gleam as it rose in salute.

"Pass!" said the sentry shortly.

The Princess Susette, barelegged, ran down the road and shyly made her way into the bakery business with the lodgekeeper's children. The sentry glanced out of the corner of his eye to the right of him, to the left of him. No one was nigh.

Then he called cautiously after the Princess Susette: "Build a dam across the creek. That's more fun than making mud pies."

When the pony cart came dashing up in hot haste, with a groom and a frightened nurse, the sentry, without a trace of expression in his face, was staring at the gatepost opposite.

The sentry sat in stern silence. It was against his orders to talk.

"Where is the Princess Susette?" demanded the nurse in sudden terror.

The sentry stared on at the gatepost opposite, but beyond the gate came a childish treble that the nurse knew. The Princess Susette was shrieking with delight over her first mud pie.

The nurse grabbed the lines from the groom and urged the pony forward by jerking the lines backward after the manner of women. The sentry's horse moved majestically out from the gatepost and blocked the way.

"Get out of the way!" ordered the nurse furiously.

"You cannot pass!" said the sentry coldly.

"I want the Princess Susette!" cried the nurse wildly.

She jerked the pony's head and tried to turn by the sentry, but a great gauntlet caught the pony's bridle and held it in a vise. The pony, bewildered by the whip behind, began to plunge, and the groom had to run to his head.

The distracted nurse scrambled from the cart and ran with flying skirts toward the gate, but the gray troop horse felt the dig of sharp spurs and plunged desperately out to head her off. Crowded into a corner by the palace gate, the nurse called to the groom to drive on and get the Princess Susette.

The troop horse wheeled, and the sentry whipped out a gleaming pistol from his saddle holster.

"Halt!" he thundered, and the order rang in the ears of the groom like a pistol shot. The pistol looked big and black, and the gaunt soldier by the gate with his bearskin hussar cap and the scarlet dolman over his shoulder was terrible to look upon.

The groom slunk back, and the nurse wept in despair.

* * *

It was the best time the Princess Susette ever had in her whole life.

When she came back the hair had struggled down into her highness' face and there was a smudge of blue black mud across the tip of her highness' little snub nose. Her highness' stockings, wet as a dish rag, were slung around her highness' neck in a lovely way that the lodgekeeper's children had shown her. The princess carried one shoe in her hand; the other had floated off down the stream after a tempestuous career as an ocean liner, plying across the creek and carrying pebbles. The princess sniffed with a cold in her head, but the heart of the princess was glad.

The nurse, on the verge of hysterics, waited on the other side of the sentry line, like a football player ready to tackle.

But the Princess Susette turned back to the sentry.

"Mr. Soldier," she said.

The sentry was staring fixedly at the gatepost.

"Mr. Soldier," she said, tugging at his boot—"Mr. Soldier, I fink I would like to kiss you."

The sentry looked down out of the corner of his eye at the sweet little flushed face. The sentry sheathed his drawn saber with a clang. The sentry reached down his two big gauntlets to the Princess Susette.

The nurse and the groom were horrified at the spectacle.

One Way of Finding It.

A farmer was working in his hayfield when a neighbor came up and engaged in a chat, which developed into a dispute about something or other.

"It's like looking for a needle in a haycock," said the first farmer.

"And that's easy enough," said the neighbor.

"Easy, is it?" retorted the other. "I bet you 5 shillings you won't find a needle I'll hide in that there haycock in an hour!"

"Done with you for 5 bob!" cried his neighbor.

The first farmer thereupon hid a needle in the haycock and called "Time!"

His neighbor drew a match from his pocket, set fire to the haycock and rushed off at top speed to his own house. Back he came presently and found the haycock reduced to a heap of ashes. Flourishing a huge horseshoe magnet, he plunged it into the ashes and in a minute withdrew it with the needle clinging to it.

"The result of scientifick eddication!" he said proudly to the first farmer, who was gazing ruefully at the ashes of his haycock. "If you'd 'a' bin eddicated scientifickally up to date like me you'd be richer by 5 bob and the haycock."—London Answers.

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

No stretch of the imagination would make it possible to consider you in such a role. But you are an adorable woman, and Eugene is the luckiest duffer alive.'

"I think the nice girls have the best of it, Regy," said Rhoda, answering the last part of his speech with the grateful smile that she held always in readiness for any kind word.

"Why, madame?"

"The average man doesn't care for adorable women."

"You ought to know better, since I and a dozen like me have long adored you in vain. But adorable women don't care for the average man."

"Yes, they do! They break their hearts caring, and they only make the average man uncomfortable."

"Of course it is! You don't suppose I blame him? But it does seem hard that a woman who just sits around and looks sweet, and has no more idea of the thousand temptations, trials, and interests that make up a man's life than she has of the "fourth dimension," should have so much more influence with him always than one who understands, sympathizes, and bends her whole being to constancy, patience and love."

Rhoda's voice trembled a little as she finished speaking. It was an old pain that had been stung into throbbing life again since her engagement to Merriam.

"That's just what he doesn't want," said Regy seriously. "Comprehension I mean. A man's sole salvation lies in taking mighty good care that a woman doesn't understand him. When she does, it's a sad day for him."

"But you are not right to say that Regy," said Rhoda, her voice still

"Regy, you are such a nice boy!"

"Rhoda, you are not a nice girl. tense with resistance, and tremulous with the indignant tears that had risen to her eyes. "It is the understanding that gives the patience."

"Who wants to be an object of patience? I broke my first engagement because the young woman treated me with forbearance."

"Oh," said Rhoda despairingly, "you are all alike! You care for a woman least when she gives you her best."

'Only when it is better than our best."

"Regy, men can't be so ungenerous."

"Rhoda, they can, but they won't. That is not the question. It simply discourages a man awfully to be found out."

"But why need there be anything to find out? If a man have failings—"

"He generally has."

"Why cannot he own them and rest on the love that condones everything in confession."

"I'm sure I don't know, but it isn't his way as a rule."

"I wish any one could give me any good reason for any existing fact in life!" exclaimed Rhoda passionately.

"My stock of explanations for the universe is short, just now," said Regy, "but I can give you some good advice, though my years are less than yours by one, and my knowledge and general worth by an incalculable quantity. Don't be too upright. If you let any man know, that he can't harm you, no matter what he does, if you make him sure that your character lies beyond his reach; that you'll take good treatment as a blessing and bad as a discipline, he'll be sure to abuse his privileges. It frees him from all sense of responsibility, you see. He travels light; no moral responsibilty to carry. That's why the scatterbrains succeed; they have to be looked after, and a man's hands can't be idle when they're filled with a dear little dead weight, and he can't get into mischief if he is busy all the time taking care of somebody who can't or won't take care of herself."

"But some clever women have succeeded."

"Then they were tricky."

Now the tears did fall.

"It is of no use," said Rhoda. "How can one be large and noble, living in a world where you must be either stupid or dishonest to succeed in bringing about desirable results? I am so tired, so tired of all this talk of what is 'wise.' What can be better wisdom than to be true to one's best self, let the event be what it may?"

Regy was sorry to see her tears, but he yawned a little behind the magazine he was cutting for his mother He thought Rhoda rather crude at times, and was bored by her guileless philistinism where Eugene had been irritated. Regy was an essentially amiable person, but the blight of modern civilization had fallen on him. There is no doubt that Rhoda was afflicting to a young gentleman who had decided that nothing mattered much. He was prepared to accept all sorts of uncomfortable exaltations in his mother, as the ground-swell of emotions in a subsiding generation, but Rhoda was young enough to know better.

Mrs. Winter looked at Rhoda wistfully. She loved that young woman, but she was full of care concerning her. Rhoda was good and sweet; there seemed to be no hidden turns or oblique lines in her character, but Mrs. Winter was not easy about her.

"She seems a thoroughly amiable woman," she had said to Merriam, after her first meeting with his betrothed.

"Amiable? Oh, yes! My only cause for complaint is in the fact that she is so truly good," Merriam had replied.

"She needs to be, to endure you," his aunt had retorted, laughing. It seemed as if his mother had left in legacy to her two sisters a sweet incompetence to take Merriam's faults seriously. Neither Mrs. Winter nor the Countess von Wildenord ever regarded this battered poet of thirty-five as more than a wayward and charming child, finding a unique grace in that very irresponsibility which was the despair of those who, recognizing his strange talent, saw on it the fatal blight of indirection. Both keen and practical women of the world, in the best sense of the phrase, the divine blindness of maternity smote them both, mothers of men-children as they were, looking on the motherless son of their dead sister. They always spoke of any delinquency, poetical or personal, of which the perception was unavoidable, as a 'phase,' and refused to see in them the inevitable manifestation of a character that had hardened into permanent shape.

But even Mrs. Winter would admit that Merriam was 'trying' at times. This, to be sure, was among the unquestioned rights of men, who had so much always to "try" them, but it could not be denied that Eugene used his privilege with the utmost freedom. Still, she did not attribute to him

The Simple Village Belle.

She is a simple village belle
Whom we, perforce, admire.
No splendid effort to be "swell"
Is shown in her attire.
Her shirt waist is both neat and white.
She wears a flowered bonnet.
In olden times so fair a sight
Would have inspired a sonnet.

She strolls along unconscious that
By all she is adored.
What think you if I tell you flat
She's here for summer board;
That, though attired with simpleness,
Expert dressmaking scholars
Assert her unassuming dress
Cost just two hundred dollars?

The Vain Mosquito.

Said the July mad mosquito
As he hummed the way along:
"I wonder why the mocking birds
Don't imitate my song;
I sing all night, and so do they,
And I can beat them night or day!

My music understands,
He's giving me an encore.
Just hear him clap his hands!
It's music I was born to teach,
But keep me from my pupils' reach!"

MIND OVER MATTER.

The Power of the Spirit in Helping to Retain Life.

The power of the mind over the body, as demonstrated in all forms of faith healing, was recognized in the seventeenth century by Richelieu's physician, Citois. Summoned to attend his master's constant fits of depression, Citois would solemnly call for a sheet of paper on which to write a prescription, and almost invariably after his departure the prescription would prove to consist of the words "One dram of Boisrobert," Boisrobert being a poet of small talent, but possessed of high spirits and wit. In those days, when the common remedy was bleeding, when it is known that Voiture, the poet, was bled to death and the Princess of Conti, suffering from apoplexy, was beaten till she died in the hope of rousing her from her lethargy, it is no wonder that a humane and a human physician like Citois should have been successful.

The famous frequenter of the French salons, Fontenelle, is, however, the best example of the power of the spirit in retaining life. At the age of ninety-five he fell when picking up a lady's handkerchief and made the historic remark, "Ah, que je n'ai pas encore mes quatre-vingits ans." A certain callousness marked his determination not to die, as on the occasion when, a friend dying beside him at the table, he requested his man to remove him and continued his conversation. He managed, nevertheless, to survive to within a month of his hundred years and then complained that he would have lasted much longer had not the outbreak of war "put a stop to pleasant conversation."—London Chronicle.

THE CUP THAT CHEERS.

Tea Flowers and the Way They Are Gathered in China.

Early writers speak of tea as having two varieties. One, Thea bohea, they supposed to be the source of the black and the other, Thea viridis, of the green tea. But Robert Fortune established the fact in 1843 that, while these two varieties existed, black and green were made indifferently from both.

The tea flower is small, single, white and has no smell. The seeds are three small nuts, like filberts, and have an oily and bitter taste. The leaves only are used. Only the young leaves are gathered, and the younger and tenderer they are the better. They are collected when the plant is three years old, the process being continued year after year until the bush becomes weak and diseased, when it is pulled up to give place to a new shoot.

In China there are about three crops annually, the first being gathered as soon as the leaves break in the spring, April to May, and the latter as new "flushes" (buds) are made by the plants which have been stripped of their earlier foliage, this harvest beginning in June or July and lasting as late as September or October.

An almond eyed oriental, Lo Yu, the earliest Chinese writer, pronounces this eulogium on tea:

"It tempers the spirits and harmonizes the mind, dispels lassitude and relieves fatigue, awakens thought and prevents drowsiness, lightens and refreshes the body and clears the perceptive faculties."—New York World.

The Fox and the Hen.

A Fox, having crept into an outhouse, looked up and down for something to eat and at last spied a Hen sitting upon a perch so high that he could by no means come to her. He therefore had recourse to an old stratagem. "Dear cousin," he said to her, "how do you do? I heard that you were ill and kept at home. I could not rest, therefore, till I had come to see you. Pray let me feel your pulse. Indeed, you do not look well at all." He was running on in this impudent manner when the Hen answered him from the roost: "Truly, dear Reynard, you are in the right. I was seldom in more danger than I am now. Pray excuse my coming down. I am sure I should catch my death." The Fox, finding himself foiled, made off and tried his luck elsewhere.—Aesop.

Self Evident.

One of the dangers of a little knowledge is that its possessor rarely estimates it at its true value. Ignorance, it has been said, bestows her choicest gifts on those who value her least.

"I am afraid, Mr. Johnson," replied the teacher, "that your contempt has not been bred by familiarity.'

THE HOPE OF ISRAEL

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHES ON THE CHOSEN PEOPLE.

Persistency of Hebrew Race Is a Remarkable Thing—Hope of the Jewish People Is Built Upon the Covenant Made With Abraham—Considered Jesus a Brilliant Impester —A New Covenant.

Brooklyn, N.Y., Aug. 8.—Pastor Russell preached to-day in Brooklyn Tabernacle to a crowded house from the text, "Comfort ye, comfort ye my people, saith your God. Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem, and cry unto her that her appointed time is accomplished; that her iniquity is pardoned; for she hath received of the Lord's hand double for all her sins" (Isaiah xl, 1, 2.)

Explain it how we will, there is a persistency in the Hebrew race not found in any other. Many and great nations have risen and fallen since God's promise to Abraham, "In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." The Hebrew race alone has continued. It is with us to-day—a power throughout the civilized world. In literature, medicine, science, and art, as well as in finance, the Jew occupies to-day a high position. No other nationality can make as good a general showing.

The Jew, willingly or unwillingly, is a witness for God and his Word—not that the Jewish traits are all amiable, or Godlike, or worthy to be copied, or worthy to be considered examples for the remainder of mankind, but because the race connects us up with the great promise of God, which is the hope of the whole world—the Oath-Bound Covenant made with Abraham, which is yet to be fulfilled.

The Jews know, and Christians know, that for centuries Israel was God's peculiar people, of whom he said, "You only have I known of all the families of the earth" (Amos iii, 2). Both know also that since the time of Jesus' death that favored nation has been cut off from the favors once enjoyed, has been a people without a country, held together indeed, but subjected to calamities and persecutions. But very few of either Jews or Christians have investigated and are aware that there is an exact parallel, or duplication, of time between the two experiences of Israel—that is to say, that the period of their favor ending at the Cross of Christ, and the period of their disfavor beginning at the Cross, are of exactly the same length, or duration. And comparatively few know that there are several distinct promises which foretold this parallelism, this division of Israel's history into two great, equal portions, one of favor and the other of disfavor, each 1,845 years long.

One of these prophecies marked the beginning of Israel's disfavor in advance, saying, "The days come, saith the Lord, when I will cast you off, and show you no favor" (Jeremiah xvi, 13), and render unto you double. Another of these Scriptures pointed to the exact date which constituted the turning point in their experience, saying, "Even to-day do I declare that I will render unto you double"—literally, the other half of your experience (Zechariah ix, 12). That turning day is distinctly noted by the Prophet as being the one on which our Lord rode to Jerusalem on the ass at the close of his ministry, when he wept over the city of Jerusalem and said, "Your house is left unto you desolate. Ye shall see me no more until that day when ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord" (Matthew xxiii, 38,39).

Our text marks the closing of Israel's period of disfavor, announces the forgiveness of Israel's sins and the return to that people of God's smile of favor and states the reason for this in the words, "He hath rendered unto her double for all her sins." Not double punishment, as though God were unjust to punish too severely, but a double, or parallel, of experience under disfavor corresponding to a previous period of experience under Divine favor as God's peculiar people.

Every Christian who is rightly informed and of proper heart will have three reasons for pleasure in speaking comfortingly to the Jew, in harmony with the exhortation of our text, at the present time.

(1) He should have that general sympathy for the Jew as for all others of the human family, and should therefore be glad to rejoice with him that the end of his tribulations is near at hand, even though the Scriptures distinctly declare that his tribulation will close with a very sharp experience.

(2) When the Christian remembers that the hopes and promises which he cherishes belonged once to the Jew, and were forfeited by that nation because of unpreparedness of heart to receive the Messiah, it must cause a fresh sympathy. While rejoicing in the riches of God's grace which, through the failure of the Jew, was extended to the Gentiles, we should also feel pity and sympathy for them in their loss of the Divine favor, which has come to us and which we enjoy (Romans xi, 28-32).

(3) The Christian may well rejoice with the Jew additionally because the Scriptures clearly indicate that with the end of Israel's disfavor will come the end of the present order of things and the inauguration of the Millennial Dispensation of Divine favor to Israel, and through Israel to the world. And this will mean the completion of the Church, her change in the "First Resurrection" from mortal to immortal, from earthly to heavenly conditions as the Bride of Christ and as Zion in the Millennial throne of glory—first to bless Israel, and then through Israel to extend that blessing to all the families of the earth (Romans xi, 26).

Let us hastily review Israel's hope, noting the while that it is this hope which has energized that people for now nearly four thousand years. The so-called "Hope of Israel," which has held that nation together as a peculiar people in the world, is built upon the Scriptural fact that God made a special Covenant with Abraham, saying, "In thy Seed shall all the families of the earth be blessed." This promise God made oath to, and hence the Israelites felt it to be immovably secure. For century after century they held to that promise, believing themselves to be Abraham's promised seed, and looking forward with anticipation to the time when God would exalt them as a nation and make them the rulers of the world, to establish his laws of righteousness in all the earth, and thus to bless mankind.

In due time, when Israel realized that her hope for attaining this high position was a glimmering one because of her national vicissitudes, God explained a still further feature of his plan, namely, that it would not be executed by the nation of Israel alone, but that he would send them the Messiah, the Mighty Immanuel, whose dominion would be from sea to sea and from the river to the ends of the earth, and that Israel would, however, constitute his special nation, which he would use in connection with the blessing of the other nations. This is still the hope of Israel, although it has become faded and dim by reason of the disappointments of the long centuries which have intervened since their rejection of Jesus.

The Jewish rulers saw nothing in the Redeemer but fraud. They considered Jesus an Imposter, brilliant in some respects, but a deceiver of the people. They feared his ultimately raising an insurrection, which would bring against their little nation the strong power of the Roman Empire and take from them the few liberties and privileges still enjoyed as a people. The High Priest expressed the prevalent sentiment,—"It is better that one man should die than that our whole nation should perish" (John xi, 49-51). His words, however, were true in a sense which he did not understand; for only by the death of Jesus could salvation ever have come to the Jewish nation or to the world. The Lamb of God must die, "the just for the unjust," to make reconciliation for iniquity. The penalty of Adam's sin must be met, before its death sentence could be lifted.

As St. Paul points out, nothing happened in our Lord's experiences not foreknown to the Father. Israel's rejection of Messiah, and the consequent rejection of Israel by him, were all foretold through the prophets. Let no one suppose that Israel's rejection was a finality; let no one understand that Israel fell; but merely that Israel stumbled; for, as St. Paul points out, the gifts and callings of God are things he will not repent of—will not deviate from (Romans xi, 29). Israel was cast off merely for a time, merely until Spiritual Israel would be gathered. When that great work shall have been accomplished, Divine favor will return to natural Israel—forgiveness of their sins, the opening of their blinded eyes, their restoration to Divine favor as a people, and the fulfilment through them of the promised blessing of all nations.

The thing which the Israelites did not understand, and which, alas! comparatively few Christians comprehend, is distinctly pointed out by St. Paul as the Mystery hidden from past ages and dispensations, and now made known unto the saints (Ephesians iii, 3-5). The Mystery is this: That Messiah would not be one individual merely, but a composite Messiah of many members. Messiah will be spiritual, not earthly, and hence the heavenly promises would be his—"an inheritance incorruptible, undefiled, that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven"—in the heavenly condition. This will still leave the many gracious promises of God of an earthly kind for natural Israel. But the fulfilment of those earthly promises is deferred until first the Spiritual Messiah, the Spiritual Seed of Abraham, Spiritual Israel, shall have been developed, perfected, glorified. Then the blessing of God proceeding through Spiritual Israel, the Messiah, under the headship of Jesus glorified, will extend to natural Israel, and in turn pass through natural Israel, during the Millennial Age, to all the families of the earth.

No wonder the Jews, to whom only earthly promises had ever been given, were surprised and perplexed by the teachings of Jesus respecting his Kingdom. They were expecting one which would be the glory of the world, and whose capital would be located at Jerusalem; but Jesus declared, "My Kingdom is not of this world." And again, "The Kingdom of God cometh not with observation (outward show); neither shall ye say, Lo, here (it is), nor, Lo, there (it is) for it shall be in the midst of you"—everywhere present, but invisible. Such teachings were too deep for the Jews, except for the few who were deeply spiritual and accepted our Lord's teachings on the strength of his merits. Even these did not understand his teachings until endued with Divine blessing and enlightenment at Pentecost. Then they remembered the Lord's words and appreciated them, as we may now do under the same blessed guidance.

Here was the Mystery—that during nearly nineteen centuries God's plan, so far as Israel and the world were concerned, was deferred, while Spiritual Israel, of which they had no previous intimation, was called, tested, and glorified. To Israel it would appear as though God had broken his Covenant with that nation, the natural seed of Abraham; a matter which they could not consider possible, in view of the fact that the original Covenant was bounden by the Lord's oath.

Yea, how wonderful! When we come to see into the matter properly, we perceive that Israel and the world could not have obtained their earthly blessings otherwise. "It was necessary that the Christ should suffer and should enter into his glory" on the heavenly plane — the Head—and then his foreknown Members. Thus the prophets have foretold the sufferings of The Christ, which have now lasted for nearly nineteen hundred years and the glory that should follow —the Millennial glory. (I. Peter, i. 11.) Our Lord Jesus, holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners (and yet through his mother a member of our race), by his obedience to the Divine Law, became heir of all things—all things which Father Adam had once possessed and had lost by his disobedience—earthly life under perfect or Paradisaical conditions, everlasting life, the rulership of earth, etc.

But instead of keeping these earthly blessings to himself, Messiah, in harmony with the Father's plan, sacrificed them, giving his life and all that pertained to human nature as a Ransom sacrifice for Adam and his race, and all their earthly rights. When our Lord had finished his sacrifice and ascended up on high, he applied the merit of it to the household of faith,—to all who trusted and obeyed him. What he gave to believers was the earthly rights which were lost by Adam and which he had purchased. But in order to become members of his Body, these believers were required to sacrifice the earthly interests and rights which they received by justification. This they have been doing for the nineteen centuries of this Gospel Age. Soon the last member of the predestined number, having acquired the Divine likeness, having consecrated all their earthly interests, and having been accepted of the Father, will have finished their share in the sacrifice of Christ—the "suffering of Christ" (I. Peter i, 11; Colossians i, 24).

The Law Covenant which God made with Israel, of which Moses was the mediator, St. Paul points out was an unsatisfactory one; not because the Law was bad, for it was perfect; not because the Divine proposition or Covenant connected with it was bad, for it offered eternal life to whoever would keep the Law. The difficulty lay in the facts that the Jews, like the remainder of the world, were imperfect, fallen, and unable to keep the Covenant, unable to fulfil the requirements of the Law. Hence, says St. Paul, "By the deeds of the Law shall no flesh be justified in God's sight" (Romans iii, 20).

God, however, assured Israel that at some time in the future he would make with them a New (Law) Covenant, which would be more satisfactory, and yield the desired results (Jeremiah xxxi, 31); that he would take away their stony hearts (not give them spiritual hearts, not make them "new creatures," but give them "hearts of flesh"); that at that time he would write the Law in their hearts. Is it asked how the New (Law) Covenant would differ from the old one, and how it could bless them, when the old Law Covenant merely brought upon them a sentence of death? The answer is given by the Apostle that the Covenant will be practically the same—a Covenant to give them eternal life on condition of obedience to the law; but a difference will consist in the fact that the Mediator of the New (Law) Covenant will be more capable than was the mediator of the old Law Covenant. Not that Moses was unfaithful, nor that he did not do his best to assist the people, but because the new Mediator, Christ, having "died, the just for the unjust," has a residue of merit at his disposal sufficient to make good to justice for the unwilling defects of Adam and all his race. In this way the New (Law) Covenant will be much more effective to Israel than the old one was.

Thus the work of the glorified Christ during the Millennial Age will accomplish much more for Israel and for the world than could possibly be done along the lines of simple faith such as Abraham exercised, and such as the household of faith now must exercise. The inauguration of the Millennial Kingdom, the subduing of sin and of Satan, the releasing of mankind from the bondage of sin and death, the opening of the blind eyes and the unstopping of the deaf ears, will enable the world practically to walk by sight, and to come to an accurate knowledge of the Truth, instead of merely a faith knowledge. Thus many of Adam's children will be helped under the New (Law) Covenant arrangement who could not have been helped under the original Covenant without this added feature of the New (Law) Covenant.

Should Begin Here.

A commission has gone to Denmark to learn why we are not holding our own in the British bacon market. The reason is plain. We are ceasing to produce. Why are we ceasing to produce in the face of a strong and advancing market, and with general conditions apparently so favorable? That question cannot be answered in Denmark. The answer can be given only by the Ontario farmer. If a commission is needed at all it would seem as if its enquiry should have begun in Ontario, if, indeed, the scope of its investigations should not have been confined to this province. —Weekly Sun.

A Bit Thick.

It was on one of the Clyde steamers. Some of the passengers were relating their experiences of fogs.

"Yes," said the old salt, "I've seen some pretty thick fogs in my time. Why, off the coast of Newfoundland the fog was sometimes so thick that we used to sit on the rail and lean against it! We were sitting one night, as usual, with our backs up against the fog, when suddenly the fog lifted, and we all went flop into the water. A bit thick, wasn't it?" —London Scraps.

Strathcona's Potatoes.

From the Macdonald experimental farm at St. Anne's an expert has gone down to test the capacity of newly adapted vegetables and fruits to survive and flourish in Labrador. In the old days, when Lord Strathcona was chief Hudson Bay trader, at Northwest River, he adapted some potatoes to the climate by cleverly cultivating only those whose leaves crawled on the ground instead of standing upright in the air as usual, and so being nipped by the first frost that came along.

Sir Edwin Pears.

Few Englishmen know more about eastern problems and politics than Sir Edwin Pears, who has just received the honor of knighthood. For the past thirty-five years he has acted as Daily News correspondent in Constantinople. He has seen no fewer than three Sultans deposed, and it was his letters about the Moslem atrocities in Bulgaria which first aroused Europe. Mr. Disraeli characterized them as exaggerated; but Sir Edwin soon proved the truth of his assertions.

MISS CLEM.

The Doubting Lover and His Uncle's Affianced Wife.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

[Copyright, [illegible], by Associated Literary Press.]

Oliver was staring out of the window with a set white face. Suddenly he turned toward the older man.

"Do you really mean, uncle, that you are going to marry Clementina Miles?" he asked in a low tone.

The major bristled indignantly. A slow red suffused his good looking face to the very roots of his white hair.

"I am, sir; I may be sixty, but I am still capable of loving a true, good woman—such as I know Clem Miles to be. I love her, and she says she loves me! Isn't that enough, sir?" He fixed piercing black eyes upon the young man.

Oliver winced. "Yes, indeed, Uncle Dick; I hope you will forgive me. I was surprised. I hope you will be very happy, and here's my hand on it!"

The major grasped it warmly. "That is the way to talk, my boy. If you'd been home looking after your old uncle instead of gallivanting around the world you might have seen which way the wind was blowing, eh?"

The young man smiled ruefully. "That's so, sir. When is—when is it to be?" he asked hesitatingly.

"In the fall—bless her sweet heart," beamed the major as he got up from his chair. "And now, Oliver, suppose you ride over to the Magnolias and take a bunch of roses to Clem with my compliments? You know all the family, of course?"

Oliver nodded. "You know I almost lived there ever since I was born," he said quietly.

"That's so—that's so. We'll saddle Firefly and renew old acquaintances and tell the ladies the latest fashion news from Paris. I'll cut some roses for Clem." The older man bustled away, while the younger with miserable eyes and reluctant feet made his way to the stables.

"ARE YOU PLEASED BECAUSE YOU ARE TO HAVE AN AUNT, OLIVER?"

Fifteen minutes later Oliver was riding away from the pillared portico where the major waved a brisk farewell.

A great sheaf of yellow roses rested on the pommel of the saddle, and their delicious fragrance assailed Oliver's nostrils with haunting memories of the last days before he had sailed for Europe.

He had walked with Clem Miles, his old playfellow, in the rose garden the very night before his departure, and Clem had promised to wait for his return, and now she was engaged to an old man—his uncle!

Oliver's thoughts were chaotic as he entered the familiar gates. His blue eyes were dazed with pain, and his kindly heart was filled with bitterness. He was torn with pity and contempt.

A white gown fluttered down a shady walk bordered with tall box.

In an instant Oliver had tied his horse to a tree and was after her with a stern, relentless face.

"I am glad to see you," she said simply. "We have been expecting you. The major said you must come today!"

Oliver did not smile. He took her outstretched hand in his own for one brief instant and then dropped it. His eyes took in the contrast of creamy skin and blue black hair, the velvet dark eyes and rose leaf mouth.

"My uncle sent these roses with his compliments," he said, with sudden awkwardness. "He has told me of his engagement to you, and I have come to tender my best wishes."

Clementina buried her face in the roses. "Thank you, Oliver," she said at last, lifting her blushing face to his.

Oliver frowned. "My uncle is very happy," he said deliberately. "His home has always lacked a mistress, and I am sure that no other could fill that position more charmingly than you."

Clementina sat down on a rustic bench and absently pulled the yellow roses to pieces. Her eyes watched the falling petals as they fluttered to the turf.

"Are you pleased because you are to have an aunt, Oliver?" she asked suddenly.

"An aunt!" Oliver stared at her. "Of course—I had forgotten the relationship—what a mockery!" he said thickly. He dropped down on the bench beside her. "How could you, Clem, after what you said that night?"

Clementina did not reply. The roses dropped to the ground with a rustle as she fled down the box bordered path and disappeared.

Oliver sat in miserable silence while the shadows lengthened. At last a light step sounded on the path, and there came into view a woman gowned in white, with snowy hair and a sweet, youthful face, much like Clementina's.

The young man rose to his feet as she approached.

At last she paused and stretched out a slender, jeweled hand. "You must be Oliver Stewart," she said graciously.

Oliver bent low over her hand. "And you—I must know you!" he stammered helplessly.

She laughed and shook her head. "You never set eyes on me before, Master Oliver. I am Clementina Miles—Mr. Miles' only sister—from Louisiana. I wonder if you know now."

A light came into Oliver's troubled eyes. "And you—you are to make my uncle the happiest man in the world," he replied with a smile.

Miss Clem blushed and nodded acquiescence. "Come and talk to me awhile," she said, leading the way into the rose garden.

"I thought it was Clem," explained Oliver at the end of a half hour. "She did not deny it."

"Perhaps little Clem thought that a man who had no faith in his sweetheart's loyalty needed a little punishment," said Miss Miles gravely.

Oliver reddened. "Oh, of course I know I acted like a duffer! I hope Clem will forget it."

At that moment Clementina herself came toward them. Her eyes were dancing with mirth.

"You are becoming acquainted with my Aunt Clem," she said demurely.

"My Aunt Clem to be—on both sides of the family," asserted Oliver as he took her willing hands in his, while Aunt Clem stole softly away and left them alone.

The Sinister Chameleon.

A chameleon which had been a long while in a cage had become so entirely the color of the wood that it was not easy to distinguish it. I placed it among plants and on the grass, but it did not turn green again, and then I left it on a vase of flowers, in the center of which I placed a tall, stiff spray. Soon the creature found its way to the very summit, and there it remained, as "still as death," until a fly happened that way. Then there was a very slight movement, a click was heard, and the chameleon resumed its silent observation as if no fly had been swallowed.

There is something cunning and weird, almost sinister, in the expression of that very small eye in the center or apex of its mobile globe, now turned upward, now downward, so quietly, yet so watchfully, rarely the two eyes looking the same way. The chameleon must surely be endowed with duality of brain, for it certainly must take in two ideas at once through its two eyes, or why should it move both so ceaselessly in contrary directions? Motionless is the animal hour after hour, the eye being the only sign of life it displays. The one at the top of a spray in the vase of flowers remained in the same position day after day, only throwing out its tongue to catch a fly when one flew by and otherwise moving only its ever restless eyes.—Exchange.

Animals That Bloom.

Anemones, sponges, the sea cucumbers and certain other growths which bloom and apparently behave in all respects like plants are really animals.

The petals of the anemone, resembling those of a chrysanthemum, are really tentacles to catch food and put it into the hollow tube which forms the stomach, where it is digested. The sea cucumber has a flattened body. It occasionally moves at a snail's pace over the mud or sand, digging its petals or arms into the sludge for food, to obtain which it swallows a fair proportion of mud. It has power to sting and so keeps away its enemies.

The sea lily so exactly resembles the common lily that it is difficult to realize that it is an animal and belongs to the starfish family. It has a stalk two feet long, with a disk for a body. The tentacles close round the disk, which has a mouth, and completes the deceptive likeness. They are the oldest form of animal life on earth, and their fossils are called "stone lilies."

These creatures were believed to be plants, and many pople still refuse to believe otherwise.—London Standard.

Whose Servant He Was.

An American minister was spending his sabbatical year traveling abroad. Arriving in London, he made every effort to get an intimate view of the two branches of parliament in session. Of course no stranger is allowed on the floor of the house of lords, but the minister, not knowing this and with the usual amount of American push, tried to make his way in. There is a rule, however, that servants of the various lords may be admitted to speak to their masters. Seeing the minister walking boldly in, the doorkeeper asked:

"What lord do you serve?"

"What lord?" repeated the astonished American. "The Lord Jehovah!"

For a moment the doorkeeper hesitated and then admitted him. Turning to an assistant standing near, he said:

"He must mean one of those poor Scotch lairds."—Boston Record.

CANADIAN IN LONDON.

Journalist Tells of His Arrival in the Metropolis.

The following brief account of his arrival and welcome in London and of his first night in the world's capital, was handed in at the Daily Chronicle office by a Canadian journalist who had gone to England in search of work:—

"I arrived in England on Saturday last, having worked a passage as cattleman from Montreal. I had no money to draw from the shipping company (having walked aboard the vessel without going through the formality of obtaining the owners' leave), and I was therefore compelled to walk from Tilbury Docks.

"First impressions do not go for much with me, but from Tilbury to London is the worst stretch of scenery I've ever struck. It was a long and tiring walk, and when I reached Fleet street—about which I had heard so much—everybody except the inaccessible sub-editors had either just gone or was just going for the holidays.

"I had a Canadian quarter in my pocket, and an obliging firm of money changers gave me an English shilling for it—more than they ought to have done, I believe. I went to a neighboring restaurant and did myself well for 8d. Then I had a shave, which left me with 2d.

"Having heard much about the horrors of the Embankment, I determined to spend the night here. It was now nearly 10 o'clock, and as I walked along by the black river I was painfully struck by the contrast between the magnificence of this wonderful boulevard and the ugliness of its frequenters' poverty.

"Men and women slept in corners of the seats, and their huddled figures gave them the appearance of having become parts of the fixtures. All the time motor-cars whizzed by, and the feet of the hansom cab horses tapped along the roadway.

"I sat down to rest, and soon began to doze fitfully, conscious even in my sleep that it was growing cold. Suddenly, I felt a heavy hand on my shoulders, and the rays from a policeman's lantern dazzled my eyes.

"'Come, wake up; you can't sleep 'ere!' It was a police officer; and his gaze followed me curiously as I walked in the direction of the Parliament House.

Coffee, 1-2d.
Slice, 1-2d.

"The brightly polished urn hissed an invitation which I resisted as long as possible. But I was wet and hungry, and the early morning hour (it was nearly 1 a.m.) was bitterly cold. How good that slice tasted! How delicious the coffee! I stayed quite a long time at the stall, for the man was communicative, and discoursed on the Budget, the lady suffragette, and international cricket.

"Then I made my way to the Charing Cross Railway Station, and, being fairly well dressed, was allowed to sleep unmolested in a waiting-room. When I awoke it was daylight, and the sun streamed through the window. I still had a penny in my pocket, and, as Oliver Twist reflected, 'a penny is a very comfortable thing to have.'

"And I was in London—the richest, the poorest, the happiest, the wretchedest city in the world. Shall I succeed? I wonder."

C.P.R. and Alberta.

The fact that Alberta should have been chosen as the chief field for Canadian Pacific activity in the West this season shows how much faith the C.P.R. puts in the possibilities of that province, for Sir Thomas Shaughnessy is maintaining his policy of building so far as possible without subsidies and only in such districts as a railway may be built on business lines where the resulting traffic amply compensates for the cost of construction. Thus there is the road north from Langdon to Alix, which will intersect the irrigation block near Calgary. Then there is the extension of the Stettler branch thirty-five miles eastwards. Then 135 miles of the line remaining to be completed between Hardistry and Wilkie will be finished, so that Edmonton will have direct communication with Winnipeg by September. The program also allows for forty miles of the new line from Calgary to Lethbridge, and the great bridge over the Belly River, the highest of its kind in the world, will put Macleod in close touch with Lethbridge. The Titan is evidently by no means weary yet.

A Pastoral.

The sun was rising in the west, and shed its beams on Meadowcrest, where pensive pig and sportive cow were perched upon the beechen bough. There Giles, the farmer, loosed his flocks, drove out the sheep with shouts and knocks; then "shoo'd" his hens to brooklet's brim that they might dive and bathe and swim. The lambs were climing elms and firs, the ploughmen gathered chestnut burrs; a doctor passed on horse's back, and all the ducks called out, "Quack, quack!" A passing pedlar asked to stay all night; the horses whinnied "Neigh!" Peace hovered o'er the landscape fair; the cattle lowed and sought their lair; while sounded o'er the village smoke the bark of watchdog, elm, and oak; and he who owned these rustic scenes had sowed his biggest field with beans.

Handing In His Decision.

"Well, sir," began the budding novelist, who had come to see about his manuscript, "I suppose you have by this time finished my latest effort, and"—

"Pardon me, young man," broke in the editor, "I confess I have not. I commenced it, but it was such an effort I couldn't finish it!"—New York Times.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

Why we Advertise.

We believe that a large percentage of the people still need to be educated to the importance attached to modern "eye-strain." Many realize that it is necessary to correct deficient vision, but comparatively few yet appreciate the extent to which eye-strain affects the Nervous System, even in cases where vision is apparently normal; we are constantly having those consult us who have been treating for months and years for most distressing nervous affections that are caused by eye-strain. We believe that seven tenths of all headaches have their origin in eye-strain. All these conditions may not only be much relieved, but in many cases permanently cured by wearing the proper glasses that correct the latent eye defects, or lack of balance, or weakness of the muscles governing vision. We find even the most intelligent people are at times astonished at the benefit derived in certain nervous troubles from wearing the CORRECT glasses; but they must be CORRECT, THAT is the kind WE give, BECAUSE we make a SPECIALTY of LATENT EYE-STRAIN, THEREFORE we have succeeded where others (who introduce Optics as "side line") have failed.

Tramping Tourist Struck by Train;

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL IN AMBULANCE EARLY YESTERDAY MORNING.

Shortly after midnight Sunday morning a hurry call was received for the ambulance, it being stated at the G. T. R. station that a man had been severely injured on the line.

When the ambulance arrived at the scene of the disaster it was found that a man named Willett had been struck by a train near the overhead bridge, sustaining injuries to his hip, back and head. The train was not hurt. It seems that Willett and another man named Griffith, both of whom say they are from St. Albans, Vt., were, according to their story, walking on the track near the overhead bridge when a train came along and biffed Willett. Another story is that the men were taking a free ride on the train, and that, in attempting to get off, Willett was hurt. Anyhow, he is not very seriously injured, and will soon be as good as new.

Frank Hogan up On Grave Charge.

A young man named Frank Hogan has been placed under arrest on a grave charge, namely, indecent assault on a five-year-old child named Viola Renfrey. The accused is a resident of the city, and the parents of the child reside here. It is alleged that the offence was committed here on July 25th and since that date the accused had been absent from the city.

Hogan was brought up before the Magistrate this morning, but owing to the Crown Attorney being absent from the city the case was enlarged for one week without any evidence being taken.

Hogan was remanded to jail.

Big Lock Factory May Come to Belleville.

We are informed on reliable authority that there is a strong probability of a branch of an up-to-date American lock factory coming to Canada. It will be a large concern and will employ 300 or 400 hands. The difficulty in the way at the present time, as for some time past, is the tariff. If the tariff can be adjusted so as to protect where it ought to protect, and let it in free where there is no need of protection, the factory will come sure. Belleville, Peterboro, L'Orignal and Toronto are spoken of as the likely points of choice. The parties concerned say they do not want any bonus, merely a favorable tariff. No doubt the City Council and the Board of Trade will get busy and see that Belleville's advantages are not lost sight of. A factory or two like that would help a lot.

OBITUARY.

HANNAH M. PALMER.

Miss Hannah M. Palmer, a maiden lady who resided in the 6th concession of Thurlow Township, died on Saturday afternoon, after being ill about a year. Deceased was in her 67th year and was born in Thurlow, being a daughter of the late Mr. Ashael Palmer. Miss Palmer was a member of the Presbyterian church, and an estimable lady. Two brothers survive. The remains were this afternoon interred at Victoria cemetary, Sidney.

J. N. MUNSHAW.

At his late residence, at the home, of his daughter, Mrs. W. N. Bell, Shannonville, on Saturday, Aug. 7th, Mr. J. N. Munshaw, passed peacefully away in the 66th year of his age. Mr. Munshaw had resided in this district for many years, having at one time been bookkeeper for Page and Co., Lumbermen, and later a partner of the late Donald McLellan, in General Store business in Shannonville. Mr. Munshaw has been in poor health for about three years, and his death was not unlooked for. The deceased was a life-long Liberal. He leaves to mourn his loss three daughters, Mrs. J. J. Eddy of Castile, N. Y.; Mrs. Alex. Mattice, of Elva, Manitoba, and Mrs. W. N. Bell, of Shannonville, also a brother N. J. Munshaw, of Toronto, and a sister Mrs. E. J. Demorest, of Saginaw, Mich.

MRS. AMANDA DUNBAR.

The death occurred at Vancouver this morning of Mrs. Amanda Dunbar, who formerly lived on Hillside St., this city. One daughter, Emma, who left Winnipeg for Vancouver this morning, is the only surviving child. Deceased, who was a widow, had many friends in this city.

Cooler To-Night.

Yesterday was believed to be the the hottest day felt in this city for many moons. Some thermometers made it 96, but they were likely exaggerated. Anyhow, it was very hot. In Toronto it was over 93 in the shade. Cooler weather is promised for to-night; also a thunderstorm or two, which will be welcome.

Spencer Westover Arrested on Very Serious Charge.

Mr. Spencer Westover, of this city, is under arrest on a rather serious charge, namely, forgery of a promissory note bearing the endorsement of Egbert Brown. The accused is a carpenter, well known in the city, and it is alleged that he endeavored to secure money on the note, which was of no value. The case will be investigated one week from to-day and in the meantime Westover will be held in custody.

Why Steal Bearskin This Warm Weather?

WOMAN ARRESTED AT CORBYVILLE, WANTED AT BROCKVILLE.

On Friday afternoon the police received a message from Chief of Police Burke, of Brockville, stating that a woman named Sarah A. Giles, was wanted there on a charge of stealing a bear skin robe, valued at $25, from a party named Gordon Eyre. The accused was supposed to be in this vicinity and yesterday she was apprehended near Corbyville. Chief Burke came to the city and last night returned to Brockville with the accused, who will have to stand her trial in that town for theft.

Blake-Forster—Cunnington

At 11 o'clock this morning, at Christ Church, a quiet wedding took place. The bride was Miss Jane A. Cunnington, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cunnington, of this city, and the groom Mr. Blake-Forster, of Toronto, Rev. G. Abbott-Smith, D.D., acting Rector of Christ Church, officiated. The happy couple were unattended. The bride was handsomely attired in a travelling suit of Rajahs silk, with jet trimmings, and wore a black hat to match. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Blake-Forster proceeded to the G. T. R. station, taking the noon train for a trip in the east. They will reside in Toronto for the present. The bride was the recipient of many presents, including handsome gifts from the Officers and Sergeants of the Fifteenth Regiment. Mr. and Mrs. Blake-Forster have many friends in this city, who will wish for them many years of happy and prosperous wedded life.

Fortunate Escape.

On Saturday evening Mr. R. Sills, with his sister and two other ladies, was driving along the Sidney road running parallel with the G. T. R. when a wheel of the phaeton collapsed throwing the occupants out. The parties fortunately escaped with a few slight bruises.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old jam jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1½ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

GRAND SUCCESS

Wonderful Growth in Sales During 1908.

The year just passed will long be remembered for the financial and commercial depression. Business houses all over Canada were affected. Most of them show a loss over 1907. Some did about as much business last year as in the preceeding one. A few—a very few—show substantial gains. In spite of "hard times" and "financial depression" the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" doubled in 1908 over 1907.

The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited bought "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots (14,000 boxes). Lyman Sons & Company of Montreal, and Lyman Brothers in Toronto, also ordered "Fruit-a-tives" by the hundred gross lots. These big wholesalers bought such big orders simply because the retail dealers ordered so many boxes of "Fruit-a-tives"—and the dealers had to keep "Fruit-a-tives" always in stock to supply the constantly growing demand of people in every section of Canada.

To-day, "Fruit-a-tives" are the most popular family medicine in the Dominion. In the big cities, in the smaller towns, on farms and ranches, "Fruit-a-tives" are the standby in curing all forms of Stomach, Liver, Bowel, Skin and Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Headaches and Neuralgia.

Are you a sufferer from any of these diseases? Don't hesitate a moment. Get a box of "Fruit-a-tives" — take them according to directions—and they will cure without fail. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

One of the most welcome among the many exchanges which come to our desk is THE NEWS, of Toronto. THE NEWS has recently made wonderful advances, so much so that old friends of the paper would hardly recognize in this great Canadian newspaper the old News of a few years ago. THE NEWS now contains from fourteen to twenty pages each day, with twenty-four to thirty-two on Saturday. A specialty is made of political and Parliamentary news and questions affecting the welfare of the public receive fair editorial treatment by clever writers. We are safe in saying that there is no paper more widely quoted in Canada and its cartoons are reproduced by many of the leading journals. Through an arrangement made with THE NEWS we are able to offer The Intelligencer and THE NEWS in a club for one year at the remarkably cheap price of $4.00. a21-dtf

BACKED BY THE PEOPLE

Masses Stand Behind Lloyd-George Says Mail.

After a Long and Bitter Attack on the Chancellor of the British Exchequer Unionists Are Dismayed by Daily Mail's Admission That the Government's Budget Proposals Are Popular.

London, Aug. 9.—A bombshell was exploded in British politics last week and practically changed the whole aspect of the situation in regard to David Lloyd-George's budget.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer has been waging, ever since he introduced the financial proposals in the spring, a fight which has been growing more bitter every week. Not for years has a political question in England given birth to such a flood of personal invective as the present discussion of the budget. His opponents began by calling Mr. Lloyd-George a Socialist. They have now reached the point of describing him as a Jack Cade, and, in the bitterness usually engendered by approaching defeat, are likely to go even farther in the way of invective.

Mr. Lloyd-George is not the man to accept denunciation mutely, and as his is perhaps the most nimble wit in the British political arena he is a dangerous antagonist to tackle.

"Mr. Lloyd-George seems, I do not know why, to have a special grudge against dukes," writes Lord Avebury to a correspondent. "They are twenty-seven in number, and if he confiscated the whole of their property it would only bring in, say, from $100,000,000 to $150,000,000, and affect our taxation for one or two years; after which everything would go on as before, but with this unfortunate difference—that the security of property would have been shaken, enterprise and thrift would have been discouraged, and capital driven out of the country."

The Duke of Portland, one of the great London landlords, has been singled out for attention, which his grace resented to such a degree that he addressed a meeting of the tenants at Welbeck Abbey and delivered himself of his opinion on the budget. The Chancellor's speeches, he said, he read with surprise, sorrow and a certain measure of contempt.

But a blow was dealt the Unionist party which has thrown it into complete disarray, horse, foot and artillery—in other words, both Lords and Commons. This was the admission by The Daily Mail that the country generally is not sympathizing with the hard case of the ducal and other landowners menaced by Mr. Lloyd-George, but, on the contrary, is welcoming the promises of an amelioration of the lot of other classes of the population promised by the budget.

Coming from a paper which had hitherto been strongly denunciatory of the Lloyd-Georgeian proposals, that volte-face is a political sensation on a grand scale. The attitude of The Daily Mail is taken by friends and foes alike to mean that David Lloyd-George's is the winning side—the side on which are the big batteries, which make journalistic as well as Napoleonic successes.

Did King Make Clean-Up?

New York, Aug. 9.—One of the periodic unconfirmed reports burst upon Wall street Saturday afternoon to the effect that King Edward made a winning of more than a million in U. S. Steel common.

The rumor was based on the fact that J. P. Morgan had been entertained at Windsor Castle by the King while abroad, and that an order to buy 50,000 shares of Steel common, coming apparently from an English source, was executed when the stock was at from 50 to 52 recently. The stock sold Saturday at 76 1-4.

The report could not be confirmed from any reliable source.

King Intervenes.

Stockholm, Aug. 9.—The tie-up of the business of the country as the result of the strike is so serious that King Gustave has intervened in an endeavor to secure a compromise. His Majesty yesterday sent a message to the parties at conflict, exhorting them to come to an agreement at the earliest moment possible, and advising arbitration of the disputed questions.

Over 1,000 telephone and telegraph employes will strike on Wednesday.

The farm laborers' union announced yesterday that its 7,000 members would strike as the rye crop is ready for harvest.

Twenty-Two Firemen Injured.

New York, Aug. 9.—Twenty-two firemen were dragged out unconscious and three others received serious injuries in the course of a forty minute blaze which destroyed 4,000 men's hats and did $5,000 other damage in a shop at the corner of Fourth avenue and 23rd street, near Madison Square. An explosion of illuminating gas threw a dozen firemen unconscious into the street. Other were overcome by escaping gas or hurt by falling timbers.

Two Probably Drowned.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—Ralph Slattery, jr., of Ottawa, is thought to have been drowned at Arnprior. On Friday morning he and a cousin, of Arnprior, left to cross Chats' Lake in a rowboat to their camp, three miles away. This was at 2 a.m. Yesterday the empty boat was found at Sand Point.

Joseph D'Abour, aged 14, of Tetreauville was drowned Saturday night while swimming in the Ottawa River.

Getting an Early Start.

"Father, what do you wish me to be when I grow up?"

"The same as I am, my son—a lawyer."

"Then instead of wasting any more time on arithmetic, geography and such truck I'd better be getting at the hypothetical question, hadn't I?"

TURKS HANG ON.

They Insist That Cretan Annexation Must Not Be.

Washington, Aug. 9.—Turkey will stand by what she regards as her rights in her controversy with Greece, over the Island of Crete. Such is her attitude as communicated to the United States State Department and to the European powers. She is determined there shall be a return to the conditions [illegible] the Turko-Grecian war of a dozen years ago, when four [illegible] powers of Europe, England, Russia, France and Italy, landed troops and despatched ships to pacify the Cretans.

The decisive policy of the Turkish Government is ascribed to the progressive and determined attitude of the new regime in that country as contrasted with the apparent indifference of the administration of Abdul Hamid, which made no serious effort to bring about a settlement of the anomalous conditions existing in Crete.

Turkey Delivers Ultimatum.

Athens, Greece, Aug. 9.—The Turkish Government has communicated to Greece an urgent note asking that she express her disapproval of the annexation agitation in Crete, and formally declare that Greece has no ambitions regarding the island. Otherwise, the note adds, diplomatic relations will be severed.

Turkey Determined.

Berlin, Aug. 9.—German Government circles regard the situation between Turkey and Greece as being in a most acute stage. Germany has made representations to both Constantinople and Athens, urging the necessity of a peaceable settlement of the Cretan question.

A bill for the appointment in London of a high commissioner has been introduced in the Australian Parliament. The salary is $20,000 inclusive.

Mary Dunn, an eight-year-old girl living in Brockville, was terribly burned on the body and arms by her clothes igniting while playing with matches.

Dulmer, the five-year-old son of Azor Northey of Lakefield, who was missed during the afternoon Saturday, was found drowned at the dock yesterday morning.

George Kirkendale, a farm laborer, of Aldershot, Ont., was run down by an engine in the Stuart street yards, at Hamilton, last night and injured so badly that he died in the ambulance.

At meetings in London, England, of the bond and coupon holders of the Imperial Paper Mills of Canada and the Northern Sulphite Mills of Canada, the joint sale thereof was sanctioned.

During the temporary absence of her nurse, Mrs. H. Akerley, 28 years of age, of Port Greville, N.S., who was recovering from typhoid fever, committed suicide yesterday by drinking carbolic acid.

The remaining survivors on board the British steamer Maori, which ran on the rocks the night of Aug. 4, off Slang Bay, South Africa, were rescued yesterday. Of the crew of 53 men on board the Maori only 21 have been saved.

It is expected that King Manuel will remain in England about a week, and that he will be accompanied by his mother, Queen Amelie. The central feature of his visit will be his admission to the Order of the Garter, which will take place in the home of the order, St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and will be attended by considerable ceremonial.

C.P.R. Seeking Another Outlet.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—The Soo Line is said to be planning to acquire a much larger portion of the tonnage between Chicago and the northwest than it now enjoys, and also to obtain a line from the wheat fields of Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Through the medium of the Wisconsin Central, which the Soo Line recently bought, the latter road is said to be negotiating for the purchase of the Chicago, Milwaukee & Gary Road, which recently was sold to the St. Louis Union Trust Co. This road is partly constructed, and will, when completed, be an outer belt railway surrounding Chicago and touching more than a score of prosperous cities and towns nearby.

Farm Boy Shoots Himself.

Chatham, Aug. 9.—The dead body of Frank Freeman Newman, aged 15, was found by his employer, Allan McKay, in a small bush, at the entrance to McKay's farm in Chatham Township, near Dresden. Death had been caused by a bullet wound in the right side. Thursday, a week ago, young Newman, who was a Barnardo boy, was left at home from an excursion. Later he went visiting, and was reminded by a neighbor that he was neglecting his work. When his employer returned the boy had disappeared.

Springhill Strike Sure.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 9.—The Springhill strike will be called on Tuesday. Positive assurance to this effect has been given by U.M.W. officials who have just returned from that colliery district.

The strike will have nothing whatever to do with the Glace Bay difficulty. Conditions existing at Springhill are worse, from the U.M.W. viewpoint, than those at Glace Bay. Shorter hours, better wages, and better conditions for the miners generally will be demanded.

Elevator Falls; Man Hurt.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Because something went wrong with the elevator in the Stewart, Howe and Meek building, at King street and Spadina avenue, Morris Jackson, who was running it, is now in St. Michael's Hospital in a critical condition.

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon. Jackson had taken some of the employes up to the sixth storey. When they got out something broke and he fell with the cage to the basement. Several ribs on both sides were broken, and he also sustained a depressed fracture of the skull and a scalp wound about four inches long. The doctor's have not much hope of his recovering. He was still unconscious up to a late hour last night. As he is a new employe the firm does not know much about him.

Cool Wave Sweeps Toronto.

She Replies to the Turkish Government's Note With Expressions of Mild Amaze and Protest—Declares That She Had No Ambitions Regarding Crete—Government Is Not Free to Act In the Matter.

Athens, Aug. 10.—The Greek Government yesterday handed to the Turkish Minister a formal reply to the Porte's note of several days ago, which asked Greece to express her disapproval of the annexation agitation in Crete and formally to declare that she had no ambitions regarding the island.

The reply protests formally against the complaints contained in the Turkish note and gives instances of Greece's consistent endeavors to maintain frank and friendly relations with Turkey and to draw closer the bonds uniting the two countries.

The note declares Greece has done and still wishes to do all in her power for the appeasement of Turkey and for peace.

In the Cretan question, the note continues, the Turkish Government itself several times has taken occasion to say that the conduct of Greece has been frank and loyal.

The note says that Greece can only leave the question of Crete to the protecting powers and conform to their decision, the note repeats the assurance that Greece, being in no way implicated in the annexation movement in Crete, will preserve the same current and loyal attitude as in the past.

The Greek flag was yesterday lowered in Crete in response to the representations of the powers.

Turkey Not Free.

Constantinople, Aug. 10.—The Greek reply to the Turkish note concerning Crete has not yet been received by the Turkish Government.

The ambassadors of the four protecting powers in Crete had interviews yesterday with the grand vizier and the Foreign Minister and advised moderation in Turkey's attitude toward the Greeks. The grand vizier gave the ambassadors his assurances on this point, but he pointed out the necessity of receiving some satisfaction from Greece, in order to calm the Turkish people.

The general feeling exists that the Government is not enjoying a free hand in the matter, but is acting under the pressure of the committee of Union and Progress, which is showing a headstrong tendency.

Stockholm Strike May Fail.

Stockholm, Aug. 10.—Many carts and street cars were moving through the street yesterday, despite the threats of the strikers to stop all traffic. King Gustave drove through the city yesterday, passing before the strikers' headquarters. He was without an escort.

The gas and electric plants are working without interruption and last night it seemed doubtful whether the employes of the railroads will join the movement.

Rumors are again in circulation concerning a probable collapse of the strike, the workmen being dissatisfied with the speeches and the methods employed by their leaders in carrying it on.

D.R.A. Bar New Bisley Sight.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The new sight used at Bisley, and which brought the back sight much nearer the eye than the former sight, will not be allowed at the D.R.A. matches. It extends from the sight bed some inches back, and the D.R.A. executive considers that it would not be suitable for active service, and therefore cannot be sanctioned. The chief executive officers of the D.R.A. meet, which opens here on Monday, Aug. 30, will be Lt.-Col. Brown of Ottawa, with Major R. Montgomery of Toronto, as assistant. The entire Canadian Bisley team will shoot.

Drowning at Guelph.

Guelph, Aug. 10.—Thomas Webster, a young Englishman, son of Frank Webster, was drowned in the Speed River yesterday afternoon while out fishing with William Rendew and J. Hatch. Rendew and Webster were changing places in the boat, when Webster, losing his balance, went over the side of the boat head first, so completely that he appeared to have dived in. He never rose to the surface.

Webster's young wife is crossing the ocean with her baby child.

Cunarders to Stop at Fishguard.

New York, Aug. 10.—That passengers and mail for London and Paris may be landed several hours sooner the Cunard Company decided yesterday to have its fast liners stop on the eastbound voyage to Liverpool, whenever possible, at Fishguard, on the west coast of England, directly opposite the port of Rosslare, in Ireland.

Russell Gets Bail.

Lima, Ohio, Aug. 10.—William L. Russell, arrested here for the Ontario Government in connection with dubious Cobalt mine flotations, was yesterday released on $7,000 bail, and left on an auto tour. Ex-Judge Wing of Cleveland will represent the complainant in the extradition proceedings.

Three Years for Church Burglar.

Berlin, Ont., Aug. 10.—Frank Marshall, for burglarizing the R.C. Church at Preston was sentenced to three years in penitentiary. He pleaded that he had been drunk.

Can't Make An Estimate.

Wheat Crop Will Be a Good Average One However.

Winnipeg Correspondent Says Yield Will Be Better Than Last Year—Hurry-up Call for Hands Reaches the East—Cutting Will Begin Next Monday—Twenty-Three Thousand Men are Needed

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Regarding a report sent out from here yesterday, that the crop of Western Canada will be only an average one, and less than last year's, it is clear that there is here a terminological inaccuracy, for the crop of last year was below the average.

It is impossible just now to figure on what the general average of the wheat yield over a country a thousand miles long and half as deep will be, but it seems clear that a good average will be maintained, unless we get some very early frosts.

To talk of 140,000,000 bushels of wheat from this country is quite as absurd as to say that it is a poor, or even weak, season. It should be a mighty profitable year for our farmers.

Setting aside alarmist reports, it yet seems clear that the total damage to the crops by hail will exceed the average year, and will really affect the general average yield per acre. In some districts, authentic reports state that hail has been more widely distributed and more devastating than in any recent years.

Indeed, it is already evident that not only has hail damage been wide, but that it has cut a clean swath in many districts.

There is, of course, always a tendency to exaggerate hail losses and districts that in previous years have been reported at this season as completely hailed out have often shown up well, if not brilliantly, at threshing. Farmers think that a little "knocking" of crop just now may bring them better cash prices so soon as the rush of new wheat begins. But even thus discounting damage reports, enough certainly remains to show that the crop as a whole must suffer severely by hail losses.

Talk of rust, however, is all nonsense. Electrical storms have been accompanied by great heat and warm showers, bringing the grain along at a surprising rate, so that the season, after opening so late, can now hardly be described as backward.

Cutting In a Week.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—A hurry-up call for harvesters was received by the C.P.R. last night from their western crop experts, who telegraphed that cutting will be general next Monday.

The advisability of moving the harvesters' excursions ahead a few days from the dates originally set will be discussed by the railway and western Government officials this morning. The first excursion has been set for Thursday, the 19th inst., but it is possible that a few train loads of helpers will be rushed off within a week.

Manitoba is calling for 15,000 men. The other provinces, Saskatchewan and Alberta, have yet to be heard from officially, but careful estimates of their needs, show that work for from 7,000 to 8,000 outsiders will be offering in those provinces. This means a demand on the east for about 23,000 of her experienced farm hands.

James Hartney, Toronto, agent for the Manitoba Government, has just returned from a visit to Eastern Ontario, where he stirred up interest in the western excursions. He reports that while a large number of people are manifesting an interest in the excursions, he believes the lateness of harvesting here will hold a great number back and result in an unusually small contingent for the first excursion. Harvesting in Ontario he found will not be over before Aug. 20 at the earliest, and therefore thousands of farm helpers will not be at liberty to leave prior to that date.

Last year about 7,000 left Toronto with the first excursion, making up five or six trains, but the indications are that a less number will embark for the western grain fields next week. Mr. Hartney points out that the great bulk of outside help is required to carry on the threshing, cutting being the work of horses and steam. With a few thousand helpers on the scene early to man the reapers, the grain will not suffer damage if threshing does not commence for a week or two later, providing that continued rain and snow storms did not make their appearance.

New Fruit Company Build Cannery.

St. Catharines, Aug. 10.—J. B. Berry, Winnipeg, has formed the Ontario and Western Fruit Co., provisional directors being James Marlow, Grimsby, Geo. W. Keyes and W. H. Hough, St. Catharines, and A. N. Harris, Port Dalhousie, who will act as president. H. T. Hern, Port Dalhousie, is secretary.

Jailed for Use of Net.

Brockville, Aug. 10.—Josh Calhoun was arrested at Grindstone Island by Game Officer Northrup for the use of nets, the offence having been committed on the American side of the river, he was tried and sentenced to 40 days in the Watertown, N.Y., jail. Several other parties have recently paid $10 fines for catching pickerel and having them in their possession under 20 inches long.

No Flight at Petawawa.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 10.—The prevailing high wind made it impossible to attempt any flights with Baddeck No. 1 yesterday. McCurdy is still plugging up leaks in radiators. As fast as one is repaired another develops.

Strike Will Extend to Canada.

Pittsburg, Aug. 10.—It is expected here that the Pressed Steel Car strike, which has been in force here for nearly a month, will be extended to plants in Canada, Illinois and Alabama. The men are thoroughly organized.

Girl Charged With Embezzlement.

Brockville, Aug. 10.—The crown only got part way through with the preliminary hearing of the charges against Miss Grace Henderson of Gananoque, of embezzling from the Thousand Island Railway Co. of Gananoque, in whose offices she was employed until January last. Previous to that time shortages had been found, and almost the entire staff was dispensed with. Recent expert investigation of the books led to Miss Henderson's arrest. Yesterday she was committed for trial on a charge of having cashed and applied to her use a check for $500.

Testimony was introduced to show that she sent a messenger to a bank with the check and that he, after receiving the money, deposited it with the defendant, who was working under the general cashier, John Marshall, who has since left the country. The books show no record of the receipt of the cash.

Canada Wants Own Navy.

London, Aug. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Sir Fred Borden and Hon. Mr. Brodeur yesterday met Hon. Mr. McKenna, Sir John Fisher and other Admiralty officials in order to discuss certain technical points in regard to Canada's scheme of assistance in Imperial naval defence.

Canada is of the opinion that the Dominion should have a self-supporting navy, which should form an integral part of the Imperial navy in time of emergency, and the other dominions are inclined to the view. That a direct subsidy to Imperial defence should be provided.

Fine technicalities are now being discussed by the committee of experts, and at the close of their deliberations the report will be submitted to the full conference.

Doesn't Want British.

London, Aug. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Premier of Western Australia, replying to a deputation of settlers from the old country, who brought a number of alleged grievances under his notice, became incensed and bluntly declared, "I have more trouble with British immigrants than any other class of settlers, and am going to tell the agent-general not to send out any more immigrants, no matter how much capital they have, unless he is thoroughly satisfied they are men who can make a success on the land."

Piano Agent Disappears.

Regina, Sask., Aug. 10.—Considerable anxiety has been caused by the disappearance of E. C. Corbeau, local agent of the Heintzman Piano Co.

Corbeau, together with his two little children, started for a drive on Sunday afternoon at three and expected to return home by six o'clock. They were still missing yesterday. The country around is well settled. He came here from Toronto.

Band Is Engaged.

Galt, Aug. 10.—Because the 29th Regiment Band of Berlin was not engaged for the Toronto exhibition the town authorities refused to allow an advertising streamer to be displayed there. Yesterday, however, following the band's engagement, the sign has been permitted.

Grain Elevator Merger.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 10.—The Brackman and Ker Milling Co. of Victoria and Vancouver, which has four cereal mills and an extensive line of elevators, has consolidated their elevators with those of the Alberta Grain Co.

TIMELY TOPICS.

◆ ◆ ◆

Somebody told us Mr. Flint was in favor of the Council's new sewerage proposition. Judging by Mr. Flint's letter to-day, somebody has another think coming.

◆ ◆ ◆

Somebody, of course, may successfully refute Mr. Flint's statements. Candidly, though, we don't want the job, for he puts forward a strong case. How will the champions of the scheme answer him? We await their reply.

◆ ◆ ◆

VERY DRY.

Just now, upon the dear old farm
A little rain would do no harm.

Pittsburg people say they don't want Harry Thaw any more. Who does?

NO MORE WANTED.

These hot waves may not be wild themselves, but they surely make us wild.

Hamilton Times: If there is a strange minister preaching in your church, get out in the morning and show yourself. It will help him wonderfully to see you there.

Might better get out and encourage the regular parson, who preaches to the same old empty pews Sunday after Sunday. He needs encouragement more than the stranger who has the zest of novelty to help him along.

New wheat flour in Toronto is down to $4.10. Things seem to be coming the consumer's way at last. And he can stand it.

The new School Readers threaten to be very popular with the children, but we have not heard of any of the little dears who are just dying to get back to school, so they can use them.

◆ ◆ ◆

The recent hot wave caused the death of 123 children in Montreal. As one newspaper heading put it: "The little white hearses on the mountain side looked like a procession." The awful weather is hard on the little ones.

◆ ◆ ◆

Drowning accidents multiply these days. Papers are full of them. The fact seems to be that people who cannot swim should keep out of deep water and avoid canoes and other dangerous craft.

◆ ◆ ◆

A cable says that King Edward made a million out of U. S. Steel, bought on a tip given by Morgan. Same old story, easy enough to win when one doesn't need it.

◆ ◆ ◆

Speaking of the recent fines for liquor selling in Owen Sound, the Woodstock Sentinel-Review says: "Clearly up till the time the fines were imposed local option had not stopped the sale of liquor." Of course not, nor was it ever imagined that it would. The best that the local option law can do to prevent liquor selling is to make its sale illegal. So long as there are people in a local option community who care more for liquor than they do for law, attempts will be made to sell liquor. And so long as the officials charged with the enforcement of the local option law fail to do their full duty, just so long will these attempts be successful.

◆ ◆

The above expert testimony is given by the Hamilton Spectator, which seems to know what it is talking about. As a matter of fact, some good people seem to think that if they can get a local option law passed they have put old John Barleycorn down and out. What they have really done is to cause old John to shed his coat, roll up his sleeves and begin to fight.

Miss Ella Gingles was deported from Chicago. But inasmuch as she took with her $1500, the gift of kind friends in Chicago, she will be able to make a pleasant jingle in County Antrim.

Out of 2062 land grants, only 281 veterans are actually occupying them. Which shows that most of the war-worn heroes have more of a hankering for city life than for rural felicity.

◆ ◆ ◆

Brockville has an epidemic of typhoid, though the town's water supply has been pronounced pure. The Brockvillians should look after the other stuff they drink.

◆ ◆ ◆

If somebody will lend us a magnifying glass, perhaps we will be able to see the leg the Council has left to stand on, after Mr. J. J. B. Flint's letter in another column.

◆ ◆ ◆

There are many worse things in this town than the steam whistles of industrial establishments, even if they do blow in the morning. A few more factories, with steam whistles, would be welcome.

1909 will in history be looked upon as a record year for drownings. Not a day passes but announcements of drowning accidents are made. On the 9th inst. the record was: Ottawa 3, Prescott 1, Green Lake 1, Charlottetown, P.E.I., 6, Lakefield 1, Sydney, N. S., 2, Halifax, N.S., 1; record in day, 15.

The fishery overseers on both sides of the line are doing good work in suppressing illegal fishing. Under the Ross Government fishery officials were used as electioneering agents. Under the present Government they are doing their duty. A game officer on the United States, opposite Brockville, caught a man fishing with nets illegally. He was arrested, tried and sentenced to forty days in the Watertown, N.Y., jail. Several other parties have recently paid $10 fines for catching pickerel and having them in their possession under twenty inches long. This is the proper course to pursue if our fisheries are to be preserved.

Trenton Regatta Was Big Success.

The regatta held at Trenton yesterday was in every respect a great success. The fleet of sailing and motor boats was the largest ever seen on the Bay of Quinte, and the sight was one that will long be remembered by those who witnessed it.

All the events were keenly contested and some of the finishes were close and exciting. Two of the trophies offered for competition were captured by Belleville craft. In the dinghey race Messrs. J. Munro and John Ayers craft was first and in the punt race Mr. Wm. Smith's punt won by a fair margin.

The attendance of spectators was exceptionally large and no accident occurred to mar the proceedings.

SPORTING NOTES.

Postle, an Australian sprinter, is credited with running 125 yards in 12 seconds. Good time.

Old Joe McGinnity tied Kelly's men up into knots yesterday. It doesn't look like a pennant for Toronto.

Yankee racehorses returning from Canada must pay duty now. This will be a serious blow to racing in this fair Dominion.

Jimmy Reynolds, Port Hope's walking barber, has not yet passed into oblivion. Although James has seen 58 summers according to his own dope, and many more according to the dope of people who have known him for years, he still thinks he can step from Toronto to Port Hope, a distance of 66 miles, in 14 1-2 hours. James has already made a wager of $150 to $300 that he can not only walk the distance in that time, but that he will push a cart the entire route in the bargain. He is having a cart constructed specially for the walk, and thinks that he can turn the trick with very little trouble. As a rule James is a modest, unassuming chap, who can push a razor over the faces of his patrons in a manner that would please the most fastidious. But walking is his hobby, and once a man starts talking walk to the veteran manipulator of the shears the lather begins to fly in all directions and the razor begins to work at the rate of about 66 strokes to the minute. The best time that Reynolds ever made over the course was 16 1-2 hours, but on that occasion he walked from Port Hope to Toronto and did not hit too hot a pace, as he had to walk back. He claims that it is easier to walk down than up, as the hills are not so bad. James will undertake to win his latest wager on the first day of September, and will leave the King Edward hotel at daylight.

A greater latitude in the pulpit is permitted to country preachers than to their brothers of the city, but at that one congregation in a Virginia hamlet was inclined to surprise one evening, says the Washington Post. The preacher had read the notices of the services of the week to come. Then the burden of his speech changed, and he said in effect:—"Brothers and sisters, to-morrow morning on the baseball field in the town there is to be a cracking good game between the Y.M.C.A. team and the Creepers. (That wasn't the name, but it will do in Virginia.) It's a game you can't afford to miss. Admission only fifteen cents. All of you try to come. You will get your money's worth. Remember, now, to-morrow morning. Game's called at half-past ten. Don't be late. We will now join in singing hymn 396."

A Fireman's Home.

At the Provincial Volunteer Firemen's convention, held at Paris on the 3rd of August, the move to have the association incorporated and broadened so as to include all Ontario firemen was voted unanimously. The Government will be waited on for financial assistance in the establishment of a home for disabled firemen and for other legislation.

Officers were elected as follows:—President, Wm. Birrell, Hamilton; Vice-Presidents, A. Martin, Thorold; Geo. Noiau, Trenton; Secretary, G. A. Thomas, Niagara Falls; Treasurer, Geo. Ekins, Thorold. Welland was chosen as the place of meeting next year.

There is no class of men more deserving of consideration than firemen. As a rule, particularly in towns and villages, and in some cities, they give their services, in the saving of lives and property, at great risk to themselves, and in many instances for nothing. Not only should the Government assist in the placing of such a Home upon a permanent basis, but every city, town and village in the province should make a yearly contribution.

Bounties.

The Glasgow Herald, one of the free trade organs in Scotland, is objecting to the Canadian policy of granting bounties. It gravely asks:

> "Is it right, from an Imperial view-point, that Canada should grant bounties on the production of material exported in competition with the Mother Country? Is it right that bountied Canadian iron should be shipped even to the Mother Country if it is to be sold there against British iron? This question of bounties on manufactures within the Empire will have to be fought out. It should be one of the subjects taken up with earnestness at the next Imperial Conference."

One of the theories of the free trader is to furnish the consumer with all articles he has to use at the cheapest possible rate. Why, then, should he object to cheap iron, steel or sugar, articles which the manufacturer and consumer requires at the cheapest possible rate?

All right, replies the free trader, providing these articles do not come in competition with our industries.

If these English and Scotch free traders will enter the ranks of those who desire better trade relations between the different parts of the Empire, their views might possibly be met. So long as our trade relations remain as they are, just so long will Canada, under her protective policy, continue to "consider it right" to send her bounty fed product to compete with similar articles, the product of English and Scotch industries.

By all means let us have better trade relations "within the Empire," but it cannot be all one-sided. Such competition as that complained of by the Herald, if pushed, may bring our free trade brethren to their senses.

The Sewer Question.

MR. J. J. B. FLINT DASHES OFF A HAMMER AND TONGS INDICTMENT OF THE SCHEME PROPOSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir,—In the long ago the Moira's bed extended over the valley between Hillside street, on the west, and Church street, on the east. By erosion, the soil was swept by the current from the valley, leaving a table of rock. For many years, when taxes were low and energetic City Fathers studied the question of how to overcome nature's obstacle of a rocky bed and obtain sewage, the expense of blasting trunk and lateral sewers was so great that no scheme was undertaken. Now, when municipal taxes have reached the last mill, and school and local improvement taxes have attained to such an amount as to become a grievous burthen to the taxpayers, a scheme is launched, without the advice of a skilled expert, other than our City Engineer, which will, if entertained, prove the last straw to effect the financial ruin of many in West Belleville, and which will add materially to the financial difficulties of all. E. Guss Porter, M. P., denounces the scheme as unjust, wildly extravagant, and an outrage. Charles Green, the veteran and intelligent Councillor, opposed the scheme in the Council and exposed its many absurdities, but was over-ruled. Every intelligent ratepayer with whom I have conversed agrees with Mr. Porter and Mr. Green. The Council, in its published notice, declares that they intend to construct the sewers referred to. If the real estate owners do not petition in sufficient numbers against it a free hand will be given the Council. They can go on with the building as fast as they choose. The present Council's term ends on the first of January. The Council cannot bind the hands of their successors. The power once given cannot be retracted Therefore, the only safe course is for every real estate owner in the wards to kill the scheme by signing a petition now in circulation. Trunk sewers are built for the general good. Because West Belleville is rock, and cutting highly expensive, while digging on Taylor's hill, through sandy soil, is comparatively inexpensive, is that any reason why owners in West Belleville are to be forced to bear the enormous expense? If trunk sewers are a benefit to the entire city, is it not equitable that the total expenses should be borne by the whole city? Examine a few features of the scheme. Take the sewer from the Grand Trunk bridge, to be built following the course of the river to Coleman St., at a cost, according to the City Engineer, of $16,900, but in my view, of $27,000. All this distance must be rock cutting. Look for yourselves. Mr. McKinley, the experienced miner, informs me that in putting down a shaft in Cobalt it cost him $15 per foot through rock. I have sunk wells and have paid from $3.75 to $1 per foot, rock cuttings. The sewer will be excavated twelve or fifteen feet. Think what it will cost to sink through rock that distance and then construct branch sewers to the edge of the street. There is not one house from the G.T.R bridge to Mr. Manley's on the bank of the river that is constructed to put in waterworks, and there are no water pipes for long distances on this street. They are all cheap houses, homes owned by laboring people for the most part. Take a poor man who owns a house valued at $450. To get any benefit from the sewer he must excavate from the edge of the street into his house through rock; he must then pay $110 for plumbing, putting in closet and sink; he must pay for two taps, $12 per year; he must then pay his frontage tax for sewer, and all his other local and municipal taxes. Apparently he is to have no choice in the matter, because His Worship the Mayor says that open offices and cesspools must be closed. The poor man, in these times, with precarious employment at $1.50 per day, had better give up his home in the city at once. Then ten cents per foot is to be charged. The whole distance from the commencement of sewer, along the bank of river, between sewer, and river, down to Mr. Manley's house, there is not one foot of land which can pay a frontage tax, because it is barren rock. Who is to pay this frontage tax? Then Coleman street, has Panter's Park, owned by city, and other vacant lands. No frontage revenue will be derived from these. For a long distance the yards of the Pringle estate run. Are these men to be charged for the whole distance a frontage tax? Take the sewer from Charlotte street, down the hill from the burned Lane house, to Coleman St. Rock the whole distance from crest of hill, and not a house on either side, until you get to Holton's mill yard, and from that point, one small terrace all the way to Coleman street, and no house whatever on the bay side, simply waste land, with the exception of Allen's coal yard. Fancy what frontage tax Mr. Holton and Mr. Allen would have to pay, and practically receive no benefit, as they do not require sewerage. This sewer is to cost, by Engineer's statement about $10,000. The notice speaks of a nine-inch sewer pipe. If it means the sewer is to be built with a nine-inch pipe, then it is simply nonsense as no trunk sewer was ever built with a pipe less than 15 or 18 inches. We are not even to drain our cellars into these sewers, except by the grace of the Council, and signing some mysterious document, prepared by the Council. Lateral sewers, to be run at some remote period, will add immensely to the expense. Let every real property holder in the two wards petition against the sewers and they will not be built. If we want to build trunk sewers, let us get the best advice of two of the best experts in the province, and let them economize and report. I do not doubt Mr. Lindsay's ability, but in a matter which, in the opinion of many, will lead us ineo an expenditure not of $70,000, as suggested, but probably $100,000, the very best advice should be taken. One other point is that these trunk sewers cannot benefit the great masses of real property lying to the west and north of the Moira. Many years must elapse and the city be in a much more prosperous condition than it is at present, before lateral sewers can be built, and in the meantime, what a vast sum will have to be paid by owners who are getting no value for their money. Petitions may be found at Messrs. Brown's, Artis', Corey's, Hawley's also in my office.

I am, yours,
JOHN J. B. FLINT.

Very Poor Season At 1000 Islands

WORST IN EIGHTEEN YEARS — PEOPLE ARE NOT RUSHING TO THE ISLANDS THIS SEASON AS THEY USED TO.

The Thousand Islands is one of the greatest summer resorts on this continent. There are none finer in Europe. A western man who now resides in Utica, says the Herald-Dispatch of that city, saw the St. Lawrence river for the first time in his life a few days ago, on a brief visit. He said to-day without doubt nature has made it the most superb summer resort in the country. It is at its loveliest now, he said, and the fishing is fine.

But the westener had a sad tale to tell of the season up there, so far as it has gone. "They tell me there," he said, "It's the poorest, from a business point of view, they've had in 18 years. Very few are at the various hotels and cottages."

"At one of the largest hotels," he said, "there were nine persons having dinner besides myself, and 50 waiters standing idly about."

All along the "Fifth avenue of the St. Lawrence"— the wide waterway between Clayton and Alexandria Bay—so called because of the magnificent summer palaces built on islands on either side, he counted 20, that were boarded up. On a great number the sign "For Sale" was posted up. Cottages that were worth $20,000 and $25,000, with the islands they are built on, are in the market for $4,000 and $5,000. Smaller cottages, with their lots, can be had almost for a song, according to what the westerner was told.

The fishing is splendid. This gentleman says he saw at Alexandria Bay a man bringing in a muscallonge that measured three feet, from his launch in which he had been out in the river fishing.

"What is needed up there," said the westerner in deploring the dull tourist season on the river, "is a few amusements. If they had a White City, like they have near Chicago, the people would flock up there. Nature had done all she can to make a beautiful resort, and man should do a little to amuse people when they get tired of looking at scenery."

Reports that float down from the river bear out the westerner's statement. For some reason there is not the rush to the Thousand Islands there was formerly. There are a lot of summer tourists up there now, but not enough to pay expenses of the great hotels there. The islands have become an old story to the mass of people, who try new places.

Schryver vs. Young. — Mr. Justice Britton has given judgment in the action brought by George R. Schryver, of the Township of Murray, County of Northumberland, against Robert Young, of Pakenham Township, Lanark County; Adam and Margaret Young, of Murray, and Frank Young, of Toronto, which was tried at Cobourg on April 6 last. He directs judgment to be entered for the plaintiff for such part of the south half of lot 12, concession B, broken front, of the Township of Murray, as the defendants, or any of them, may be in possession of. His Lordship also declares that the southerly limit of lot 12, as between plaintiff and defendants, is one chain northerly from the northerly edge of the marsh on the south of said lot; that the said lot contains 186.48 acres, and that the plaintiff is entitled to 93.24 acres. He assesses the damages for the trespass and cutting and severing timber from the lands at $20, and directs judgment for that amount to be paid by defendants with costs, remarking that it was not a case of wilful trespass, as the defendants no doubt supposed they owned the land. If any wood or timber cut upon the land to which plaintiff is entitled remains upon it the defendants are not to remove it, the plaintiff being entitled to it. The counter-claim of the defendants is dismissed without costs. W. S. Morden for plaintiff; E. C. S. Huycke, K.C., and S. J. Arnott for defendants.

Another "Sunshine" Feature

The Gas Ring

This is an entirely new idea, and will especially interest people who reside in natural gas districts. The gas ring takes the place of the lower Sunshine fire-pot, thus making it possible to burn gas in your furnace without inconvenience. Such is not possible in a furnace where the ordinary gas log is inserted; for, should the gas give out, a coal or wood fire could not be started until the gas pipes were disconnected.

To provide against sweating in the summer time, Sunshine Furnace is equipped with a nickelled steel radiator and dome. All bolts and rivets are nickelled, all rods copper-plated. This special treatment, besides meaning quicker and greater radiation from the radiator and dome than cold chill iron could possibly give, acts as protection for the bolts, rivets and rods from inroads of gas. When cast iron comes in contact with our nickelled steel it is coated with our special Anti-Rust treatment, which prevents the slightest possibility of rust commencing anywhere in Sunshine Furnace.

In Shut-Eye Town the lights are low,
And sweet the songs for baby's ear.
The list'ning angels come and go,
For motherhood is brooding near.
In mother's arm she cuddles down
And with a fist in either eye
She sees the streets of Shut-Eye Town
Before her wearied vision lie.

The baby's crept to mother's breast,
And nestled there her yellow head,
While sleepy winds blow from the west
And good-nights all are softly said,
Her eyelids weighed with coming sleep,
Her tangled hair all tumbled down—
With love the mother's voice is deep
The baby goes to Shut-Eye Town.

The shadows softly fall around
And dimples from sly corners peep,
In shoulder, cheek and chin they're found
When Flutter-Budger falls asleep.
When drowsy drums begin to beat,
Then gently baby cuddles down,
With peaceful hands and quiet feet—
For she has gone to Shut-Eye Town.

BY THE STRATEGY OF SEIZER.

A Romance That Began With the Stealing of a Shoe.

By LOUISE JACKSON STONE.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Mr. Henry Brownlow understood thoroughly why the Widow Smithfield had taken the house next his and ignored her existence with frigid dignity. He kept that side of his dwelling closed and abandoned his favorite seat under the catalpa, smoking his evening pipe behind the clematis.

Nevertheless his unwelcome neighbor obtruded on him continually, for the woman had a child and a cat, and what with her own eternal singing the chatter of the child and the prowling of the cat the quiet and peace his life were destroyed.

And his dog Seizer was being spoiled, his disposition rasped by unending conflicts with the cat. He would scarcely settle himself, panting from a rush after her, when she would be back, calmly promenading their walk or sniffing insolently at their kitchen screen.

"Some day you'll catch and throttle her, old fellow," Mr. Brownlow encouraged. "But keep on your own premises. Mind that."

And Seizer promptly halted at the boundary fence until one day his ardor carried him through the broken paling in the wake of the streak of fur and up to the steps where the child sat laughing at the race. And that was his undoing, for the child patted his head, put her little arms about his neck and loved him, and the woman rubbed his silky ears kindly and asked him to come often. And when he returned to his lonely home he left half his heart behind and could not look his master in the eyes that night.

Thereafter the cat prowled unmolested, and Seizer often slipped through the paling for a surreptitious visit which things Mr. Brownlow soon discovered and boiled with indignation.

"TAKE IT BACK INSTANTLY!" BROWNLOW ORDERED.

"Ha!" he cried. "That's her trick—subverting Seizer; stealing his affections, meaning, of course, to gain the master's finally! Go to her, if you choose!" he roared to Seizer. "But you can't belong to both of us!"

Seizer did not believe that. He loved both and felt that they had only to meet and understand each other to make it possible for him to belong to both. He would manage it!

Therefore, one evening as Mr. Brownlow moodily smoked behind his vines, glowering through them at the other house, Seizer trotted up and deposited something beside his chair, wagging expectantly.

"What it is, old fellow?" Mr. Brownlow asked genially, having forgiven Seizer's defection. It was the woman's fault, anyway—she was a beguiling creature. Even he felt that.

"What is it, old fellow?" he repeated.

Seizer picked up the object and offered it as if bestowing a fortune.

Mr. Brownlow's feet came down off the cistern pump with a bang. "What the—all creation does this mean?" He dashed the object from him as if stung. A woman's shoe!

Patient Seizer brought it back, looking eagerly down the walk. She would be here presently for her property. They would meet.

"Take it back instantly!" Brownlow ordered. But Seizer stood his ground, his ears cocked for her coming.

"Take it back! Take it back!" his master stormed, cuffing him severely, but for the first time in his life Seizer refused to obey and, when she did not come, lay down with his nose on his paws, gazing appealingly at his master.

"A pretty scheme—pretty scheme, indeed!" Mr. Brownlow exploded. "Put it into his mouth and sent him here with it. I'm to return it, of course, and she'll have her chance. Oh, I see through you, madam!"

He'd return it at once too. He snatched the shoe, which was nearly new, intending to fling it to her back door, but he found it was badly gashed with Seizer's teeth.

That would not have mattered could he be sure the dog had not stolen it. But the doubt made him pause, and he decided he could not pitch it back in that condition.

He worried over it all night, put Seizer into prison next morning and worried all day, went home the long way to avoid passing the widow's house and found the child at the fence comforting Seizer, who had barked himself hoarse.

The child fled at his approach, which so offended him that he threatened the dog as he let him out with terrible things if he did not stay at home and mind his business.

After supper he fastened the doors, drew close the blinds, lighted up and contemplated the shoe standing impudently upon his desk. She had a neat foot, not too small for a woman of her size. He set it beside his own, then blushed hotly and backed away, studying it from a fresh viewpoint. She had a very neat foot, and she was a very good looking woman, too, with a bright smile and a cheery voice. The place had seemed unbearably dull when she and the child had been away once for a few days.

He blushed again at discovering these reflections, cuffed Seizer for his too interested espionage, slammed the shoe in a closet and retired.

Next morning he decided that he must get a new pair to replace the ruined shoe and send in such a manner that she could take no advantage even if she had planned the situation.

Then arose another worry. Everybody in his town knew that he had no womankind for whom he could be buying shoes. He would never hear the last of the sly bantering. Muttering maledictions, he journeyed to the city with the shoe, duplicated it in a pair of the best and mailed them to her.

For days after he made furtive attempts to ascertain if she wore them, and the impression that she was a very good looking woman deepened and with it great depression of spirits and dissatisfaction with his life. The torn shoe was locked in his drawer.

Mrs. Smithfield, peacefully enjoying her tea one day, was amazed at Seizer's walking in and presenting her with one of Mr. Brownlow's large, shining patent leathers. To his dismay, she cast it from her as if stung.

She called heaven to witness that she had been patient with the insolence of an old bachelor woman hater. He had made war upon her cat from the first merely to torment her. The dog was not to blame. He had put Seizer up to stealing her shoe merely to torment her; he had kept the shoe and insulted her by forcing upon her a flaunting pair in such a way that he knew she could not return them, merely to torment her, and now, most insolent of all, he sent one of his flatboats and was doubtless sniggering behind his old vines.

She snatched the shoe, rushed to the division fence and hurled it with all her strength into the face of Mr. Brownlow, who that instant bobbed around the house in search of Seizer, having missed his shoe. He dodged too late with a cry and staggered to a seat, the blood streaming from his nose.

In two seconds horrified Mrs. Smithfield was bending over him with a wet towel and tearful, incoherent apologies, which mingled with his spluttering reassurances in confused duet until, suddenly looking into each other's eyes, they were stricken dumb by a mutual discovery.

A little later they sat together upon his favorite seat under the catalpa, his arm around her, the child upon his knee, the cat caressing his legs and Seizer flying madly around them, shrilling his rapture to the heavens.

A Conjugal Duel.

Charles Coypeau, Sieur d'Assouci, a French poet and musician of the seventeenth century, relates in one of his "Adventures" that his father and mother were one day engaged in a discussion upon questions of law when a dispute arose between them with regard to the precise signification and bearing of a provision in Justinian's code with respect to the rights of brothers. Ultimately the quarrel waxed so furious that the disputants lost all control of themselves, defied each other to single combat and proceeded to settle their difference and determine the mind of the ancient legislator by a fight with swords.

This singular duel took place in their son's presence. Coypeau pere was an advocate by profession and a member of one of the French parliaments. Madame was exceedingly diminutive and had to wear exceptionally high pattens to approach the ordinary stature of women, but she was fierce and domineering in temper. The combat appears to have been a drawn battle, and the sense of Justinian remained as obscure and debatable as ever.

A Batch of Anecdotes.

Some interesting anecdotes and gossip, new and old, of the law courts are given in the English Illustrated Magazine. The writer of the article was once present in court when a juror, who opened the ball by saying, "This case, my lord, really lies in a nutshell," received the reply, "You crack it, then."

There have been times when clever witnesses have got the better of counsel in a skirmish of words. When the farrier was asked where he got his knowledge of the mare's age from he said, "From the mare's own mouth, sir."

Irish lawyers are generally endowed by Dame Nature with quick wits. Among them all perhaps Curran held the palm for lightness and vivacity. When some one told him that no student should be called to the bar who did not possess a landed estate of his own, he retorted, "How many acres make a wiseacre?"

But it was a Scotsman, appropriately enough Lord Brougham, who, seeing his horses take fright, yelled to the coachman, "Drive into something cheap!"

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

those stirrings of disturbing force in Rhoda which revealed themselves to her delicate perceptions. She began to believe that her brilliant nephew, with all his clairvoyant discernment of the springs of motive that were scarcely recognized by the multitude even when they had declared themselves in action, was yet capable of a surprising density when this woman his promised wife, was concerned. She had seen nothing to warrant, yet her faith in Rhoda's docility was shaken. This eager personal feeling in a woman who had passed through some of life's deepest experiences almost shocked her. It quite shocked her when she remembered Rhoda's widowhood. It was incomprehensible to Mrs. Winter how a woman could marry a second time, and though she was glad for Eugene's sake that Mrs. Starr had proved amenable to the various reasons which are annually given for the taking of this step, she had been very willing to sink the matronly title in the familiar "Rhoda" in addressing her niece elect. She wished to forget as far as possible the fact that Merriam—who, of course, deserved the first and best—had had a predecessor in the affections of his promised bride.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Marchese Di Loria was being driven to the station to meet some Americans to whom his friend Sir John Chester had asked him to pay some attention, and at the risk of destroying at the outset all interest in one who has to play a part of some importance in these chronicles, and is a charming person into the bargain, it must be stated that he found matter for rejoicing in this circumstance, which would have proved so grievous an affliction to an Anglo-Saxon. He had never seen these Americans, had not heard of them as persons of distinction, knew nothing of them beyond the fact that one of them was greatly liked by John Chester, yet he was pleased to be going to meet them. Truly the obligations of courtesy sit less heavily on the Latin races than the nations of the North.

The Marchese Di Loria was a very handsome man. He had the dark delicate, poetic face of the South Italian, with straight features, noble and severe, dusky hair and brows, and a pair of great tragic eyes mournful and beautiful, of that limpid darkness seen only in the pensive Neapolitan face, and recalling always the saying of the cruel king, that he would leave the Neapolitans only their eyes to weep with. Personally, the Marchese Di Loria was a very fortunate man, young, wealthy, and wellborn, but the profound melancholy of a race to which nature has always been kind, but to which fortune was long cruel, was written on his face.

He was the heir of a very old Neapolitan house, and retained some of the instincts of his ancestors, but he had also traits inherited from a gentle mother who had taken him when a little lad to lay his slender hand in the broad palm of Garibaldi. Part of this inheritance was a passionate admiration for America and Americans, though he had seen nothing of the country and little of the people. But Guido Di Loria had a great many ideals and countless convictions. He was very much in earnest about a vast number of things, so much so, that in a northern atmosphere he might possibly have developed into a lovable prig. But the prig is not a growth of Neapolitan soil, and he had so much charm that his best friends forgave him his excellences. They adored his lapses, and regretted their infrequency. Italians are not fond of eccentricities, and it seemed to them that some of his virtues were nothing less in a man of thirty years, a noble and a member of several fashionable clubs. He was popular, nevertheless and it is to be hoped that he will not be considered less admirable when it is mentioned that the English language was among his admirations, and the belief that he spoke it well—as indeed he did—among his convictions. Certainly he hoped to convince John Chester's friends of this.

"Pardon, but this is surely Mr. Winter?"

"At your service,' said Regy, wondering.

"And at yours, behold Guido Di Loria. I have only this morning heard from John Chester, at Cannes—the good John—that you come to arrive on the morning train from Rome. He will perhaps have told you of me, that I am here but to serve you while you stay in my city."

"He has told me a great deal of you. I have long wished to meet you. I should have sent my card when we reached our hotel. You are more than kind, and Jack Chester is the best fellow in the world."

"Indeed, I think so, since he gives me the pleasure to know you," said Di Loria. "Permit me to make my respects to your mother and her friend."

The respects were made in due form, Di Loria listening in some wonder to Regy's impatient pests at the feminine anxieties concerning luggage. It had been his habit to kiss his parents' hands each night on retiring, and to "reverence" them on meeting again. He was prepared to like young Reginald greatly but within his secret soul he feared him to be "of a lightness"

They emerged from the struggle with the officers of the octroi into the breadth of sunlight so broad, so mellow, so unmistakably Southern in its deep, lazy glow that Mrs. Starr threw off her wrappings of fur with a little laugh of delight. They refused the offer of Di Loria's cariage which stood awaiting him with all that pomp of equipage which is among the many traces Spanish dominance has left on Neapolitan life, and bade its owner farewell with pleasure in his promise to call at their hotel that evening "to see that the journey had not discommoded them." They were assisted into the omnibus from Hotel Royal by the attendant porter, who performed his duties in a Neapolitan passion of deference, and rolled away through the crowded streets.

Crowded? Swarming, rather! The tide of humanity surged about them on every side. Fishermen, tawny, barelegged, crowned by the red Phrygian cap; women with gay kerchiefs tied over their dusky hair; children who pointed at them in sweet derision an d crones who ran with submissive, tottering swiftness before their approach; beggars in hordes who received all rebuffs as mere playful farces intended to prolong the pleasure of the intercourse; soldiers with the goat-skin knapsacks of the rank and file; soldiers with the nodding cock's plumes of the Bersaglieri, stepping gaily to the wild, bewitching military music; priests, serge-clad, some with tonsured heads and cruel knotted ropes cast about their waists, some with broad hats and sleek, gentle, furtive faces; light-stepping, olive-skin-

A CRUMB OF BREAD.

Its Effect on the Tip of a Vivacious Woman's Nose.

"Isn't it terrible." said the society woman, "what a tiny thing can prove a tragedy to poor, self vaunting mankind! A speck almost invisible in the eye of an athlete may disempower him utterly and render him as helpless as a baby. And a lost hairpin or the breaking of a buckle may transform the most smartly groomed woman into an object of amusement to all observers.

"At a dinner I attended not long ago a lady sitting opposite me lodged in some inexplainable manner a large crumb of bread directly on the end of her nose without being conscious of the fact, and there it remained. The ludicrous effect was beyond the power of words to describe or of human risibles to resist. She is an extremely vivacious woman, generous with smiles and little bows and motions of her head, and as she chatted gayly with those about her it was impossible for us to restrain our unseemly mirth. Naturally she thought this was caused by her remarks, and she continued to toss off jests with a lightsome air. We were all in agony, but no one summoned courage to tell her, each of us preferring to leave that kindly act to another. After a time she addressed a remark to her husband, who sat next to her and had been devoting himself to the lady at his other side. He turned to look at his wife, and in an instant a clever touch of his napkin removed the distorting fragment, but I can never forget it as long as I live."

THE PENGUIN.

His Solemn, Laborious Hop and His Stone Lined Nest.

The penguin does not fly—he hops, balancing himself by his flippers, or rudimentary wings. He is about two feet tall, in some cases, however, reaching nearly four feet, and he has a solemn and heavy style of hop which is immensely funny to look at. It is not a bit of fun for the penguin, though, for when the ice is rough, as it almost always is, his webbed, clumsy feet soon become raw and bleeding. Whenever he reaches a snow slope he drops down and toboggans, urging himself on with his flippers, but for the most part he hops laboriously mile after mile when the nesting season comes, seeking a home that satisfies penguin requirements.

A penguin is made of sterner stuff than to need soft lining for a nest. A heap of irregular stones around a depression scratched in the ground is all that each pair asks for. Some penguins are industrious and collect stones all day. Others are lazy and steal theirs whenever a worker's broad black back is turned. It is a trifle hard to escape with the plunder, for a slow waddle is the best the thief can do. But the owner cannot pursue any faster, and the chase is very funny to see. Sometimes the thief is overtaken, and in that case there is a lively fight, while a third penguin, lingering near, usually bears away the coveted stone while the fight is on.—Forward.

Knew When to Stop.

The shrewd lawyer knows when to stop questioning, and none is more shrewd than the one who, conducting a case of bribery, questioned a man the other day who is rated high in the business world.

"Have you yourself ever refused a bribe?" he asked.

"No, but"—

"That is all," said the lawyer.

At a later time he was asked why he had dismissed the witness so soon.

"Because," he replied, "I knew by the 'but' that he was going to tell me no one had ever attempted to bribe him."

Compensation For Injury.

Compensation for injury in the middle ages was in its infancy. The volume of the accounts of the lord high treasurer of Scotland, just published, tells incidentally of payments made to sufferers in the siege of Glasgow in 1544. To a carter who lost his horse $25 was paid, but $10.56 sufficed for a woman whose husband was killed, a like sum being given to the owners of two broken drums.

A Safe Rule.

"Is one apt to get bruised in learning to ride the bicycle?"

"Not if you make it a rule to stop when the bicycle stops."

"What do you mean?"

"Some riders keep on going."

A Boomerang.

"She broke him of smoking so that he could save money."

"And did he save money?"

"Yes, he got so interested in saving money that he broke off their engagement so that he could save still more."

A Hard Task.

"Do you think a woman could be a satisfactory juror?"

"No. She'd have to agree with eleven men, and she hasn't learned to agree with one yet."

Self Denial.

Teacher—What do you understand by the words "self denial?" Pupil—It is when some one comes to borrow money from father and he says he is not at home.

Bill Was Dead Slow.

"Didn't I tell you that Bill was too slow to live?"

"Why, what's 'e bin and done now?"

Shoot Middy As A Human Torpedo From Submarine.

EXPERIMENT SHOWS ESCAPE FROM CRAFT DISABLED BELOW SURFACE POSSIBLE FOR ALL BUT ONE.

Washington, D. C., Saturday.—Disregarding absolutely the danger of death that threatened him, and wishing only to demonstrate for the benefit of officers and men who go to sea in submarines whether it is possible to escape from them in case they sink, Midshipman Kenneth Whiting, in command of the submarine Porpoise, now in Manila, it is learned to-day, had himself ejected from the vessel while it rested on the bottom of the sea and rose safely to the surface.

If there was a chance to escape from a submarine, he declared, he wished to demonstrate it, so that in case of accident it would not be necessary for all hands to perish, as has been the case in accidents that have already happened.

When the vessel was resting on the mud at the bottom, between sixty and seventy feet deep, he crawled into a torpedo tube. The end of the tube was closed behind him. In a submarine a tube is closed or opened on the outside by a port, which is moved by powerful machinery from within the boat. There is a great pressure under water against the port cover, and it takes a tremendous lot of power to force it up. When it comes there is a great inrush of water. There was extreme danger of the inrush imprisoning Whiting and drowning him before he could even escape from the tube.

Whiting got within the tube and secured a hold on the port. Inside the officers turned on the power, the port swinging open. Whiting, holding on for his life, swung out with it and with powerful strokes swam clear of the suction of the inrushing water. Then he shot up to the surface.

Immediately after the opening of the port the officers raised the vessel. For a second they gazed around filled with anxiety for Whiting. A few feet away they saw him heading for the vessel. They cheered and dragged him aboard. The feat is regarded as one of the most remarkable ever attempted in the navy.

The experiment demonstrates that men in a sunken submarine can be saved, providing, of course, the machinery is not disarranged. But it also demonstrates, too, that one of the men must die. Some one must remain behind to keep the machinery in operation while the others make the flight through the tube.

Canifton News.

Quarterly meeting services were held here on Sunday, but owing to the extreme heat the attendance was smaller than usual.

Mrs. Canniff, who underwent an operation at the Belleville hospital a few weeks ago, is home again and is gaining in health rapidly.

Mr. W. I. Cole is suffering from a severe attack of inflammation of the eyes.

Mrs. Benson Haight is at Beaver Lake, camping with her daughter, Mrs. P. D. Shorey.

Mrs. G. W. Kerr and daughter and Mrs. Rorke and daughter attended the excursion to the True Blue Orphanage on Friday.

Miss Thelma Fairman is visiting in Madoc.

Miss Mildred Kerr has returned from a two weeks' stay at Picton.

Miss Lena Sills, of Foxboro, was the guest of Miss Hattie Burnside last week.

Misses Ada and Anna Reeves, of Winnipeg, are visiting at Mr. Tim Farnham's.

Miss Annie Wright, of Kingston, has returned home, after spending a very pleasant holiday with her friend, Miss Tessie Watts.

Mr. C. A. Callery is in Peterboro on business.

Mrs. Herbert Arnold has returned to her home in Durham, after spending a short vacation with her parents here.

We are pleased to note that Mr. Bert Moorman is displaying a neighborly kindness towards us by "hitching up" a little closer. In future he will occupy the Frost house, on the Canifton road.

G. W. Palmer is a very busy man these days, trying to get his new school ready for occupation by Sept. 1st.

We extend congratulations to Misses Evelyn and Luella Rorke, who were successful in passing the recent Departmental exams, for first and second-class certificates respectively.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Bedell, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Liddell, and Mr. Joseph and Miss Annie Waldron took in the excursion to the Thousand Islands on Saturday.

Miss Ray Eveleigh, of Mountain View, Miss Eva Martin, of Picton, and Miss Evelyn McCutcheon, of Stirling, are visiting at Mr. Kerr's.

Miss Bessie Peterson, of Toronto, and Miss Annie Thompson, of Oshawa, visited relatives here last week.

Mrs. Roy Parks has returned from Brighton, where she spent a short holiday with friends.

Mr. Robt. Dunning lost a valuable horse last week.

In view of the approaching marriage of his only daughter, Evelyn, and subsequent removal from this place, Mr. John L. Palmer gave a dinner to his near relatives on Thursday last. A very happy afternoon and evening was spent, which no doubt will be the last family gathering at the old home, where so many joys and sorrows have been shared.

Mrs. Henry Farnham gave a very jolly birthday party in honor of her little daughter, Florence, on Thursday afternoon. In all there were twenty-two bright-eyed, happy little guests, who spent the hours in laughter, song and games. A dainty tea was served on the lawn at 5:30, and all seemed to enjoy that part of the programme immensely. After tea Mrs. F. B. Naylor took a snap-shot of the merry little group. Miss Florence received a number of pretty birthday gifts, chief of which was a handsome ring, sent from her aunt, Nurse Anderson, of New York City.

Back to Montreal.

The city of Montreal is having a homecoming of its sons and daughters from Sept. 13th to 20th. There is great rivalry between the Montreal and Toronto drummers over that event and the Toronto exhibition, and the following verses have been written by a Toronto drummer ridiculing the peasoup city's home call, "Back to Montreal":

With mud and dust all round them,
And black smoke over all;
They must be jays when once away,
To go "Back to Montreal."

Through its dirty streets, bum sidewalks,
And graft at City Hall,
I thank the Lord I've turned
My "Back to Montreal."

I've swam the depths of Craig street,
From Main to Beaver Hall;
And I'd as soon go straight to blazes
As "Back to Montreal."

Through drinking its typhoid water,
There are folks both short and tall,
Lying down behind the mountain
With their "Back to Montreal."

Should you wish to die before you hear,
The trumpet's final call;
Just try the water that they drink,
And go "Back to Montreal."

ENGLISH WAYS IN SPAIN.

Queen Victoria Loyal to Language and Customs of Her Own Country.

Queen Victoria of Spain, who is still Princess Ena to the English, seems unable to tear herself away from English traditions and associations. English are some of the nurses who are in charge of the Prince of the Asturias and Don Jaime, the youngest son, and very English in all their appointments are the nurseries where her two small sons spend most of their lives at present.

Yet the Spanish people do not seem to resent the Queen's loyalty to the language and customs of her own country. They are so proud of her and so proud of the two princes and princess, who is only about three weeks old, that they are quite willing she and the young King should revolutionize Spanish social life and overthrow traditions of generations past.

King Alfonso is cosmopolitan in ideas and tastes. He takes King Edward of England as his model and insists upon going about as England's King does, unostentatiously and freely. He tries also to Anglicize his court and his home life and in appearance he has converted himself into as near an approach to a British citizen as it is possible for one so distinctly Latin in type as he. English suits, hats, ties, waistcoats, an English way of wearing his hair, and the long stride and vigorous outdoor air of the English gentleman—all this does the young King struggle to achieve, and in part he has succeeded. The gilded youth of Spain follow his example, so that English styles and English manners prevail in Madrid, and an English bulldog is considered the very last touch to this effort to be Anglo-Saxon, writes a correspondent.

King Alfonso remains a boy in looks and view of life, notwithstanding he is the father of three children. Spain regards him with affection tinged with respectful toleration. England, on the contrary, frankly admires him as the most romantic figure of present royalty. Queen Victoria is a devoted mother, and spends more time with her children than is usual with royal parents.

The little princes are fine boys. The Prince of the Asturias grows more English in appearance every day. He is very blonde, blue-eyed, and rosy-cheeked, and very like his golden-haired mother in features. He has also her placid temperament. Don Jaime is a direct contrast to his brother. Though only a little over a year old, he shows already a Spanish type, and has all the nervous energy and vitality of King Alfonso, of whom in appearance he is a small counterpart. The little princess is a fine healthy baby.

The older and more conservative members of the Spanish court have openly wondered if Queen Victoria will realize that Spanish princes must be brought up according to Spanish traditions, but all young Spain is heart and soul with the young Queen.

THE CARIBOU AT HOME

BIG BEAST IS CANADA'S MOST ERRATIC ANIMAL.

Can Always Be Relied on to Do the Opposite Thing to Any Other Animal—Color Is Like That of Moss-Grown Bushes—It Herds With Its Fellows More Than the Moose or Deer—Feet Adapted to Deep Snow.

"The caribou or American reindeer (Rangifer caribou)," writes Mr. W. H. Moore in The Educational Review of St. John, N.B., "which is found in the Maritime Provinces and Newfoundland, is in size midway between the Virginian deer and the moose, and is without a doubt the most erratic in its wanderings of any of our native mammals. Its true habitat is among barrens, somewhat overgrown with black spruce, upon which usnea moss (really a lichen — Usnea barbata) is the main diet of the caribou, whether its long pendulous threads or fronds grow on the spruces of the barrens or on the trees of rocky, elevated positions. This animal also follows the roads made by the lumbermen and crops the lichens which grow on the felled trees.

When disturbed, the caribou often goes away, perhaps not to return for weeks; and when pursued may be expected to do exactly the opposite to what another animal would do. Herds of half a dozen or more have been known to allow a hunter to come up with them, and to stand staring at him in amazement, as one after another of them was shot down. At other times they flee at the slightest warning at the approach of a hunter. The actions of this animal are very uncertain. If, while wandering about, one of them should come across a man's trail in the snow, it will sometimes wheel about and run for perhaps twenty miles without stopping; and, another time, it is quite as likely to follow up his trail.

The color of the caribou, which in summer is a glossy reddish-brown, becoming grayer towards winter, serves to protect it because it much resembles that of the moss-grown bushes among which it stands. The under parts being of a lighter color than the upper, the form of the animal is much broken, and its outline is rendered indistinct to any but an experienced eye.

The female caribou brings forth a single fawn at first birth, and after that two are born at a time. Unlike the cow moose, she is often the possessor of a pair of antlers, which are, however, much smaller and more slender than those of the male. Some hold that the antlers of the female caribou are never dropped. This statement is based on the belief that the antlers not having an enlargement at their base—known as the "burr"—cannot be dropped and again reproduced. The writer, however, believes that the antlers of the female are dropped and grown just the same as are those of the male, and that as for the burr, the female has as much in proportion to the size of her antlers as has the male.

The caribou is much more gregarious than the moose or the deer. In favorable localities, as many as fifty of them may be seen at one time scattered over the side of a hill in search of their favorite food, locally known as caribou moss.

The caribou, unlike the moose and the dear, does not "yard" in the winter, but roams over a considerable area. The formation of its feet facilitates its progress through deep snow or over snow covered with a thin crust. The hoofs are very shallow and broad, as are also the dewclaws or secondary hoofs. In traveling where the footing is insecure, the animal squats down until the lower part of the leg rests on the surface of the snow, and with the hoofs and dewclaws spread laterally, a support almost equal to that of a snowshoe, quite a surface is covered, and the speed attained is much greater than if it had to wade or plunge through the snow, as animals that run on the extremities of their hoofs have to do.

The flesh of the caribou is much esteemed as food, and clothing made of its skin, is, it is said, so impervious to cold that with the addition of a blanket of the same material one may bivouac on the snow with safety even in the coldest winter night.

With us this animal is a beast of chase merely, but it is well known how useful the tame reindeer is to the Laplander, being his cow, sheep, horse in one animal. The milk of the herds is the principal support of the owner and his family, and as a draught animal his speed and endurance render it the most valuable of creatures to men living in high northern latitudes.

The caribou or American reindeer of these provinces and farther north is regarded by some naturalists as only a variety of the European reindeer (Rangifer tarandus). Another variety is the Greenland caribou, a smaller animal, inhabiting the shores of the Arctic Ocean and the woods and barren grounds adjacent."

Not Interested.

"I have called," said the book agent, "to see if I can interest you in a little work"—

"Young man," snapped the woman who answered the door, "just now I am interested in washing my dishes, dusting, cleaning up after the paper-hanger, making six beds, polishing the hardwood floors, ironing my husband's shirts, getting two more meals today, darning nine pairs of stockings and stringing my sweet peas, and I might say that that's more work than you men ever thought of doing. No; you can't interest me in any more."—Detroit Free Press.

'Mid Kisses and Tears Ella Gingles Sailed

YOUNG IRISH GIRL, ONCE A RESIDENT OF THIS CITY, LEFT CHICAGO FOR THE HOME OF HER FOREFATHERS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Plentifully wept, bemoaned and lamented Ella Gingles, who came out of rural Ireland to play the stellar role in one of the most enthralling of recent newspaper serials, unwillingly departed this afternoon for County Antrim, in the island of her forefathers. The young Irish lacemaker demurred when the authorities ordered her deported, because, she said, her parents had read garbled newspaper accounts of her sensational experiences in Chicago and she doubted whether she could explain to their satisfaction.

Miss Gingles was not suffered to depart quietly. Sympathetic club women dropped salt tears on her cheek, after implanting motherly kisses there, and a guard of honor, consisting of both men and women, escorted her. Ella was duly appreciative of the interest which she excited. She chirped softly to those who took her hands or pecked at her cheek and wore all the time a distant, far-away expression as of one who is going away after many trials undergone and many sorrows supported. Whether she was thinking of the $1,500 which kind friends had showered upon her on her arrival at home was left to conjecture.

In one hand she clutched a mysterious box which figured in the trial. This box has the value of a talisman for Ella, but what its contents are no one ventured to explain. To-day it was tied with a silver cord, but none dared to enquire as to what it might contain and Ella herself was a sphynx. It is believed, however, that the box contained all the evidence in her recent trial.

Mrs. Grace Vandusen Cooke, will sail with Miss Gingles, who will leave New York on the Campania on Wednesday. Mrs. Cooke is going to see that Ella gets safely home, and will aid her in her explanation to her parents.

SAD END OF KEITH FURNIVAL, TWO OF WHOSE COUSINS LIVE IN THIS CITY.

This afternoon the remains of the late Mr. Keith Furnival arrived here and were taken to the Belleville cemetery for interment. Deceased met his death by drowning on Saturday last at a summer resort near Portland, Me., where he was on his vacation. How the unfortunate accident occurred was not learned.

Mr. Furnival was cashier in a bank at Portland, and was very popular with a large circle of friends. Deceased was a son of Mr. J. C. Furnival, who resides at Napanee, was 28 years of age and unmarried. The unfortunate gentleman spent his boyhood days in this city and was a graduate of the Belleville High School. He was a first cousin of Mrs. Hy. Pringle and Mrs. F. E. O'Flynn, of this city.

The funeral took place this afternoon under Masonic auspices.

Died After Operation.

MRS. ROBT. VANALLEN.

Mrs. Robert Vanallen, who resided in the 9th concession of Thurlow, a few days ago went to the Kingston General hospital to undergo an operation. Yesterday she died, and the remains arrived here last evening and were taken to the family residence in Thurlow. Deceased, who was 50 years of age, was born at Marmora, and had lived in Thurlow for 31 years. She was an estimable lady, loved by all who knew her. Mrs. Vanallen had been for years a member of the Methodist church. In addition to the husband, six sons and two daughters survive. The sons are Egbert, Luke, William, Clinton, Clayton and Percy. The daughters are Mrs. M. A. Blakeley and Miss Lillian, at home.

Coal Boat Ashore

Pasque Isle, Mass., Aug. 9. — The four-masted schooner, Maud B. Krum, Philadelphia, for an eastern port with coal, grounded early to-day near what is known as the graveyard on this island. The weather was very thick, with a strong south-west breeze, and the crew of seven men had some difficulty in reaching shore. At daylight the big waves were rolling in through the mouth of Vineyard Sound and dashing heavily against the stranded vessel.

Fox-Anderson.

A very pretty marriage ceremony took place Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. J. Anderson, Kemptville, when her daughter, Miss Martha Anderson, became the bride of William L. Fox, of Stirling, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. L. Howard, M. A., of St. Paul's church, in the presence of a few of the bride's immediate relatives. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the assembled friends by the bride's mother. The happy couple left on the afternoon train for Ottawa on a short wedding trip. The bride's going-away gown was tope broadcloth with hat to match and was very pretty and becoming. The groom, who is a native of Stirling, is in mercantile life. The bride, who is the fourth daughter and youngest child of the late James J. Anderson, of South Gower, is well and favorably known.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1¼ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

Will Not Stop Traffic.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Any traffic arrangements the C.N.R. may make with other roads to secure the movement of their freight westward will not be allowed to retard or interfere with the construction of a C.N.R. connecting section between Selwood and Port Arthur. President Mackenzie said yesterday that the C.P.R. was handling the C.N.R. freight between Sudbury and Port Arthur, from which point it was being picked up by the C.N.R. again, but that was an arrangement very common among railways and would not weigh against the completion of an all C.N.R. line at the earliest possible date.

A stretch of line forty miles long from Selwood north towards Port Arthur, Mr. Mackenzie said, was being rushed along now and would be completed before the end of the year.

The president added that satisfactory progress was being made by a gang of surveyors in the readjusting of the route of the Niagara-Ottawa line, which will be started this fall.

Russian-Chinese Entente.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 10.—"Russian influence in China is steadily regaining the ground which it temporarily lost after the war, and in a short time the Muscovite will be stronger than ever in Pekin. On the other hand, Chinese antipathy to Japan is becoming increasingly bitter. The Chinese feel that Japan has broken every international rule by her conduct in relation to Manchuria. I have no doubt that the next great war in the Far East will see China and Russia in coalition against Japan."

This interesting statement in regard to international politics in the Far East was made by E. Backus, adviser to the Chinese Minister of Internal Affairs. Mr. Backus has been home to England for a brief holiday.

"The majority of Chinese statesmen feel that the Japanese occupation of Manchuria has been a great breach of faith on the part of the Mikado's empire," continued Mr. Backus, "and in this opinion most Europeans living in the Far East heartily concur."

Canada's Mexican Trade.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Although general Mexican trade figures show decreases for last year, the trade of Canada with Mexico increased by $95,000, while that of Mexico and Canada grew by $48,000. The chief loss has been in the trade with the United States, which fell off by $16,500,000.

On Oct. 1 next, a direct parcel post system will be put into operation between Canada and Mexico. At present all parcels are sent via Great Britain

Big New Assaying Plant.

Cobalt, Aug. 10.—Mr. Deysner, representing European capitalists, has purchased 20 acres on the lake shore, near Port Cobalt, and will establish an assaying plant, which will embody radical ideas in the business of separating metals from ore. His engineer is now on the way from Seattle, Wash. The plant, which, it is claimed, will revolutionize mining in the camp.

A Philosopher's Fable.

Arthur Aull is responsible for this one:

"Folly, Genius and Common Sense once went walking and came to a stream. Genius, having his head in the clouds, naturally started to wade across, paying no attention to the depth. The waters soon went over his head, and he was drowned. Common Sense hunted for a safe way to get across, and finally he found a foot log. As he got out about the center of the stream the log swayed, and he fell into the water and sank to rise no more. Folly stopped at the bank of the stream to amuse himself by throwing pebbles into the water and watching the waves. He sat upon the moist, cold bank until he caught a cold which developed into pneumonia, of which he soon died. Moral.—It doesn't make much difference, after all, whether you are a genius, a sage or a fool. You'll get it sooner or later anyway."

SURVIVED HUGE SHOCK

Quebec Hotelman Stands 2,000 Volts in Accident.

Etienne Lefebvre, Proprietor of the Windsor Hotel at Grand Mere, Seizes a Heavily Charged Metal Pipe and Is Forced to Hold It Until His Cries Bring Aid — He Will Recover.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—To receive a shock of 2,000 volts and live to tell the tale is the record of Mr. Etienne Lefebvre, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, Grand Mere, Que.

With the successful amputation of his right foot and arm, Mr. Lefebvre has more than a fighting chance of recovering, and the surgeons at the Notre Dame Hospital are sanguine that he will soon be able to leave his bed. The operation, which was performed yesterday morning was entirely successful.

About ten days ago Mr. Lefebvre, while taking a last look around his hotel and outbuildings, saw sparks and flashes proceeding from what he thought was his shed. The illuminations seemed confined to the vicinity of a short metal pipe, and he seized it to pull it out of the ground and throw it into vacant space, where it could do no damage. No sooner had his hands closed on the pipe, when his form became rigid, and thus imprisoned, he was held to the electrically-charged post until his shouts sent the hotel employes in search of him.

Realizing that their chief was being electrocuted, one of the men rushed to the telephone and advised the power company what had happened and they immediately cut off the current.

Lefebvre was unconscious and his hands were burned nearly to the bone. For three hours two physicians worked over him.

Ashes Consigned to Sea.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—A metal box containing the incinerated body of Mrs. Ross Payton was sunk in Lake Michigan from the deck of an excursion steamer, while passengers looked on with bared heads and the steamship orchestra played a dirge. Twenty-nine years ago the husband of Mrs. Payton was lost in the wreck of the steamer Alpena, and the widow wished that her ashes be thrown in the lake near the place of the wreck.

McGuigan Denies It.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—F. H. McGuigan, who is building the Hydro-Electric Commission power line from Niagara Falls to Toronto, denied yesterday the rumor that he has been offered $25,000 a year to become head of the Lake Superior Corporation at the instance of London financiers.

HANLAN'S POINT BURNS

Toronto's Great Amusement Park a Mass of Ruins.

One Young Woman Is Burned to Death and Property Valued at $200,000 Destroyed by Disastrous Holocaust Which Breaks Out in Small Theatre—Hotel, Grand Stand and Figure Eight Are Wiped Out.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Hanlan's Point was fire-swept yesterday afternoon, with the loss of one life and destruction of property amounting to well on to $200,000, probably one-half covered by insurance.

To-day the amusement park, with its scores of attractions, is a desolate waste. With the exception of the island ferry dock and offices, the merry-go-round and a refreshment stand, the maze, and a shooting gallery, the whole area from the docks through to the Hotel Hanlan, and all west to the extreme boundary of the athletic field, not a timber is standing.

Miss Clara Andrews of Cobourg, cashier of the figure 8, was cut off from retreat and fell just outside the ticket office door. She got into the passage leading to the cars, but before she could get over the fence a gush of flame struck her and she fell back.

The conflagration started outside the Gem Theatre and between that building and the figure 8, the very centre of the amusement park. Fanned by a strong northwest wind, the flames speedily licked up the flimsy structures, crowded together, and in less than two hours every building except those about the docks were a mass of black ruin.

The big Amusement Palace and School of Fun opposite the ferry wharf was the last to go. It made the hottest blaze of the afternoon. At that time it looked as if the course of the flames eastward up the main walk towards Centre Island, would not be stopped, and the proprietors of the Lake Shore Hotel, the first substantial structure in the way, were preparing to move out. The Argonaut Rowing Club formed a bucket brigade and soaked Durnan's boat house so that it resisted the heat and flying embers.

MISS CLARA ANDREWS.

James E. Roard, 1 Badgerow avenue, "spieler" for the Gem Theatre (moving pictures), where the fire started, said it was caused by a pail of sulphur catching fire. "We use the sulphur for red lights for the ballet dance in front of the theatre," he said. "The sulphur that burned up had been made about five minutes before. It was in an ordinary fire bucket, and there was about five pounds of it.

"Bert Rippon, who lives on Park road, and operates the moving picture machine, mixed it. The flames caught on to the tent. I yelled and gave warning. The cashier, Miss English, fainted and I carried her out. The theatre is canvas with wood framework. The sulphur was in the dress tent, but it soon spread from there to the theatre and then to the figure eight."

When the Scenic Railway burst into flames all the employes of the nearby buildings started to get furniture away from the path of the conflagration. The fire passed right along to the Old Mill, and soon it was an Inferno on a small scale. From there it passed over to the grand stand surrounding the ball grounds. It soon was a circle of flames. Sparks and large sized cinders were carried by the wind to the roofs of the buildings to the south.

After the ball grand stand caught fire the Pavilion ignited. In a few minutes it was a mass of flames. From there the devouring element passed to the hotel. Efforts were made by many to kill the little fires on the roof, but the water in the jugs in the rooms was the only extinguisher at hand, and it was soon used up. From the hotel it passed to the Human Roulette wheel, and from there to the icehouse. It took about 45 minutes for the hotel to become a mass of red-hot embers. After the icehouse caught the flames traveled to the west end of the Japanese amusement parlors. The whole end was in flames before it passed to the roof. It did not stand long after that. The School of Fun, attached to the other place, and the Big Scream, in front of the amusement parlors, went too.

Hanlan's Point proper, by which is meant the area north of Heber Park and east of the aquatic course, covers about six acres, of which a considerable portion belongs to the ferry company, the remainder being held under a 21 years' lease from the city, at an annual rental of about $400. The portion owned by the company is the southwest corner, including the athletic grounds, this property having been filled in by the company.

Second-Hand Pipe for Canada.

Pittsburg, Aug. 11.—Because of the pipe mills of the country being so rushed with orders to accept new business for immediate delivery, the Union Petroleum Co. of Buffalo has purchased eighty miles from the National Supply Co. of Pittsburg. This pipe was made about 20 years ago and was laid in the Fort Wayne field of Indiana about 18 years ago. The pipe, however, is in prime condition. It will be laid from the Chatham gas field in Ontario to Sarnia, Ont. Only two companies bid on the order.

Woman Sent For Trial.

Brockville, Aug. 11.—Before the hearing of Miss Grace Henderson concluded yesterday in the Brockville Police Court another charge was lodged against her, that of falsifying the books of the Gananoque Thousand Island Railway Co. On this, as well as on three charges of theft of over $3,000, she was committed for trial to the high court. The business of the office of the railway appears to have been run very loosely. Bail was renewed at $8,000.

Veteran Editor Retires.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—W. E. Jones of The Richmond Guardian, and the oldest editor of the Eastern Townships, is about to retire from journalism. He is over 80 years of age. Before coming to Canada, Mr. Jones was on the staff of The London Chronicle. He has taken a deep interest in the educational institutions of Richmond and is president of the corporation of St. Francis' College.

Parry Sound's New Industry.

Parry Sound, Aug. 11.—The Algoma Wood Alcohol and Chemical Co. will begin at once the erection of a large factory here for the manufacture of wood alcohol and its chemical bye-products, as well as charcoal, and there is every prospect of an iron and [illegible]el industry following.

[illegible]-law to loan the company $30,- A b[illegible]rried by a vote of 407 for 000 was [illegible] to 18 against.

Ex-Convict S[illegible]'s Juryman.

Middletown, N.Y., Aug. 11.—D. A. [illegible]berton Fenton, proprietor of the [illegible] Hotel, was shot and fatally wounded on the street yesterday. His assailant, an ex-convict named McSo[illegible]ley of New York, then inflicted a fatal wound in his head. Fenton said he once sat a jury that sent McSorley to prison.

Judge Condemns Women's Jail.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—In sentencing two women to the Kingston Penitentiary yesterday to terms of two years, for robbing a man of $1,500, Judge Choquet made some severe comments on the women's jail in Montreal. He declared it was a "house of corruption."

Determined Suicide.

St. Thomas, Aug. 11.—Earl Gillett, the 23-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlande Gillett, farmers residing near Sparta, committed suicide by taking Paris green, afterwards knocking himself on the head with a heavy hammer.

Alas, Poor Evelyn.

New York, Aug. 11.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw declared yesterday that there was no truth in the report that she would bring suit for $500,000 against her husband, Harry K. Thaw, or against any member of the Thaw family. She said, however, that her usual monthly remittance of $480 from her husband had not been received this month, that she was practically penniless, and did not know where her next dollar was coming from.

ELEVEN DIE IN FLAMES.

Hotel in Vernon, B. C., is Destroyed By Fire.

Okanagan Hotel is Burned Down in Early Morning Blaze, and Eleven Guests Are Caught in Death-Trap—Five Are in Hospital—One Man Dies While Saving Life of Domestic—Loss is Heavy.

Vernon B.C., Aug. 11.—Fire broke out in the Okanagan Hotel here about 2 o'clock yesterday morning, resulting in the total destruction of the building and the deaths of at least eleven of the guests.

The building was of brick veneer, three storeys in height with about 48 rooms, was a mass of flames when the alarm was turned in and both back and front stairways were ablaze. Guests escaped from the burning building down fire escapes or at the rear, where some outhouses made the descent less hazardous. The premises of the Royal Bank, P. Burns & Co., Morris Drug Store, and F. A. Loveridge, real estate, were considerably damaged.

The known dead are: Wilbur Smith, carpenter; J. J. Funsion, laborer; Jas. Anderson, delivery man for J. W. Clover; Julius Fuerst, bartender, relative of proprietors, from Wetaskiwin; Geo. Jarrat and Geo. McKay, Calgary; Geo. Settgas, A. Hickling, A. Chabtree and a Bohemian.

A. Hickling lost his life in his attempt to save one of the domestics in the hotel after having saved one of Sigalet's daughters.

The Taxing of Travelers.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The old question of the right of a British country to tax commercial travelers, which has been often fought out here in Canada as between province and province, and city or town, crops up in a new form in New Zealand.

It appears, according to a report by Commissioner Larke to the Trade and Commerce Department that the Government of New Zealand is compelling Canadian travelers and commission agents to pay income tax upon the amounts of their sales to merchants in the new dominion. The matter will be brought before the congress of Chambers of Commerce of the Empire which is to meet in Sydney next month, with the view of securing some united action which will discriminate in favor of British traders.

Wheat Crop $112,000,000.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 11.—Two prominent elevator men, F. O. Fowler and W. H. McWilliams, yesterday wired The Northwestern Miller an estimate of the wheat crop of the three provinces of western Canada, placing it at 112 and 110 million bushels respectively.

The indicated crop of 235 million bushels of wheat for Minnesota and North and South Dakota, is considered conservative here in grain circles. The milling quality is superior.

Cutting is quite general south and southwest of Minneapolis, with a little threshing this week in southern Minnesota. Rain only can harm the crop now.

Little Boy Drowns.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Little Reginald E. Eaton, the 8-year-old son of John Eaton of Ashdale avenue, was drowned yesterday at noon while swimming in Coatsworth's cut. The little lad had just purchased a new bathing suit and was anxious to get into the water. He got beyond his depth and two companions who were fishing were unable to save him. One ran for help and the other marked the place where he went down. The body was recovered at 3.15 by Mait Ackroyd and taken to the home of the parents by P. C. Rapley of No. 8 division. They are prostrate with grief.

Coal Company Increase Output.

Glace Bay, Aug. 11.—A notable feature of the strike conditions from the Dominion Coal Co.'s point of view is that all local customers, including the steel plant, electric trams, ferries, cement plant, Dominion Tar & Chemical Co. and the wood factories and other industrial plants, have been kept full supplied with coal, and that an amply supply has always been found for domestic purposes. The company have still upwards of 175,000 tons at the banking station.

Jailbird Caught.

Huntsville, Aug. 11.—"Joe" Smith, who a month ago broke jail at Bracebridge by whitewashing his convict clothes and was recaptured at Lake of Bays Monday, jumped from the deck of the steamer Algonquin and got away by swimming to shore.

Hugh Clark's Boy Burned.

Kincardine, Aug. 11—Stewart Clark, young son of Col. Hugh Clark, M.P.P., was severely burned yesterday morning. He was lighting matches when his clothing caught fire, and he was burned around the breast and shoulders.

Hotelman Fined, Loses License.

Chatham, Aug. 11.—Wm. Boyer, proprietor of the Montreal Hotel in Wallaceburg, was fined $200 and costs for selling liquor on Sunday, July 11. It was a third conviction and his license was cancelled. He threatens to appeal.

Fatally Shot.

Craik, Sask., Aug. 11.—Wilber Hubbard, a young farmer of the Long Lake district, was removing a gun from one boat to another when it went off, the whole charge entering his stomach. He died in an hour.

Quieter In Orient.

Pekin, Aug. 11.—China to-day is taking a more favorable view of the situation with Japan, and the tension of the last few days is noticeably relaxed. It is possible that negotiations will be held in Mukden.

Wanted Prisoner's Release.

Fort William, Aug. 11.—Yesterday afternoon 300 striking freight-handlers marched to the City Hall and demanded the release of a man imprisoned yesterday for carrying concealed weapons. The mayor, after hearing a statement of their grievances, offered his services, together with a man to be appointed by themselves, to endeavor to arrange a meeting with the C.P.R. officials. The men were willing to accept his offer, but still demanded the release of the prisoner, who was subsequently tried and fined $50 for carrying concealed weapons.

Farmer Killed by Engine.

Welland, Aug. 11.—Benjamin J. Patterson, perhaps the most popular farmer in South Pelham, was killed in front of his farm yesterday morning by being run over with a traction engine.

He was taking the machine to the farm of George Chambers, and placed the levers in charge of Walter Tunnacliffe. Mr. Patterson went out in front to oil the gearing, when he was struck on the top of the head by the pin of the piston. In falling he went under the large rear wheel. Death was instantaneous.

Desert Stock for Wheat.

Calgary, Aug. 11.—Burns, the pioneer meat packer of Alberta, states that farmers, attracted by $1 wheat, are selling off their cattle with a view to increasing their wheat areas. As a result the province will, if present methods of grain farming be continued, be forced to import beef within three years. Sheep have been imported from Australia and the United States for a number of years, and two-thirds of the bacon used in the province is purchased in the United States.

A Farmer's Suicide.

Truro, N.S., Aug. 11.—While boys were swimming in the Solmon River, the body of Jonathan MacKinlay, aged 70, a farmer of North River, was found, his head was in a bag and weighed down with a stone 75 pounds. Deceased had recently announced his intentions of suicide.

Two Nuns Killed.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—Two nuns from the Sault Au Recollet Convent lost their lives yesterday morning while crossing the C.P.R. bridge at Bourdeaux. They were overtaken by a train, and either through fright or inability to hold on to the sides, fell into the water.

The Alaska Salmon Yield.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 11.—Detailed reports from Alaska salmon canneries show that in the Bristol Bay district there is a decrease of 116,286 cases this year as compared with last year. The 1909 pack, however, shows an increase over that of 1907 of 342,000 cases.

"Old Jed Prouty" Dead.

New York, Aug. 11.—Richard Golden, the actor, died suddenly yesterday on board the house-boat Stroller, in Gravesend Bay. He produced "Old Jed Prouty," of which he was part author, in 1889, in New York, and appeared nearly 8,000 times in it.

Ross Rifle Not Barred.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The reported barring of the new Ross rifle with special sight by D.R.A. is officially denied. The idea is that the same rifle as used at Bisley shall be used at the D.R.A. as well as the Lee-Enfield, according to choice of competitor.

It will be remembered that 40 tavern licenses were cut off in Toronto this year. The News says: "Seven of the hotelkeepers who were "cut off" have taken out restaurant licenses during the past few days and have actively embarked on this new phase of the hotel business. Local option beer will play so small part in their beverage department. It is apparently very popular and promises well for Sunday trade as well as other days." The conduct of restaurants comes under the local by-laws and is not within the jurisdiction of the Provincial License Department. This is a good change, if the law is adhered to. How long will it be till something stronger than "local option beer" is sold in these restaurants?

One of the most astonishing things in this city is the way people on certain streets sit down quietly and do nothing while the Public Works department is practically ruining their roadways by putting the new granolithic walks outside the trees. That practise was all right in certain instances, but nowadays one can, in five minutes' walk, see many streets which have been spoiled by the roadway being made too narrow. Supposing a man driving a spirited horse met an auto on one of those streets. What would be his chances? It's about time a little more common sense was used in the matter of sidewalk laying.

The Sewer Question.

CITY ENGINEER LINDSAY CORRECTS TWO STATEMENTS MADE BY MR. FLINT.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—I would like to correct the two statements in re Mr. Flint's letter on sewerage, which affect my department, viz.:

(1) Cost of Trunks.

(2) Size of Trunks.

No. 1. Costs were checked by Contractor Stewart, of Drill Shed, when here, and may be accepted.

No. 2. All Trunks are from 15 to 24 inches, not 9 inches, as stated.

Mr. Flint, I fear, has been misled, there being no comparison between cost of sinking wells and shafts and blasting for sewers, as any contractor knows.

Strikes and Their Effects.

Every day the public is startled with announcements of additional strikes in different parts of the world. Scarcely an industry is left unaffected by them, and scarcely a strike exists that announcements of crime do not follow in its wake, and what is most to be regretted is that the law-breakers are not punished proportionately to their crimes.

◆ ◆ ◆

In Honolulu the editor of a newspaper opposed a strike of the laborers upon a plantation, and a decree was sent forth by the strikers that the editor must die, and the assassin a Japanese, admitted when arrested that he had been "chosen by lot" to commit the crime at a striker's meeting." As usual, the better class of the Japs disavow the act. Is this act any worse than the attempt at Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, to blow up with dynamite the house and family of Simpson, the manager of the mining company?

◆ ◆ ◆

In Nova Scotia, on the 5th inst. an attack was made, at 11.30 p.m. by a mob, upon a railway train The attack was made in a lonely place, and sticks and stones were freely used by the mob. It was thought that the train had a number of men coming in to work on board.

◆ ◆ ◆

Since the commencement of the strike about 75 cases have been before the courts as a result of incidents attending the big struggle. The charges have ranged in seriousness from attempting to blow up a house, down to loitering on the streets. This latter charge was laid against fourteen U. M. W. pickets, who were gathered in at New Aberdeen by the company's police. Sixty-eight strikers have been arrested, while arrests of P. W. A. and company men have been only eight or nine.

◆ ◆ ◆

On the 6th inst. no less than 34 strikers were arrested at Glace Bay who were at the time "doing picket duty" after 12 o'clock at night. Picket duty means preventing men who are willing to work from doing so, and men who resist the interference with their own rights are abused and maltreated. The thirty-four pickets will be tried on Aug. 16th. They are now out on bail. Will they be punished? Doubtful.

◆ ◆ ◆

A telegram from Stockholm of August 5th says "the grave-diggers employed in the northern cemeteries struck in sympathy with the general strike movement." Not because the grave-diggers have grievances of their own, but because they sympathise with the general strikers in the country, who number about 45,000 men. The result is, says the report, that in Stockholm the people are suffering seriously from a shortage of food, which so far is the most notable result of the labor conflict that reached its acute stage since the beginning of the week. Those who from lack of foresight or for other reasons failed to lay in a supply before the strike are the worst sufferers. The stock of bread is at terms practically prohibitive. The authorities have taken charge of the milk supply of the city, and soldiers are distributing milk in limited quantities and supervising the sale from milk cars at the railroad station.

All this, and much more, is the result of labor union organization, when in the hands of unprincipled agitators. And yet Governments in democratic countries are too cowardly to grapple with the subject.

The start was from in front of the Y.M.C.A. building on Front street to a point one and a half-miles down the Kingston road, and return. There was a large number of contestants and the finish was as follows:

R. McCreary.
H. Boyd.
E. D. Wallace.
H. Fenn.
C. Wallace.
J. Alexander
W. Tedman.

The time prize was captured by R. McCreary who did the distance in 18 m. 5 s.

SPORTING NOTES

The fifth Cobourg Horse Show is to be held on Aug. 17, 18, 19 and 20, and promises to be highly successful. The 48th Highlanders' band will play, the Royal Canadian Dragoons will give their musical ride, there will be a hunt race each afternoon, besides many other fine features. Single fare on G.T.R. all week.

Toronto Eastern Leaguers are on the toboggan. They'll soon hit the cellar.

Lew Moren, a Philadelphia pitcher, will get $500 for every game he beats the Cubs. His father makes the offer. He wants to see the Pirates collar the pennant.

In the test cricket match against Australia, England made 182 for three wickets. The visitors had 329 for their innings.

Process of manufacture an interesting feature of Canadian National Exhibition.

The process of manufacture department is always one of the most interesting features of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and this year it promises to be far more extensive than ever before. In all there will be about forty industries at work showing just how shoes, silk, cotton goods, prints, and many other of the articles you use every day are made. It is impossible here to name more than a few of the exhibitors, but here are some well worth looking up.

The United Shoe Manufacturing Co., Montreal, manufacturing ladies' and gents' boots and shoes, showing the different stages from the cutting out of the leather to the finished shoe.

Davis & Henderson, manufacturing and printing envelopes.

The Canadian Silk Co. weaving silk and badges with photos on them.

Gundy, Clapperton, cutting glass, showing the process in which the fine quality of cut glass is produced.

Shredded Wheat, showing process in which their products are prepared and made portable and palatable.

Dominion Textile Co., Montreal, showing process of manufacture of fine cotton goods, prints, etc.

There would be fewer unmarried men around the country if bachelors were not allowed to associate with married fellows.

During a sea voyage, about the only thing you keep on your stomach is your hand.

Some men look for work with about as much enthusiasm as they would look for a case of smallpox.

Weak Kidneys Kill Quickly.

ARE YOU IRRITABLE, DEPRESSED?

DOES YOUR BACK ACHE?

HAVE YOU NERVOUS FEARS?

Any Illness of the Kidneys means a Sick Body all over. Note the Symptoms.

Are you weak?
Feel tired out?
Full of aches, pains?
Have you bad headaches?
Does your back drag?
Are your loins painful?
Have you rheumatic pains?
Are your ankles weak, swelled?
Any puffiness under your eyes?

If you have any of the above symptoms, give your overworked kidneys help at once. They are diseased, but can be restored by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Thousands of men and women use Dr. Hamilton's Pills every day—thousands have added years to their life by this best of all kidney medicines. Mrs. W. U. Rossiter, wife of a well known merchant in Kensington, writes as follows:

"Ten years ago my kidney trouble started. I suffered dreadful pains in my spine and around my waist, my back feeling as if hot irons were running through. I couldn't sleep, had no appetite, was pale, thin and very nervous. Cruel headaches, and despondency added to my burden. Not until I had used Dr. Hamilton's Pills did I get any relief. They proved capital and helped me immediately. Eight boxes made me well and now I do my own housework, feel and look the picture of health."

Your complete restoration to health is certain with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut, refuse substitutes, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

THE maxim of many housewives is, "When in doubt blame the flour." This is unfair.

If your baking goes wrong, investigate—find the cause. Look to your stove, your yeast, your baking methods.

If you succeed in pinning the trouble down to the flour—if you clear yourself—then take up the flour question in dead earnest.

Consider that flour, to be successful from a baking standpoint, must be fine to produce light bread or pastry, pure to make that bread or pastry wholesome, and rich in nutriment to make it nourishing.

The good housewives all over the country are learning that has these three qualities in the greatest degree.

Ogilvie's Royal Household is milled by the most modern methods, purified by the only process that makes for absolute purity and made only from Manitoba Hard Wheat which contains the highest percentage of nutriment.

Royal Household Flour, in competent hands, never disappoints. Your grocer will guarantee this and gladly furnish the flour.

Meal Monday.

The students in the Scotch universities annually enjoy their "Meal Monday," but few of the undergraduates remember how the holiday was instituted. In faroff days, when learning was really nourished on "a little oatmeal," the students before leaving home for the universities provided themselves with a quantity of meal sufficient to make "halesome parritch" half through the session. By the end of January their "meal kists" had run low, and "a day off" was given in which the student was expected to journey halfway home, meeting at this point his parent or brother, who brought with him a second load of the simple diet. The holiday was fixed on a Monday so as to allow the undergraduate the benefit of the preceding Saturday. In times past the journeys would often extend to fifty or sixty miles. The modern student goes home for "Meal Monday," but he travels with a week end ticket and has no thought of the painful journeys of his ancestors.—Dundee Advertiser.

Heaviness at Pit Of The Stomach.

Nearly everyone gets an occasional attack of indigestion and knows just what that heavy feeling means in the stomach. "I was subject to stomach derangements and my health was seriously hampered on this account. After meals I belched gas, had a weighty sensation in my stomach and over my left side. The first relief I got was from Nerviline—I used it three times a day and was cured. I continue to use Nerviline occasionally, and find it is a wonderful aid to the stomach and digestive organs."

NERVILINE RESTORES WEAK STOMACHS

The above letter comes from Mrs. P.R. Stetson, wife of an important merchant in Brocton, and still further proof of the exceptional power of Nerviline is furnished by A. E. Rossman, the well-known upholsterer of Chester, who writes: "Let everyone with a bad stomach use 'Nerviline,' and I am sure there will be few sufferers left. I used to have cramps, rumbling noises, gas on my stomach and severe fits of indigestion. Nerviline was the only remedy that gave me relief, and I found it so entirely satisfactory that I would like to have my letter of recommendation published broadcast in order that others may profit by my experience."

You'll find a hundred uses for Nerviline—it's a trusty household remedy that sells to the extent of a million bottles per year—that's the best proof that it must cure and give unlimited satisfaction. Refuse anything offered in place of Nerviline, 25c per bottle, five for $1. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The man who listens to his own talk hears a lot of silly stuff.

Hurry up and give the new minister all the pointers you know and more that you don't know about so and-so.

Iron in His System.

Mr. Fred Adams, formerly lessee of the opera house here, now a farmer in North Hastings, was in the city to-day. He shows a big chunk of 90 per cent. iron ore, which came from an iron mine, at Bessemer, near his farm, and with which his property is rich. Fred expects to be a capitalist some day, when his property is developed.

Came For Treatment.

Richard Bruce, of Hermon, North Hastings, was brought to the hospital here last night for treatment. He has been suffering for some time with an affliction of the knee, and hopes that Belleville's skilful surgeons will cure him.

HYBLA.

Mrs. Jno. Spense and four children, of Trenton, are spending the month with relatives here.

Miss Ray Bartlett, of St. Catharines, is holidaying in our midst.

Miss Fannie Bartlett, after a year's sojourn in Detroit, has returned home, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Thos. Lowery, of that city.

Miss Mary Young has gone to Buffalo.

Everyone seems impressed with the earnestness and ability of the new pastor of this circuit, the Rev. Mr. Wallace, whose last charge was at Flinton. He and his family are now occupying the parsonage.

The Sons of Temperance, which is very strong numerically here, are holding their meetings every second Saturday evening during the summer. This organization will doubtless aid the coming local option campaign.

The hay crop is very light here, as well as in other places. The grasshoppers did much damage to it, and are now turning their attention to the grain and vegetables. These pests are rendering the situation very serious, as few farmers will have enough fodder for their own use.

The trustees of this school section are having much difficulty in procuring a qualified teacher.

Mr. George Sutherland has purchased the farm lying along the Bartlett road, belonging to Mr. T. M. Bartlett.

The C.O.R., when building the extension through here, for some reason saw fit to place Hybla station in a spot then inaccessible to the public. There has been much discussion and ill-feeling over the route the station road should take. Last summer Mr. David Linn was granted $500 to build the road from his place to the station, but was not allowed to finish because Mr. John G. Price would not allow such a road across his property. All that expenditure and yet no road. This summer Mr. Price received a $300 grant to build a road parallel to the railroad to the station, but when a few rods of the platform was prevented from completing it by Mr. J. H. Bartlett, who claims that the C.O.R. officials have not fulfilled the conditions whereby he is to give them the land. As a result the public is greatly inconvenienced and also the railway company. We await the solution of the situation with interest.

SEVENTH LINE SIDNEY.

Chatterton, August 10th. — Mrs. John W. Turner passed away on July 24th, after suffering from paralysis for the past month. She was born on June 14th, 1825, and since the demise of her husband, Sept. 24, 1907, she had been in failing health. Her end was peace, and only those who were closely watching could realize that she has slept peacefully away.

Rev. Mr. Sowter preached an able sermon from John 17, 1. "The hour is come," at the service on Sunday. Rev. C. E. Cragg and A. M. McClatchie assisted, and spoke of the noble work in the church of both Mr. and Mrs. Turner, for they were life members of the Sidney Baptist church.

The remaining members of the family are the sons, Reuben, at home; Wilmot, of Portage la Prairie, Man., and H. E. Turner, of Winnipeg; also the daughters, being Mrs. S. P. Morden, of Chatterton; Mrs. J. S. Dickson, of Portage la Prairie, and Mrs. Milton T. Bird, of Kolouna, B. C. There are twenty-seven grandchildren and thirty-five great-grandchildren in the family surviving.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bird were visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Marshall, of Glen Ross, on Wednesday, the 4th.

Mr. H. Spencer, daughter and niece, of Third Line Thurlow, called on Mrs. H. L. Chapman, while on their way to Rawdon township on Wednesday, the 4th.

Mr. H. L. Chapman is improving.

Dr. J. A. Faulkner, assisted by Dr. D. W. Faulkner, of Foxboro, and Dr. Potts, of Stirling, performed a very critical operation on Wm. Taugher on the 3rd.

An almost impassable sluice bridge is situated in front of Mr. A. Hamlin's.

Numerous huckleberry pickers have passed over this road during the past few weeks. The crop was fine.

The weather is dry and fine, allowing the farmers to collect their harvest.

TIDES AND FISHING.

Fish Are More Active In Search For Food on the Flood Tide.

The most essential thing in sea fishing, next to tackle and bait, is a tide table, because all marine fishes except the flatfish—flounder and fluke—are captured more readily at a certain tide. The main cause for such is that fish are more active in their search for food generally on the flood tide.

Vast schools of little fishes move close into shore on the incoming tide, working their way into the smaller bays and inlets, especially near the edge of banks, where they feed on the small crustaceans, shrimps and little minnows that can effectually hide from their larger enemies when the tide is low and the large fish are unable to get at them in very shoal waters.

It is a common and interesting sight to see a school of weakfish slowly moving in near the surface with the early tide. Suddenly one sees the smooth surface all in commotion. Silvery minnows leap frantically in all directions, looking like flashes of diamonds, then instantly disappear to certain death. At such times anglers should be ready with their boat trimmed snug, lines out floating forty feet away, baited with live shrimps.

Tide affects bottom feeders, though not to such a large extent. Fishing from piers and docks an hour before and after flood is most likely to give good results. On wrecks much depends on the kind of fish. The last of the ebb and at low tide is considered the worst condition for general fishing. In the open sea, on the banks, tidal influence counts for little or nothing. Any tide is as good as another.—Outing Magazine.

THE LIVERY STABLE DOG.

Some Ways In Which He Differs From the Fashionable Pets.

The common livery stable dog is totally unlike the "powder puff" or "toots and skigums" dog, but his disposition is infinitely better. To lie on a cushion and growl and snap at the hand that would caress it is considered the height of folly in the livery stable variety.

The livery stable dog approaches you ingratiatingly and offers you a dirty paw to shake. After you have shaken it he solemnly gives you the other. Then he crawls up in your lap and licks you on the mouth.

The livery stable canine is a most industrious digger of holes. The theory is that he is going to lie down in the hole he digs, but he does no such thing. He goes and lies down right in the middle of the sidewalk, where people will have to step over him. He will never get out of anybody's way. He even lies down in the middle of the street and tries to make carts, wagons and automobiles avoid him.

He doesn't enjoy as large a vocabulary as the powder puff or skigums dog. A phrase like "Does ums want ums itty bass?" would scare him to death. His advantages have not been such as to acquaint him with such hifalutin talk, but he does know a few simple phrases like "Git to blazes out of here, you darned pest!" He understands that perfectly.

The American Youth.

If the truth were told most young American men are not especially interesting. They do not keep up their reading. They have a national obtundity when it comes to music, to art, to literature, nor do many of them take any of these things at all seriously. The young among them are not good conversationalists. Our cleverest men are monologists pure and simple. They lecture admirably. They are born orators along modified lines. They are inevitable story tellers. None of this is conversation, and women like conversation, like its courtesies, which at least pretend a little interest when their turn comes in the game. Knowledge of people and affairs outside our own country pricks more than one bubble about our young men.—Anna A. Rogers in Atlantic.

Discipline!

From the class room occupied by the roughest boys in the Sunday school came a great uproar. A secretary in the next room went to investigate. Complete silence followed the opening of the class room door.

"Have you a teacher?"

"No."

"Do you want one?"

"No."

"Then be quiet or you'll get one."

Result, comparative peace.

Looking Out For Grandma.

They are considerate youngsters in Nottingham, as most people know, says London Tit-Bits. A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted:

"Dear Angels—We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short winded and can't blow a trumpet."

Well Rehearsed.

Stage Manager—Remember, Bangs, we are depending on your baby to cry lustily in the third scene. Do you think he'll do his part? Actor Father—He ought to, sir. He's been rehearsing night and day.

Like One of the Family.

Wigwag—Bjones says that when he is at your house he acts just like one of the family. Henpeckke—Yes; he seems to be just as much afraid of my mother-in-law as I am.

When death has come it is never our tenderness we repent of, but our severity.—Eliot.

A shabby coat may cover a fat purse, but the combination isn't always a safe one to bet on.

A Chicago man has been married eight times. He surely knows the wedding march well enough to whistle it backwards.

The self satisfied person has nothing more to live for.

The girl who screams when she is kissed is generally fond of screaming.

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

ned Neapolitan dandies, dark-eyed, languid Neapolitan ladies; beaming cocchieri wooing trade with caressing shouts; gay little Neapolitan horses dashing merrily along, carrying the feathered and tinseled weight of their metal-bedizened harness with an air of innocent equine vanity; old men with the bearing of pensive prophets; young girls who sold flowers on trays with the serene confidence of princesses bestowing favors; ragged, merry groups of street singers who sang on and on for love when they had ceased to win money; somber, gliding nuns, and shaggy, softly smiling goat-herds following their flocks through the narrow streets as though the stony ways had been but leafy groves, piping now and then a note or two to the quaint and pretty dappled creatures, and through all the gleam of white teeth, the flash of dark eyes, the lavish light flung down on the land like a golden mantle, the careless, radiant, indescribable gleam of Southern Italy.

They turned at last into Santa Lucia. The tall houses, swarming from attic to basement as they were, would have been gloomy and frowning in any other city, despite the gay bits of ragged drapery that floated from the windows and the motley crowds before the doors, performing the most intimate household duties on the pavement in artless indifference to the passing eye, but here, flooded by that divine sunshine, they reared themselves in a picturesque slovenliness which seemed to assurance that they stood there, since houses were considered necessary to the formation of a city, but were quite superfluous for all the purposes of living in this balmy air. Shelter! Who needs shelter in Naples?

But Rhoda was scarcely seeing all this. Her eyes were looking through the slender fringe of masts that bordered the sea-wall. They turned the corner of Via Partenope. The rugged moss of Castel del Ovo rose in sombre majesty from the water, and there, freed from the slight barrier of the shipping, the full sweep of the bay broke upon their vision in ineffable glory. It lay before them in tranquil splendour, blue as a sapphire, and calm as a pearl. The violet outline of Capri was clear against the horizon. At the left the plain swept away from the base of Vesuvius, who waved his kingly plume of smoke with royal blandness. And from shore to shore, curving about the azure water, the fair city leaned on the gentle hills "bathing with her white feet" in the soft sea. The slopes, silver with olives rose above her, and from the last height the noble pile of San Martino looked down, while behind its arching cloisters stood Castel St. Elmo, like a stern soldier of feudal days guarding a courtly cardinal.

As they drove along, white villas gleamed out in the distance from neglected gardens, starred with marbles and riotous with leaves. The golden lamps of the orange-trees lit up the green depths and brought out the red fire of roses blooming in February, with all the gay confidence of June. The air was alive with music, as strolling players chanted the songs of the people, that melted in loving measures from their red lips.

Rhoda stepped out on the balcony of the room which they had given her and looked out upon what is surely the fairest scene that has ever greeted mortal eyes.

A beautiful youth, clad in tattered garments held together by a crimson sash, paused on the pavement and looked up. What princely rags were those, worn as proudly as garments of state and lightly as a butterfly bears its mantle of down. He met her eyes with the frank smile of a child and began to sing in the voice of a strayed angel:

"O dolce Napoli,
O suolo beato,
Ove sorridere,
Volli il creato;
Tu sei l'impero
Dall'-Armonia
Santa Lucia!"
Santa Lucia!"

She turned away at last with the echo of that refrain still throbbing in her ears.

"He was a wise man, Goethe's father, when he said that he who remembered Naples could never be utterly miserable," she said.

"Signora, Madama, Signora!" came the cry from below, and she looked back to see two merrily importunate cocchieri, snapping their whips portentously, but aimlessly, in the air. As she shook her head smilingly, each set his horse into a gallop and started on a mad race down the street, turned sharply, and drove as wildly back again in exhibition of the brilliant qualities of their beasts. These animals presented a dazzling appearance. The brass decorations of their harness shone resplendent in the sun. Many bits of glass set into the brass twinkled with the assurance of as many diamonds. The metal figure of a dog in miniature was affixed to the collar of each. Foxes' brushes hung beneath their throats, long red feathers shot up behind their ears, and they were further adorned by huge scarlet rosettes. They swerved meekly aside in all their gorgeousness as a carriage dashed around the corner of the Via Partenope, and its horses, driven in the reckless Neapolitan fashion, were drawn up before the entrance to the hotel court, just below Rhoda's balcony. Di Loria threw the reins to his groom and looked up, following the direction of the eyes of the still pleading cocchiere. As he met Rhoda's amused downward gaze he smiled, and she wondered that she could ever have thought his face sad. In a moment the grave man was transformed into a joyous youth, the very incarnation of lightness, and gayety, and gentle amusement. Something in the indescribable radiance of that soft lightning went straight to Rhoda's heart. She leaned from her low balcony looking at the bundle of letters in his hand.

"I am sure you are bringing those to us!"

"Yes, I stopped at the Anglo-American bank on an affair of my own and I saw them there. They had just come in. I took the liberty to leave them on my way home. Ah, here is Mr. Winter at the door."

As Di Loria turned t Regy, the melody that seems always to throb on the air in Southern Italy began to beat in measured rhythm, and soon chimed itself into gay accord with the quick step of the Bersaglieri. The picturesque company, with its broad hats and nodding plumes, came marching up the street. The sunlight gleamed on their muskets and dark, bold merry faces. The wild, sweet music heralded them, and so also did a group so fantastic and charming that the Northerners stood still in fascinated wonder. For, dancing before the advancing lines of soldiers, came a radiant band of children. They were little vagabonds only; their ragged, bright-colored garments fluttered in the soft air. They were barefooted and bareheaded, but, whirling bounding, waving in exquisite grotesque

A MALIBRAN VICTORY

The Great Singer's Lively Debut In an English City.

SHE DEFIED THE DIRECTORS.

Considering That She Had Been Shabbily Treated, Malibran Sang as Long as She Wanted to and Had a Most Satisfactory Revenge.

Quarrels between opera singers and managers call to mind an incident in the life of Malibran. It was in 1829, when Malibran returned to England from New York and made her debut at Birmingham at the music festival as Malibran Garcia. Miss Paton had already become a favorite there and was allowed to choose her own songs and sing as many as she pleased, whereas Malibran was compelled to sing only what was assigned to her. Garcia bore the indignity with such patience as she could command until one morning she saw the announcement that Miss Paton would sing six songs that evening and that she would sing but two. Then it was that, realizing that much of her success for the season in England depended on her having a better place in the program, she stormed the directors.

In vain the directors endeavored to avoid receiving her, but she made short work of ceremony, and while they were framing an excuse to pacify her she broke in upon them in a magnificent rage. In a jiffy she asked the chairman:

"Sir, have you sanctioned this program?" And, receiving a nod in the affirmative, she sailed along further.

"I had hoped," she said, "it had been issued without your sanction, for it assigns me two songs, both of which are hackneyed, while it gives my rival, Miss Paton, six. She has an established reputation here. Mine is yet to make, at least with your English audiences, and therefore if any preference should be given to any one it should be to me. On my success here depends all chance of my success in London. You forget this or do not care. You give me no chance of success, whereas all I want is justice. I want the same opportunity for displaying my ability as you allow Miss Paton. Here you advertise me for Romeo. But I performed that last night, and the public will say, 'Romeo on Monday, Romeo on Tuesday, Romeo on Wednesday—Romeo, Romeo, she can do nothing but Romeo.' I want fair play—no more, no less!"

Well, it was a great fuss. The directors endeavored to soothe her, for she had talked herself into a great passion, but they made their mistake in pointing to the fact that the program was printed and could not be changed. In vain Malibran argued that she should sing six or an equal number of songs with Miss Paton, and finally she went off in a great huff, declaring if they would not right her she would right herself.

The evening advertised came, and the theater was crowded with the rank, beauty and fashion of Birmingham, as every one familiar with English music festivals would expect. The performance commenced. Some one sang, then Braham followed, and finally came Miss Paton. As usual, she was heartily received. Then Malibran came forward amid many plaudits, undoubtedly agitated at the applause, and stood for a minute with her arms folded and her eyes on the ground.

There was a piano near the footlights, and the music stool stood at the back of the stage. Malibran stood near the piano, but did not touch a key, while in a manner until then unknown in England she warbled the well known aria "Una voce poco fa." Peal followed peal of applause, and when the conductor came to lead Malibran away the cries of encore were so loud as to make him retreat, and again Malibran was in the hands of the audience.

For some time the applause continued and finally died away. When all was silence Malibran started up suddenly, made a pretty obeisance, hastily ran to the back part of the stage and brought out a piano stool. Then, motioning to the orchestra not to play, she played a preludio and then an accompaniment to the song she had just given. But that was not all. When she came within a note or two of the conclusion she paused, cast a look at the wings, where the mystified director stood, laughingly shook her head and to the delight of the audience and the amazement of the directors commenced a new song. She had been singing Italian; now she sang Spanish, and when this had been applauded she started to retire. The audience, however, would not part with her, and when the conductor came to lead her off pit, gallery and boxes actually hissed the poor fellow.

There never was a more enthusiastic ovation to a singer in Birmingham, and, thus encouraged, Malibran gracefully waved the conductor off and again sat down to play. She passed from Spanish to German, German to French and finally from French to English, and the result was that she occupied so much time that the nervously waiting Miss Paton sang only two songs instead of six!

There was a lively scene behind the curtain when Malibran at length retired. But to the acting director, who fumed and cried, "Madam, you have played us an astonishing trick!" she only smiled and said, "I told you that I would right myself if you wronged me—and I did."

COPYRIGHT BY E. BLANC WALLACE FEB. 1909

If you join our Travel Club, you have the opportunity to study and become better acquainted with the historical spots of the globe. Our Travel Club offer is one that should not be overlooked by the children attending school. Prominent school teachers and principals say that the educational features of the post cards we offer are unparalleled and every boy and girl attending school should be in possession of a set of these views.

How To Become A Member

Your parents must be regular readers of The Intelligencer. You must clip three Travel Club coupons like the one which appears in this advertisement. If you are a resident of Belleville and an Intelligencer subscriber, bring the coupons and fifteen cents to this office and you will be presented with fifty highly colored views of the historical spots of the globe, post card size. These views have been reproduced from actual photographs taken by Charles Warren Stoddard, the celebrated poet and traveler, and have been colored by a new water-coloring process, giving them a beautiful hand-colored effect and making every one of them a gem of art.

Among these views you will find a view of the Parliament building, London; Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington; Stratford-on-Avon, England; St. Peter's, Rome, Italy; a bird's eye view of Venice; Scott's monument, Edinburgh, Scotland; Jung Frau, the Swiss Alps; Lake Como, Italy; the Lakes of Killarney, Ireland; the great Nile bridge, Egypt; King's House, home of the governor, Kingston, Jamaica; and many others equally interesting and instructive.

If you are not a regular reader of The Intelligencer, it is necessary that you become a subscriber and agree to continue your subscription for a period of eight weeks. Fill out the new subscriber blank and bring it and fifteen cents to the office.

A Mighty Nimrod.

A remarkable career has been that of Mr. F. C. Selous, the famous hunter and explorer, who will accompany President Roosevelt on his African big game expedition in the spring. He was only twenty years of age when he went to Matabeleland, in days when railways were unknown there and when the interior of the country was a sealed book to the European. For years he was in unknown countries hunting elephants, lions, and other animals, and at one period he was nearly three years without seeing a newspaper, a telegram, or any kind of money, and he was perfectly happy. He spent nearly a quarter of a century of his life penetrating the interior of South Africa. Then he went to Alaska on a fifteen-thousand-mile tour in search of moose and caribou. It was while on this tour that, in the wildest part of the Yukon, Mr. Selous came across a trapper's hut occupied by two Englishmen. One had just got his discharge from the Northwest Mounted Police, and the other, who had earned the nickname of "Neverwash," was the son of a peer.

Canada's Newest Knight.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the portrait of Sir R. W. Scott—that of a very old gentleman with bushy white whiskers covering almost the whole of his countenance. He has looked precisely the same for thirty years, and this peculiar hirsute appearance of his was once the occasion of a rather rude jest from the lips of Sir John A. Macdonald.

The latter, when he lived at Earnscliffe, Ottawa, had in his library the mounted head of a Rocky Mountain goat, which, as everyone is aware, is snow white with a bushy fringe around its face. One night Sir John gave a dinner party to a few friends and afterward they adjourned to the library to smoke. As he led his guests into the room the Prime Minister said, "Gentlemen, allow me to present Senator Scott," at the same time pointing to the trophy upon the wall.

A MAJOR AND A MASHER.

The Gruff Old Soldier Conquered In Spite of Himself.

By SUSAN H. ENDICOTT.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

Major James Godfrey, U. S. A., retired and living in his own villa with wife and daughter, had several fads and fancies to keep the family and the neighbors busy, but one particular fad was destined to get him into trouble sooner or later.

He could read in his morning paper with the greatest equanimity of murders, robberies, assaults, thefts and burnings at the stake, but when he came across an item about a masher he fired up at once and shouted out that he would give $500 out of his own pocket to see the scoundrel lynched or sent to prison for life.

His daughter used to look at him in wonder when he broke out in this fashion, while the wife was discreetly silent. Perhaps the latter had flirted a bit before giving her heart to the major and he was remembering it in his old age.

For three months Miss Kate had wanted to attend an art school in the city and receive instructions. During those three months there happened to be an unusual number of "mashes" recorded in the papers, and the father would not hear of her even running up to town to do a little shopping unless he or the mother went along. He was as firm as the rock of Gibraltar.

After a time, however, the record began to peter out, and as he was pleased with what his daughter had already done with the brush and had hopes of her future the major finally gave his consent. It was only eight miles to the city, and then a street car would take her right to the doors of the school. All she had to do, going and coming, as the father told her over and over, was to keep her eyes cast down and her purse clutched tightly in her hand.

Unknown to her, he took the same train to the city with her for a week, and then, as nothing happened and his rheumatism got worse, he left her to make her way alone.

Two weeks had passed when Miss Kate came home one afternoon in a flutter. Her mother happened to be out, and she must tell some one. She therefore related to the father that while on the street car en route to the depot and home some thief had snipped the chain of her purse and borne the prize away. The prize held her return ticket and a dime.

At the depot she found her tears falling, but a good Samaritan had come forward and handed her change enough for the fare. She couldn't exactly say whether he was a grandfather or a young man, homely or good looking. He had spoken only a few words and lifted his hat and retired. It might have been a white hat or a black one—she could not tell. Obeying her father, she had kept her eyes on the floor, and they were filled with tears besides.

The major heard the story to the end, and then he roared. The man who had taken pity on her financial condition at the depot was a masher, of course. He had followed her home on the train. He would meet her again and make the matter an excuse for addressing her.

He was no grandfather, but a young man and no doubt a professional masher. Miss Kate should have repulsed him with scorn. She should have had him arrested. She should have hired a truck to bring her home or walked if all the trucks were busy.

For a quarter of an hour he scolded and growled and then wound up by saying that the art school business was at an end. She could attend no more. He would sit on the front veranda with a shotgun across his knees, and if that plotting masher even passed the house he should carry away buckshot. Tears were shed and loving appeals made, but the rock of Gibraltar was right there.

Two weeks passed, and the masher did not appear. At least the major did not fire upon any of the young men driving or walking on the highway.

The daughter felt that the stranger had been actuated by the kindest motives. He had spoken just enough—not a word more. He had not offered his card. The fare was only 25 cents, but she felt ashamed that she could not return it. Had opportunity offered for a second meeting she would have insisted on doing so.

Two weeks passed away, and then the mother went to the city to do a little shopping. She also came home with a tale to tell. She thought she was telling it to her daughter alone, but it so happened that the major was just outside the window and heard every word. She had finished her shopping and reached the depot when she realized that she had spent all her money. A good Samaritan came forward. He smiled, raised his hat, and—that was all.

But Mrs. Major Godfrey's eyes had not been filled with tears and cast down. She had seen that he was a gentlemanly looking young man of twenty-five and that he took the same train as she did and evidently lived farther down the line. Then Miss Kate thought she remembered that in the one instant she had raised her eyes—quite involuntarily, you know—she had made out the same sort of man.

This decision had just been arrived at when the voice of the major was heard in the land. It was heard as it had not been heard since he led a charge in battle. He stormed at the two poor females until they were helpless with terror. A masher had appeared to break up his family, and his family were willing to be broken. Such carryings on might do for Africa, but this was America, and he wouldn't stand for them.

He talked the women upstairs, and he talked the cook out of the house, and the good Samaritan was responsible for a very bad night.

It was three days later, and things had settled down a bit, when the major announced that he had to go to the city on a business matter. There was another reason, but he kept it to himself. He wanted to meet that masher and make jam of him. He felt that he could identify him among hundreds, and once he was identified—

On arriving in the city the man of war called on a broker and pocketed some bonds he had invested in and then made calls at three different clubs to see old friends and drink cocktails to "auld lang syne." When ready to start for the depot and home he was in the condition known as mellow. He thought everybody a good fellow, and he thought every good fellow an old veteran, and thus when a particularly keen looking good fellow asked him into a barroom on his way to drink to Old Glory there was no hesitation.

The major will remember to his dying day that he took brandy. He was drinking the last of it when he felt sleepy and the voice of the good fellow sounded far off. When he came to his senses again he was in bed at a hotel and a medical looking man was saying to a young man who didn't look medical at all:

"He'll do now, but there was a time when it was doubtful. He must have got an awful dose."

"Knockout drops, of course?"

"Oh, of course. Lucky for him he has a strong heart. He'll be nearly all right in the morning, but if you can spare the time you'd better see him home. He'll be trembly for two or three days."

The major heard that much and wondered and slept. He awoke again at midnight and sat up in bed to see a young man beside him. He got a dose of medicine, and then he suddenly exclaimed:

"Here—what's all this? Where am I?"

"Don't excite yourself, major," soothed the other. "You are at the Revere hotel and very much better than you were three hours ago. Sleep and quietness are what you need now. In the morning you shall learn all."

"But my bonds—my bonds!" shouted the patient.

"Right there before you on the stand, with your watch and pin—not a thing missing."

At daylight, when the man of Mars swung his legs out of bed, the young man sat by the window smoking and smiling. He advanced and presented his card and observed that he had the honor of already knowing the major's name.

"Now, then, what's this all about? And where's my wife and daughter?" was demanded sharply as the patient reached his feet to find himself so weak that he had to fall back on the bed.

"I beg pardon, major, but as you were on your way to the depot yesterday afternoon you met an old soldier and drank with him. He was a confidence man. I entered the place just as the knockout drops had put you into his hands. You lost nothing, and I brought you here and called a doctor. You are pretty near all right now, but I shall see you home after we have had something to eat. Don't object, please. You are weak and dizzy yet."

The idea that he had been a ninny grueled the major, but he was too weak to shout. He wanted to think, but his brain was too sluggish. He was, therefore, like a baby in the hands of the other for awhile. Strong coffee and a bite to eat and the ride to the depot braced him up, and as the train started he suddenly exclaimed:

"Good Lord, but what could they have thought of my not coming home last night?"

"Oh, I telephoned them from the hotel," was the answer.

"But—but— See here, young man, how did you know where to telephone to? By jiminy, sir, are you the masher that met my wife and daughter in the depot?"

"Well, major," said the other, "to tell you the truth, I am. But I'm no masher, and I was trying to get a chance to speak to you and introduce myself properly when I saw you accosted by that confidence man."

"And you've been of assistance to me! Why, sir, you've mashed the whole darned family! Come along with me—come along, sir—and meet my daughter Kate! Lord bless the masher!"

Not In Virginia.

The dusky manservant of a Washington official, being granted leave of absence to visit his home in Virginia, hied himself to a department store to purchase a valise. The salesman seemed to think the darky should purchase something in the way of a large bag. "Here's a fine one," he said—"the best alligator bag you can get. Only"—

"Look heah, boss," interrupted the darky impatiently, "I done tole yo' several times I don't want no alligator bag. I ain't goin' to Floridy. I's goin' to mah home in Virginny."—Lippincott's.

"ORAN AMOK!"

The Bloodthirsty Malay When He Is Maddened by Frenzy.

"Amok" is a religious fanaticism, a madness under which a man makes up his mind to kill any one he can until he himself is killed. Brought on by drink or religion or from whatever cause, the process is the same. The madman seizes his creese and rushes headlong down the street, cutting at every one he meets. To any one who has seen a creese or a parang further detail is unnecessary.

A man running amok is as a dog with hydrophobia, but the panic caused by the former is by far the worse. Like the mad dog, the madman is followed by a noisy rabble, who sooner or later run into their man and exterminate him. When this vengeful rabble is made up of bloodthirsty Malays and Chinamen its wild rage and fury are beyond control, beyond description. The clamor and bloodcurdling yells of the pursuing crowd and the ever nearing shout of "Oran amok, oran amok!" are incidents which can never be forgotten by any one who has seen or heard them. The bravest quails when suddenly turning the corner of a street his ears are greeted with the cry of "Oran amok!" and a few yards off he sees a Malay running straight at him, brandishing in his hand the bloody creese with which he has already slaughtered all in his way.—London Chronicle.

THE USEFUL SWALLOWS.

Light Cavalry of the Avian Army and Friends of the Farmer.

From the standpoint of the farmer and the orchardist perhaps no birds more useful than the swallows exist. They have been described as the light cavalry of the avian army.

Specially adapted for flight and unexcelled in aerial evolutions, they have few rivals in the art of capturing insects in midair. They eat nothing of value to man except a few predaceous wasps and bugs and in return for their services in destroying vast numbers of noxious insects ask only for harborage and protection.

It is to the fact that they capture their prey on the wing that their peculiar value to the cotton grower is due. Orioles do royal service in catching weevils on the bolls, and blackbirds, wrens, flycatchers and others contribute to the good work, but when swallows are migrating over the cotton fields they find the weevils flying in the open and wage active war against them. As many as forty-seven adult weevils have been found in the stomach of a single cliff swallow.—Bulletin of Department of Agriculture.

Breaking Away From Work.

Our business men ought to break away from trade exactions long before they do—ought to do so as a matter of volition and ethical judgment rather than of physical necessity. They ought to get and give more enjoyment in life. They ought to do less for self and more for others. They ought to live more in books and more in the open and less at their desks and realize better health and longer lives as a result. More and more culture in all its forms is exercising a growing influence, which must manifest itself in lessened effort along the lines of money getting and the devotion of more time on the part of our business men to the pursuits which naturally accompany fortified leisure. Aristotle said, "The end of labor is to gain leisure," and Aristotle was a wise man.—A. Barton Hepburn in Century.

Sleeping Car Trips.

"I have noticed one thing about sleeping car journeys," he remarked, "and that is that I always sleep better coming home than I did going away. Whatever may be the cause, such is the case. Sometimes leaving home a man has worries or thoughts that won't let him rest easily, and by the time he finishes his work in the place he went to his mind has swung around all right again. It doesn't make the slightest difference whether I have an upper or a lower berth when I make the trip away. Then I can't sleep. On the contrary, I can sleep anywhere on the way home."

His Worthless Son.

There lives an old negro truck farmer in Alabama who has frequent occasion to reprove his children for their lack of industry.

"Yo' suttinly is a wuthless son," the old fellow declared one day to his oldest. "It's a doggoned good thing fo' yo' I ain't a rich nigger!"

"What yo' talkin' 'bout, pap?" asked the son. "What yo' think yo' do den?"

"I'd disinherit yo'! Dat's what I do!" exclaimed the old man wrathfully.—Lippincott's.

Sidestepped.

Father (at supper-table)—Well, Johnny, how did you get along at school today? Johnny—Papa, my physiology books says conversation at meals should be of a pleasant character. Let's talk about something else.

Musical Reception.

Brown—What did your wife say about your being so late home the other night?

Jones—Nothing at all. She just sat down at the piano and played "Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

Preaching and Practice.

Ted—I hear he's giving a lecture on "How to Live on 15 Cents a Day." Is he doing well with it? Ned—Fine. I met him in a restaurant after the lecture, and he was eating a two dollar dinner.—Puck.

Old fools are more foolish than young ones.—La Rochefoucauld.

BLOOD DISEASES

Guaranteed Cured or No Pay.

If you ever had any contracted or hereditary blood disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been removed from the system. You may have had some disease years ago, but now and then some symptom alarms you. Some poison still lurks in your system. Can you afford to run the risk of more serious symptoms appearing as the poison multiplies? Beware of mercury or mineral drugs used indiscriminately—they may ruin the system. Twenty years experience in the treatment of these diseases enables us to prescribe specific remedies that will positively cure all blood diseases of the worst character, leaving no bad effects on the system. Our New Method Treatment will purify and enrich the blood, heal up all ulcers, clear the skin, remove bone pains, fallen out hair will grow in, and swollen glands will return to a normal condition, and the patient will feel and look like a different person. All cases we accept for treatment are guaranteed a complete cure if instructions are followed.

Take Your Pick While the Picking is Good

E Could you use another suit at a price? We believe you can and will, after you learn the value of the suit and the price that will buy it. We're going to do some great stunts in the way of suit selling and have taken all broken lines of Men's Suits which have been selling all season for $6.50, $7.50 to $8.50, placed them by themselves and now offer them to first comers for just

$5.00

We want no carry overs and of course to do this we must be willing to accept a loss. W would rather count the money than carry the stock. If your size should be missing from one line you are sure to find it in another.

We have placed a few in our South Window look at them and match them if you can.

Are tired eyes, pain and soreness in eyeballs, pain on top and at back of head, blurring of print, intolerance of light, dislike of being in a crowd, dizziness, red or swollen eyes after close work. These are some of the ways the eyes have of showing strain, and all of which may be relieved by the use of the PROPER glasses. If you suspect that your eyes are not entirely normal do not delay, but consult us at once. The longer you wait the more difficult to get satisfactory results. If glasses are not needed you can be sure that we will not recommend them.

Davidson-Price.

YOUNG LOCHINVAR CAME OUT OF THE WEST AND CARRIED OFF CHARMING DAUGHTER OF CITY TREASURER PRICE THIS AFTERNOON — A PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon a very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Price, Rear street.

The bride was Miss Elsie Muriel Price, youngest daughter of the City Treasurer, and the groom Mr. Henry A. Davidson, druggist, of Moosejaw, formerly of Winnipeg.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. P. Wilson, B. A., of Lindsay, a former pastor of Bridge Street Church.

The drawing-room, where the joyous ceremony took place, was tastefully decorated with ferns, potted plants and asters, presenting a most charming appearance.

At the hour above named, the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, entered the drawing-room, whilst the wedding music was being brilliantly played upon the piano by Mrs. J. E. Thompson, of Winnipeg, a sister of the bride. The groom and attendants were in waiting to receive her.

The bridesmaid was Miss Gertie Price, a sister of the bride, and the groomsman Mr. Walter Davidson, barrister, of Peterboro, who is a brother of the groom. Miss Lottie Davidson, sister of the groom, was maid of honor, whilst little Miss Helen Price, of Dutton, Ont., a niece of the bride, and Master Edmund Thompson, of Winnipeg, were attendants.

The bride looked very sweet and winsome in a lace robe over chiffon silk. She wore the traditional bridal veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor wore a gown of pink silk mulle and a large white picture hat, and carried pink roses.

Mrs. Price, mother of the bride, wore a black sequin gown, and Mrs. Davidson, mother of the groom, was attired in a grey silk gown and wore a large black hat.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the young couple received hearty congratulations. Those present were the relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends. The wedding breakfast, which followed, was daintily recherche.

The groom's present to the bride was a handsome set of mink furs; to the bridesmaid a beautiful gold pendant brooch, and to the groomsman, maid of honor and attendants, appropriate gifts.

The bride was the recipient of a large number of beautiful and costly gifts, evidence of the esteem in which she is held by her many friends.

At 5 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left for the west, and after a visit to several places of interest will proceed to Moosejaw to take up their residence.

The bride was one of Belleville's best known and most pleasing vocalists, and her host of friends will wish for her a happy and prosperous voyage through life, and in this wish The Intelligencer heartily joins.

Farley-Abraham.

SON OF EX-WARDEN W. C. FARLEY GAINED A BONNY BRIDE AT WINNIPEG.

Mr. Philip Jay Farley, eldest son of Mr. W. C. Farley, of Thurlow, ex-Warden of the County, was married on the 2nd inst. to Miss Ethel M. Abraham, of Winnipeg, Man. The marriage took place at "Elwood," the residence of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by a large number of guests. Mr. Farley is cashier in the Canadian Northern Railway office at Winnipeg, where he has been stationed for the past four years.

Phillips-Marvin.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of J. R. Marvin, Allisonville, at high noon, Saturday, by the Rev. Mr. Hill, of the Methodist church, with only the immediate relatives present and the guests from a distance, (Rev.) Mrs. Menzo B. Ainsworth, and son Everett, of Franklin, Ind., the occasion being the marriage of their daughter, Mabel Irene, to Mr. Gilbert Phillips, of Gardenville. The bride looked charming in a princess gown of tan voile, and the bridesmaid, Miss Pearl Marvin, sister of the bride, wore a princess gown of pink mull. Mr. Kenneth Vallean acted as best man. The decorations were cherry branches with natural fruit. The happy couple, who are held in high esteem in the community left on the afternoon train going west to spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will return to Gardenville, where they will be at home to friends after September.

Fire Fighters Did First Class Work.

BAD BLAZE YESTERDAY EVENING WAS WELL LOOKED AFTER BY BRIGADE.

At 5.20 yesterday afternoon fire broke out on the roof of a large stone tenement house situated on Foundry street, opposite Marsh and Henthorne's foundry. The fire is supposed to have started from the cupola of the blasting furnace of the foundry. The roof of the building was badly damaged and considerable water poured in upon the contents. The premises are occupied by Mr. M. Smith, his son, Mr. N. Smith, and Mr. J. O'Brien, and they all sustained some damage to their furniture by water. The house is part of the Kelly estate. The loss to the building and contents is covered by insurance. To the fire brigade is due commendation for their prompt arrival upon the scene, and the admirable manner in which they performed their duties.

Plans Approved For Y.M.C A. Building

Last night there was a good attendance at the monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M. C.A. The Provincial architect of the Association submitted plans of the new building to be erected on the Association's property on Campbell street. The plans have passed censorship of the International as well as the Provincial committees as providing one of the most economical and yet adequate layouts for a city of this size ever drawn. Cuts from these plans will be furnished the press later.

Both Victoria, B. C., and Halifax, N. S., have recently raised over $100,000 apiece for new buildings.

Brantford as well as Toronto is planning for much larger facilities. Toronto will require at least $300,000, whilst Brantford will undertake a $75,000 proposition at least.

A Pioneer Gone.

MISS L. E. SINGLETON WAS OF U. E. L. EXTRACTION.

Brighton, Aug. 10.—The death of Miss L. E. Singleton at the age of 86 has removed one of the town's oldest residents. Miss Singleton was the youngest daughter of John and Margaret Singleton, and a granddaughter of the late Col. George Singleton, an officer of the British Army, who was engaged in the Revolutionary war in America.

On her mother's side she was granddaughter of James Canniff, a well-known United Empire Loyalist, who came from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., when his daughter Margaret, the mother of Miss Singleton, was but six weeks old. Miss Singleton's parents came to live in Brighton in 1812.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1½ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

NOAH WAS BLACKBALLED

Detroit, Mich.—The Society of Naval Architects rejected Noah for honorary membership, when his name was proposed as the father of the ship designing profession. The reason given was "that Noah was a gamekeeper and not a ship designer primarily".

It all depends on the point of view. It is the same with "Fruit-a-tives".

Some people take "Fruit-a-tives" for Constipation and Biliousness. Others use them for Stomach Troubles and Dyspepsia. Still others find "Fruit-a-tives" an excellent tonic and blood purifier. Many more say that "Fruit-a-tives" are the best Kidney Regulator and a certain cure for Neuralgia and Rheumatism. For all these troubles, "Fruit-a-tives" may be said to be infallible.

Everywhere in Canada — in the crowded city—on the lonely prairie—in fishing villages and mining camps—people depend on "Fruit-a-tives" to cure them and keep them well.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c—or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

One of the most welcome among the many exchanges which come to our desk is THE NEWS, of Toronto. THE NEWS has recently made wonderful advances, so much so that old friends of the paper would hardly recognize in this great Canadian newspaper the old News of a few years ago. THE NEWS now contains from fourteen to twenty pages each day, with twenty-four to thirty-two on Saturday. A specialty is made of political and Parliamentary news and questions affecting the welfare of the public receive fair editorial treatment by clever writers. We are safe in saying that there is no paper more widely quoted in Canada and its cartoons are reproduced by many of the leading journals. Through an arrangement made with THE NEWS we are able to offer The Intelligencer and THE NEWS in a club for one year at the remarkably cheap price of $4.00. a21-dtf

HUNTER SLEW HIS WIFE

This is the Verdict of the Jury at Bobcaygeon.

Coroner's Jury Comes to Conclusion That Shooting Tragedy Was Wilful Murder and Charges Hotelkeeper Hunter — Mother of Dead Woman Tells How She Found the Pair in Room.

Bobcaygeon, Ont., Aug. 11.—The coroner's jury inquiring into last Saturday's shooting tragedy, yesterday, after 30 minutes consideration, returned a verdict of wilful murder against Joseph Hunter, hotelkeeper, for the murder of his wife.

Milton Hutcheson, hostler at the hotel, said that the shooting occurred just as he had arisen, about 5 a.m., and that Mrs. Rosanna Coulter, Mrs. Hunter's mother, had screamed "that brute of a man has shot my daughter Rose." Witness said, Mrs. Hunter had told him that Hunter "had got something different in his head." "She told me," he said, "that she had gone to Bob Kennedy's store to change some stockings. Kennedy had had some other customers, and she had been detained. When she came back he cut into her."

Hunter was quite calm after the shooting.

John Mitchell, guest of the hotel, had heard the Hunters did not get on well together. He had often remarked that Hunter had a queer demeanor for a hotelman, being very morose.

Mrs. Rosanna Coulter, said her daughter had sent for her to accompany her home, but at Hunter's request, both had stayed. At tea, he had referred sociably to his wife's birthday, on the 26th. She said he was often intoxicated and slept a good deal, neglecting his business. Before retiring, she saw Hunter lying across the foot of the bed with a wet cloth across his head, and Mrs. Hunter looking very unhappy.

After the shooting, she ran in. "The blood was running out of Rose's mouth, and I shook her. She never moved. I screamed at him, 'You've killed my daughter! You've killed your wife! Rose speak to me if you can!'

"He was standing holding the gun, looking at her. Then he leaned over, and, taking her by the shoulder, shook her gently, as if to wake her. He said nothing, only stood looking intently at her, quite himself apparently."

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

John Widnall, aged 35, a laborer, at Milton, died from sunstroke.

Mrs. Fanny Ferguson of London may lose the sight of her left eye. Carbolic acid splashed in her face.

The Duke of Abruzzi has established another record in mountain climbing. He ascended Mount Godwin-Austen, in the Himalayas, to a height of 24,600 feet.

Keith Furnival, aged 28, a former resident of Belleville, was drowned last Saturday near Portland, Maine, while on his vacation. He was cashier of a bank in that city.

It was announced yesterday that work will begin on Monday next on the $110,000 addition to the Rideau Club building at the corner of Wellington and Metcalfe streets, Ottawa.

Robert Womack, famous as the discoverer of Cripple Creek, died at Colorado Springs yesterday, aged 66 years, after a lingering illness. He never profited by his great discovery.

Stabs Elder Brother.

Toronto, Aug. 11.—Charles Davidson, 19 years, 235 Niagara street, is held at the Esther street police station under charge of wounding, which may at any moment be changed to one of fraticide.

While he and his elder brother, William, were eating dinner in their home yesterday, a dispute arose over the disappearance of William's razor. Suddenly the younger lad seized a table knife and stabbed his brother in the breast. The incision was made just above the heart.

Dr. Hawkins of King street was summoned and the wounded man was removed to Grace Hospital, where he is reported to be in a serious condition.

Policeman Lawlor was on the scene shortly after the tragedy occurred and immediately placed Charles under arrest and took him to No. 3 police station. He is stricken with remorse and feels his position keenly.

"It was all a mistake," he said.

Stockholm Strike Waning.

Stockholm, Aug. 11.—Perfect calm prevails throughout the country this morning, and there are further evidences that the general strike inaugurated a week ago will result in failure. The Answer, the organ of the trades unions, is the only newspaper published in regular form. The other journals yesterday issued small hand printed editions.

Efforts are being made with some success to improve the local street car service, and the street car employes have called a meeting to consider a proposal to return to work. The company has given them until noon to-day to take up their old positions.

The merchants of Stockholm have announced their intention of running their delivery wagons, and it is expected that the cab service shortly will be resumed. Foreign steamers are overcoming the dock strike by bringing their own stevedores.

Prisoner Escapes.

Midland, Aug. 11.—Dehoe, the young man arrested Monday for forgery, escaped from the lock-up on Monday night. Yesterday a long bench was hanging from an upstair window by which means the prisoner had evidently escaped. It is a mystery to the authorities how he escaped from the cell with the door locked.

AERODROME ALL READY.

Petawawa Military Camp, Aug. 11.—Baddeck No. 1 aerodrome looks good to-day. At 7.30 last night she was taken out of her shed and given three trial runs of a quarter of a mile each across the country. No ascent was attempted, though, the aviators preferring to wait until to-day before making any flights. Only a few newspapermen besides the assistants were present. After a weary wait of nine days the patience of the newspapermen were rewarded at 7.10 o'clock last evening when Mr. Baldwin announced that Baddeck No. 1 would be taken out and given a few trials across the country. Shortly after 7.25 o'clock Mr. Baldwin mounted the seat and Mr. McCurdy started the propeller. The drome started off down the road beautifully, and within a couple of hundred yards had attained a speed of about fifteen miles per hour. The aviator then tested the feet of the engine, and after a successful stop another start was made. A couple of hundred yards more were covered, and then the machine was turned around. Mr. McCurdy this time took the seat, and Bill Macdonald, the mechanic, started her up. On the return a higher speed was made, and the drome and engine responded in a fine manner to every effort at control. Mr. Baldwin then suggested to Mr. McCurdy that a run across the country be made. Mr. McCurdy acquiesced, and the drome was headed across the plain, taking the bumps without any difficulty. About twenty miles an hour was the speed made on the last run. The drome was then returned to her shed for the night.

Japs May Visit Canada.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—The news of the coming visit of Japanese merchants to the United States, a return visit by the way of the visit paid by U. S. merchants to Japan last year, has caught the eye of Sir Richard Cartwright, and he is moving to get the distinguished Japanese merchants to prolong their visit to America, so that they will tour Canada also.

Communications from Boards of Trade throughout Canada have been received at the office of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, urging that the Government co-operate with the merchants to the end that a proper invitation be extended to the Japanese merchants, and that their reception be such that they will be given every chance to see Canada industrially and socially.

In well-informed circles it is said that Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is particularly anxious that the Japanese merchants should see Canada at her best.

Decline to Entertain Japs.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 11.—As a result of the refusal of the officers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad to haul free of charge the special train bearing the delegation of Japanese business men, who are to tour America next month, it is probable that several large industrial towns along the line of the road in New England will be cut off from the itinerary of the excursionists.

In replying to the request that the railroads furnish free transportation over the line of the excursion the officers intimated that the visit of the Japanese business men would be of no political value to them, as their territory had no trade connection.

Five Shots Fired at Policeman.

Port Arthur, Aug. 11.—Early yesterday, when two city policemen were searching for a man for concealed weapons, five shots were fired on them from another quarter, none effective, and when the man was landed at the station, they found a new automatic 45 calibre Colt.

The striking freight handlers state there will be trouble if strikebreakers are brought in. Chief Andrews, C.P.R. police, Winnipeg, has arrived to take charge of the police work for the company here.

300 Egg Hen In Sight.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 11.—The day of the 300-egg hen is close at hand, is the belief of the delegates to the American Poultry Association, now in convention here. The ordinary hen lays 50.

These officers were elected yesterday: President Chas. M. Bryant, Boston, Mass.; vice-presidents, L. H. Baldwin, Deer Park, Ontario, and C. K. Graham, Norfolk, Va.; secretary-treasurer, S. T. Campbell, Mansfield, Ohio.

Homes Burn In Chicago.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes early yesterday by a fire that destroyed two rows of frame houses in Superior and Buffalo avenues, South Chicago. More than a score of homes, which were cottages and two-storey buildings of frame construction, were burned.

Wrights Can Fly 1,000 Miles.

New York, Aug. 11.—Orville Wright, the aviator, who sailed from New York yesterday, intimated as much by saying that their perfected machine could carry fuel enough to last 25 hours, which would enable it to travel a thousand miles if a 40 mile clip were maintained.

Up to Snuff.

A man in workman's garb one day called at a local dentist's, and the door was opened by a maid.

Workman—Is the gent in that draws teeth?

Servant—No, sir, but I expect he will be in shortly.

Workman (pausing on doorstep)—Does he give gas?

"Yes."

"What does he charge?"

"One dollar."

"What—one dollar! Do you mean to say, miss, a fellow's got to swallow over 1,000 feet of gas to have one tooth pulled out? No fear. I reckon I knows a bit about it, for I work down at the gas works myself. I'll go to another dentist and have it pulled out without gas."—Exchange.

Starvation Treatment a Failure

The Sensible Cure for Indigestion is "Little Digesters"

Probably because the taking of food causes such intense discomfort, many dyspeptics think that by abstaining from this and that—practically starving themselves—they can cure the trouble.

Of course, where Indigestion is caused by sheer gluttony, cutting down the food would no doubt do good. But in most cases Indigestion is caused, not by overeating, but by lack of physical exercise, and consequent lack of vigor in the organs of digestion. Partial starvation still further impairs the bodily vigor, and makes the trouble worse.

The dispeptic needs plenty of good, wholesome food. He can eat it, and DIGEST IT, TOO, if he takes a "Little Digester" after each meal. "Little Digesters" help the weakened stomach to do properly that which it cannot do alone—digest and assimilate the food needed to build up the system.

MOORS MAKE ATTACK

Fierce Assault Directed Against Spanish Garrison.

Penal Settlement of Penon de la Gomera Is Assailed Under Cover of Darkness, Moors Dig Trenches and Open Fire on the Town—Balloon Locates Camps For the Artillery—Gen. Marina Has 40,000 Troops.

Madrid, Aug. 12.—Advices received here from Penon de la Gomera, a Spanish island penal station on the coast of Morocco, say that the Moors are directing a fierce attack against the Spanish garrison there. The fighting began on Tuesday. At midnight the Spanish artillery seemed to have silenced the enemy, but the Moors dug trenches under cover of the darkness, and yesterday morning they reopened with a heavy fire and their bullets are falling in the streets of the town. Some of the projectiles are so large that it is thought the Moors possess light artillery. The civilians of Penon de la Gomera are aiding the soldiers in the defence of the place. There have been no Spanish casualties as yet.

A captive balloon in the Spanish lines at Melilla yesterday discovered two new camps of the Moors, which were promptly shelled by the Spanish artillery. The Moors were driven out, but they carried away their dead and wounded.

It is understood that Mulai Hafid, the Sultan of Morocco, has notified Spain of his readiness to send troops into the Riff region to chastise the Moors and establish peace. Spain, however, replied that this guarantee was not sufficient, and orders have been sent to Gen. Marina, who has nearly 40,000 troops at his command, to proceed against the Moors in the neighborhood of Melilla.

Alhucemas, Morocco, Aug. 12.—The unloading of stores here for the Spanish troops from the cruiser Extremadura has been most difficult, as the Moors have been harassing the men in charge of the work with a raking fire. The stores finally were disembarked, however, under the protection of a fire from the guns of the cruiser, the forts and the artillery on shore.

Frauds Grow Bigger.

New York, Aug. 12.—With a second charge lodged against him, Donald L. Persch, the young note broker who was arrested, charged with the larceny of copper stocks belonging to F. Augustus Heinze, is still a prisoner. The district attorney's office has ascertained that he was not alone in the transaction.

The case will be placed before the grand jury to-day, and the evidence at hand, it is said, will reveal a systematic scheme, worked not only in this city, but in Philadelphia and Boston, whereby stocks supposed to be tucked safely in the vaults and banks, have in reality been relinquished to individuals who placed them on the market at a profit.

Esperanto Headquarters.

Chautauqua, N.Y., Aug. 12.—The Esperanto Congress yesterday decided to move the executive headquarters of the American Esperanto Association from Chicago to Washington, D.C., because of probable meetings of the sixth international congress in that city next August. The new executive committee consists of Dr. Ivy Kellerman, Columbus, Ohio; W. J. Spillman of the United States Department of Agriculture, and James McKindry of Pittsburg.

New England is represented at the conference by 432 delegates.

Fruit-Growers Meet.

St. Catharines, Aug. 12.—Annual picnic of the Lincoln County Farmers' Institute and Women's Institute was held yesterday on the grounds of the Experimental Fruit Farm and Rittenhouse School Vineland, about 3,000 being in attendance.

In Victoria Hall, speeches were delivered by a number of prominent men interested in fruit-growing. The general trend of the speeches was that growers of the district should unite and co-operate into one large organization in sending fruit to the northwest.

Montreal Bound to Spend.

Cement agents from Buffalo and Montreal testified yesterday that they had tendered for work at from $4 to $5 a ton less than the successful tenderer, and had offered to take the road committee to Toronto free of charge to see the fine work done there. The Buffalo man testified that he had tendered for a cement sidewalk at $1.84 per yard, yet a tender for $2.27 had been accepted.

Million Dollar Fire.

Middleton, N.Y., Aug. 12.—A loss estimated at $1,000,000 was caused by the fire which swept thirty-six buildings from the main street of the summer resort town of Monticello, N.Y., Tuesday night. The buildings burned included hotels, stores and residences. The fire was got under control yesterday morning after dynamite was used.

C.N.R. Employes Get Increase.

Winnipeg, Aug. 12.—A new agreement regarding wages and terms of service has been made between the Canadian Northern Railway Co. and its maintenance of way employes. The advances, generally speaking, run from 10 to 15 cents per day, with the exception of the laborers, whose rate remains unchanged at $1.75 per day.

Vessel Drifting Ashore.

Beaufort, Va., Aug. 12.—(via wireless).—The Clyde liner Arapahoe, Jacksonville and Charleston for New York, has broken her tail shaft, and at 4.30 was drifting helplessly. A number of passengers are aboard. A strong northeast wind is drifting the vessel towards shore.

Unjustly Indicted.

New York, Aug. 12.—That an injustice was done to Mrs. Helen Spencer, who recently was arrested in Ecuador, and brought here on a charge of having engaged in the "White Slave" traffic for the Panama Canal zone, was admitted in court here yesterday, when the indictment against her was dismissed.

Three Went Down With Capsized Tug.

Rockport, Mass., Aug. 12.—In staggering round Cape Ann before a westerly gale, and loaded to her gunwales with anchors, the naval tug Nelzincot, Capt. Evans, bound from Portsmouth to Boston, capsized off Halibut Point at 5.30 a.m. yesterday, carrying down three members of the crew.

Loses an Arm.

Peterboro, Aug. 12.—James Craighead, a C.P.R. brakeman, was knocked from a car while shunting and his left arm so badly mangled that it has been amputated.

Huge Salmon Catch.

Vancouver, Aug. 12.—All records in the salmon catch on the coast were surpassed yesterday when the Fraser River fishermen and gill netters and purse seiners of Puget Sound were forced to abandon work because they could not dispose of the catch.

There is the enormous total of 2,234,000 sockeyes at the Fraser River, Bellingham, Blaine and Anacortes canneries.

Thousands of the fish are going to waste; the canners are not prepared to handle the total catch, but are speeding machines and men up to the highest notch and running the entire 24 hours without stop.

Paralytic Deserted by Wife.

Peterboro, Aug. 12.—Unable to lift hand or foot as the result of paralysis, Pierre Buttler, Perry street, was deserted by his wife, nothing being left in the house but the bed he was lying on. She packed up all the household effects, placed the several children with friends and left her husband alone in the empty house unable even to toss his head on the pillow. The wife told F. W. Miller, agent for the charity board that she intended to leave her husband by Tuesday, but he did not believe her. However, he visited the house out of curiosity, and found the lone occupant.

Excursionists Injured.

Hamilton, Aug. 12.—An H., G. & B. car filled with Salvation Army excursionists, returning from Grimsby, was allowed by an open switch to collide with another H., G. & B. car standing in the terminal station last evening. Many passengers on both cars were cut and bruised, but none seriously hurt. Among those who required the doctor's attentions were: Miss Eva Godfrey, 118 Peter street; Mrs. Gibbs, 128 Ray street, and Miss Price, the matron of the Rescue Home.

Brockville's Typhoid Scare.

Brockville, Aug. 12.—Notwithstanding that Brockville's water and milk supply has been pronounced pure by Dr. Connell, the Queen's College expert, typhoid fever is epidemic in town, almost every day bringing forth fresh cases. In a letter just received from Dr. Connell he says the milk contains no fever bacilli. He had previously tested the water.

Airship at Port Colborne.

Port Colborne, Aug. 12.—An airship passed over this village yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, traveling from north to south over Lake Erie. It was observed by many of the citizens, going at a fair rate of speed. It circled twice and then sailed off to the south.

A Schooner Is Deserted

Unmanned Vessel Drives Ashore at Lingan, C.B.

Members of Crew of Canadian Vessel Myrtle Are Supposed to Have Taken to the Boats and to Have Been Drowned—Small Hope Held Out That Sailors May Have Reached the Land.

Sydney, N.S., Aug. 12.—Yesterday afternoon, people near the coast line at Lingan, C.B., had their attention directed to sea by the strange actions of a schooner which could be seen some distance off shore with sails partly set, careened in the blast of the hurricane which prevailed.

Owing to the manner in which she staggered shoreward, now pointing high in the wind and again yawning in the trough of the sea, it was evident that something was wrong on board.

The vessel ploughed her way into the bay and struck on the beach, several hundred yards from the shore. Huge waves continually broke over the ship and a rescue party was got ready, and an attempt to reach the stranded vessel was made, should there be signs of life on board. However, there was no call for assistance, and as the storm continued with unabated violence, throwing up huge seas in which a small boat could not live, those on shore did not put off to the wreck.

Late yesterday it was learned that the vessel's name is the Myrtle. She is apparently a new vessel, and has not been in the water more than a couple of years. The supposition is that the captain, finding his vessel on a lee shore, ordered his men to take to the boats, which were swamped. The vessel lies about a quarter of a mile north of the northern head of Lingan, and although exposed to the full force of the huge waves, it is not breaking up. Practcally all the sails of the vessel have been torn to ribbons, and are flying in tattered remnants from the mast.

A Canadian flag is flying at half-mast in the main rigging. One dory in a wrecked condition had been washed ashore. It is evident that the craft is a fishing vessel from one of the Nova Scotia ports, but which one cannot be ascertained. Vessels of this description carry from ten to eighteen men, and it is feared here that the crew of the Myrtle have been added to swell the toll of the sea. However, small hope is held out that the men may have landed at some isolated point along the shore and may later be heard from.

Reference to the Canadian register shows several vessels bearing the name of Myrtle, but which of them is wrecked cannot be determined.

Asquith at Birmingham.

London, Aug. 12.—The Chancellor, Lloyd-George, has arranged the abandonment of the tax on minerals not yet mined in favor of some scheme for mineral royalties.

The Liberals are resolved to carry the struggle into the strongholds of the protectionist party, and it is announced that Premier Asquith will address a monster meeting in Joseph Chamberlain's constituency, Birmingham, Sept. 17.

The Unionists have promptly taken up the challenge and have prevailed on former Premier Balfour to address a similar Unionist demonstration in the same hall a few days later.

Will Share the Cost.

London, Aug. 12.—The Canadian Associated Press learns that the next plenary sitting of the Imperial Defence Conference has not yet been summoned, but it is expected it will be to-day or Monday. On the question of the military defence of the Empire, it is understood that general unanimity has prevailed and that some far-reaching decisions have been arrived at on the naval question, all parties of the Empire represented have expressed their intention to take a fair share of the cost of naval defence.

Mines May Be Flooded.

Springhill, N.S., Aug. 12.—Strike conditions to-day remain unchanged. Formerly when the miners went out on strike, the company received notice, thereby affording an opportunity to get horses and perishable property out of the mines, but this time horses nearly perished. The local Government may have to take charge of the property to prevent the mines from flooding.

Mexican Revolutionist Captured.

San Antonio, Texas, Aug. 12.—Jose M. Randel, leader of the revolutionists who fought a battle with three companies of the Mexican troops at Las Vacas in 1907, was arrested and with him were taken consignments of military rifles and pistols of the latest make, and correspondence of the Junta.

Revolutionists are scattered from New York to Los Angeles.

An Open Verdict.

London, Aug. 12.—After hearing the medical testimony in the Jenken case last night the jury brought in an open verdict as follows:

"That the deceased, Martha Jenken, came to her death at her late home, lot 10, con. 7, London Township, on Friday, July 30, 1909.

"The jurors find that death was due to injuries sustained on the head by the deceased.

"How or by what means the said injuries were inflicted the jurors are unable from the evidence to determine."

The additional evidence offered last night threw little light on the woman's death. Charlie Jenken, the young son, was recalled and told of a row between his mother and father some weeks ago, when Mrs. Jenken hit her husband on the head with a wrench, and he threw her down.

The jury was out 25 minutes.

Finest Power Site.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 12.—Sir William Van Horne was on the witness stand yesterday afternoon in an investigation into the affairs of the Grand Falls Power Co., and declared that he placed the value of the power site there, still undeveloped, at a million dollars, and stated that it was not equalled on the continent.

"We have nothing to compare with it in all America," said Sir William. "It is immense and is in such close proximity with the finest timber lands of the province."

In an interview, Sir William, speaking unofficially, said that notwithstanding the efforts of Letang and St. Andrew's to make themselves the terminal of the C.P.R., St. John must remain the winter port for Canada. He added: "Where the business is, the C.P.R. will go."

Victim of Vendetta.

New York, Aug. 12.—Victim of the vendetta, Rafael Gascone, defended by Albert T. Patrick and befriended by Harry K. Thaw, whom he came to know in the Tombs, died yesterday afternoon in a hospital where he had lingered since he was shot on the street Tuesday night by a boy of fifteen.

With his dying breath, Gascone charged young Santaniello Amato, with having shot him "in revenge for my having killed his brother," the ante-mortem statement reads. Gascone signed the accusation with a cross. Within an hour he was dead.

Santaniello was seriously stabbed when Gascone turned and grappled with him after the shooting. He is in a hospital and if he recovers will be maimed for life.

Taft May Cross Line.

Washington, Aug. 12.—It is not impossible that President Taft may cross the line into Mexico to greet President Diaz of that republic when he visits El Paso in Ooctober.

Some time ago there was a tentative agreement that neither President should meet in the centre of the international bridge, each standing in his own territory and shaking hands across the border. It was suggested also that a dinner be held on the bridge, with Mr. Taft sitting at the head of the table on the American side and President Diaz at the head of the table on the Mexican side.

It appears, however, that this plan may not prove feasible, and it has been suggested that other arrangements be made.

Smothered In Wheat.

Rochester, N.Y., Aug. 12.—Cecil Sedam, aged 11, while playing around a bin of wheat at the storehouse of Belden & Co., at Perry, fell into the bin, and with Neil Watkins, a companion was carried beneath a rush of wheat. Cecil was smothered to death.

Mother Drowns Self and Babe.

McComb, Ohio, Aug. 12.—The bodies of Mrs. James H. Ritter and her infant daughter clasped tightly in the woman's arms, were found in an abandoned well by the woman's husband who noted their absence yesterday morning.

Cattleman Loses $1,000.

Montreal, Aug. 12.—Isaac Montgomery, a cattle dealer of Irish Creek, Ont., lost his pocket-book yesterday containing $1,000, between the stock yards and the Windsor depot.

Barn Burned.

Peterboro, Aug. 12.—The farm buildings of Fred McIntyre of Otonobee Township were destroyed by fire Tuesday; loss $3,000. Six calves and a bull were burnt to death.

TIMELY TOPICS.

A HINT TO MR. FLINT.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Why does Mr. John J. B. Flint write against the proposed sewerage system? I will tell you, Mr. Editor. It is because Mr. Flint has had the property buying "bug" for some years, and in an endeavor to buy up Belleville has got on a big load, and to loosen up the tight wad of a rich man hurts some. J. J. B. F. would have to spend some money if the sewerage system were installed.

It is claimed that the big fire at Hanlan's Point, Toronto, could have been controlled had there been better fire-fighting apparatus, and some of the Toronto papers are cheerfully jumping on the civic authorities for their "parsimony." The same old game. In the spring, when the tax rate is struck, the papers abuse the Aldermen if they don't keep the rate down low; afterwards, the City Dads are jumped on if they don't provide as good services and appliances as cities with a higher rate. Who wouldn't be an Alderman?

The Cape Breton Strike—Travesty of Justice.

The manner in which Magistrates in Glace Bay are disposing of the strikers who violate the law is little short of a travesty of justice. No sooner is one of the law-breakers, should he be a striker, convicted and held for trial, no matter how serious the crime, than he is allowed his liberty on furnishing bail, and that, too, in a small sum, which his fellow-strikers of the union instantly furnish.

An instance of how these ruffians are treated by the Magistrates who administer justice at Glace Bay is found in the fact that a couple of them, who shamefully maltreated an officer of the peace while in the discharge of his duties by beating and biting him, were fined $20 and costs, and then let go to repeat their offences. Six months in jail would have been a more fitting punishment. Others, against whom serious charges were laid, were, when found guilty and bound over to stand their trial at a superior court, allowed to go on bail, furnished at once by the Brotherhood, showing that, notwithstanding their professions of abhorrence for all these depredations, they are ready at a moment's warning to rush to the aid of their fellow-strikers, no matter what crimes they may have committed.

It will be remembered that a few days ago an attempt was made to blow up the residence of Manager Simpson, which fortunately failed; had it not, Simpson, wife and family, all of whom were at the time in bed and asleep, would in all probability have been killed.

Two suspected persons were arrested. The examination of Ross, one of the men charged with causing the explosion under Manager Simpson's house, resulted in his being, on the 4th inst., committed for trial before the Supreme Court.

No one need be surprised if this man is allowed his liberty on bail, and that, too, of a not very large amount.

These things are transpiring nearly every day, and the condemnation of them by the press is of the mildest character. Why it is not difficult to answer. These labor unions are, under our franchise laws, powerful at election times, and politicians are too cowardly to condemn them, fearing the result when votes are wanted.

To such an extent is this carried that freedom of thought and action no longer exists where labor unions combine to control both labor and capital. The time is fast approaching when these violations of the law and attacks upon the liberty of the subjects will have to be dealt with in a more drastic way than they have been in the past, or the country will descend to a state of anarchy.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

TROTTING.

Good Sport at the Matinee Yesterday Afternoon.

At the Belleville Driving Park yesterday afternoon three speeding events took place, which proved interesting to the goodly number of spectators present. The matinee was the first held this season, and the probabilities are that others will be held before the snow flies again. There has been for some time considerable rivalry between certain horsemen as to the speed of their horses, which led to the event taking place. Following was the card:

Class B.

There were two entries for this event, which was half-mile heats. Three heats were trotted and very good time was made. Summary:

Jap, T. Stewart, Deseronto	1	1	1
Why Not, M. Williams	2	2	2

Time—1.12 1-2. 1.19 3-4, 1.10.

Class A.

This proved to be the best event, though only two horses were entered, namely, Walter G. and Tim Alert. In the second mile heat the time made was 2.18 3-4, said to be the fastest mile ever trotted on the Belleville track. Walter G. was the winner. Summary:

Walter G., A. C. Dafoe, Foxboro	1	1	1
Tim Alert, W. Cook, Trenton	2	2	2

Time—2.28 1-2, 2.18 3-4, 2.21 1-4.

Class C.

There were three entries for this event, all the horses being owned by local parties. The heats were half-mile. Some of the finishes were very close and the speed exhibited by the winner was favorably commented upon. The summary was as follows:

Windsor Belle, L. Ketcheson	2	2	1	1	1
Guy M., J. E. Brintnell	1	1	2	2	2
Miss Paisley, C. Rowe	3	3	3	3	3

Time—1.15 3-4, 1.17, 1.13 1-2, 1.14 1-4, 1.13.

The Officials.

The starter was Mr. W. Carnew, the judges, Mr. S. Curry, Ald. Sprague and Dr. Baker, of Hamilton; the time-keeper, Mr. J. A. Mackie.

SPORTING NOTES

The Eel and Margin are the biggest winners so far on the Grand Circuit.

Alfred Shrubb's new book on middle and long distance running has just been issued.

Barbeau, the Pittsburg third sacker, is perhaps the smallest player in the National league.

Toronto won no less than six Canadian championships at the C. C. A. meet on Saturday last.

Chicago still has a good chance of beating Pittsburg out for first place in the National league.

Bruce Stuart, captain of the Ottawa hockey team, has an offer to play at Cobalt next winter.

Articles of agreement have been signed for a contest between Jeffries and Johnson, to take place within eight months, before the club offering the largest purse. The division of the purse is left to Jeffries. It looks as though the big coon means business.

It is said that King Alfonso of Spain may challenge for the America's cup. Anybody would think Alfonso had trouble enough, almost.

In a ten-mile race at Winnipeg Shrubb beat Fitzgerald by three laps. Time 54.02 3-5.

There Was Change in Baby's Complexion.

Mrs. John E. Travers, of Hackensack, N.J., is angry clear through. She feels that her confidence has been abused. And by a two-months-old baby, too. When the baby was found in a shoe box near the Hotel Kingsland, two weeks ago, soon after the departure of a big red touring car containing several well dressed women, there was a great fuss over the little stranger. Mrs. Travers decided to adopt the child.

"Have you had it in the sun much?" asked one of the neighbors early to-day. "It's getting awfully tanned."

"I thought I noticed it getting darker," said Mrs. Travers, "but then you know the weather has been very cloudy all week."

"Did you ever see such a change in a baby?" asked another later on. "From a blonde to a brunette! I'll bet it's going to be dark, and I love dark children."

The more Mrs. Travers looked at the baby after that the more she thought it best to call Dr. Charles

"What makes it so dark?" she asked.

"That's natural enough," said the physician, without a smile. "It's a pickaninny."

ENGAGES STEAMSHIP FOR HUNTING TRIP.

Rudolph Ritter von Gutmann, a wealthy young Austrian sportsman, has left Seattle for a four months' cruise in Alaskan and Siberian waters, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. For the occasion he has chartered the Norwegian steamship Transit, which has been elaborately furnished for his comfort. He is accompanied by his private secretary, a physician and a retinue of attendants. The Transit has 1,200 tons of coal for the long voyage.

The Transit cleared for Juneau, from which port she proceeds into the Arctic, where the hunter will seek walrus, bear and other game. An extended cruise will be made along the Siberian coast and, returning, Gutmann may stop at Kodiak. The trip is for sport alone and will cost about $100,000.

DUEL BETWEEN CHICKEN AND BIG PINCHING BUG.

Nobody ever heard of a duel between a "pinching" bug and a spring chicken until David Kissling, who lives west of Columbus, Ind., told the story, and he has his entire family as witnesses to prove that the story is true, says the Indianapolis News. Mr. Kissling was at work in the barnyard, when he heard one of the chickens making a noise as if it were frightened. He investigated and found that a "pinching" bug had fastened its pinchers with a bulldog grip on the lower "jaw" of the chicken, and that the latter was unable to dislodge the insect.

It took considerable effort to pry the bug loose and then it did not give up without drawing blood. The bug was about one and a half inches in length and had pinchers about one-half inch long. The chicken was a two-pounder and able to take care of itself under ordinary circumstances. However, the "pinching" bug was awarded the decision.

The Model Military Camp at the Canadian National Exhibition will be fitted with hospital tents for men and women and all casualties on the Exhibition grounds will be handled by the Army Medical Corps which will form part of the permanent corps in the Model Militia Camp.

SOME BIG CHEESE.

(Utica Herald-Despatch.)

It was reported from Lowville the other day that a cheese had been made there that weighed nearly a ton, and it was intimated that it broke the record for size in this dairy section. But Levi Wheaton, of this city, for many years a leading cheese buyer, was on the Utica board yesterday with some reminiscences that put the story of the Lowville creation considerably in the shade.

In 1882 Mr. Wheaton was a buyer for the firm of John S. Martin and Company, of New York City. He received an order for some giant cheese, and had a consultation relative to their manufacture with Dr. L. L. Wight, who conducted the famous Whitesboro factory. As a result, three giant cheese were made in this factory, which weighed respectively, 1,869, 2,109 and 2,123 lbs. They were sent to the New York firm, and proved so satisfactory that three more of still larger size were ordered in 1883. When made they weighed, respectively, 2,409, 2,761 and 2,819 lbs. Because of the necessity of having specially constructed hoops and other new machinery, it cost 4 1-2 cents a pound more to make the first lot than it cost to make cheese of standard size, while the cost of making the second lot was 5 cents a pound more. The yearning of the New York firm for mammoth cheese was not yet satisfied, and Mr. Wheaton got an order for one that should weigh 4,000 pounds. He and Dr. Wight did some elaborate figuring, and found that it would cost fully $1,000 to make a cheese of the size required. The 4,000-pound monster was therefore not constructed. The six giants made by Dr. Wight established a record, which stands to-day as that for the largest number of greatest weight cheese ever made in a single factory in this country.

(The cheese above referred to were made for commercial purposes. Of course they are not to be compared with the eleven ton monster exhibited by Canada at the World's Fair in 1893.)

SHEEP AND SWINE.

Sheep and swine come in for a large share of attention at the Canadian National Exhibition. The best in Yorkshires, Berkshires and Tamworths fill the pig pens at the big Fair, while in the sheep pens are Shropshires, Cotswolds, Leicesters, Oxford Downs of the first quality. All the best that Canada and the United States can produce are found in this department. That the exhibit is a large one is shown by the fact that permanent pens have been built on the grounds for 700 sheep and 600 pigs. Then there is poultry and pet stock enough to fill a building 220 ft. by 60 ft.

A Damp Outlook in Dear Old Kingston.

DRUNKENNESS GREATLY ON THE INCREASE — A BARBER SHOP INCIDENT — THE WHIG MORALIZES.

Kingston Whig: Yesterday afternoon, at different times no less than five drunken men entered a downtown barber shop to be shaved or clipped. One of the barbers was thoroughly disgusted, and remarked that he had seen a good deal of drunkenness in Kingston, but he never seen so much as this summer. Half of the population seemed to him to be indulging in the booze habit.

The incident raises the question as to whether drunkenness is decreasing in Kingston. The police court records vary a little on both sides, but possibly there is a smaller number arrested for drunkenness now than there was ten years ago. The police court records, however, do not really indicate whether or not drunkenness is increasing or decreasing in a community. Only a small percentage of drunken men are arrested — probably five per cent. For every one arrested nineteen are not, for the latter are lucky to either be taken care of or to be intoxicated away from the public streets. Perhaps not one of the five intoxicated men who wandered into the above named barber shop would be arrested.

Without the "Indian list" there would be a good deal more drunkenness, and if three taverns had not been cut off three years ago there would have been still more. This coming autumn the Moral and Social Reform League is going to fight for the reduction of the tavern liquor licenses to twenty, or one for every thousand inhabitants.

Process of manufacture an interesting feature of Canadian National Exhibition.

The process of manufacture department is always one of the most interesting features of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and this year it promises to be far more extensive than ever before. In all there will be about forty industries at work showing just how shoes, silk, cotton goods, prints, and many other of the articles you use every day are made. It is impossible here to name more than a few of the exhibitors, but here are some well worth looking up.

The United Shoe Manufacturing Co., Montreal, manufacturing ladies' and gents' boots and shoes, showing the different stages from the cutting out of the leather to the finished shoe.

Merchants Rubber Co., of Berlin, demonstrating the manufacture of rubber shoes, showing every process from the crude rubber to the finished boot.

Davis & Henderson, manufacturing and printing envelopes.

The Canadian Silk Co. weaving silk and badges with photos on them.

Gundy, Clapperton, cutting glass, showing the process in which the fine quality of cut glass is produced.

Shredded Wheat, showing process in which their products are prepared and made portable and palatable.

Dominion Textile Co., Montreal, showing process of manufacture of fine cotton goods, prints, etc.

CUPID VERSUS HER ART.

After the Explanation the Studio Plans Were Abandoned.

By HELEN J. WOOD.

"See here, Connie, I can't go a step farther. If you want to carry out the rest of your program for today you will have to do it by yourself. I am tired out. And here are these home papers I have been carrying around all morning without even a chance to glance in them."

Mrs. Curwin emphasized her remarks by sinking down on one of the benches in front of the Pavillon des Arts Industrieux. Soon she was buried in her papers, quite forgetful of foreign surroundings.

One glance at the daughter showed that she was the general of the little exploring party. Filled with a determination to see everything at the exposition, she had been "personally inducting" her meek minded mother for a week. Mrs. Curwin was hankering for the allurements of the French shops, but Connie had been resolute. The exposition first and Paris afterward was her motto.

But today she was wise enough to overlook this sudden insubordination. Besides, she was tired herself. So there she sat, idly watching the stream of passing people. What contrasts in figure and costume met her eye—English, Turks, Hindoos, Japanese and, more numerous than all, Americans. Connie saw her compatriots with a thrill of pride—the girls so much more beautiful than their foreign sisters, the men so tall and broad shouldered. Oh, the American men! She would choose them every time. A tender smile parted her lips. Her mother's voice broke her reverie:

"Why, I can't believe my eyes! Well, well!" And she paused as if overcome.

Connie leaned over and read the exciting paragraph:

"Mr. and Mrs. Van Ingen announce the engagement of their daughter Maud to James Wortman Pennington of this city."

Connie started in spite of herself.

"Jim! And he never told me!"

"That's just what I'd like to know. How did he ever work it up in such a hurry? Why, we have been gone only two months, and before that he was always hanging round after you."

P

THERE WAS NO MISTAKING HIM NOW. IT WAS JIM.

She fairly sputtered in her excitement, but a glance at her daughter's face calmed her. It wore the look of one stunned by the shock of a sudden blow.

"Of course," she went on more quietly. "it may have been going on for a long time. Maud is not pretty," with an admiring gaze at her own daughter, "but she is kind and pleasant. He might have done worse."

Connie had started to her feet.

"Yes, he might have done worse," she echoed. "But I shall write him a note tonight and scold him for not having told me before—me, whom he called his best friend. Now, mother, if you are determined not to see anything more today you can easily find your way home. I will follow out the program alone." And, picking up her guidebooks, she hurried off.

Mrs. Curwin gazed after her with a growing anxiety. Did Connie really care?

Meanwhile the trim little figure was hurrying down a long aisle. Her eyes passed over a kaleidoscopic succession of objects that somehow failed to make any impression on her brain. The exposition roared and flashed around her, and in her mind one train of thoughts kept repeating with a horrible persistency.

Jim engaged—her Jim! Yes, he had been her Jim, she said almost savagely; had been her best friend for ever so long. She had been coquettish and flirted with the other boys, but he had known all along, she felt sure. Had he only been flirting with her? No, no! But here he was, engaged to another girl! And then the whole miserable circuit began once more.

She came home to the pension so white and weary that her mother was alarmed, but she pleaded fatigue and went off to bed like a tired child.

Poor Mrs. Curwin was much perplexed in the days that followed. Connie seemed the usual Connie, but what had inspired the girl with this insane notion of staying in Paris to study art? She argued and scolded, but all in vain. Connie was a young person of a determined mind, and on this subject she was more than usually determined. Her mother finally resigned herself to the prospect of being an exile from her beloved native land, for, of course, where Connie stayed she had to stay, too, until Connie wearied of this latest whim. Mrs. Curwin devoutly hoped that it would be soon.

However, there was one alleviation for her misery. Connie seemed to have lost her enthusiasm over doing the exposition. She spent her time investigating art schools and studios, leaving her mother to plunge into all the delights of shopping, of which the good woman did not soon tire. To be sure, Connie might have shown a little more interest in her purchases. It was all very well to say that as an art student she would need few clothes. Mrs. Curwin knew better. Connie had always been fond of clothes, and some day she would wake up from her art dreams and find that her wardrobe was bare.

But her daughter's indifference "to her real interests" did not prevent Mrs. Curwin from entering eagerly into all her plans for the studio. If only they had brought some of their home furniture with them! Connie tried to explain patiently how out of place the heavy, elegantly upholstered pieces would be in a studio and how much more delightful it would be to pick up the necessary things one at a time in the various curio shops. This last idea was balm to her mother's ruffled feelings. It offered such infinite possibilities for shopping.

With this laudable object in view she soon became a familiar figure to all the curio dealers. Connie was usually the interpreter, but if, as often happened, she did not care to go Mrs. Curwin never lacked the courage to go alone. Each day she came home with some new treasure, and the girl had not the heart to spoil her delight by reminding her that they already had enough traps to fill two ordinary studios.

These were weary days for Connie, and yet she was too proud to confide her sufferings to her mother. What good would it do anyway to disturb that serenity? And she had had no word from Jim in answer to her note. Small wonder, for what could he say? And yet—and yet—he might have—

She had been sitting on a bench in the Jardin des Tuileries, and now she rose with a start and tried to enjoy the fountains splashing and glittering under the July sun and the pretty French children with their bonnes in peasant caps.

As she glanced down the path she saw a well dressed American looking from side to side as if in search of some one. Her heart gave a leap. He looked like— Nonsense! She was always imagining that she saw him.

The gentleman came directly toward her. There was no mistaking him now. It was Jim.

She gazed at him. Then the glad light died from her face.

"You! Here!" she said slowly.

"Just got in from New York," was the cheerful reply. "Found your mother on the Rue de Rivoli, so here I am." And he took her unresisting hand.

"You don't say you're glad to see me. That's rough when a chap comes so many miles to see you, dear."

The "dear" acted like an electric shock. Wrenching free her hand, she faced him with blazing eyes.

"You know you ought not to be here. You ought to be at Newport with Maud."

Jim seized both hands now. He had forgotten the people, forgotten everything but the white, tense face of the little American girl.

"Connie, dear, it's all a dreadful mistake, and I came over just as soon as I could arrange it to tell you the truth. It's Cousin James, from Colorado, who is engaged to Maud, and the stupid newspaper made the error. But I never guessed you'd care so much, dearest."

• • • • • • • •

Mrs. Curwin found them at the pension sitting in the dusk. As usual, her arms were filled with bundles.

"Connie," she cried triumphantly, "I have found the greatest bargains for your studio—a pair of bellows and a leather cushion and"—

"Studio!" Jim interrupted. Somehow Connie had forgotten to tell him about her winter plans.

He listened to Mrs. Curwin's explanations with a smile.

"I guess we'll be making use of all these things in New York, won't we, Connie?"

And Connie smiled back a "Yes."

A Written Opinion.

A portly and pompous man once held a commission as brigadier general of militia and a license to practice law, neither of which he had much occasion to use. He finally had a case before the supreme court and proudly hoped to see his name in the reports as counsel for the plaintiff above a long and elaborate opinion of the court.

When his case was called on opinion day he was enraged to hear the simple announcement from the bench, "Affirmed."

After the court adjourned he went to Judge McKinney, whom he knew well, and said, "Judge, I thought that the supreme court at least would obey the law."

"Wherein has the court failed?" asked the judge.

"The law requires that a written opinion be delivered in every case this court tries, and none was delivered in this case."

The judge had the rolled record brought to him and glanced at the bottom of the page. Placing his finger on the abbreviation "Aff'd," he said to the ambitious general: "See there! 'Aff'd.' Isn't that a written opinion?"

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

motions, they came tripping over the lava pavement like so many little fairies escaped from the neighboring groves, their great southern eyes flashing, their sweet southern mouths smiling, their little brown arms waving aloft in a tumult of grace and glee that stirred the pulses of those who looked with a strange vanishing warmth that seemed to hold one of those fugitive memories that haunt us all, of a gladder life than we have known here, born late, as we are, into this dust-laden century. Among them was a little lame boy, but he whirled on his crutch and flew with the rest. 'Away they went, and soldiers and music and dancing children vanished from sight and hearing.

"Oh, said Rhoda, with a low laugh of delight, 'what a bewitching sight!"

"Do you think so?" said Di Loria, smiling up at her. "But they were very ragged, those children. They are always so with us," he added simply. He bade them farewell until the evening and drove away.

Regy stood, hat in hand, in the broad sunlight, looking up at Mrs. Starr, his pretty eyebrows lifted.

"Already the balcony scene!"

"Yes, and with an ascending scale of Romeos: a beggar, a coachman, a marquis. And now!—"

She dropped him a little mocking courtesy and ran within. Her face was sparkling and glowing. She looked like a happy girl.

Regy glanced down at the letters in his hand, which bore the Austrian stamp.

"She never asked for them," he said to himself. "I am glad of it. She was as pretty as a peach, just now, and she always looks like somebody's maiden aunt for hours after she has read one of Eugene's scrawls."

He selected his own letters from the package, and slipped two with the Vienna postmark into his pocket as he turned to re-enter the house. He loked at them a moment before he did

"Damn Eugene!" said young Mr. Winter.

CHAPTER IX.

LETTERS FROM VIENNA.

As Mrs. Winter was preparing to retire late that night, she heard the sound of stifled sobbing from the next room. She listened for a moment, anxiously rose, reseated herself, and rose again. She was a firm believer in the divine right of all to solitary expression of whatever emotion might be in the ascendant. There had been times in her own life when a storm of tears, poured forth with absolute unrestraint as she lay, face downward on her chamber floor, had been as a saving grace to her; the entrance of the mose sympathetic friend, of the nearest and dearest even, would have been a cruelty. But Rhoda was made of different stuff, and there was something so like the forlorn moan of a frightened child in those smothered sobs that the motherly heart was stirred in every fibre. Unable to bear it longer, she tapped at the door. There was a sudden stir and hush, but no answer. She turned the knob and spoke gently:

"Rhoda!"

"Yes," came faintly from the darkness.

"Are you quite well, my child?"

"Not quite. My head aches, I think."

Mrs. Winter smiled a little at the white lie which suffering womanhood has by tacit consent declared void of offense, but very pitifully, as she advanced into the room and came to seat herself on the side of the bed.

"What can I do to help you?" she said, in a tone that seemed to promise all the help that lay in human power.

"You are so kind. But nothing, nothing, thank you."

"What a very limited person I must be if it is beyond my power to help cure a headache so slight that you only think you have it!

Rhoda rose on one elbow; Mrs. Winter could not see her face, but the discouraged droop of her whole figure was faintly visible in the dimness.

"Dear friend, I will tell you all. I must. It is not headache; I am quite well, but—oh, it is Eugene!"

"What is the matter? Is he ill?" cried his aunt in alarm.

"He is well, I think. I have had two letters from Vienna; they came while you were sleeping this afternoon. One is from the Countess von Weldenord, and one is from him."

"I am glad Elizabeth has written you so soon again. Have your letters made you homesick for Eugene, dearie?"

"No."

"Then what is it, Rhoda?"

"It is not fair to tell you, yet I must," said Rhoda, struggling into an upright position, as if the words would come more easily because of the bracing of a more strenuous attitude. "I must, because you may be able to help me, to tell me what to do, to advise me as my mother might. I wish I had her now. Is it not sad that I can scarcely remember her?"

"More than sad. All that a woman can be who has never had a daughter I will be to you."

"I know that! I read the Countess's letter first. I was a little frightened at seeing her writing so soon again, and thought, as you did, that Eugene might be ill. If it were only that!"

"Rhoda!" cried Mrs. Winter.

"It would be better, yes, it would be better if he were quite ill and suffering pain. Think how good your sister and her husband have been to him, Mrs. Winter, and how generously they have put a grave responsibility into his hands. The Count's whole life is bound up in that book. And he has not requited their kindness as he should. I know Eugene has faults of thought and action; I have always known them as he has known mine. But I never thought he would be unfair to those who deserve better things of him. I had not made up my mind to that," said poor Rhoda, piteously.

"What has he done, Rhoda?"

"It is what he has not done that is chiefly the matter."

"Has he been neglecting Gela's book?"

"Yes, constantly. 'And the Countess writes to know if I will not use my influence with him. My influence!" said Rhoda, with the first accent of bitterness that Mrs. Winter had ever heard from her.

"Tell me all about it, Rhoda."

"There is not very much to tell, after all. His aunt apologizes very sweetly for writing to me on the subject, and says that I must regard the Weldenord family as troublesome people, but that I am one of them, since she already looks upon me as her niece, and that she thinks Eugene's interests as well as those of her husband may be served by my counsel. Then she speaks of the Count with feeling that shows she has entered into his work. She says: 'All the results of a long and laborious life are gathered into this book. When we were married, more than thirty years ago,

KEEPING HIS BALANCE.

A Story With a Moral That is Told Among the Tartars.

There is a story told among the Tartars which has a moral for the civilized men of the present day. It is to this effect: Robo, cousin of the great mogul, was condemned to death for participation in a rebellion. The most skillful swordsman in the empire was provided for the execution, and the great mogul and his court were present as spectators.

The thin, keen blade flashed in the sunlight and descended upon the bare neck of Robo, who stood upright to receive the stroke.

The executioner's work was so deftly done that, though the head was severed, not a vital organ was disturbed. Robo remained standing.

"What, Robo, art thou not beheaded?" exclaimed the great mogul.

"My lord, I am," replied Robo, "but as long as I keep my balance right my head will not fall off."

The great mogul was placated. A hand was put on Robo's neck, and he recovered. He afterward became a loyal subject and was made cashier of the empire because, as the great mogul remarked:

"He knows that if he keeps his balance right his head will not come off."—Exchange.

MAKESHIFT COMPASS.

Float a Magnetized Sewing Needle In a Bowl of Water.

If a thoroughly dry and clean sewing needle is carefully laid on the surface of water in a basin the needle will float in spite of the high density of steel—seven or eight times that of water. On close inspection it is found that the surface of the water is depressed under the needle, much as if there were a thin film stretched over the water and slightly indented by the weight of the needle.

This property of liquids of offering a certain resistance to a force exerted upon their surface is termed "surface tension." The magnitude of the force of surface tension varies from one liquid to another. It is greatest in the case of mercury. The cause of the phenomenon must probably be looked for in the attraction of the liquid molecules to one another.

A sewing needle thus floating upon water may be used as a compass if it has previously been magnetized. It will then point north and south and will maintain this position if the containing vessel is moved about. If the needle is displaced by force it will return to its position along the magnetic meridian as soon as the restraint is removed.

'Locating a Broken Wire.

When a telegraph wire is broken or damaged, say, several hundred miles away, how does the operator, sitting in his office, know exactly where the accident occurred?

The explanation is simple. It requires, as every one knows, considerable force to send electricity through a wire. The longer the wire the greater, of course, must be the force required. This force is measured in units called by electricians "ohms." Let us suppose that a wire between a New York office and a point 150 miles away has broken somewhere. The telegrapher knows that when the wire was intact there were required, say, 2,100 ohms to facilitate the current, or fourteen ohms to the mile. He now finds that he can send a current with only 700 ohms. Dividing 700 by 14, he finds that the break in the wire is fifty miles from his end.

Foresight.

Little George, who was four years old, had been told many Bible stories. Among them was the story of the flood and the building of the ark by Noah. One day a storm threatened. The clouds grew darker, the wind arose, and suddenly the rain began to fall.

"Auntie," said George, "do you think it is going to storm?"

"Yes, I think it will," was the reply.

"Do you think it will be a hard storm?" asked the little fellow.

"Yes, I think it will be a hard storm," the aunt replied.

"Well, don't you think some of us had better begin building an ark?" he asked.

The Man and the Mummy.

"This," said the guide who was piloting a bunch of tourists through Egypt as he pointed to a mummy, "was a high-priest, the wisest man of his day. He lived to a great age."

"Was his last illness fatal?" queried the wag of the bunch.

"Of course it was," answered the guide, with a look of pity at the other.

"That's queer," rejoined the waggish person. "His present appearance would seem to indicate that he was permanently cured."

Too Big a Price.

Does the pursuit of wealth cut the American man of business off from the old fashioned relish of books and society? In other words, is he paying too big or disproportionate a price in time and strength for wealth and commercial prominence? My answer would be "Yes" beyond question.—A. Barton Hepburn in Century.

Easy Job.

The Boss—I'd like to give you employment, young man, but there is no work to do. The Applicant—That's just the sort of job I'd like, sir if the salary were satisfactory.

Little minds are too much wounded by little things; great minds see all and are not even hurt.—La Rochefoucauld.

"Speed Mad Loons"

The Watertown Times has the following pertinent comment on a certain class of automobilists, whom it designates as "boastful lawbreakers":

"We have heard of a case where an automobilist bragged the other day that he had come to Sackett's Harbor at the rate of a mile a minute His confession ought to land him in jail. It showed an utter disregard for the rights of every one on the road. It is these speed-mad lunatics who make automobiles hated by the farmer, and when one brags of his defiance of law it does not excite admiration but the contempt of sane automobilists who feel that a stigma has been put upon them as a class by the performance of one."

DIVIDED WAYS.

What a Chance Meeting After Many Years Revealed.

By SUSAN H. MORLEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

"There's not another such stretch on the whole sound," Lisa was saying gayly. "For miles it's this same way—so level that at low tide we could, if we chose, pass dry shod, like the children of Israel, to the other side, which means to yon island. In fact, it's our favorite"—

A whirring black cloud, startling the horses, rose suddenly from the edge of the water as they turned a sharp point, and Seth Eckles, who was no horseman, had all he could do to keep his seat.

"Stormy petrels," laughed Lisa. "The beach takes its name from them, they haunt it in such numbers, you know. If you could stay another month, Seth, we'd make a rider of you. It's a better sport any time, I warrant, than those new glossed games you talk so much about."

Eckles, who was comfortably settled in his saddle again, listened to the pounding of the hoofs on the hard, wet sand, his eyes on Lisa, whose small gray form seemed to blend and become a part of the lithe gray she was riding.

"DO YOU KNOW YOU HAVEN'T SPOKEN FOR THE LONGEST WHILE?"

He admired her immensely, this stepdaughter of his aunt, and suddenly it seemed to him that mortal man could ask for nothing better than Lisa for a wife, and life in this out of the way but aristocratic and exclusive, self satisfied old town.

And Lisa was pretty. Not a girl he had ever known could compare with her in beauty, not to mention a certain rare grace of manner and an unusual, dainty wit.

She had money and lineage, too, back of her, and Seth Eckles was old enough and wise enough to know the value of such things.

"If silence is golden," she interrupted quizzically, "then your burden must indeed be heavy. Do you know you haven't spoken for the longest while?"

"I was—thinking," he stammered guiltily, ashamed that anything so sordid as family and money could for an instant have associated themselves in his mind with the girl herself. It was Lisa that he wanted.

"How late!" Lisa exclaimed with the booming of the sunset gun on the old fort across the channel. "If you but knew it, Seth, we're five miles from home. Then there's dinner and dressing, and I can't under any circumstances allow a guest to disgrace himself by arriving tardily at a function in his honor. We've got to run for it."

She wheeled and led off, Seth following and keeping up as best he could, but undaunted by the distance between them. Was there not the dance at the clubhouse yet before his train at midnight? At any rate, it was a chance.

And Seth made the best of it. The long galleries were bowers of palms and remote from the ballroom, and there, with the tide pummeling at the pier and tossing up sheets of spray, Seth told his story.

He was young and handsome and adept, and he pleaded his case well—so well that he and Lisa in the white radiance of a big moon and with the shimmer of water about them exchanged vows, convinced that each was intended for the other. That was the way life looked that night, but, of course, it would be the same a year hence when Lisa should be eighteen and the engagement made public.

Then Seth, fresh from a law school, established himself in New York. There was no tiresome, weary waiting for clients. From the very first luck held his hand, and business troubles, growling like hyenas at the doors of even older men, from him stood aloof.

Besides, he had full measure of amusements and pleasure. Friends he made everywhere. His hearty laugh and genial disposition kept him in demand.

Life was so satisfactory and success so easy that he was already well spoiled before he met Laura Norton, who was Lisa's exact opposite. Before he knew it he had forgotten his pledge to Lisa and was formally engaged to Laura, the engagement being speedily followed by marriage.

For awhile there were hours of gloom when he stood truly aghast at what he had done. In every conceivable light and with all honesty he argued the matter, convincing himself finally that he had nothing to regret. Lisa was young and susceptible. Probably she was already consoled.

In any case a man's maturer judgment was to be respected, no matter at what cost. And, too, he greatly admired his wife, her easy adaptability, her cleverness, her accomplishments. Besides, they were congenial. Her ambitions fully equaled his, and her penchant for politics was a factor in his career, pushing him into places he knew he could not have reached alone.

For a time honors seemed absolutely heaped upon him. He could scarcely keep step with fortune's pace, so fast and furiously did she mount. But, once started on the ladder, he continued to climb, even long after his wife's death and when his hair had grayed and Lisa was but a misty dream. And luck still held his hand.

He was in the running for governor, making, the press said, a phenomenal campaign. Men spoke of him as the brilliant light, the strong man of his time. Everywhere he was made much of, and it was at a reception for him in the old clubhouse at the end of the pier that a sleeping memory awoke.

Could it be possible that he was awake? Only an hour ago it might have been that he last saw the cool green of the ballroom, the long bowers of palms with lights twinkling among the black green foliage, the surf beating at the pier and the white foam dashing high. There was music, too, just as on that other night, but Lisa, shimmering in pale green, with the string of pearls close to her white throat and nestling in her yellow hair—Lisa—

"I claim the privilege of an old friend." A musical voice spoke close to his ear as he leaned on the railing, and some one touched his arm.

It was Lisa. He knew it before he turned to see her in pale, shimmering green, with pearls at her throat and in the same fair hair. She smiled at him, too, in the old way, with little dimples about her mouth and her sensitive lips moving ever so slightly, though her face was in repose.

How pretty she was! Incomparably prettier than that other night and with a sweet, womanly dignity which puzzled him. What had come to her to so beautify beauty, to so intensify loveliness?

He forgot the years and deeds that lay between that faroff night and this, like leaves between the covers of a book, remembering only as it were the preface that once she had loved him, that he still loved her, the crown of any man's life.

"Lisa!" he cried, his face aglow, his hands extended. "Lisa!"

"Dreaming!" she laughed. Then the little hand pulled at his sleeve as the other reached toward two men in the shadows. One of them was strong and fine and one was young and handsome. "I want you, Seth," she said, "to know my son and my husband."

Not Entirely Undisputed.

The case before the court was one involving the ownership of a tract of land, and the attorney for one of the parties to the suit was cross examining a witness. "Now, Mr. Grimshaw," he said, "the property on which you live was originally a part of the twenty acres in dispute, was it not?"

"Yes, sir."

"And your title is based on the original title to that land, I presume?"

"Yes, sir."

"How long have you resided there?"

"Over twenty-one years."

"Have you had—now, mark me—have you had twenty-one years' undisputed possession of that property?"

The witness hesitated a moment.

"Remember, Mr. Grimshaw," said the lawyer, raising his voice, "that you are under oath. Have you had twenty-one years' undisputed possession of that property?"

"It has been disputed once, and only once," answered the witness. "I found a nest of bumblebees in my back yard one day last summer."

In the general laugh that followed this answer the lawyer subsided.—Youth's Companion.

Freaks of Figures.

Some person of a mathematical turn of mind has discovered that the multiplication of 987654321 (which, you will observe, are simply the figures 1 to 9, inclusive, reversed) by 45 gives 44,444,444,445. Reversing the order of the digits and multiplying 123456789 by 45 we get a result equally curious—viz, 5,555,555,505. If we take 123456789 as the multiplicand and, interchanging the figures in 45 so as to make them read 54, use the last number as a multiplier the result will be 6,666,666,606. Returning to the multiplicand 987654321 and taking 54 as the multiplier again, the result will be 53,333,333,334, all threes except the first and last figures, which together read 54, the multiplier. Taking the same multiplicand and 27, the half of 54, as the multiplier, the product is 26,666,666,667, all 6's except the first and last figures, which together read 27, the multiplier. Now interchanging the order of the figures 27 and using 72 instead as a multiplier and 987654321 as the multiplicand we get as a product 71,111,111,112, all ones except the first and last figures, which together read 72, the multiplier.

NOISY WEDDINGS.

Boisterous Prelude to Marriages In Old Rothenburg.

They love music in Rothenburg, and it is an incident of most functions, public and private. In front of the rathhaus, when wedding formalities are going on inside, hired musicians loudly drum and trumpet, whereat the people come running from all directions, for a wedding is not carried on with the quietness which would please the shy and retiring. Marriage is a sacrament neither lightly nor secretly entered into.

On the night before the wedding it is considered de regueur to hurl old pots and pans against the house of the bride with boisterous good wishes, and without these delicate attentions a bride would really feel slighted. Her two best friends wait upon her during the din and give her a wreath and a veil and some verses composed in her honor, and that the verses are curiously like those offered to brides in the past, except for necessary change of name, is not at all a drawback. Weddings are usually on Tuesdays, and they take from 7 o'clock in the morning till 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon, including the time at the town hall. At the home there will likely be a play given in which are set forth the supposed foibles of the bride and groom, and some friend, masquerading as a gypsy, will come in and give whatever kind of prophecy best accords with his wits.—Robert Shackleton in Harper's Magazine.

MEXICANS' STAFF OF LIFE.

The Tortilla Is Their Bread—Frijoles Are Boiled Beans.

The tortilla is the ancient Indian bread of Mexico. Its only constituent is Indian corn (maize), which the women soak in limewater until the kernels are at the point of bursting, then wash thoroughly until it is free from lime, when they grind it by rubbing it on a large block of stone, especially cut for the purpose, with a smaller stone which they hold in their hands.

The operation looks very much like rubbing clothes on a washboard and is a laborious and tedious one. The lime renders the corn dough adhesive, like wheat flour dough, and it is easily patted between the hands into cakes the size and shape of an ordinary griddlecake and is baked upon a thin stone griddle. Though no salt or leaven is added, fresh tortillas are exceedingly palatable.

The one other food mainstay is frijoles—ordinary beans. They are boiled to a mush and with a liberal quantity of lard are warmed as required in a flat earthen dish that answers for a frying pan. The very poor people do not always have the luxury of frijoles and when they do have them cannot always afford the lard.

Odd Death Certificates.

Certificates of death are not documents where one usually seeks for humor, but there is frequently to be found in them much of the unconscious variety. Here, for instance, is how the cause of death is stated in the case of a laborer:

"Died from injuries received through a bull accidentally kneeling on his chest."

The consideration shown for the feelings of the bull is a fine touch and suggests grave questions on the moral responsibility of the lower animals.

Again, a man is stated to have "died from the effects of injuries received after being run over by a railway train in motion owing to a misunderstanding between deceased and an engine driver." This description of a rather ordinary railway casualty is excellent.—London Express.

Sensitive Tobacco Plants.

In Cuba the best tobacco comes from one strip of land only, the slopes of a certain river, and even there a north wind may ruin the crop. Tobacco is the most sensitive plant we know of. The smallest thing affects its flavor. Plant Virginia tobacco in Germany, and the result is a better tobacco, but it is German tobacco, not Virginian. In north Borneo they produce the most delicate and silky leaves that ever were seen, but the tobacco lacks character and taste. Send Havana seeds to the Philippines, and you merely produce a superior Manila.

Homemade Names.

"That little girl," remarked the druggist to the doctor, "was just in for 10 cents' worth of tincture of benzine. But I've had it before and gave her benzoin."

"That was easy," answered the doctor. "This morning on a diphtheria case the woman wanted to know if I administered antitoxin with an epidemic syringe."

Just the Opposite.

"When I first met you," cried the woman who had been married for her money, "you occupied a low, menial position, but now, thanks to me, your position"—

"Is a hymeneal one," her husband interrupted.

A Reflection.

"To my annoyance," she said, "I found he had a lock of my hair. How he got it I can't imagine."

The older girl smiled oddly.

"When you were out of the room, perhaps?" she hazarded.

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they did'nt get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine cases out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced. "Can the Force of Folly Farther Go ?"

ASKS MR. FLINT IN RIDICULE OF THE SEWERAGE SCHEME PROPOSED BY THE CITY COUNCIL.

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

My Dear Sir,—To cut fifteen feet, through rock, a miner, well digger or contractor must use the same implements and explosives, and I fail to see how a contractor can do the work more cheaply. As regards size of sewer pipe, the published notice of the Council says: "Those parcels of real property fronting said streets will be charged with and have assessed and levied against same as a frontage rate the cost of a nine-inch sewer, as ascertained by City Engineer." To a plain man, of ordinary intellect, the idea would, I think, be conveyed that a nine-inch sewer pipe was to be used, otherwise why was it referred to? However, the Engineer says a much larger pipe will be used, costing a proportionately greater sum.

A point I did not mention in my former letter is that the whole sewage will, according to the scheme, be emptied at foot of Water street or Coleman street. Consider all this mass of bacteria, polluting the waters of our harbor and floating down in currents on each side of our park. Could the Government Board of Health tolerate this? Balmy and sweet would be the odors which will greet the nostrils of the vast crowds which upon summer nights occupy the park, inhaling the invigorating breezes, full of horrible organisms, only too eager to prey upon humanity. To avoid this would require a steel pipe of great size carried out a long distance into the bay. Have any of your readers an idea of the immense cost of such a pipe? Take this $16,900 ditch to be excavated from the G.T.R. bridge to Coleman street. Walk down that street and you will agree with me that, taking out Mr. Carlaw's mill and the Bleecker property, the entire property on both sides of the street would not produce on a sale the cost of digging this ditch at the Engineer's figures. Walk from Commercial street at crest of the hill to Coleman street and the entire properties along that street would not produce the cost of the sewer, $10,000, or even $2,000, leaving out the two yards of Messrs. Holton and Allen.

"Can the force of folly farther go?"

I am, yours,
JOHN J. B. FLINT.

Bicycle Owner was Rudely Surprised;

A gentleman residing on Everett st. had occasion recently to use his bicycle and went into the barn to get the silent steed. His surprise may be imagined when he found that some miscreant had cut every spoke in one of the wheels and purloined the hub. If the guilty party is detected there will no doubt be a police court case.

Open Drains Smell Exceedingly Bad.

Some of the open drains in this city at present smell "enough to knock a man down," as a gentleman graphically puts it. He says he was going up a Belleville street last night and the stench from an open drain was awful. He does not see how some people, through whose property the drain runs, can stand it. A sewerage system which would eliminate open drains would be a blessing, many people think.

Daniel Ran Away

Daniel Sweeney, a lad about 10 years of age, appears to be incorrigible, and causes his parents no end of trouble. Last night, after being put to bed, he got up, partially dressed himself, and then slipped out of the house. His father saw him, but the boy was too fleet-footed and ran away staying out all night. This is by no means the first time that Daniel has done the same act. The police have been asked to find the boy and return him to his parents.

Little One Dead.

Echo Viola Simpson, year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpson, residing on the market square, died yesterday evening. The little one had been ill for a few days. The remains have been taken to Bannockburn for interment.

Paid the Cost.

Mrs. A. Gunyou, who pleaded guilty to keeping a disorderly house, and Mrs. Fred Renfrew, as an inmate, were a few days given a suspended sentence of one year in the Reformatory, and remanded back to jail until the costs, $10 in each case, were paid. The costs have been paid and the women were to-day liberated. They are, however, under bonds for their good behavior.

Belleville Cement Used in Montreal.

AND THE CITY PAID NEARLY DOUBLE WHAT THE CEMENT COMPANY SOLD IT FOR.

Montreal, Aug. 11.— More stories of middlemen's profits and rake-offs came to light to-day, when the Royal Commission continued their investigation into the methods practised by the roads department.

Mr. Rodolphe Brunet, of the Cie de Pavage Moderne, made the extraordinary statement that while doing a great business with the City of Montreal since 1906 he never kept any books of what he received or paid in connection with his business. The only thing he had to check the sums of money he had paid or received were his bank book and his memory.

Mr. Mastai Pagnuelo, a real estate and insurance agent, explained how he received $50 to be a "prete-nom" to Messrs. Brunet & Belanger, for whom he obtained a contract for the paving of streets.

Mr. Henry J. Robinson, agent for the Belleville Cement Company in Montreal, admitted that he sold to the Cie de Pavage Moderne at 21 cents per 100 pounds what was resold to the City of Montreal for 51 cents by Belanger & Brunet.

Mr. Frank Hartman, of the Hoffeler Company, told of having his tenders at $1.86 a yard rejected in favor of tenders at $2.22 per yard. Among other interesting things which were revealed at the inquiry was the fact that a tailor was put on as inspector of the work. It was also revealed that the work he passed as being satisfactory had to be repaired three times inside of a few months.

Toronto Men Paid $20,000 on Yachts

DUTY OF 25 PER CENT. CHARGED ON ALL FOREIGN BUILT BOATS.

Toronto, August 11.—The excitement among yachtsmen caused by the action of the customs authorities in imposing a 25 per cent. duty on all foreign built yachts, reached its height when about $20,000 was paid over to the customs authorities yesterday and to-day by three Toronto men, who own valuable yachts, recently bought in from New York or vicinity. The money is being paid under protest by these gentlemen, and an effort will be made to obtain refunds, if anything in the customs regulation will permit it.

The yachts in question are the three finest in Toronto waters, but the rates are on a second-hand basis as all were used for some time before being brought to Toronto.

Collector Bertram declined to say anything regarding the matter until a report on the matter had been submitted to the department at Ottawa. He declined to say what action would be taken regarding a number of smaller yachts, but it is understood these will receive immediate attention.

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1½ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

First Batch of Eastern Laborers Will Start Work on Monday Morning—Roblin's Estimate for Prairie Provinces Is 125,000,000 Bushels—Ten More Days Will See Danger All Past.

Toronto, Aug. 12.—About 4,000 men left yesterday for the west from St. John, N.B., with the first harvesters' excursion.

They are scheduled to arrive in Manitoba on Sunday and will be distributed through southern Manitoba, where harvesting is urgent, in time to go to work Monday morning next.

The first excursion from Ontario will leave Toronto a week from today, and others will follow a few days later.

The western grain fields are turning much faster than was expected, with the result that large and urgent demand for helpers is already uppermost. James Hartney, agent for the Manitoba Government in Toronto, is receiving letters daily setting forth the need of laborers. They seldom fail to mention that the crop of wheat is an excellent one and much better than the average.

The farmers of Manitoba will require about 13,000 men from the outside and Saskatchewan about 9,000, to be distributed as follows: G.T.P., 258; C.P.R.: Pleasant Hills Branch, 815; Moose Jaw to Outlook, 473; Yorkton to Shebo, 320; Main Line, 2,082; Arcola Line, 1,610; Wolseley, Reston, 238; Soo Line, 1,986; C.N.R. Regina to Warman and Goose Lake District, 1,160; Main Line, 341; Brandon to Regina, 100.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba estimates that the wheat crop of the three northwestern provinces will aggregate 125,000,000 bushels, barring accidents.

A grain dealer's correspondent wired from Deloraine yesterday as follows:—

"Wheat in Souris, Napinka and Deloraine districts better than an average year, crops even, good stand and fair length of straw, heads are little short but unusually well filled. Ten days more without frost will see whole crop safely made. Oats better than for some years. Harvest begun."

Drought May Hurt Tomatoes.

Grimsby, Aug. 12.—Tomato men are becoming alarmed over the continued dry spell that is resulting in the vegetable being touched with the rot that is ever prevalent under such weather conditions as the past few weeks. There has been no rain of any account in the Central Niagara district for over three weeks and all varieties of vegetation is suffering. On the sandy land along the lake this is not quite so noticeable.

Will Begin at Once.

Port Arthur, Aug. 12.—W. L. Brown, president of the American Shipbuilding Co., will be here about August 20 to make arrangements to commence work on the new million dollar industry without delay.

Took Paris Green.

Wiarton, Aug. 12.—In a fit of melancholia, Wm. Labas, who carries on a bakery business, took a dose of paris green.

A Mystery of the Sea.

Simonstown, Cape Colony, Aug. 12.—The British cruiser Fortex returned here yesterday after an unsuccessful search for the steamer Waratah, during which a distance of 1,320 miles was covered. The Waratah, a British steamer, has been missing since July 26, when she sailed from Port Natal. She had on board 93 passengers and a crew of 207 men. A majority of the passengers were colonials and the others Englishmen returning home from Sydney and Port Natal.

Posse Pursuing Murder Suspect.

Rochester, N.Y., Aug. 12.—Since just before noon yesterday, county, town and city officials, with many farmers and farm laborers, some of whom were armed with shot guns, have been searching the marshes that extend from near Holy Sepulchre cemetery west along the shore of Lake Ontario to a number of ponds, for a man who, it is thought, may be the murderer of Anna Schumaker, the 17-year-old girl who was assaulted and killed at the cemetery last Saturday afternoon.

JUMPED FROM FERRY.

Unknown Woman Commits Suicide at Windsor.

Windsor, Aug. 12.—In full view of a hundred passengers on the ferry boat Excelsior, an unknown woman committed suicide at noon yesterday by throwing herself from the upper deck into the river.

The tragedy occurred as the boat neared the Canadian side, and in a place where the current runs very swiftly. Several women who saw the act became hysterical.

The boat was quickly brought to a stop and life preservers gotten ready but the body never reappeared. All that remained on the surface where the woman sat, a pocketbook containing some money was found.

Charles McKay, a Toronto traveler, says the unknown made no attempt to grasp a chair thrown to her, and that she sank almost immediately.

I.O.O.F. Affairs.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—At the first general business meeting of the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F. yesterday reports were presented by the grand officers. Grand Master McBride reported a total membership of 40,437, being a net increase to June 30, 1909, of 1,255. The secretary of the relief association reported that the revenue for the year was $363,824, and the expenditure $246,480. The disbursements or mortuary account were $191,854. The amount transferred to the surplus fund was $124,000. The net assets of the order now stand at $724,102.

The Rebekkahs Assembly, I.O.O.F., yesterday morning installed new officers as follows:

President, Miss Anna Bacon of Blenheim, Ont.; vice-president, Miss Ruby Brady, Ottawa; secretary, Mrs. M. A. Pearce, Toronto; treasurer, Mrs. N. Dodson, Chatham; warden, Mrs. C. Edwards, Bracebridge.

Dickie Family Celebrates.

Galt, Aug. 12.—Victoria Park yesterday was the scene of a big re-union in celebration of the 70th anniversary of the settlement in this county of the well-known Dickie family, the founder of which, William Dickie, came here from Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1839. The old homestead in Puslinch township is still intact and souvenir pictures of it were distributed among the guests who numbered over 300, all being direct descendants of the Scottish pioneer.

Rev. John Richmond, of Detroit, was chairman. Among the speakers were Mayor Patterson, Rev. Robert Dickie, Montreal; Prof. Samuel Dickie, noted prohibitionist lecturer of Tennessee; John Dickenson, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Thompson, Ayr; Inspector Knowles, Hespeler; Rev. Dr. Dickson, Rev. E. E. Knowles, C. Cummings, and others.

Asks For Five Billions.

Spokane, Washington, Aug. 12.—Delegates to the National Irrigation Congress set about to relieve the arid land situation yesterday when resolutions beginning with a call for "ample funds" and ending with a request for a fund of $5,000,000,000, were introduced.

The resolution asking for a national three per cent. bond issue of $5,000,000,000, was introduced by the secretary of the board of control, Arthur Hecter, of Spokane.

It is proposed to use this fund in five portions as follows: One billion for drainage; one billion for irrigation; one billion for deep water ways; one billion for good roads, and one billion for forest preservation.

Smuggling.

A telegram from Ottawa, sent out no doubt at the instance of the Customs Department, boasts that during the past year there have been less seizures for smuggling than formerly. The Departmental reports do not contain reference to these matters and the officials are not disposed to go into details, though it is admitted that the falling off is very considerable.

The reason for this falling off of seizures is not, we venture to say, the result of the desire to smuggle being any less, but through a lack of effort on the part of Customs officials to discover infractions of the Customs laws, owing to the abolition over a year ago of the system whereby Customs officers used to share in the proceeds of seizures. Articles that were seized and sold helped to enrich the officers, as formerly one-quarter of proceeds incidental to the seizure went to the officer who made it. This has all been done away with, hence the seizures, the official figures show, have declined very much, while the headquarters officials, who have become cognizant of the situation, are speculating as to causes.

It requires no amount of speculation to ascertain the cause of the falling off of seizures. Men, who will faithfully do their duty when cases of smuggling come under their eye, are not likely to lay awake at night in visiting the frontier looking for smugglers, when they know they are to receive no reward for their extra services in protecting, not only the revenue, but the honest trader who does no smuggling, but pays full duty, and enters the market in competition with the smuggler who pays no duty.

This abolition of the rewarding of officials who make seizures is a yielding to the clamor of those who have been caught smuggling, or who have been suspected and put to a little inconvenience. It is in the interests of the honest importer that smuggling should be stamped out, while it is in the interests of the man or woman of an easy smuggling conscience that no reward should be given to those who detect them.

Let the Laurier Government continue their present policy in this regard and there will be more smuggling and less seizures.

ATHLETICS.

Italian Runner is Classy.

New York, Aug. 12.—Emilie Lunghi, the great Italian runner, has joined the Irish-American A. C., and is training every afternoon at Celtic Park. Trainer Robertson when he saw Lunghi's method of working immediately changed the whole thing and started the Italian sprinting. Lunghi, who, by the way, is working to fit himself for the half mile, has been running long distances. The first day he trained at Celtic Park Lunghi ran two miles under 9 minutes and 30 seconds.

Coach Robertson immediately cut the young Italian's work to a quarter mile. The first night's effort showed 53 1-5 seconds. The next afternoon Lunghi was sent over a furlong, and came home on the bit in 23 seconds. A few days later Robertson sent him out with the sprinters, and Lunghi astounded the trainer by stepping 100 yards in 10 3-5 seconds.

Now Robertson declares that Lunghi is the greatest sprinter in the world. "I don't except Sheppard or anyone else," says the erstwhile amateur sprinter. "Lunghi has the finest action I ever saw, and the performances he has done speak for themselves. In Italy he did 800 metres in 1.52 and 6.60 yards in 1.20. We have timed here 100 yards in 10 3-5 seconds; 220 in 23 seconds. He has run two miles under 9.30, and has beaten Dorando Pietri in a ten-mile race. Just wait until this fellow gets going, and you will see that what I say is true."

BASEBALL.

City Firemen Received a Scorching.

(Contributed.)

The City Firemen received somewhat of a scorching last evening on New Diamond Park, when they went down to defeat before Coleman's Flats by a score of 8-0. Pat Delaney was on the firing line for the Flats, and when he let himself out the ball looked like a pill coming over; he held the game in his palm all the way. He was well supported and the Flats batted like fiends, gathering some 15 safeties off Connell, who was pitching like Jeff Pfeffer until the support behind him became so poor he went up in the air, and then the Flats put the game on ice.

James Gillick, first basemen of the Firemen, was in the game all the time. Time and again he brought the spectators to their feet as he pulled hot liners out of the turf and again speared fast ones with the bare hand. He showed rare judgment in every play, and it is hinted that Joe Kelley, of the Torontos, gave Jim a few pointers by wire to-day regarding his team. Jack Cummins and Bert Campbell captured many hard flies after running almost to the lumber yards. The Firemen were aided materially by the presence on the team of J. Briggs George, official umpire in these parts. Catching in the first innings John scarcely resembled Kling, of the Chicago Cubs, and Manager Gillick moved him to second base after the initial period. On second he showed himself worthy of a place in Eastern League company, and outbursts of applause greeted his sensational work.

It is to be hoped the Flats and City team will come together at an early date. Following are players and positions. Ed. F. Hubbard was official scorer:

City Firemen—Connell p, Canning c, Gillick 1b, George 2b, Britton s.s., Clement 3b, Cummins c.f., O'Hara l.f., Campbell r.f.

SPORTING NOTES

The Harriers meet Mr. Wilkes tonight to arrange for the big field day in Trenton.

Mr. Charles Wilmot, of Avondale, will take his horses to the Cobourg Horse Show.

Tecumsehs now look to be the best bet for the N. L. U. championship.

Torontos are the biggest money makers so far in the N. L. U. this season.

Chicago Cubs are at last within striking distance of the Pirates in the National league.

Cornwall players threaten to "get to" Shaun O'Reilly, when Shamrocks play at the Factory Town Saturday. It was O'Reilly who broke John White's nose when the Cornwall Colts played at Montreal.

That American league fight has developed into a hummer. Boston Red Sox are coming up at a great rate.

"Iron Man" McGinnity's Newark nine is making it interesting for the leaders in the Eastern league race.

What's the matter with the Toronto ball team? "Loss of their batting eyes" answers Manager Joe Kelly.

Dick Rudolph, the Toronto pitcher, will be tried out by Brooklyn at the close of the present Eastern league season.

A. E. Furness, speed boat builder, in conversation said that he would be able to make a boat next year that would run 35 miles an hour.

Jeffries now says Berger had no right to act for him in making the match with Johnson. Is the big fellow trying to sidestep, or is he looking for more advertising?

Johnson was arrested in Chicago for exceeding the speed limit.

It must have been pie for the New York Nationals yesterday, when, at Chicago, they beat the Cubs two games.

Wellington defeated Bloomfield in the Prince Edward League by 11 to 7 in the deciding game for the Currie Cup. Umpire Ross of Picton gave perfect satisfaction. Attendance 700. Batteries—Wellington, Johnson and Wilder; Bloomfield, Stewart and Hamilton.

The Toronto Eastern Leaguers will finish the season at their old grounds, Diamond Park.

Beer a Necessity Workingmen Say.

"BLIND TIGERS" CLOSED, THEY LEAVE GARRY.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Workmen at the Garry, Ind., steel plant declare that beer is a necessity and that unless they be allowed to purchase what they need in Garry, they will go where the beverage may be had.

Since the closing of "blind tigers," which were running in defiance of the law, which provides that there shall be no saloons until next spring, there has been much dissatisfaction among the workmen.

Scores of the men have left town and gone to work in South Chicago, Indianapolis and other cities in the Calumet steel belt, where the liquid is yet to be had.

Be Careful.

People cannot be too careful of fire this hot, dry weather. Last night some parties built a bonfire not far from Front street, the sparks from which flew up and settled on the roofs of dwellings. It looked dangerous.

SWIMMING AND DROWNING.

The epidemics of deaths by drowning that has prevailed during the whole summer, and which recent fatalities have brought home to us, emphasizes the importance of learning the life-saving art of swimming, says the Peterboro Examiner. It goes without saying that everybody who goes upon the water — in steamer, skiff, canoe, launch, or otherwise, or in the water, for bathing should know how to swim, an art as easily learned by an adult as walking is by an infant. It is thought by many that a knowledge of swimming is instinctive in land animals, such as horses, dogs, cats, etc., but it is probably not a natural gift. An animal, say a kitten, thrown into the water, instinctively employs the motions of walking, and, lo, it is swimming without knowing it, of course, rapidly gaining skill with practice. A human being with his or her superior intelligence can certainly do what a dumb animal does without special instruction. Swimming prudently pursued is a wholesome, as it is a delightful exercise, and is well worth while aside from its being an important factor in life saving. In case of accident in the water, the capsizing of a canoe or other craft, the ability to take a few swimming strokes to reach a support, may make all the difference between life and death. A few days ago a gasoline launch took fire at Brockville. Fortunately all the occupants, men, women and children, could swim and swam ashore. Otherwise they would all have been roasted alive. In stating that no one who cannot swim, should go upon the water, especially in a canoe, is not to discourage a pleasant form of pastime. Learn to swim and then, in case of accident, one may save his own life without imperilling the lives of others.

NOTES FROM BRADSTREETS.

(Bradstreets.)

By October next it is expected work will have been completed on a stretch of the new Grand Trunk Pacific line, a hundred miles east from Prince Rupert. Owing to the difficult nature of the country, this hundred mile stretch of road will cost about eight million dollars. Contracts for the completion of another stretch extending a hundred and thirty miles east from this will be let immediately and work will be rushed with all possible speed.

No better barometer of Canadian business conditions exists than that furnished by the annual C.P.R. report. That the country is enjoying a period of very real trade revival is clearly demonstrated by the year's report which the company has just issued. Total net earnings amounted to $25,262,061. The net revenue available for dividends was $14,955,028, and after all regular dividends had been paid there remained a surplus off $3,847,161.

Process of manufacture an interesting feature of Canadian National Exhibition.

The process of manufacture department is always one of the most interesting features of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, and this year it promises to be far more extensive than ever before. In all there will be about forty industries at work showing just how shoes, silk, cotton goods, prints, and many other of the articles you use every day are made. It is impossible here to name more than a few of the exhibitors, but here are some well worth looking up.

The United Shoe Manufacturing Co., Montreal, manufacturing ladies' and gents' boots and shoes, showing the different stages from the cutting out of the leather to the finished shoe.

Merchants Rubber Co., of Berlin, demonstrating the manufacture of rubber shoes, showing every process from the crude rubber to the finished boot.

Davis & Henderson, manufacturing and printing envelopes.

The Canadian Silk Co. weaving silk and badges with photos on them.

Gundy, Clapperton, cutting glass, showing the process in which the fine quality of cut glass is produced.

Shredded Wheat, showing process in which their products are prepared and made portable and palatable.

Told to Earn His Own Salary.

Commodore Vanderbilt discovered in James H. Rutter, then in the employ of the Erie railroad, a man be believed the freight department of the Central needed, says the Baltimore News. It is related that some time after he took charge of the Central's traffic office Rutter called on the commodore to submit a plan for improvement. When he had stated the case the president looked at him sharply and asked:

"Rutter, what does the New York Central pay you $15,000 a year for?"

The reply was, "For managing the freight traffic department."

And then the commodore said, "Well, you don't expect me to earn your salary for you, do you?"

Rutter went out and carried through his plan on his own judgment. The result was highly satisfactory. Rutter became president of the Central.

Too Big a Price.

Does the pursuit of wealth cut the American man of business off from the old fashioned relish of books and society? In other words, is he paying too big or disproportionate a price in time and strength for wealth and commercial prominence? My answer would be "Yes" beyond question.—A. Barton Hepburn in Century.

Easy Job.

THE GIRL WHO DARED

A Wild Ride and What Happened to the Culprit.

By AMELIE DELANCEY.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

For six months the Widow Penrose had been planning an addition to her country residence, but absence and a rush of orders had prevented her nephew, Gordon Gordon, from running down and taking the work in hand.

Finally he appeared in his auto, driven by himself, and the machine was left at the gate. It had rested there less than half an hour when along came three young ladies with fish poles on their shoulders and one poor little fish to show that they had not visited the lake in vain that forenoon.

The sight of an auto was more familiar to them than that of a carriage. They were residents of the city and friends at home and were summering at good Aunt Mary's boarding house, a quarter of a mile away.

"An auto!" they cried in chorus as they came to a halt.

"And the owner is in the house!"

"And we can take a ride without his knowing it!"

"Yes, but none of us can run it."

"Girls," said Miss Dorothy Flint, with whom this story has mostly to do, "I have ridden in autos so many times that I believe I could run one. Yes, I know I could. It's just like steering a boat after you get started. I believe you turn the crank in front first. That ignites the spark or something. Then, after you get in, you pull this lever back, and away she goes. I think the auto belongs to a doctor. Doctors are always good hearted men, and I'm sure this one won't begrudge us a little spin. Get in."

But the command was in vain. They hadn't confidence in her experience and skill as a chauffeur. If she could run an auto, why not drive the machine to the lake and back? She hesitated and was jeered at. She made as if to turn away and was "dared."

Perhaps Miss Dorothy's grandfather was one of those who fell at Lexington or lay wounded on the field of Bunker Hill. At any rate, the "dare" had hardly been dared when she was at the crank, and as soon as the whizzing noise came to prove that the dead machine had come to life she climbed in and gave it a start.

She went off with a whew and had not covered a hundred feet when she wished she had not gone at all. But it was too late. There were a dozen "Oh, mys!" behind her, and she forgot everything but holding the wheel with a grip of death.

If she had ever heard that an auto could be stopped she forgot it now. It was a hard, wide road, and she was out of sight in three minutes.

The other two girls stood there with mouths and eyes wide open and feeling helpless even to scream out when a young man came down from the house, raised his hat, looked around and inquired somewhat anxiously:

"Have you seen a stray auto round here?"

"It's run away," answered one after a moment.

"With a g-gurl," added the other as the tears came to her eyes.

"What! Do you mean that some girl is driving my auto up or down the highway without my permission?"

"Y-yes!"

"And who is she, may I inquire?"

"A Miss Flint."

"Well, Miss Flint has nerve. Is she used to driving autos?"

"We—we guess so, but she seemed scared when she started off. Won't you run after her, sir? You see, we dared her to."

"And she wouldn't take a dare? Well, there's a $4,000 auto gone to wreck and a girl lying somewhere beside the road with a broken neck. Run after her! Why, she may be fifteen miles away by this time! How could she be so foolish!"

"But if she is d-dead, sir, some one must bring home her—her mangled remains!" said one of the girls as both broke down and wept.

"Well, I believe there's a saddle horse in the stable, and I'll set out in pursuit. Young ladies, let this be a solemn warning to you—very solemn."

He was a young man of two or three and twenty and did not look a bit like a doctor. Besides, he was not a stranger to the house from which he had emerged. He tried to look very dignified and serious as he uttered his warning, but it was a failure. Any young man of that age would have made a failure of it.

Even though the girls were tearful and anxious as they walked along home they agreed titteringly that he didn't look a bit solemn.

He brought out the horse as soon as possible and galloped away, but at the lake the highway forked. There were three diverging roads, and he must and did take his chance of hitting the right one. He had galloped down the left hand one for three miles before a farmer replied to his hail:

"No; haven't seen no gal scootin' by here in an auto at fifty miles an hour. If I had I should have flung a rock after her. Beats all how different the gals of this age are from those of forty years ago. Why, when my wife was a gal"—

But the pursuer waited to hear no more. He returned to the lake and, finding the right hand road a little better than the middle one, took it and galloped ahead. When he had gone a distance of two miles he drew rein to speak to a farmer's wife weeding a flower bed in the front yard.

"A gal and an auto, eh?" she queried. "No; I don't think I've seen 'em. Might have seen 'em, but if so it has slipped my mind. What was the color of the gal's hair?"

"But you have either seen them or not!" exclaimed the young man petulantly.

"That's so—that's so. Waal, I guess they took the other road. That is, they did if they didn't take to the fields. Think it's goin' to rain this week?"

By the time young Gordon had returned to the lake his horse was in a lather, and he decided to go back to his aunt's in the hope that the auto might also have returned. His hope was vain. The horse was leg weary, and the rider entered the house and called up a farmer on the middle road four miles away.

"A gal and an auto?" repeated the man at the other end of the line. "You bet your boots I've seen 'em! Went by here three hours ago like a whirlwind. Struck one of my hogs lyin' in the road and knocked him a hundred feet. Whew, but that old machine was glidin' some!"

"And the girl herself—did she seem frightened?"

"Scared most to death, I guess. Her eyes seemed to be hangin' out, and maybe she was prayin'. She was holdin' the machine in the middle of the road, however. If she lives to get to the Red bridge she'll be stopped there by the constable. He's stationed there to look for speeders."

The girl who "dared" lived to reach the bridge. It was an act of Providence. From the moment the auto got its speed, which was thirty miles an hour, she was dumb, frozen and helpless to do anything but hold the wheel.

She saw nothing but the white road ahead of her. She passed vehicles and overhauled others, but she was scarcely conscious of it. As she approached the bridge the strain was too much, and her fingers unclutched from the wheel, and the auto dashed its way through the roadside fence and came to a standstill in a field. Then Miss Flint fainted away.

When she came to her senses the constable was sprinkling water in her face and saying:

"Come, now, none of your tricks with me. You are just playing possum because I have caught you. It's a case for Squire Johnson, and I shouldn't wonder if you got jail for it."

"What—what are you going to do?" asked the girl as she staggered to her feet.

"Put you in the village lockup and notify the squire, of course. Take my arm and come along. The machine is pretty well busted, and we can't use it. Wonder it didn't blow up and send you sky high. Were you eloping or something of that kind?"

"I—I was just taking a ride," was the humble answer.

"Just making the dirt fly thirty feet high and scaring folks and horses half to death. Well, the squire will be tickled to see you. He's been aching for the last week to get hold of a speeder and give him a good dose of county jail. How dare you take the chances—how dare you!"

"Would you take a dare from two girls?" asked the prisoner as she released her arm and faced him.

"No-o-o, I guess not."

"Well, I wouldn't, and so there! If they want to send me to jail let 'em do it!"

She was taken to the office of the village justice of the peace and arraigned. On the way there the constable's heart melted. He saw that she had had a bad scare, and he liked her defiant spirit. Therefore, while he had to make complaint against her, he did not put the speed at thirty miles an hour. To this he added the statement that if the auto hadn't struck a stone in the road it would not have struck the fence.

Then he turned and winked at the wondering, shivering girl to put heart in her.

It may have been one of his honor's soft days. He delivered a lecture on the rise and fall of the Roman empire or some other equally interesting subject and concluded by suspending sentence. Then the constable invited the ex-prisoner home with him to dinner and set about arranging to send her back to her friends.

Evening had come, and she was about ready to start when Gordon came galloping up. When he had introduced himself as the owner of the smashed auto he asked grimly:

"And who is to pay the $500 damages? And who is to pay for my trouble? Why, if the justice had known all the circumstances he'd have sent you to jail for a year!"

"But the other girls dared me to do it!" protested the culprit, with trembling lip.

"Say, young man," said the constable as he drew Gordon aside, "you just get even by daring the gal to marry you. She ain't the kind that takes a dare. See? You can drive her back in the buggy, and you just keep daring her all the way. Lord, but I wish I was in your shoes!"

It was a fine moonlight ride. It was not too fast. The situation was a little strained at first, but after awhile the farmers heard laughter as the buggy passed.

Perhaps there was one dare, perhaps a dozen. The society paper which announced the engagement a few months later didn't specify. Society papers don't always go into minute particulars.

Her Preference.

"I—aw—want to give you—aw—a little pwesent on youah birthday, doncher know," said young DeSappe. "Would you—aw—pwefer something—aw— sensible?"

"Oh, my, no!" answered Miss Dimpleton. "I prefer presents that are characteristic of the people who give them to me."—Chicago News.

THE GARDEN OF ARMIDA.

Gela told me that since his university days he had been cherishing a plan for a work which he believed to be of value to modern science. It was so long before he could begin. He was not young when he came into the title and estates, and his diplomatic duties held him so much beyond the time he had originally set for their completion. You probably know of the family complications that kept him in the service Dear, I do not wish to distress you; I know a man of genius is not to be fettered like common mortals, and Eugene has been of inestimable value to his uncle, but of late it has seemed impossible for him to concentrate his mind upon his work. There are revisions to be made, new material to be added, and—I hate to tell you this, but it will serve to show you that it is not merely an old woman's fussiness which is actuating me—a not inconsiderable part will have to be quite rewritten, since some manuscript entrusted to Eugene was lost, and the printers, already at work upon the first volume, have been brought to a standstill. Mind, my dear, that I do not say that this loss has not been fully compensated by the great value of Eugene's assistance in other ways.' I know every word of that letter by heart," said Rhoda.

"That is bad news, indeed!"

"Is it not? And there is more. She speaks delicately, oh, very delicately, and with such kindness, but still she speaks of his dissipation; not in any tone of blame, but as merely deploring the effect on his health, and I can see that she does not like Franz, good boy as he is, to be too much with him. Oh, what shall I do?"

"Would it make any difference, do you think, if you went on to Vienna at once?"

Rhoda flushed painfully in the darkness. "I do not think Eugene wants me—just yet," she said.

"What did he write, dear?"

"The first part of his letter was written in one of his savage moods; he was evidently in bitter anger with the whole Weldenord family. Then there was more, added later, in which he spoke of some—experiences which he had passed through in the company of some Hungarian officers, and said I must not mind if he sowed a few more wild oats in the Indian summer of his bachelorhood. He was apparently in great spirits. That also was left unfinished; according to the dates at the head of the letter and on the envelope, I think he must have kept it by him for a day or two. It was concluded abruptly at last, but there was a postscript, a long one, a bitter comment on the dullness of life, which ended by bidding me not be surprised if I never heard from him again, not because he had any intention of deserting me in particular, but the whole wretched scheme of existence in general."

Mrs. Winter gave a quick exclamation of alarm.

"You need not be frightened," said Rhoda. "I used to be. In New York I have walked the floor many a night in an agony of terror after receiving one of Eugene's notes. But I have ceased to fear that an immediate catastrophe will follow ony one of them. It is only the general tenor that keeps me in a perpetual state of misery and apprehension. And I can do nothing!"

She threw herself back on the pillows and turned her face to the wall.

"My dear, you do not know how much you are doing for him all the time."

"I do not indeed."

Mrs. Winter was alarmed by this second note of bitterness. She desired with all her heart that her wayward nephew should marry this sweet woman, for her occasional misgivings mingled but seldom with her general sense of approval. She was well aware that to find a suitable wife for Merriam was a task of uncommon difficulty, since he would be bored by a stupid woman, revolted by an ugly one, and incapable of supporting one who was poor. The least worldly and most thoroughly disinterested of women in her own affairs, she had that perfectly sober and necessary wisdom in arranging for others, which is so valuable a quality in one who is called upon to assist in the ordering of young lives. Such advantages of character, person, and fortune as Rhoda combined were not likely to be soon encountered again, and Mrs. Winter had the old-fashioned belief in marriage as a saving ordinance. She certainly felt it to be such for Merriam, and she trembled lest he be jeopardizing his happiness and future prosperity. Added to this, she believed him to be thoroughly in love with Rhoda, for Merriam was one of those fortunate men who manage by the manifestation of little feeling and an abstinence from the ordinary signs of affection to secure a reputation for untold and probably inexpressible depths of emotion.

"Dear little girl," she said, leaning tenderly over the prostrate figure, "I think you do not understand man's nature very well."

"I ought to. I've been married once. And it is a liberal education to be engaged to Eugene."

"Do you love Eugene?"

"Yes, I love him."

"Then I can understand your wretchedness in reading my sister's letter. We can only be so hurt by those that are most dear to us. 'To be wroth with we love doth work like madness in the brain," you know. I am sorry, sorry sorry, for what you tell me, for you, for Elizabeth and poor Gela, sorriest of all for Eugene. But don't think it so hopeless, Rhoda. As for the dissipation, remember that my sister has been blessed with a family of really abnormally good boys."

"Yes, but she has lived in Vienna nearly all her life, where the standard in such matters is not too exalted."

"Nevertheless, she judges Eugene by her own children and not by a standard, Austrian, American, or any-

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

LADIES' COMBINATION UNDERGARMENT.

Paris Pattern No. 2948

All Seams Allowed.

Consisting of a circular corset cover and short petticoat this pretty undergarment will be found extremely useful. Bands of wide beading, trimmed on either side with narrow lace edging, form the armholes, similar edging trimming the top of the square neck, which has the fullness regulated by narrow ribbon-run beading, which also hides the joining of the waist and skirt portion. The wide flounce is of the material, prettily hand-embroidered and finished with an edging of fine lace matching that used on the neck. The pattern is in 7 sizes—32 to 44 inches bust measure. For 36 bust the garment requires 2½ yards of material 36 inches wide or 2⅝ yards 42 inches wide, ¾ yard of wide beading, 2½ yards of narrow beading, ⅝ yard of wide ribbon, 3⅜ yards of narrow ribbon and 7¼ yards of edging; width of lower edge of ruffle 4½ yards.

Price of Pattern, 10 Cents.

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver.

METAL MONEY.

The Greeks Started Coining Long Before the Christian Era.

The invention of coinage is due to the Greeks, most probably to the bankers of Halicarnassos and adjacent Asia Minor Greek colonies, who toward the end of the eighth century B. C. began stamping the small gold and electron ingots which passed through their hands as currency with a mark of some sort intended to guarantee the weight and purity of the metal. Such ingots very soon assumed a round and more regular shape, which we find already in the older silver coins from Aegina, nearly contemporary with the Asia Minor "beans."

Curious to say, none of the surrounding peoples with whom the Asiatic and European Greeks were in constant communication, political or commercial, took up the wonderful invention which at present seems to us of such obvious necessity that we scarcely realize how the civilized world of old can ever have got on without it. As a matter of fact, however, neither the Phoenicians, with their practical commercial sense, nor the Lydians nor the Persians, who claimed the supremacy over the very cities where the new currency was initiated, nor, of course, the Egyptians, ever had coinage till the conquests of Alexander disseminated the Greek civilization all through the eastern world.

The Romans came to know of it through the Greek cities in Sicily and Magna Graecia and began striking silver coins toward the beginning of the third century B. C. In the meantime with the Greeks die sinking, like everything else, had fallen within the domain of art, and their coins, above all those struck during the fifth and fourth centuries B. C. by the Dorians of Sicily at Syracuse and Agrigentum, have never been equaled and remain forever a standard of beauty for the artist and a model of perfection for the die sinker.—London Saturday Review.

A FAMOUS BANKNOTE.

The One That Cruikshank Drew and the Crowds It Drew.

One day about the year 1818 George Cruikshank was passing Newgate on his way to the exchange when, seeing a crowd collected, he went forward to learn what was the matter and saw that it was the execution of several men and women. He was horrified at the spectacle and on inquiring learned that the woman was being hanged for passing counterfeit one pound notes. He learned also that this punishment was quite a common thing, even though the poor wretches often sinned in ignorance, being the dupes of men who sent them to buy some trifles and return the change to them. Wrung with pity and with shame, Cruikshank went home and immediately, under the inspiration of his feeling, sketched a grotesque caricature of a banknote He called it a bank restriction note—not to be imitated. He represented on it a place of execution, with spaces about filled in with halters and manacles, a figure of Britannia devouring her children and transport ships bearing the lucky or unlucky ones who had escaped death to Van Dieman's Land, or Australia, while in place of the well known signature of Abraham Newland was that of "J. Ketch."

He had just finished this when his publisher, Hone, entered and, seeing it, begged to have it for publication. So Cruikshank etched it and gave it to Hone, who exhibited it for sale in his window with startling effect. Crowds quickly began to gather and purchased so eagerly that the issue was soon exhausted.

Cruikshank was kept hard at work making more etchings. The crowds grew so great that the street was blocked, and the mayor had to send soldiers to clear it. Hone realized over £700 in a few days.—London Standard.

Pronunciation.

Dr. Johnson would not have consented to pronounce "wind" differently in prose and in verse. He insisted upon making the "i" long always. The story goes that, in order to crush somebody who preferred the short "i" in ordinary conversation, Johnson, rhyming all three words with "tinned," remarked, "I cannot find it in my mind to call it wind, but"—rhyming all three words with "blind"—"I can find it in my mind to call it wind." But his adversary got the better of him. Johnson himself always pronounced "gold" as "goold." "If I may be so boold," said the other, "I should like to be toold why you call it goold."

A Caustic Critic.

The Paris critic Martin once only had taken his chocolate in a place other than the Cafe Foy, and he then found it not good. This happened at the Regence, and the young woman at the desk, to whom he expressed his displeasure, said: "You are the only one to complain. All of the gentlemen of the court who come here find it good."

"They also say, perhaps, that you are pretty," he replied slowly.

Defenseless Man.

A woman writer in one of the magazines says women are sacrificed by thousands in the name of marriage. Yes, but what about the defenseless men who are each year torn from their comfortable homes and dragged to the altar?—Columbia (S. C.) State.

Optimism.

"Some fish ate the bait right off my hook," she said.

"Cheer up. He'll be all the bigger when you do catch him," he responded encouragingly.—Buffalo Express.

COPYRIGHT BY E. BLAKE WILLSDEN FEB. 1909

If you join our Travel Club, you have the opportunity to study and become better acquainted with the historical spots of the globe. Our Travel Club offer is one that should not be overlooked by the children attending school. Prominent school teachers and principals say that the educational features of the post cards we offer are unparalleled and every boy and girl attending school should be in possession of a set of these views.

How To Become A Member

Your parents must be regular readers of The Intelligencer. You must clip three Travel Club coupons like the one which appears in this advertisement. If you are a resident of Belleville and an Intelligencer subscriber, bring the coupons and fifteen cents to this office and you will be presented with fifty highly colored views of the historical spots of the globe, post card size. These views have been reproduced from actual photographs taken by Charles Warren Stoddard, the celebrated poet and traveler, and have been colored by a new water-coloring process, giving them a beautiful hand-colored effect and making every one of them a gem of art.

Among these views you will find a view of the Parliament building, London; Mt. Vernon, the home of Washington; Stratford-on-Avon, England; St. Peter's, Rome, Italy; a bird's eye view of Venice; Scott's monument, Edinburgh, Scotland; Jung Frau, the Swiss Alps; Lake Como, Italy; the Lakes of Killarney, Ireland; the great Nile bridge, Egypt; King's House, home of the governor, Kingston, Jamaica; and many others equally interesting and instructive.

If you are not a regular reader of The Intelligencer, it is necessary that you become a subscriber and agree to continue your subscription for a period of eight weeks. Fill out the new subscriber blank and bring it and fifteen cents to the office.

Parliament To Meet On November 4th.

AN AMENDMENT TO THE BANK ACT WILL FIGURE ON THE SESSIONAL PROGRAM.

Ottawa, Aug. 12, — If the present expectation of the Government be realized, Parliament will be called to meet on Thursday, November 4. It is possible that unforeseen contingencies may delay the opening until a week, or even two weeks, later, but the event is bound to occur by November 18. Estimates are being prepared by the departments so they may be ready for November 4. The Insurance bill is ready to be put before Parliament again. It has been considered for several sessions, and last year was advanced through the Commons, but did not reach the Senate in time to become law. It will be put through this year. An amendment to the bank act will probably figure on the sessional programme. The speech from the throne will contain an announcement regarding Canada's share in naval defence. The precise terms of the announcement will not be determined until the Government is able to consider the report which Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. Mr. Brodeur make of the work of the Imperial Defence Conference, which is now being held in London. The new Franco-Canadian treaty will form an item in the speech from the throne, and the bill ratifying it is likely to be put through before the Christmas holidays are reached.

Only the Best Sugar Makes The Best Preserves

Does all sugar look alike to you? It isn't, you may be sure. One sugar differs from another sugar in sweetness.

Sugar is sugar, but it is not sugar when it is something else. And, alas, for the weakness of money-making mortals, it is sometimes something else.

One sugar differs from another in what it is made of. One sugar made from sugar-cane differs from another made from sugar-beets.

One sugar differs from another in purity and wholesomeness. Sugar can be made clean like any other food product. And, as it is almost the COMMONEST thing we eat, sugar ought to be about the CLEANEST thing we eat.

And your preserves, which you want to be the very best, require the best of sugar.

St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar meets the exacting requirements of the best preserves.

Dr. Milton L. Hersey, the Government Analyst, in a recent careful and impartial analysis, reports St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar to be 99 and 99-100 to 100 per cent. PURE CANE SUGAR, WITH NO IMPURITIES WHATEVER.

This season promises to be a good one for berries and other fruits—just the season to get them of good quality and cheap to preserve.

Your home-made preserves are by far the best, and you know all about their real goodness, if you select the fruit and the sugar with equal care.

The best fruit and St. Lawrence Granulated Sugar, with your skill in preserving, will stock you finely for the coming winter.

And don't simply order "some sugar" from the grocer, letting him send you some nameless, ordinary sugar.

Get sugar with a NAME. GET ST. LAWRENCE GRANULATED SUGAR, in 20 lb. cotton bags, with the name on it, to guarantee the brand, the full weight, and the cleanliness of the sugar itself.

When you buy it in bulk, scooped out of a barrel, you can't be sure of all these important points in your sugar.

You save money by this and get better, cleaner sugar. Try it and see! Then you'll be sweet enough to thank us fo telling you all about this matter.

If your grocer cannot supply you with these 20-lb. bags, send his name and address to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co. Ltd., Montreal, and they will tell you where it can be obtained.

At The Picnic.

(The Khan.)

She was the prettiest girl in the whole shooting-match, but she certainly looked bizarre at the picnic. She wore a white dress, and she had "done it up" herself. You could spot her in a minute, and the girls that had had their dresses properly laundered had a sweet revenge. But they hadn't her eyes on her, tinted hair that glorified the shabby hat. She had certainly made a mess of the skirt, and the shirt-waist showed that she was only a greenhorn at the laundry business. Poor little thing! And she had worked till long into the night pressing and ironing and shooting out that awful outfit. She knew it was skewgee, and she tried her best to get it plumb, so to speak. She didn't have to sprinkle water on the goods—her tears did the business, for she had shed plenty of them, big, wet tears, tears as big as caramels, tears of vexation and despair.

For she wanted to look nice. And she couldn't afford to have her dress laundered. She lived with her granny, and although granny said that the dress was just splendid, she knew better. The more she pulled and hauled at that skirt the worse it got. After the first two hours' manipulation it looked as if she had slept in it for a week. She cried a little while, and then took another crack at it, and when she put it on it was as stiff as a slab of steel roofing material, and she made as much noise as a jag of lumber coming down a rocky sideline when she moved. After another weep she succeeded in starching the front and back securely together so that she couldn't get a table knife into it, let alone herself. It took her and her granny, a la tug-of-war, to pull it apart, but she went at it again brave as a lion, and succeeded in making it look as if she had had it on when she fell out of a canoe.

But nobody at the picnic took notice of these things but the women; and who cares for the women? She had more young fellows round her than all the rest of the bunch put together. She rode home under the waning moon in a rubber-tired buggy and the girls in the laundered dresses came home in the big democrat and had their nice skirts hopelessly ruined.

I know of no more splendid spectacle of heroism, devotion and endurance than an inexperienced miss doing up her white skirt for to-morrow's picnic. Venturing on a home-made aeroplane is nothing to it. You only run the risk of breaking your leg or your neck, but the girl runs the risk of breaking her heart.

TRAVEL CLUB POSTCARDS.

Among the cards we offer will be the following scenes: Scott's Monument, Edinburgh, Scotland; the Great Cathedral, Milan; Windsor Castle, England; Church of the Madeline, Paris; Panorama of Venice; the Great Jungfrau, Switzerland; Pyramids of Egypt; Loch Katrine; Stratford on Avon; Lakes of Killarney; together with all the wonderful spots of the world. In fact, a complete series of the great and historical spots of the world, with full descriptions of each place accompanying the cards. SEVENTH LINE SIDNEY.

Mr. Wm. Taugher is improving in health.

Gordon Hamlin, who has been very ill is improving.

Mrs. S. A. Chapman, was visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Gordanier, in Belleville on Saturday last.

Corn has tasselled and ears are forming.

A very rough hill is situated in the central part of this line.

FULLER.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Goen entertained about twenty of their friends one day this week.

A couple of our young men are talking of going West in the near future. We wish them bon voyage.

Mrs. M. J. Fuller has returned to her home here after spending a few weeks with friends in Canifton and Belleville.

A large number from here attended the lawn social at West Huntingdon on Thursday evening. All report an excellent time.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Brough spent one day last week with friends at Anson.

The Mathematical Problem.

Little Marion was busy at her "home work." After a great many perplexed frowns and much nibbling at her pencil she looked up and said:

"The only answer I can get to this example is 'five and three-fourths horses.' Do you s'pose that is right, mamma?"

"Well, I don't know," answered her mother cautiously. "It sounds rather queer."

A long pause; then the small arithmetician's face lit up with a smile.

"Oh, I know," she cried; "I'll reduce the three-fourths horses to colts!"

Missed the Name.

Guest of the Doctor's (late home from the theater)—Hurry up, old chap, and let me in. Absentminded Doctor (who has forgotten all about his visitor)—Who are you? Guest—Mr. Trane. Doctor—Missed a train, have you? Well, catch the next.—London Fun.

Well Enough.

"Didn't I tell you to let well enough alone?" said the doctor to the convalescent who had disobeyed and was suffering a relapse.

"Yes, doctor," whined the patient, "but I wasn't well enough."

Passionate Fondness.

"Do you think that most people nowadays worship money?"

"No; I won't go as far as that," answered the home grown philosopher, "but I will say that the love of money is seldom platonic."

GEORGE HANGS A PICTURE.

But He Couldn't Do It Without His Wife's Able Assistance.

"George, I wish you would hang that rose picture tonight."

"All right, my dear, I'll do it now. Get me the stepladder."

"I should think you might get the stepladder yourself."

"Where is it?"

"Where it is always kept. On the top of the cellar stairs."

"That's where it is supposed to be. Where is it now?"

"It is either there or up in the back room, or—let me see—I loaned it to Mrs. Johnson yesterday. No, she brought it back, and I left it on the back porch. Oh, yes, I know where it is. You'll find it in the pantry off the kitchen."

After twenty minutes' search the ladder is discovered. George locates the spot for the picture and climbs up.

"Now hand me the picture, my dear."

"Yes, here it is."

"Where's the hammer?"

"I thought you had it."

"You thought I had it! You knew very well I didn't have it. Get it for me right away."

"Where's the nail?"

"Didn't you get a nail either?"

"No, I didn't get a nail either. I supposed if you wanted me to hang a picture you'd have the tools ready. Where's the picture cord?"

"Well, for heaven's sake! Why didn't you look to see if there was picture cord on it before you went up there to hang it?"

"Get me the cord and don't stop to argue. I'm getting dizzy up here."

"Well, here's the cord. What else do you suppose you'll want?"

"Well, I don't want any more of your lip. I can hang this picture without that!"

Whereupon she left him to get along as best he could. "Just like a man," she remarked as the hammer fell to the floor.

"Just like a woman," he muttered as he descended. "Just like a woman. They've got nothing to do and all the time in the world to do it, and then, by jingo, they leave it to a man!"

DID HIM A FAVOR.

His Apparently Innocent Request Cost the Bank Dearly.

A customer having a fairly good balance, never going below four figures, at a London bank hurried in one morning and asked to see the manager. The usual civilities were exchanged, and the caller explained that he was making a rather good investment and had promised to pay £1,000 the next day.

"Well," said the manager, "there's no difficulty about that." "Precisely," was the rejoinder, "but will you do me a small favor?" "What is it?" queried the manager. "I want my friend to see that my paying him £1,000 will not exhaust my resources. Will you, therefore, oblige me by instructing all the pay clerks (and they were numerous) to cash my check when it is presented without referring to the ledger to see how my account stands? It will make a good impression on my man, and it cannot do you any harm, as you know what my balance is." (It was a little over £1,000.)

"Certainly, if you particularly wish it," replied the unsuspecting manager, for his customer's name had been long on the books, and there had never been any trouble with him.

When the check was presented the next day at a particular desk the clerk, without going through the formality of referring to the customer's account, pleasantly inquired, "How will you take it?" and handed over the amount without ado.

The same little ceremony was gone through at four other pay desks, each clerk, acting upon instructions, cashing Mr. —'s check for £1,000, making £5,000 in all, or nearly £4,000 in excess of the wily customer's balance.

And, of course, when Mr. — received a polite note requesting him to call at the bank he was not to be found.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Fashion Garrick Killed.

Women of England in the eighteenth century wore large hats. Samuel Rogers once traveled to Ranelagh in the same coach with a woman who was compelled to sit on a stool on the floor of the coach on account of the inconvenient height of her headdress. Hannah More, who was all for simplicity in costume, writes in her diary that she has seen women wearing on their heads "an acre and a half of shrubbery, besides slopes, grass plats, tulip beds, clumps of peonies, kitchen gardens and greenhouses." The credit of killing this fashion is given to Garrick. He appeared one night on the stage with a mass of vegetables on his head and a carrot suspended from each side, to the shame and confusion of many fair members of his audience."

Dr. Johnson's Resolutions.

Dr. Johnson compiled this list of good resolutions on his fifty-first birthday in 1760: "Resolved, Deo juvante, to combat notions of obligations; to apply to study; to reclaim imaginations; to consult the resolves on Tetty's coffin; to rise early; to study religion; to go to church; to drink less strong liquors; to keep a journal; to oppose laziness by doing what is to be done tomorrow; rise as early as I can; send for books of history of war; put books in order; scheme of life."

The Proper Way.

"I would like to ask," said a lady visiting America for the first time, "when you call here do you turn down the end of your visiting card or not?"

"No," said a man; "you bite it in the middle."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Salvation Army Officers Married Here Last Evening.

"HALLELUJAH WEDDING" AT S. A. BARRACKS WAS UNIQUE AND PRETTY EVENT — LARGE CONGREGATION PRESENT.

At the Salvation Army barracks, last evening, a "Hallelujah wedding" took place before an audience which completely filled that auditorium. The contracting parties were two officers of the Army, namely, Ensign Weir, of Halifax, N. S., and Capt. Carrie Stimers, of this city.

Capt. Adset, of Toronto, acted as best man, and Lieut. Faynhearst, of Toronto, was bridesmaid.

Col. Gaskin, of Toronto, who is Field Secretary of the Army for the Dominion, performed the ceremony.

The parties were all attired in their Army uniforms, the bride and bridesmaid being adorned with large white sashes worn across the shoulder and tied with white ribbon. The bridesmaid also carried a handsome bouquet of flowers.

Previous to the ceremony a brief service was held, consisting of prayer, singing of hymns and an exhortation by Col. Gaskin.

The appearance of the bridal party upon the platform was the signal for a salutation from the Army band and comrades.

Whilst the nuptial knot was being tied the Army flag was suspended over the couple.

At the conclusion of the ceremony hearty congratulations were showered upon the happy couple by the members of the local corps, whilst the band discoursed a suitable selection.

Short addresses of an eulogistic nature in reference to Mr. and Mrs. Weir were given by several members of the Army.

After the service at the barracks the officers and others repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, on Henry street, where a daintily served wedding repast was partaken of.

Ensign Weir and his wife left at midnight for a trip to New York state before returning to Halifax, where their duties call them for the present.

The young couple have for some time been engaged in Army work,

Went Astray.

A couple of ladies, members of one of the urban Women's Institutes, in Prince Edward County, who were delegated to attend a convention at Belleville, recently learned by a disappointing experience that all telegraph poles don't lead to the city of Belleville, says the Picton Times. When they started out in the morning to drive to the city a good friend advised them to go to a certain crossroad and then to follow the telegraph line. They did, but they arrived in Picton miles and miles astray. They were in time for dinner and after getting fresh directions continued their journey.

Hunks Go Home.

A large number of Hungarians who have been for some time employed at the Cement Works, left to-day for their native country. A few others left for Uncle Sam's domains.

Police Notes

The police last evening were kept busy gathering in drunks, no less than four being placed behind the bars.

Mr. A. Lazier left his bike outside of a business place, and during his absence some party, who was drunk, fell over it. The wheel was badly damaged. The matter was reported to the police and a man named Angel, who did the acrobatic act, was arrested.

Hurt in Runaway.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Scott, of Milford, Prince Edward County, their son, Rev. A. K. Scott, of Flat Rock, Mich., his wife and two sisters had a very narrow escape on Sunday evening. These six were driving home to Milford after Rev. A. K. Scott had preached in the Baptist church here, when just as they were coming down the hill near the mill at Milford the side-strap on the harness broke allowing the shafts to fly up. The horse swerved sharply and began to run, throwing the six people out in a heap on the road. Mrs. W. B. Scott had her shoulder dislocated while her daughter-in-law broke her collar bone and received a slight concussion of the brain. The others got off with some bad bruises. Both ladies are now improving as fast as could be expected.

BIRTH.

ANDERSON — At Belleville, on Wednesday, Aug. 11th, to Mr. and Mrs. J. Lyle Anderson, a daughter.

A man is known by the company he keeps away from.

Belleville Man Gave Indian Grog.

John Hennessy, an "Indian," was in trouble, says the Kingston Whig, in its police court report. Inspector Wright was on hand, ready to prosecute, but Hennessy put in a plea of "guilty," and thus shortened the proceedings. "Yes, I had a few drinks," was the way Hennessy explained the case before the Magistrate, and he was put in the box to tell where he got the liquor.

"Where did you get the liquor?" asked the court.

"I met a fellow down the street on Monday," said Hennessy. "I asked him to get me a bottle and he said that he would."

"Who was the man?" asked the magistrate.

"I don't know. He came from Belleville."

"How do you know that?"

"Because he told me so."

"What did the man look like?"

"He appeared to be an English fellow."

This closed the cross-examination, and the magistrate said that he would impose a fine of $20 and costs.

"The next time try and find out where you get your liquor," were the magistrate's closing remarks.

Spent Millions For One Spree.

New York, Aug. 11.—A despatch to the World from Colorado Springs says:

Robert Womack, who discovered gold at Cripple Creek, died of paralysis here yesterday after a lingering illness. In his last years Womack was dependent on a sister who keeps a boarding house here.

This is the end of a man who in one sense paid $280,000,000 for one spree.

That stupendous sum has been taken in gold from the land on Cripple Creek, where Bob Womack first found the yellow metal.

"Bumping the Bumps"

A lady of this city expresses entire approval of The Intelligencer's note calling attention to the bad state of the roadway on the lower bridge, and tells us this true story: A lady from Chicago, who had been visiting in this city, was driving across the bridge on Thursday afternoon, on her way to the boat, going home, and a suitcase, which was in the back seat of the hack, was jolted out of the vehicle. The owners did not miss it 'till she reached the boat, and her vexation may be imagined. Some fast search work was done, when it was found that the suitcase had been picked up by a resident of Octavia St., and turned over to the police. They delivered it to the rightful owner, and all ended happily. The moral of this story is not hard to find. The authorities should do something to that bridge.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1¼ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

Harry K. Thaw Loses Latest Fight For Liberty.

Justice Mills Says That Murderer of Stanford White Has Same Delusions Now That He Had When Crime Was Committed — Will Be Given the Liberty He Had In the First Days at Matteawan Asylum.

White Plains, N.Y., Aug. 13.—The State of New York won a complete victory over Harry K. Thaw when Justice Isaac N. Mills decided that the slayer of Stanford White is still insane, and sent him back to the criminal insane asylum at Matteawan.

Not one of the many contentions made by Thaw during the three weeks of his recent hearing was sustained, but Justice Mills practically orders that Thaw at Matteawan be restored to the privileges he enjoyed during the first three months of his stay there, and that his mother be allowed all possible privileges when she calls to see him.

Thaw received the news with slight display of emotion, apparently expecting an adverse decision. A copy of the courts' decision was handed to him. He read it without comment until he came to the following sentence: "If those beliefs constituted delusions in his mind when he committed the homicide, they are the same now."

"That's not so," he said, and marked the lines with his pencil.

Thaw was smoking a pipe and as he read he puffed faster and faster until the air about him was a cloud of smoke.

Justice Mills draws the following conclusion: The insanity with which Thaw was afflicted at the time he committed the homicide was of the kind known as chronic delusive insanity, or paranoia.

In killing White, the justice holds that Thaw believed "he was acting as the agent of Providence and performing a praiseworthy act, and, like that of David in slaying Goliath, or St. George in killing the dragon."

"Upon my own personal observation of the conduct of Thaw, his actions and speech in the court-room, both on and off the witness stand, I have been impressed that he is now of unsound mind," says Justice Mills. "He was exceedingly nervous and very frequently interrupted his counsel with suggestion."

Not the least significant sentence in Justice Mills' decision in the opinion of lawyers, is one which declares that Thaw's delusions had become fixed and established prior to the time of his marriage. "It is pointed out that this sentence may, if desired, provide grounds for proceedings by Mrs. Evelyn Thaw for the annulment of her marriage."

The Constable's Revenge.

Woodstock, Aug. 13.—G. Whittaker of Owen Sound, formerly of Woodstock, was brought to this city under arrest yesterday, charged with writing a menacing letter.

Whittaker wrote to Constable Fred Hill accusing him of having overcollected from Whittaker on a judgment, and threatening prosecution. Hill thereupon went to Owen Sound and arrested the man on a charge of sending him a threatening letter.

The magistrate found him guilty and he had to pay costs of the court, $26.

Gov. Hughes Breaks Record.

Banff, Alta., Aug. 13.—Governor Hughes of New York yesterday morning ascended the famous Sulphur Mountain, accompanied by a guide. The time for the ascent was one hour and fifty minutes to the summit, a height of 4,000 feet. No stops were made on the trip and the time has never been equalled before by any Alpine climber who has visited Banff.

Governor Hughes left for the east yesterday and will pass through Winnipeg on Saturday.

Centenarian Wears Wedding Gown.

Montreal, Aug. 13—Mme. P. Giroux, of the Home for Incurables at Notre Dame de Grace, yesterday celebrated the hundredth anniversary of her birth. She is the doyenne of the old scholars of the Point-aux-Tremble Convent, which she left about ninety-one years ago. Yesterday morning she donned, to celebrate the day, the robe of spotless white which she wore on her wedding day, and which she has preserved for seventy-five years.

Los Angeles, Calif, Aug. 13.—Prof. H. L. Twining, head of the Department of Physics and Electrical Engineering in Los Angeles Polytechnic High School, began aerial experiments yesterday with an "Ornithopter," a flying machine with 27 foot wings, designed to operate like those of an eagle.

An 11-Day Journey.

Petawawa Military Camp, Aug. 13.—After an eleven-day journey across country from St. Catharines, a detachment of four officers of the Gig Infantry arrived in camp yesterday morning.

Eggs—Weak; receipts, 14,182. State, Pennsylvania and nearby selected white, hennery, fancy, 30c to 33c; western, extra, first, 23½c to 25c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs Heavy and Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—London cables for cattle are firm at 13c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Aug. 12.—The railways reported 95 carloads of live stock for Wednesday and Thursday at the City Market, consisting of 1496 cattle, 1404 hogs, 1428 sheep and lambs, with 218 calves.

Exporters.

George Rowntree bought about 6 car loads of exporters at $6.25 to $6.35 per cwt.

Butchers.

As usual George Rowntree was the heaviest buyer of butchers' cattle, having bought all told, butchers' and exporters, 430 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Co., butchers, $4.20 to $5.60; cows, from $1.50 to $4.75 per cwt.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby bought about 175 stockers and feeders, at the same quotations as he gave last week, as follows: Best steers, 850 to 950 lbs. each, at $3.60 to $3.90; best steers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.50; common stockers, $2.25 to $2.60 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

The market for milkers and springers, remains about steady. Prices ranged from $30 to $60 each, but only a very few extra quality cows brought the latter price. The general run of prices was from $35 to $50 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices ranged from $3 to $6.25, with a few new milk fed calves at $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

The run of lambs during the week was light, owing to low prices a week ago, and farmers not having time to deliver them at country stations, being busy with the harvest. Lambs were quoted to-day at $5.90 to $6.75 per cwt., and selected lots were bought by butchers at $7 to $7.50. But the latter prices are no criterion for drovers to go by in buying for next week's market, as should there be heavy deliveries prices will go back to where they were before. Citizens will understand why they have to pay more for their chops when they see their butcher had to pay choice prices for choice quality lambs. Export ewes, $3.50 to $3.75; rams, $2 to $2.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts during the week have been light. Mr. Harris reported prices unchanged at $7.90 for hogs, fed and watered at the market, and $7.65, f.o.b., cars. H. P. Kennedy reports his prices as unchanged at $7.85, fed and watered, and $7.60, f.o.b., cars, country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Aug. 12.—Cattle—slow and steady; prime steers, $6.80 to $7.

Veals—Receipts, 100 head; active and 25c higher, $6 to $9.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 2300 head; active; heavy, steady to 5c lower; light, unchanged; heavy and mixed, $8.25 to $8.30; roughs, $7 to $7.25; stags, $6 to $6.50.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 1600 head; active and unchanged.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Beeves—Receipts 1022. No trading; feeling steady.

Calves—Receipts, 1088. Feeling steady; Veals, $6.50 to $9.25. No grassers or buttermilks.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 7649. Sheep, $3.50 to $5; culls, $2 to $2.75; lambs, $6.50 to $8.62½; one car at $8.87½; culls, $4.50 to $5.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 829. Market lower. State and Pennsylvania hogs are quoted at $8.25 to $8.35 per cwt.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500; market strong to 10c higher; steers, $5.60 to $7.85; cows, $3.50 to $5.25; heifers, $3.50 to $6; bulls, $3 to $4.85; calves, $3 to $8; stockers and feeders, $3.75 to $5.15.

Hogs—Receipts, 14,000; market, 10c to 15c higher; choice, heavy, $7.80 to $7.90; butchers', $7.85 to $7.95; light mixed, $7.45 to $7.75; choice light, $7.80 to $8; packing, $7 to $7.40; pigs, $5.50 to $7.75; bulk of sales, $7.40 to $7.85.

Looted a House.

St. Catharines, Aug. 13.—Henry Moore, better known as "Puddley," was convicted yesterday afternoon of burglarizing the home of Wm. Durham, removing the furniture and contents to his own home. He pleaded not guilty, claiming he bought the goods from a stranger. The judge, however, sentenced him to six months.

Alleged Murderer Caught.

Woodstock, N.B., Aug. 13.—Sandy McAlli, the alleged murderer of Nicholas Laguy, was captured late Wednesday night at Brown Siding, near Bath, N.B., where he had hidden, in an Italian camp. His pursuers lay in wait and about 11.30 o'clock caught him as he entered a car used for a living place by the Italians.

Prof. Bernhardt Killed.

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 13.—Prof Wilhelm Bernhardt of Washington, D.C., a well-known educator and author, was struck and killed by a train yesterday. He was spending the summer here.

BADDECK AGAIN TRIED

Aeroplane at Petawawa Is Still Going Cautiously.

Aviator McCurdy Keeps to Running Along the Ground With Only a Single Flight Into the Air and an Immediate Return to Earth—Canada Should Not Purchase Yet, Says Col. Fiset.

Petawawa Camp, Aug. 13.—"Baddeck No. 1," the new Canadian aerodrome, at 5.30 last night for the first time left the ground, making a short "hop" of about seventy feet in length and rising 9 or 10 feet from the surface. Only one test was made.

The aerodrome went along the roadway for nearly half a mile at a rate of at least thirty miles to the hour. When J. A. D. McCurdy, the aviator, turned the controller upwards, the drome gracefully shot into the air, but he at once turned the controller down again and the drome took the ground easily. Then the aerodrome, keeping to the roadway, ran back towards the shed and was shoved in there.

McCurdy does not consider this as an ascent; "simply a little hop," said he. "We will have another trial tomorrow and I may say that for three or four days we have got to make little hops like that to get acquainted with the ground."

Col. Fiset, Deputy Minister of Militia, said: "The aerodrome makes great time and looks good. It is wonderful, wonderful. McCurdy is a plucky chap. They are wise not to attempt too much at first. I believe the Wrights in Washington kept the public waiting eight days before they made their ascent."

Gen. Otter was an interested spectator, but did not care to express an opinion.

Col. Rutherford was pleased with the test, but he looked on it only as a preliminary one, and expected much more ambitious ventures before long. Gen. Macdonald and Major Maunsell spoke much in the same strain. As soon as the drome reached the shed, Col. Fiset, Gen. Otter and others shook hands with Messrs. McCurdy and Baldwin (who was in the aerodrome when she came back to the shed) and congratulated them.

It is understood that the aviators will make short "hops" for the next day or two and probably begin longer ascents about Tuesday or Wednesday.

While it is too early for anything definite yet, the machine seems to be well put together and it is fully expected it will be a success.

Over two hundred, including automobile parties from Pembroke and elsewhere, witnessed the flight. The Militia Department officials here will return to the capital on Saturday.

"We do not consider to-nights effort a flight," said Wm. Macdonald of the Baddeck. "It was quite successful, but was a hop, not a flight."

Before the flight the big field was cleared of all spectators.

Yesterday morning Col. Fiset said: "I do not think Canada should or can afford to purchase an aerodrome of the present experimental stage. There is not enough known about them yet to warrant the Government buying them."

Six Hundred Houses Swept Away.

Monterey, Mex., Aug. 13.—The Santa Catarina River, after a disastrous overflow, returned to its banks yesterday leaving a scene of desolation and destruction in the southern part of Monterey. At least 14 persons were drowned. At San Lusito, a suburb, more than 600 houses were swept away.

In Monterey the damage was great. The bath house was flooded, and one man lost his life in the swimming pool.

Canadian Canal Traffic.

Ottawa, Aug. 13.—The traffic through the Canadian canals shows a decrease to the end of June. The falling off on the Soo Canal, compared with the previous year, was 1,182,102 tons; Welland decreased 63,953, and St. Lawrence 77,869. On the Rideau there was an increase of 7,500 tons, and the Trent Canal traffic increased by 10,500 tons.

Two Dreadnoughts for Chili.

Valparaiso, Aug. 13.—The naval council has recommended to the Government the construction of two battleships of the Dreadnought type.

THE CAPITOL STATUE

Heroic Figure That Surmounts the Dome In Washington.

THE MODEL WAS CHANGED.

Jefferson Davis Objected to the Original as Designed by Crawford, and It Was Altered to Symbolize "Armed Liberty," as It Now Stands.

"Armed Liberty," the splendid statue that crowns the dome of the capitol, is by far the most symbolic of all the statues in Washington. Beautiful and reposeful, yet with an air of vigilance, it is perhaps the least appreciated of the city's statues, possibly because of its being placed at such an altitude that it cannot easily be studied. The original plans of the capitol called for a statue to surmount the dome, but no title was then given it, and comparatively few people know the real name of the statue.

Seeking this information, a Post reporter interrogated a number of persons whose daily occupations keep them almost constantly beneath the shadow of the great statue. To the question "What is the name of the statue above the dome of this building?" came these widely different opinions:

"The name of that statue? Why, it's the Goddess of Freedom."

"Yes; I can tell you the name. It is the Goddess of Liberty."

Several declared it to be the statue of Independence. Others said, "It is an Indian woman."

"It is the God of Justice and Freedom," declared a portly man in a tone that defied questioning.

"It represents an American woman, but I am not sure of her name."

"Well, now, I never inquired what lady that statue commemorates," remarked a politician from a not very distant state, "but it is a fine work of art."

"It is a statue of the god of war, Mars."

"Can you tell me something about that statue above the dome?" was asked a man whose knowledge is well known.

"Why, certainly. It is a woman of colonial days. Can't you see the trimming around the mantle and the curls about the face? And the features are delicately molded. You see, I have studied the model at the museum. It surely is a woman. I think you can safely say it is an American woman."

One who always tries his best to help others said: "Now, all statues, as you know, bear the names of the people they represent, and if you will just step over to the library of congress I think you can easily find some book on statues that will tell you all you want to know. It is a woman, I am sure, so look for the female statues."

A younger member of the house replied to the question about the statue most suavely and confidingly, "It is the god of progress; you know his name." Several of the colored men in the various parts of the building were nearly all quite sure it was the Goddess of Freedom. One of them knew the year, 1863, when it was placed above the dome, and he affirmed, "It is the Goddess of American Liberty Before the War."

"You want to know the name of that statue? Well, just wait a minute, and I will get it for you first hand." And a most accommodating guide passed into the senate chamber. Directly he returned.

"That is a statue of Pocahontas." Every one had a different name for the statue, not one giving the real name, "Armed Liberty."

The statue was modeled by Thomas Crawford, father of the novelist, the late F. Marion Crawford. It was cast at a Maryland foundry. Jefferson Davis was secretary of war when the model was first presented in the war department. The statue then wore a liberty cap and carried a bundle of rods. Davis objected to the liberty cap as being emblematic of the emancipated slaves, while Americans were freeborn. He also thought the bundle of rods, suggesting the functions of the Roman lictor, had lost its symbolic character. Because of these criticisms of Secretary Davis the model was changed, and "Armed Liberty" was evolved.

The statue is nine feet six inches tall and weighs 14,985 pounds. It was put in place on Dec. 2, 1863. The head is thrown back and adorned with eagle's beak and plumes. The right hand rests on a sword, and the left holds an olive branch and a shield. The mantle is gracefully draped and is held by a brooch bearing "U. S." on its face. The helmet is encircled with stars. The supporting globe bears the legend "E Pluribus Unum."

The Emu's Kick.

An emu can kick as hard as any donkey. The bird stands on one leg and with the other delivers at will a quick and generally very accurate blow. "I never would have believed that a bird had such power," says a recent Australian traveler, "had I not had ocular evidence of it during our trip. After two or three of our men suffered from the terrible kicks of these birds we did not venture near them, but, after running our horses until we got close enough, would bring them down with our rifles. We killed them for their feathers and also hunted for their eggs, but we took good care not to go within kicking distance."

In his better moments stormy Carlyle used to say, "Kindness is the sum of life, the charm to captivate and the sword with which to conquer."

HE ENJOYS HIS MEALS NOW

For He Keeps a "Little Digester" Handy

Mr. Glassco, of Toronto, wrote us on May 13th last:

THE COLEMAN MEDICINE CO.,
509 Church St., Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—

I wish you would send me another box of your "Little Digesters". All the members of my family have been using them and have obtained the most satisfactory results.

I congratulate you on your success in putting up a tablet for the cure of Indigestion. I suffered for years and tried everything that was recommended to me. Nothing gave me relief, until I was persuaded to try "Little Digesters". Now I never suffer from Indigestion. I enjoy my meals and am not afraid to eat, because I know a "Little Digester" after each meal will digest my food.

I recommend them to all my friends who suffer from Indigestion and would further say that you may publish the above if you wish. I know there are thousands of people suffering from Indigestion who will be glad to know there is a safe and sure cure for them.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) E. S. GLASSCO.

TO BE IMPERIAL ARMY

Defence Conference Would Unite the Colonial Forces.

Decision Reached by Delegates In England Is That the Troops of the Colonies Should Have Training Uniform With Those of Old Country—To Exchange Officers Among Corps.

London, Aug. 14.—One great homogeneous Imperial British army, uniformly trained and equipped, is to be the outcome of the Imperial conference on the naval and military defences of the Empire held at the Foreign Office the latter part of July.

In general terms, the plan provides that all troops of self-governing colonies shall undergo precisely the same training as the home regulars in order to be ready to take their places beside the latter whenever and wherever necessity may arise.

Military training colleges along the lines of the staff college at Camberly are to be established in the oversea dominions, and there is to be a continuous interchange of officers from all parts of the Empire so as to insure absolute uniformity of organization and training.

In a recent speech outlining the probable strength of this army of the Empire, War Secretary Haldane estimated that the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa could furnish a total of six divisions. This is equivalent to twenty-three army corps, which is the strength of the German army.

The Canadian Associated Press understands that the results of the military defence discussions of the Imperial Defence Conference are regarded with the highest satisfaction by the Imperial Government, and the Army Council there are certain the question of detail, which it is expedient to withhold from the general knowledge, but the main result of the military side of the conference is a complete acquiescence by the oversea delegates in the Government's proposals, the plans of which provide for the complete interchangeability of forces.

HON. R. B. HALDANE,
Who Is Leading the Imperial Defence Scheme.

Bradford, Eng., Aug. 14.—In a speech here last night Secretary for War Haldane expressed the greatest satisfaction that the Imperial Conference on the naval and military defences of the Empire had arrived at an agreement.

A sweet little Sunday School girl, when asked if she knew anything about the Epistles, said they were the wives of the Apostles.

He announced that while Lord Kitchener, the newly-appointed inspector-general of the Mediterranean forces, is in Australia, Lieut.-Gen. Sir John French, commander of the First Army Corps, is going to Canada to work out the details of the plan there.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir John Denton French was one of the few brilliant commanders in the South African war, and his name, through his exploits in that campaign, is well known to Canadians. He will not be 57 years of age until Sept. 28 next, but his distinctions are many—K.C.M.G., created 1902; K.C.B., created 1900; G.C.U.O., created 1905; D.C.L., Hon. Oxon.; LL.D., Cambridge; general officer, commander-in-chief of the first class; lieutenant-colonel 19th Hussars since 1902; commanding the First Army Corps since 1901.

Beresford Not Conclusive.

London, Aug. 14.—The Imperial Defence Committee's sub-committee which was appointed to investigate the recent criticisms made by Admiral Lord Charles Beresford of the state of the navy, has issued its report, which is signed by Premier Asquith, the Earl of Crewe, the Secretary of the Colonies; Viscount Morley, Secretary for India; Sir Edward Grey, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Richard Burdon Haldane, Secretary for War.

The report partially exonerates the Admiralty of Admiral Beresford's charges of having endangered the country by the unwise organization and distribution of the fleet, and having too few cruisers and small craft and inefficient war plans, but it finds that both the Admiralty and Admiral Beresford are blameable for inharmonious co-operation.

Record Aeroplane Flight.

Mineola, L.I., Aug. 14.—What is said to be a record cross-country distance flight for an aeroplane in this country was made by C. Foster Willard in the Golden Flyer yesterday, when he covered 12 miles in 19 1-2 minutes.

A Long Hoof Back Home

Kingston, Aug. 14.—John Wech, aged 60, walked from Toronto and was arrested for being drunk and disorderly on the street. He said he would hoof it back to Toronto, and was allowed to go.

Slept on Brink of Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 14.—As he lay asleep on the river bank Thursday night, a movement of two inches would have hurled Patrick Whitney to a horrible death over the precipice. He was prevented from making this move by Constable F. Bell who dragged him back from his perilous situation and locked him up. Whitney came here to spend the day and feeling tired sought rest on the river bank. During his sleep he rolled near the edge and was just about to roll over the precipice when Bell rescued him.

A note inside a straw hat found at Inspiration Point yesterday morning indicates that another man has committed suicide.

"I am tired of life. (signed) C.H.K." the note read.

G.T.R. to Enter Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 14.—Sir Chas. Rivers-Wilson of London, president of the Grand Trunk Railway System, and C. M. Hays of Montreal, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific, have arrived in Seattle.

"It is our intention to have terminals to be used only jointly with the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific in Vancouver," said President Hays, "as well as terminal facilities in Vancouver, and besides operating a fleet of ships in the oriental trade we are going to have a terminal in Seattle."

The Grand Trunk officials will be met at Vancouver by President Howard Eliot of the Northern Pacific and L. C. Gilman, assistant to Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern.

Panic-Stricken, Jumps to Death.

New York, Aug. 14.—With her daughter Eva, four years old, in her arms, Mrs. Esther Schwormer jumped from the window of her apartment in Attorney street yesterday, and both were killed. Mrs. Schwormer was panic-stricken by a small fire on the third floor.

Killed by Bull.

Wellsville, N.Y., Aug. 14.—The body of Leslie Cald, 55 years old, a bachelor farmer, living alone near here, was found by neighbors at his barn. He had been mutilated beyond recognition by a bull. Cald has been missing for 48 hours.

Express Trains Are Ditched.

Two Flyers Come to Grief at Same Time Near Toronto.

Passenger Train Runs Into an Open Switch at West Toronto and Engine and Tender Are Derailed—Coaches Run on Siding Unharmed—Almost at Same Time Another Train Is Wrecked At the Don.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—An unlocked switch caused the derailment of the Grand Trunk flyer from Sarnia tunnel a few hundred yards north of St. Clair avenue crossing at 7.20 last evening. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The accident happened just before dusk. The train, which consisted of engine 1,005, tender, two baggage cars, five passenger coaches and one Pullman, was running about twenty miles an hour, and when the locomotive passed over the switch, the lever sprung, sending the engine down the main line and the tender and cars on to the siding. Both engine and tender were wrenched from the track, but the coaches remained on the siding uninjured. Engineer Dan. Liddell immediately applied the emergency brakes and stopped the train in a short distance, but not before two hundred feet of roadbed had been cut to pieces. Ties were smashed to splinters, and the heavy eighty-five pound rails were twisted like so much wire.

Almost at the same time, cars attached to the Grand Trunk transfer engine jumped the rails of the Don diamond and piled up across the tracks blocking the G.T., C.P., and C.N.R. lines. The engine was shunting the cars ahead of it down the belt line towards the city when the leading truck failed to take the point of a cross-track, with the result that two cars were shoved along the roadbed for about 100 feet and entirely wrenched from their trucks. The upper parts of the cars were badly damaged. Another car loaded with lumber and a fifth, loaded with bricks, were but slightly damaged.

Grand Trunk Surplus.

London, Aug. 14.—Accounts of the G.T.R. for the half-year to June 30 show surplus of £279,800, and with £12,200 brought forward, this will admit payment of the full dividend on the 4 per cent. guaranteed stock and on the first preference stock, leaving about £9,000 carried forward.

Accounts of the Grand Trunk Western, including the balance brought forward, show a surplus sufficient to provide interest on the first mortgage bonds and leave a balance of about £18,000.

Heroic Police "Graft."

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 14.—When Policeman Horner recovers he will find that he is wearing the skin of eight men on his back. Some two weeks ago, while arresting a burglar, Horner was shot in the back. Horner succeeded, however, in knocking down and handcuffing the man and then collapsed. In locating the bullet the surgeons used X-rays and the flesh around the wound was so badly burned it would not heal, necessitating the grafting of new skin.

Hero For a Day.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Yesterday he was lauded as a hero, to-day he is decried as a thief. That was the position of James R. Heard, when he appeared in police court yesterday morning. Heard was spieler for the Gem Theatre before the Hanlan's Point fire wiped out that place of amusement. It was he who saved the cashier of the place, Miss M. English. He was remanded a week on a charge of stealing two suit cases during the fire.

Lost Girl Is Found.

St. Catharines, Aug. 14.—Fifteen-year-old Lietha Allen did not suicide after all. Last Sunday the girl left her home, leaving a note in which she said she intended to drown herself in the canal, bidding her family an affectionate goodby. Late Thursday night, Chief Greene received a phone message from the chief at Niagara Falls, N.Y., stating that the girl had been found in that city. Her parents were notified at once.

General Store Burned.

Brockville, Aug. 14.—The large general store of H. F. Judson & Son, Frankville, was destroyed by fire yesterday entailing a loss of $4,000, insurance $2,000. The blaze started from a stove, in which papers were being burned, and spread with great rapidity. Adjoining property, including the Church of England rectory, and the Dixon block were saved after a hard fight.

Italians In a Fight.

Guelph, Ont., Aug. 14.—Joseph Carrarie, an Italian laborer employed in the Taylor-Forbes factory here, is fortunate that he is not held on a charge of murder. At noon yesterday he ended a quarrel with a fellow-workman named Zeilo by hitting the latter over the head with an iron casting, cutting his head open. Zeilo will recover.

A Boy Killed.

Underwood, Aug. 14.—A sad accident occurred near here yesterday morning in which William, the 15-year-old boy of Harry Roppel, was killed. He was leading a horse back to the farm and tried to get on its back and in some way he got caught in the harness and was dragged a distance, when it was found that life was extinct.

Backbone Broken by Runaway.

Markstay, Aug. 14.—Victor Lefebvre, a strapping young man, was killed on his father's farm near here. A fractious team of horses ran away with a load of hay. In attempting to stop them he was knocked flat on his face, the heavy load passing over his back, breaking it. He lived three hours.

T.N.O. Profits.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway earnings continue to mount upward. The report for June shows a remarkably good state of affairs.

The gross revenue from operation for the month was $131,850. The expenses were $73,648, leaving a net revenue from operation of $58,202.

The amount received from ore royalties was $19,273, making the total net receipts $77,475, as compared with $30,573 for June, 1908.

For the six months ended June 30, the net revenue from operation was $309,174, and from ore royalties $68,355, making a total of $377,599, compared with $55,103 for the same period last year.

Two Men Killed In Pit.

Huntsville, Aug. 14.—Caught under a mass of falling gravel in the pit in which they were working, James Hughes and John Beswick met death some time yesterday afternoon.

When they had not returned to town by seven o'clock last night, a search party, fearing an accident, organized and hurried to the pit, two miles distant.

Beswick was found under nine inches of gravel and Hughes under about 15 inches. The mass had fallen several feet and the men would not know what struck them.

Hughes leaves a widow and three children.

Farmer Foretold Own Death.

Goderich, Aug. 14.—Nixon Sturdy, a wealthy Goderich Township farmer, was accidently killed Thursday evening at Foster's bridge near Homesville on the Maitland River.

He had bought the old bridge which was going to be replaced by a new one, and when taking out a key bolt the bridge collapsed and fell, crushing his head. He was taken to Clinton hospital, but did not regain consciousness, and died during the night.

Sturdy had two minor accidents during the day, and in permonition, remarked at dinner, "It seems as if I am going to be killed to-day."

Warships Off to Crete.

Malta, Aug. 14.—The British warship Swift Sure has left here for the Island of Crete. It is understood other protecting powers, Russia, Italy and France, also will send warships to Crete, as an intimation to the islanders that they are resolved to enforce respect for the rights of Turkey.

Canada to France by Wireless.

London, Aug. 14.—A Paris wire says that wireless messages from New York are received or intercepted almost daily by a military station on the Eiffel Tower. Occasionally, radio telegrams have also been received from Canada, which is believed to form a record in wireless telegraphy.

Fog Hid Strike-Breakers.

Pittsburg, Aug. 14.—Taking advantage of a heavy fog, which enshrouded the Ohio River early yesterday, the Pressed Steel Car Co. landed about 400 new men at McKee's Rocks, whom they succeeded in getting into the plant before the strikers' pickets were aware of the move.

Hundreds Homeless by Fire.

Milton, Del., Aug. 14.—Almost the entire town of Milton was destroyed by fire early yesterday, nearly 100 houses, a lumber yard and a bank building were destroyed. The loss will exceed $100,000. Several hundred persons were made homeless.

Some of the New York papers are ascribing the high cost of living to the larger profits being exacted by the middlemen. The World brings forward the case of milk, for which, it is stated, the farmers in some cases receive as low as 1 1-2 cents a quart, while in the city, the consumer pays from 8 cents to 10 cents a quart. Even allowing for the cost of care, carriage, and distribution, which is heavy in the case of milk, the difference between these rates is so remarkable as to suggest that somebody gets more than a reasonable profit, even if the traffic does bear it. If many staple articles are affected in the same way the high cost of living is understandable.

The story is told of a bibulous farmer who had, in this city, indulged too much. He was being taken, by a friend, to his home, past Corbyville. The friend felt called on to give the erring one some good advice. "There's no use, Tom," he said, "you can't drink all the whiskey they make." It was at night, and they were passing the distillery at Corbyville, part of which was brilliantly lighted up. Tom opened his eyes. "Well, I'm making them work nights, anyhow, he said.

DAIRY EDUCATION.

Proper Care of Milk to be Demonstrated at the Canadian National.

The educational features in connection with the Dairy department of the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, promise to be of unusual interest this year, not only to farmers, but to consumers of milk in cities and towns as well. The demonstration work and lectures in the Dairy amphitheatre will be under the immediate charge of Mr. Geo. A. Putnam, director of dairy instructions for the Province, and the Dominion Department will also furnish a man to give some definite instruction along the cow-testing line.

The proper care and handling of milk will be one of the subjects dealt with, and it will be accompanied by demonstrations of milk testing as well as charts showing the value of cow-testing associations.

$46,000 In Prizes.

AWARDS WHICH STILL AWAIT AVIATORS.

(London Standard.)

There is a very large amount of money still to be won by flight both in England and in France. The amounts approximately for aeroplanes and airships are:—England, £25,000; France, £20,000. The prizes offered in France include:—

A second prize of £1,000, given by M. Deutsch for the cross-Channel journey.

£1,000— London-Manchester. Payable at the rate of £5 per mile for first attempt exceeding 25 miles.

£2,000 — London-Manchester. Machine must be British built, and have an Antionette engine.

£500 — London-Manchester. British built engine.

In addition to these, there are numerous prizes offered in Germany, one of which is £1,000 for the first German aviator to fly in less than one hour from Frankfort to Russelsheim and back.

Sir William Hartley has offered £1,000 for an aeroplane flight between Liverpool and Manchester. The offer is international.

Dog Laid Ghost.

TACKLED SPECTRE IN BUSINESS LIKE WAY AND ENDED SCARE.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 12.—Citizens of the Notch Road, a settlement skirting the Garret Mountain near Paterson, have been ghost hunting for a week, and the other night they were successful. George Osur, a teamster, was the first to see the apparition. In an unused barn formerly owned by Frank Marley, a contractor, he saw a figure clad in white flitting about. As he approached the barn, he says, the figure rushed at him, uttering an unearthly yell. Osur fled.

He consulted his neighbors and a council of war was held. Emil Smelding, Jacob Cotton and John Frey, all regarded as men who know no fear, were appointed a committee to round up the ghost. They went to the barn at midnight. The place was as silent as a graveyard and the committee was waiting and watching, when the door flew open and out came the white clad figure. The committee fled in terror. "Mme. Blavatski," first reader of the Lakeview Spiritualistic Society, was consulted.

"It's the ghost of the chieftain of the Totowa tribe of Indians." she told the committee, after going into a trance. The chief had his scalp severed and buried in the earth beneath the barn. He has grown tired of the happy hunting ground and desires to roam through the mountain region."

The committee, reinforced by William O. Jackson, and the latter's hunting dog, resolved to make another effort. When the ghost emerged from the barn last night the dog became busy. "Call that infernal dog off. Can't you fellows take a joke? It's me, Jim Hatch, and I'm only having some fun," came a voice from the supposed apparition. Jim, who is a farm hand, was rescued from the dog and now the vigilance committee talks of landing him in jail.

Old Folks Cough,

TELLS OF A SURE CURE AND A NEVER FAILING COMFORT, FOR COLDS, COUGHS, CATARRH.

Mrs. M. E. Watford, wife of a well-known grocer in East Sheffield writes:

"For three years I suffered with a hard, racking cough and bronchial irritation, which annoyed me so much at night I could not sleep. I tried many remedies, catarrh tablets, sprays, syrups, etc., but they only helped me for a short time. Catarrhozone brought me wonderful comfort from the first. I inhaled its balsamic fumes every hour or two and am now free from any trace of cold, bronchitis or Catarrh. I can go out in all kinds of weather and don't take cold."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00, smaller size 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TRAVEL POSTCARDS SCORE A HIT, SMALL SUPPLY STILL ON HAND, GET A SET.

The Travel Club is growing, and the demand for the set of postcards being given away keeps getting stronger. A few sets still on hand. The cards are given for three coupons appearing elsewhere in this paper together with 15 cents. You must be a regular subscriber of the paper in order to get these cards, but others, by agreeing to take the paper for eight weeks, are eligible under the same terms. 50 postcards of views taken from all over the world by the famous traveller, Charles H. Stoddard, make up this handsome set. They are scoring a great hit in this city and hundreds of sets have been given out. Call at The Intelligencer Office while they last.

"Mrs. Winter," said Rhoda, sitting up again, and speaking as if her fate hung on the reply, "do you think I am of any use to Eugene?"

"Most assuredly," answered Mrs. Winter, from the depths of complete conviction, "the best and dearest use. That is a wild question. Don't be discouraged, my child. And believe this: all over-development in any one direction must take something away from the rest. A more commonplace man than my nephew would give you less anxiety, but far less pleasure. You would tire very soon of most men, after Eugene. He has great talents, undoubted abilities; he is still young—and I believe that manuscript will be found yet," she concluded, with the sweet, inconsequent optimism of all loving women, however prudent and experienced.

Rhoda reached up her arms as a soothed child might have done.

"Thank you, oh, thank you!" she said. "You are so good to me. I will not give up hoping. I will try to be brave. I am not brave, not strong. I never have been. When things have gone wrong I have cried over them and prayed—but I have not known how to set them right. I will write to Eugene and to your sister. I think I know now what will be best to say."

"Yes, yes; to-morrow. But sleep now, dear. You must have rest. Remember that we have had a long journey."

"I will sleep, since you bid me," said Rhoda, gratefully.

Mrs. Winter withdrew, and for a long time the two lay awake looking out into the darkness. Rhoda kept herself as nearly motionless as possible, feeling sure that the quick ears in the next room would catch the slightest indication of restlessness. After some hours had passed her young weariness triumphed and she fell into the deep sleep which follows the exhaustion of tears. But the older eyes did not close in slumber until dawn. Here was not the quick reaction of youth, and here also was the weight of an assumed responsibility, perhaps the heaviest known burden to a conscience at once widely glancing and deeply feeling. Moreover, Mrs. Winter could not be counted among "those who aspire to rule in provinces to which nature has denied them entrance," to quote a saying of Abbe Liszt which may absolutely rival his melodic achievements in value.

CHAPTER X.

SAN MARTINO.

"Naples! thou heart of man which ever pantest
Naked beneath the lidless eye of heaven
Elysian city which to calm enchantest
The mutinous air and sea;
They round thee even as death round sleep are driven!"

Rhoda and Regy were sitting beneath the shade of a nodding palm in the Villa Reale, the "slender strip of Paradise" past which the thronging carriages of the Neapolitan aristocracy would be dashing just before sunset, but which belonged to them and some remarkably intelligent looking, olive-tinted Neapolitan babies in charge of gorgeously appareled nurses at this hour. They had been in Naples a month, and this had become one of their favorite resorts.

"It is ever so nice," said Regy, with quiet satisfaction, as Rhoda finished her quotation.

"Nice!"

"That's my superlative."

"You haven't such a thing about you."

"Just as well. It would be coals to Newcastle to offer you anything of the kind."

"No, it wouldn't. I've used all mine up since we came here, and haven't reached an adequate phrase yet. Oh, Regy! aren't you glad you came?"

"Very."

"And can't you understand Goethe's feeling; the longing for the soil that made him fear to open a Latin book or look at a picture or engraving of Italian landscape? And why he called Italy the New Jerusalem for the ames d'elite?"

"Do you know," said Regy, "that I fancy that Goethe's mind and mine are not built on the same plan? There goes that English groom of Di Loria's By Jove, he's well turned out!"

"I'm sorry to see him here, though; I think Di Loria should develop home industry and encourage local talent."

"Oh, Rhoda! are you going to have a conviction on even that point? And if you mention it to Di Loria, Wilkins will lose his place."

"Absurd!" said Rhoda, blushing redly.

"I agree with you," said Regy, looking at her a little curiously. "It must be fatiguing to take life as seriously as he does. Did you notice that he doffed his hat to our flag at the consul's office yesterday. I wonder what the state of a man's mind must be who can do that."

"A commendable one, I think."

"Oh, of course you do. Rhoda, don't you think Di Loria is the handsomest man you ever saw out of marble?"

"Yes."

"A pardonable self-esteem, now forever slain, made me anticipate a more qualified assent," said Regy. "But I dare say you are right. It's the type that seems too good for this world too. You can't imagine Di Loria riding a bicycle, or applauding a baseball match, or hauling in jackpot. He's not the least bit of a prig, and never seems to disapprove of any thing; I don't suppose he could be brought to admit it if he did—but somehow he lives in a different world from the modern youth. Amateur photography now," said Regy whimsically. "It's the most harmless of pursuits, calculated to quicken the perceptions and cultivate habits of observation; but can you fancy Di Loria going around with a camera? It must be an awful strain on a man to live up to a profile like his. It does knock spots out of pleasing irregularity, now doesn't it, Rhoda?"

"You are very appreciative, Regy."

"It's what I was born for. I don't offer much field for that sort of thing in my own person, and it's more blessed to give than to receive, especially when you know the sort of thing that would be offered in your case—meaning mine. Of course I appreciate Di Loria; we fellows who have been cast by nature for light comedy always do see the beauty in high tragedy when it comes along. Don't you suppose we all would prefer the part of primo tenore? It's a great gift to be able to realize your physique and keep strictly within its limits. I leave it to you," said Regy impartially, "if I would not look like a consummate ass, I with my apple cheeks and short nose, apostrophizing the American flag, or dying at a woman's feet? But when we see a man who is apparently built for the exposition of all the heroic virtues, we like him amazingly. I should be entirely at Di Loria's disposal if I would divest myself of the idea that he is cultivating us with a view to practising the English language."

"Yo are an ungrateful boy."

"You won't tell him, will you Rhoda? Think of the inappropriateness of R. A Winter as a victim of the vendetta!"

"Who speaks of vendetta?" said Di Loria gayly, as he came up behind them. "You go to Corsica, Signore?"

"No, to the hotel for my mother," said Regy, rising as Di Loria and Rhoda exchanged greetings. "Is it San Martino this morning?"

"If you will," cried Di Loria.

They drove down the crowded length of the Toledo—Via Roma since Garibaldi marched down the glittering way at the head of his legions, to drive later by the side of his king—and Regy made it a triumphal progress by his habit of scattering copper in the direction of unemployed talent.

"It seems a thousand years to the saints in Paradise until they welcome the magnificent Signore Inglese among them," said a match seller, whose wares had hung fire until the advent of the magnificent Signore.

"I could save a life at home at the risk of my own, and receive less gratitude for the proceeding than for ten centimes here," said Regy, pleased with the benediction.

"Poor creatures!" said Rhoda pitifully.

"Madame," aid Di Loria, "if you give a few centimes to a beggar in America, what will he do with them?"

"Save up until he gets enough to

The Briton in Sport.

FAMOUS MEN THINK HE IS NOT DOWN AND OUT YET, BY ANY MEANS.

The recent defeat of English representative sportsmen at cricket, polo, rowing and running has created the usual outcry about the decadence of British sport, says the Sporting Life of London, and even such famous men as Lord Curzon and Lord Lonsdale have considered it necessary to give their views on the subject. In yesterday's issue we quoted from a speech delivered by Lord Curzon, in which the great empire builder and politician insisted that the pessimist we now seem to have always with us, and that his voice was ever loudest when we happened to hit a bad patch. He did not believe that we were were retrograding either in sport or in many other more vital things which go to make up the national life; as a matter of fact, foreigners still came to England in order to gain knowledge in many business, social and sporting matters.

In an interview with a Daily Mail representative, Lord Lonsdale, while admitting that our young men are probably not so gritty as some years ago, said:

"The sporting spirit is still strong in Englishmen, but the education of that spirit is wrong. There is a want of energy about the young men of to-day. They lead too soft a life.

"With regard to polo," said Lord Lonsdale, "I have always maintained that there should be some limit to the value of ponies employed. Take the recent match which the Americans won. They came over here knowing where the best ponies were to be bought, and they bought them. I should not be surprised if some of those ponies cost something up to £1,000 apiece. Certainly, the American team was very fine. In the two Waterburys they had two remarkably fine hitters. And, given the finest players and the finest ponies, the result is inevitable. I have always said that polo would kill itself by the sheer rushing up of the prices of the ponies.

"I certainly do not think that anything like a general rot has set in in English sport. History shows that nearly all the great records are held by Englishmen; and I am sure there is the right grit left to hold them, if it is only properly cultivated. Everything is rush and hurry, and people want their sport, like other things, ready made. They do not take the trouble to train properly. They want to achieve great results without going through the mill. And another point I would like to emphasize is that young men are too anxious to go in for too many sports, instead of making themselves proficient at one.

"Take hunting. Many men nowadays go to a meet in a motor-car. They do not get sufficient riding to make them hard, and so they do not last out a hard-riding day like they used to do. The women, I am pleased to say, show the men the way in hunting to-day, for it is no uncommon thing to see ladies heading the field.

"As an instance of what I call grit, the young men of to-day would not do what young men 30 or 40 years ago would—have a rough-up in the streets with any pugilistic cabman or even policeman who crossed their path. These would be called disgraceful scenes nowadays, and I certainly think they were all a mistake, but there was the grit, and I am afraid that that grit has not been directed into more legitimate channels.

"I should like to see everybody who loves sport take a more active interest in the particular branch which attracts their fancy. This would, I feel sure, bring out the undoubted grit which I am confident is still in the Englishman and lead to the discovery of fresh champions who are to take the place of the old ones.

"The cricket test match I regard as more of an accident, for Jessop, whom I regard as one of the finest specimens of what a cricketer should be, was put out of the game by an unfortunate accident. But in cricket, as in other branches of sport, where are the young men?

The Honorable F. S. Jackson, former captain of England at cricket, said;

"I do not think we have lost our supremacy yet. I am hoping we shall win the remaining test matches. I am afraid several of our best bats are out of form and the captain is rather unlucky."

R. C. Lehmann, M. P., the famous authority on rowing, remarked:

"I think it is a pity to talk about ourselves so much and nonsense to talk at all about our decadence in sport. The Belgians have only just succeeded in beating a college crew—a hard race, and with the best station. We have taught other nations how to row, and we cannot be surprised if they occasionally beat us when they have learned all the tricks of the game, especially when they give so much time and attention to preparing a crew. If we are called upon to make a special effort as we were last year at the Olympic regatta, we can do so, but the conditions of amateur rowing in this country do not allow us to do that every year. If foreign crews continue to come over, we shall sometimes win against them and sometimes lose. We haven't got the monopoly of muscles and sinews and luck."

Montague Shearman, K.C., vice-president of the Amateur Athletic Association, has put it on record that

"Our men are good enough. Other nations are getting better. We have more players and a higher general average in every sport, but others specialize better with their few best athletes."

Another Case in which Dr. Hamilton's Pills Saved a Life That Physicians Despaired of.

What a pitiful sight it is to see a handsome, able man being gradually robbed of good looks, health and ability to work. Such cases are frequent—the one here described being that of E. P. Lascelles, a well known Printers' Supply man, residing in Hamilton. "About six months I began to notice a worn, tired feeling coming over me. I was unable to shake it off. It was not the fatigue that follows hard work—it was sort of an unaccountable laziness that assailed me. I was anxious to work but didn't have the energy. Something was dragging me down, robbing me of my health and spirits. I got tired of taking prescriptions that did me no good and used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Their action soon proved to me that I was suffering from a terribly congested liver and acute indigestion. Dr. Hamilton's Pills brought back my appetite, cured the heavy pain in my side and back, gave me a new grip on life. I gained in weight and now I am stronger, look better, work better, than ever before I was taken sick."

If you want to get back the vigor and spirit of youth, if you want the sparkle of robust health on your cheeks—use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They cleanse, purify, tone, strengthen—make the sick well, give this grand medicine a faithful trial, 25c. per box, or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Johnson Was Too Cute for Berger.

Judging from accounts of that meeting in Chicago on Wednesday of Jack Johnson and Sam Berger, it would appear that the haberdasher manager, the self-esteemed Mr. Berger, more than met his match in the dusky gent who claims the championship.

The articles may or may not be binding; but it's a cinch Berger got none the best of it from the colored boy. The session was a warm one, wherein is shown how Johnson outflushed the flushing kid, will prove:

Johnson and Berger met at noon. It did not take long to get to business. George Little, manager of the black fighter, turned the entire business over to Johnson, and Berger first produced articles of agreement, which he had signed when he posted his $5,000 forfeit.

Berger fought hard against putting anything in the articles whatever concerning the purse division, but Johnson said something must be done on that subject or no articles would be signed. For a time it looked as though no agreement would be reached.

"I'll bet you $1000 your man never fights," said Johnson, moving his left hand toward his pistol pocket, where he had a roll of bills stored away.

Berger told him he was acting like a child instead of a man.

"I didn't come here to bet on the subject," Berger answered.

"Yes, but you think your man will win, don't you?" flashed Johnson.

"I think I can drink a glass of water without choking," was Berger's reply.

"I'll bet you $10,000 that he doesn't win, and that you'll choke when he loses," said Johnson.

Berger laughed.

"You've been riding around on free cars for a long time," said Berger.

"Yes, but some one has been paying the fare," said Johnson.

SPORTING NOTES.

Listen to the smiles in New York. The Giants beat the Cubs again yesterday. Must be sweet revenge for McGraw and his crew, after the way they were robbed of the pennant last fall.

They tell in Cornwall that old John White, their big defence man, is playing better lacrosse this year than ever. Notwithstanding the fact that this player is the oldest man playing the game in the world to-day, time seems to deal gently with him, and each succeeding season sees him beat it in from the wigwam well able to hold his own with the best of the young fellows.

There will be something doing in Cornwall to-day when the Scotch and the Irish sit in at the annual lacrosse feast. The betting promises to be brisk and Cornwall at present is slightly in favor with the sports who follow this department of the game. It is rumored that Cornwall will have considerable money to place on their team. When the teams met there two years ago the Shamrock supporters bet the Cornwall people off their feet and at that Cornwalls won handily.

Police Notes

Mr. H. Lake reports that some time during the past week a pair of buggy shafts were stolen from his premises on Front street.

Mr. Charles Fry brought to the station some crusts of bread which he stated had been thrown into his yard and he thought there was poison for his dog on the bread.

Two business places were last evening found insecure by the police.

West Indies Trade.

London, Aug. 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The King has approved the appointment of Lord Balfour of Burleigh, Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Paterson of Canada, Sir Dickson Poynter and Sir Daniel Morris to be commissioners to investigate and report upon measures that may be taken for the promotion of closer trade relations and for the development of mutual trading facilities between Canada and the British West Indies.

His Majesty approves of the appointment of H. R. Cowell of the Colonial Office to be secretary of the commission. H. H. McCarthy has been selected to accompany the commission as technical adviser.

Saves Sister's Life.

Morrisburg, Aug. 14.—While some little girls were bathing in the St. Lawrence River, near Point Iroquois, Beryl Pelton, daughter of the editor of St. Lawrence News, stepped into a deep hole, with a treacherous undercurrent.

She was swept off her feet in a moment and was being carried out into the main current when her young sister, Norma, aged 11, standing on the bank, without a moment's hesitation rushed into the river with her clothes and shoes on, and, wading out nearly to her neck, succeeded in reaching her older sister, and with difficulty pulled her into shallow water, thus saving her life.

Attempts to End His Life.

North Sydney, N.S., Aug. 14.—Despondent over continued bitter criticisms of his work as license inspector by a local paper, the temperance people and the liquor dealers, L. C. Musgrave late Thursday night attempted to end his life by shooting himself in the head.

The report brought Mrs. Musgrave instantly to the side of her husband, whom she found standing on the kitchen floor with the smoking revolver still in his hand. The bullet entered his forehead a little above the eye.

Rough Materials Will Be Worn.

HOMESPUNS, DIAGONALS AND HAIRY FABRICS ARE THE MODE FOR TAILOR-MADES.

For the tailored suit—the smart trotteur frock that one meets on the avenue — the dull-finished materials will undoubtedly hold first place. Crepe-surfaced serge will probably be the most worn material that one will see where well-gowned women congregate. Homespuns—a rougher material than crepe serge—with a perceptible hair weave on the surface, are being shown both here and abroad. There is some talk of the revival of sebiline —a material on the order of homespun, only more so.

Bedford cord is another familiar fabric among the new arrivals. It is lighter in weight than the old-time version—a cotele weave, they call it abroad. It is very good-looking, and so is its prototype—Ottoman cloth—a woolen material with a slightly-raised rib. It looks a little like the cote de cheval, or "side of a horse," that is one of the materials which they have been using in Paris this summer. The new fall material, however, is heavier and more closely woven than that of the summer.

Self-colored stripe materials still retain their place in spite of changing fashions and the downfall of other well-tried favorites. One of the best-known English tailors is using a plain color—preferably black—with a fine hair-line cord of white. Diagonals are the premiere choice of a prominent French house, especially the diagonals with coarse, heavy wales grouped together in clusters of twos and threes and fives. Some of the new diagonals are nothing more than a very fine cross twill, but the smarter ones show the wide, flat rib.—The Delineator for September.

MISSES' SHIRTWAIST.

Paris Pattern No. 2933

All Seams Allowed.

A simple model for every-day wear is here portrayed, developed in white linen lawn, but equally adaptable to Persian lawn, batiste, chambray, Indian-head cotton, nainsook, silk or cotton voile. The front, which closes through the center with large pearl buttons, is made with two wide tucks, either side of the closing, giving the effect of a double box plait. The rest of the fullness is distributed in narrow tucks, stitched to the bust line. The shaped turndown collar is finished with scalloping and hand-embroidered in the corner. The pattern is in 3 sizes—13 to 17 years. For a miss of 15 years the waist requires 2⅝ yards of material 20 inches wide, 2 yards 24 inches wide, 2¼ yards 27 inches wide, 1⅞ yards 36 inches wide, or 1¼ yards 42 inches wide.

Price of Pattern, 10 Cents.

A pattern of this illustration will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver.

WIDOW JASON'S UNRULY HOGS.

The Way the Trouble Between the Neighbors Was Settled.

By PAUL CAREW.

Widow Jason was the relict of Farmer Jason, and she carried on the farm after his death with even more wisdom than he had shown himself possessed of. She was still on the brighter side of forty, fair to look upon and was at peace with all her neighbors until the one to the east of her sold out and a stranger moved in.

He was a man of middle age named Chisholm, and, being a widower, his sister managed the house for him. If the Widow Jason was one of those who wondered what sort of man he was, she was the first to find it out. Among her live stock that year were a dozen hogs, and it was the fault of her hired man that there were holes in the fence through which they made their way into the potato field of the new neighbor. She had just finished her breakfast one morning when Chisholm was announced. He had the courtesy to lift his hat and give his name, but he also had the bluntness to add:

"Madam, your infernal hogs have rooted up half an acre of potatoes for me, and if you can't manage to keep 'em home I'll shoot every one of 'em!"

She looked at him and saw that he was above the ordinary and felt that had she been introduced in the conventional way she would have been pleased to make his acquaintance. But his rude greeting angered her, and, being a woman with a mind of her own, she at once replied:

"I can pay for all the potatoes on your farm, and if you come here to threaten me you'll find a woman who doesn't scare!"

"Well, you keep your hogs at home."

"And you keep yourself in the same place."

That was the first tilt. The fences were mended and the hogs were in despair when a high wind blew a gate open, and the drove spent the night in the same potato field. Next morning Chisholm drove ten of them home and said to Widow Jason:

"Madam, there are dead hogs belonging to you in my field. Will you have them removed or shall I bury them?"

"You killed them, did you?" she asked.

"I did. I told you I would, and I did."

"Then I'll have the law on you."

"Go ahead."

She went to law, and there was a suit, and she was ingloriously beaten. Womanlike, she felt pretty bitter over it, but at the same time she had to give Mr. Chisholm credit for lack of any bitterness. He stated his case in the mildest manner and even spoke highly of her as a neighbor. When she returned home after the lawsuit she said to her hired man:

"Josh, if that man Chisholm comes on my land again I want you to throw him off."

"Yes'm, I'll do it," replied the sturdy Josh.

It wasn't a fortnight before Chisholm came. He was on his way to the house when Josh headed him off and ordered him back. He refused to go, and Josh laid hold of him to do the throwing act, but found himself a licked man in about three minutes. While he sat on the ground with a handful of grass to his bleeding nose the victor passed on to the woman, who had witnessed the fracas from the front steps. Lifting his hat, he said:

"Madam, those hogs of yours have been at it again—this time in my cornfield—and I've had to kill another."

"Have you dared to kill another of my hogs?" she demanded as her cheeks flamed and her eyes flashed.

"I have. Shall I bury him?"

"Sir, you are a scoundrel!"

"And you are a charming widow!"

She drove to town at once to see her lawyer. There was $10 in the case for him win or lose, and he advised her to sue. She sued and got beaten again. The defendant referred to her in the highest terms, but he also proved that her fences were out of repair. The lawyer saw $10 more in it, win or lose, and advised Josh to prosecute for assault and battery. Josh brought his swollen nose and black eye into court and was beaten by several lengths. He had provoked the encounter, and, if he had got the worst of it, the law couldn't help him.

It was a month before anything further happened. The fences around the hog lot were thoroughly repaired, and for four weeks the porkers had to make the best of their sad lot. Then Josh left the bars down one night, and as the widow was getting breakfast she heard the crack of a rifle. Half an hour later Mr. Chisholm appeared to say:

"Good morning, Mrs. Jason. Those wretched hogs of yours rooted up my garden last night, and this morning I killed another of them. If you want another lawsuit I'll drive you to town in my own buggy."

"And you—you've shot another?" she gasped.

"I have."

"Then I'd like to shoot you! You are the meanest man in the state of Ohio!"

"Yes'm," he replied, with a bow, as he turned away.

Widow Jason drove to town to consult her lawyer again. There was $10 in it for him, win or lose, but this time Mr. Chisholm was arrested for malicious persecution. In his testimony he referred to the plaintiff as "that lady" and exhibited no animus whatever, but he also proved that he was the one persecuted. The widow's hogs would not let him alone. She was beaten again, and this time a stout pen was built, and the hogs were shut up. The farmers had of course taken sides. Some contended that Chisholm had exhibited a mean and unneighborly spirit and others that the widow had been derelict in not mending her fences, and there were much talk and discussion. It occurred now and then that the two principals met on the highway or at the crossroads meeting house, but while Chisholm lifted his hat and bowed as if there was nothing on his mind the widow, except for her blazing eyes, seemed carved of stone.

That pen held the hogs for a long six weeks, but hogpens have their weak points, and patience and perseverance will seek them out. The hot sun warped a board and made an opening, and the industrious swine enlarged it until one night they all passed out and headed straight for the next farm. They fetched up among the cabbages, pumpkins, squashes, melons and carrots, and during the long hours of darkness they ran riot. They were missed from the pen early next morning, and the widow sat down on the doorstep and cried. She cried because she was vexed, and she cried because she was a woman. Every minute she expected to hear the crack of Chisholm's rifle, and she fully realized that any further appeal to the law would be wasted. She was vexed at the hogs, at Josh and at Chisholm. Her tears were still falling when the new neighbor stood before her and bowed and said:

"Mrs. Jason, those blamed hogs of yours damaged me a hundred dollars' worth last night."

"And how many more have you killed?" she asked.

"None. I've just driven 'em home."

"But why—why"—

"Because I see how it is. I must either kill off your whole drove or build a pen myself. I shall come over tonight to talk to you about it."

He appeared an hour after supper, and it was 11 o'clock before he went home. Even then the "talk" was not finished. As a matter of fact, it required a great many evenings and was only concluded one winter's night when she laid her head on his shoulder and said:

"If you are really sure that you love me, then the farm, the hogs and I are yours."

Lectured by Carlyle.

There are some amusing memories at Kyleakin, in Skye, of a visit once made there by Carlyle, traveling in the train of Lady Ashburton. The Kyleakinses felt a lively curiosity concerning the distinguished author, and whenever he appeared in public he was surrounded by a crowd of admiring men, women and children who had heard sensational reports concerning his "cleverness as a scholar." Carlyle seemed to like this hero worship until these admirers clustered round him while he was in the midst of his sea bath one day. Then he assailed them in language much more emphatic than elegant, which soon made them take to their heels and scamper off with all speed out of his sight. Lady Ashburton had prayers with her daughter and servants morning and evening, but the sage was never present. During these periods, Neil MacInnes, the innkeeper, used to relate, "he would lead me to the coffee room and there, laying hold of me by the coat buttonhole, he would lecture to me for half an hour on end on all sorts of subjects, and he would be so intent on it that he wouldn't allow me to put in a word. Fancy," said Neil, "that I should be lectured to in such a way by Tommy Carlyle!"—London Standard.

Ant Hills and Flies.

A recent traveler in central Africa describes an interesting use of the soil of ant hills. It appears that it makes excellent bricks, of which houses are built. The natives tread it with water into a doughlike substance, which is shaped in rough wooden molds. It is then dried in the sun and afterward baked in native kilns. The same substance is found to make excellent tennis courts. It is mixed with water into a thick paste, spread on the ground and smoothed over with the hands. The same traveler tells us how the natives in the neighborhood of Lake Nyassa esteem a species of fly as an excellent article of diet. It is known as the "kungu" and appears to be peculiar to the lake. At certain seasons of the year these flies appear in enormous numbers and are sometimes blown in myriads over the land. If this happens near a village the natives come out eagerly to gather them up. They make them into what they consider a delicious confection.—London Standard.

Standing on His Rights.

The next witness was a hard fisted, resolute yeoman with a bristling chin beard.

"Mr. Gigson," said the attorney for the defense, "are you acquainted with the reputation of this man for truth and veracity in the neighborhood in which he lives?"

"I reckon I am," replied the witness.

"I will ask you to state what it is."

"Well, sir, his rep'tation fur vrassity —well, that's diff'runt. Some says he does and some says he don't."

"Witness," interposed the judge, "do you know the meaning of 'veracity'?"

"I reckon I do."

"What do you understand by the word?"

The witness twirled his hat in his fingers a few moments without replying. Then he looked up defiantly.

"I refuse to answer that question, judge," he said, "on the ground that it might discriminate me!"—Chicago Tribune.

FRIGID REMEMBRANCES.

Home Life in Scotland at the Dawn of the Last Century.

The contrast between the life of the young in the twentieth and in the early part of the nineteenth century is most striking, and one wonders how the Scotch children of former times survived their early training. Lady Ritchie gives in "Blackstick Papers" a description of home life in Scotland in 1806, which she took from the "Memoirs of a Highland Lady:"

"Although seldom ailing, we inherited a delicacy of constitution, demanding great care during our infancy. In those days is was the fashion to take no care of it. All children alike were plunged into the coldest water, sent abroad in the worst weather, fed on the same food. Our life was one long misery.

"In town a large, long tub stood in the kitchen court, the ice on the top of which had often to be broken before our horrid plunge into it. We were brought down from the very top of the house, four pairs of stairs, with only a cotton cloak over our nightgowns, just to chill us completely before the dreadful shock. How I screamed, begged, prayed, entreated to be saved! All no use!

"Nearly senseless, I have been taken to the housekeeper's room, which was always warm, to be dried. Revived by the fire, we were enabled to endure the next bit of martyrdom, an hour upon the low sofa, our books in our hands, while our cold breakfast was preparing. My stomach rejecting milk, bread and tears generally did for me."

Six years later in the highland home austerities seem still part of the education:

"In winter we rose without candle or fire or warm water, and really in the highland winters, when the breath froze on the sheets and the water in the jugs became cakes of ice, washing was a very cruel necessity.

"As we could play our scales in the dark, the two pianofortes and the harp began the day's work. How very near crying was the one whose turn set her at the harp! The strings cut the poor, cold fingers. Martyr the first sat in the dining-room at the harp. Martyr the second put her blue fingers on the keys of the grand pianoforte in the drawing-room."

Milk and Milking.

Many people believe that milk is ready made and stored in the udder of the cow, simply awaiting the milker. This impression is corrected by the statement of the well known scientist, John Burroughs, who says: "Most persons think that giving down or holding up the milk by the cow is a voluntary act. In fact, they fancy that the udder is a vessel filled with milk and that the cow releases or withholds it just as she chooses. But the udder is a manufactory. It is filled with blood from which the milk is manufactured while you milk. This process is controlled by the cow's nervous system. When she is excited or in any way disturbed, as by a stranger or by taking away her calf or any other cause, the process is arrested and the milk will not flow. The nervous energy goes elsewhere. The whole process is as involuntary as is digestion in man and is disturbed or arrested in about the same way."

What the Editor Cannot Do.

Don't think because the reporter sees you getting on the train that he ought to know who you are and where you ar going, or if he sees you greet some friends that he knows who they are and where they are from. We aim to get all the news, but you may be the one we don't happen to know. We try to become familiar with names and faces, if possible. But during the years past we have been to church and failed to see you there. We have hung around the town pump, but some of you weren't there. We have loafed on the street. We've even risked our reputation on back streets on a dark night, but you weren't all there. And we'll be hanged if we know where to find you all. So if you are going or coming or know anybody cutting up queer capers let us know.

A Cool Customer.

A woman shoplifter was caught stealing an umbrella one day in a Philadelphia dry goods store. But it was decided not to prosecute her if she would pay for the umbrella, valued at $2.50, which she did. The next day she returned and requested to see the manager. When that surprised person could recover himself sufficiently to ask her business the woman calmly told him that she had been pricing umbrellas in other stores and found she could purchase one like her own for $2, and she wanted to know if he wouldn't refund her 50 cents. As a tribute to her monumental nerve the 50 cents was handed her in silence.

M.P. as a Lifeboatman.

The distinction of being the only practical lifeboatman in the British House of Commons belongs to Lieut.-Col. Seely, who recently celebrated his forty-first birthday. Col. Seely used to be a member of the Brooke lifeboat crew, and as such received the thanks of the French Government, with a medal, for aiding in the rescue of a French crew shipwrecked off the Isle of Wight. Col. Seely has played many parts in his time, and has been a barrister and an Imperial Yeoman besides a member of Parliament.

The Standing Armies.

At the present time the leading nations of the world, on a peace basis, maintain in their armies no less than four and a quarter million men. They are divided as follows: Russia, 1,100,000; Germany, 617,000; France, 529,000; Austria-Hungary, 409,000; Turkey, 350,000; Great Britain, 250,000; Italy, 240,000; Japan, 225,000; Switzerland, 139,000; Spain, 100,000; United States, 100,000; Sweden, 62,000; Belgium, 45,000; Holland, 40,000; Norway, 30,000; Denmark, 14,000.

OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD

When the bread or cake or pastry comes from the oven light, crisp and appetizing, you are wont to say you have had good luck with your baking.

The "good luck" idea is a relic of the time when housekeepers pitted their competency against poor flour.

To-day good baking isn't a matter of good luck in any home where

Royal Household Flour

is intelligently used.

In the hands of competent housewives it never fails because it is the whitest, lightest, purest and best baking flour to be had.

If the goodness of your baking is due to chance, your grocer is giving you the wrong kind of flour. Ask for Ogilvie's Royal Household.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC MAKES IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

It will be remembered that when the Grand Trunk Pacific contract was under consideration, both in the Commons and Senate, it was pointed out that the company would, in its own interests, at the expense of the carrying trade of the Dominion, enter into business arrangements with United States railway corporations for the diversion of the trade of the West, at the expense of the carrying trade of Canada. That prediction is being verified at an earlier date in the construction of their line of railway than was anticipated.

A special telegram from Winnipeg of the 11th August says:

"It has been announced that the G. T. P. will construct a line to Emerson, Man., where connections will be made with the Northern Pacific, over which running rights will be secured into the Twin Cities. This branch will no doubt be under way next year. This is a highly important connection with the south, bringing the Grand Trunk within striking distance of its sister system in the West."

No doubt it is a "highly important connection" for the Grand Trunk Pacific Company to make, and while it is an "important connection," it is one which will divert trade from the road, to build which the Dominion has sunk millions. All the evil predictions of the Opposition are rapidly coming to pass.

Lacrosse.

Col. Denison, Police Magistrate of Toronto, deserves commendation for the manner in which he is dealing with those who, in sporting games, play the part of ruffians and blackguards. During the playing of a game of lacrosse, a few days ago, one of the players kicked one of his opponents in the face "while in the act of tying his shoe lace, rendering him unconscious." The Colonel told him "there was no more justification for breaking the law on a lacrosse field than on Yonge street," and then bound him over to stand his trial at the next Superior Court. This is how all such ruffians should be treated who adopt this plan of what they call "knocking a good player out of the game."

Horse Distemper.

PRINCE EDWARD FARMER SOLEMNLY DECLARES NERVILINE IS A SPECIFIC.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed, His nostrils ran, and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

NERVILINE CURES QUICKLY.

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 25c., five for $1.00, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co'y, Kingston, Ont.

TROPICAL INSECTS.

The Tarantula Is the One Most to Be Dreaded.

Excepting only the tarantula, the crawling insects of the tropics are not really dangerous, though they are more than unpleasant, sufficiently so to make every one wary, and an instinctive watchfulness becomes after a time habitual. It is only a matter of being careful and dangerous stings can be avoided. The sting of a scorpion is sharp and painful. Rapid swelling follows till a great lump is formed at and about the wound, the glands often become swollen and painful, and the tongue swells so that speech may become difficult. The pain lasts from two to twenty-four hours, usually about a day, and it is exceptional if any serious effects follow.

The centiped attacks by burying its sharp feet in the flesh and then biting with its jaws, inflicting deep wounds. Often it goes on crawling rapidly over the flesh, puncturing it with burning, needlelike feet, biting continually, its jaws buried deep in the flesh with vigorous rapidity. This is a serious affliction. The sores, like burning blisters, are open for days, and where a centiped has walked and bitten the flesh a livid sore develops, leaving a deep scar witness to the pain inflicted. Sometimes even gangrene may set in, and then death is apt to follow in a few days. Thus a wound from a centiped unattended easily becomes serious. The centiped's back is so smooth and its muscles so supple that to check it under one's clothing requires fortitude which could press a redhot iron against the naked flesh. Relax the hand for an instant and the centiped slips away to continue its course over the body. The result is not easily described. The screams of a person so attacked attest the pain, and we dread the centipeds. I have seen them in the jungles over a foot long and about three inches broad. Usually they are less than half this size, and fortunately their attacks are rare. There are smaller centipeds, and bad enough it is to be bitten by them, but it is the big fellows in the woods which we dread.

Of all the insects which crawl about in the tropics the tarantula is most to be dreaded. It sinks its fanglike jaws deep in the flesh, and a poison which oozes out around them is carried into the wound. The soft body of the spider permits it to be easily killed, and if there is a way open for escape the tarantula will take it, perhaps not biting at all. One bite it gives, seldom more, and this is sufficient. Days of suffering must be endured, and death may occur. Violent swelling follows the bite of a tarantula and afflicts all that part of the body which has been bitten. At times the flesh becomes discolored, and with the intense pain a form of paralysis develops which may result in death. If, however, the person bitten is enjoying fair health no evil effects result, but where the blood is in poor condition, the heart weak or other organic troubles are present then stings or bites from creeping insects, not only tarantulas, but all of them, are apt to be fatal.

Naturally one crawls out from under the tolda with feelings of trepidation and usually finds that some creeping thing has made the outer folds of the tolda a resting place for the night.—Forest and Stream.

Eskimo Graves of Stones.

To the Eskimo mind everything animate or inanimate possesses a soul. Thus in their graves we found they invariably placed every cherished possession, that their spirits might serve the departed spirit in the same capacities in the life to come. There is little room for burial beneath the scanty earth in Labrador, even if the frost would permit. So the grave consists of upright stones, with long flat ones laid across. These not only serve to keep the wolves from the body, but wide chinks also afford the spirits free passage in and out.—Wilfred T. Grenfell in Century.

Uncle Sam's Human Hinges.

In other cities the doors of public buildings are set on springs and slap to and fro as the visitor wills, but in Washington it appears necessary to have a special man to open and close the doors—human hinges, as it were—no undignified banging of doors there. This custom has died out in other places, but there are many veteran negroes in Washington who have seen years of such service for the government. They have a stately way of performing this office, which gives a door an official and unofficial swing.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in National Magazine.

A Mystery to Father.

"So your daughter has gone to Europe, after all?"

"Yaas," drawled Farmer Hayseed; "she's been daffy t' go ever sence she left skule. These here female girl colleges dew put ideas intew women's heads. Her maw an' me never could calc'late why she was so set t' go t' Yurrup. She don't know a soul thar."—Lippincott's.

Only a Man.

Mr. Peck (bitterly)—A man, my dear. If I were only a mouse I'd have you up on the table yelling for dear life right now!

As a Remedy.

"I want to get copies of your paper for a week back," said the visitor to the newspaper office.

"Wouldn't it be better to try a porous plaster?" suggested the facetious clerk.—Philadelphia Record.

Could you use another suit at a price? We believe you can and will, after you learn the value of the suit and the price that will buy it. We're going to do some great stunts in the way of suit selling and have taken all broken lines of Men's Suits which have been selling all season for $6.50, $7.50 to $8.50, placed them by themselves and now offer them to first comers for just

$5.00

We want no carry overs and of course to do this we must be willing to accept a loss. We would rather count the money than carry the stock. If your size should be missing from one line you are sure to find it in another.

We have placed a few in our South Window look at them and match them if you can.

They Were Canned, But 'Twas a Joke, Not a Wedding.

Last evening many on Front street were led to believe that a wedding had taken place, owing to the fact that a hack was being driven up and down street, attached to the whip of the driver being the knot of white ribbons which usually signifies that Cupid has found two more victims. At the back of the conveyance some old boots and a tin can were tied, which rattled merrily over the bumps on our main aisle. Upon investigation it was learned that the whole affair was simply a joke. The occupants of the hack appeared to be enjoying the joke immensely. Perhaps some of them were sorry it was a joke and not the real thing.

Lively Runaway on Trenton Bridge

TWO BELLEVILLE YOUNG LADIES WERE RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE EXCITEMENT.

On Thursday a grey team attached to a phaeton with four occupants dashed down Gilmour's hill, Trenton, across the bridge and up Dundas St. at break-neck speed. The driver, Mr. T. Fitzgerald, of Chicago, was thoroughly exhausted, yet managed to hold the reins. At Mr. George Collins' corner the team turned and ran around the block and down Dundas St. across the bridge and were stopped at Gilmour's hill. The other occupants of the carriage were Misses Fitzgerald and Lynch, of Belleville.

The runaway occurred about one o'clock, when the streets were crowded, and it is nothing short of a miracle that no one was hurt.

Deserved Promotion.

Mr. and Mrs. David Harrison, Moira st., removed to Bowmanville on Thursday. Mr. Harrison, who has for a number of years been Express Messenger on the Belleville-Toronto "local," has been placed in charge of the Canadian Express Co's. office in the above named town, a promotion he well deserves. Their many friends in this city will wish Mr. and Mrs. Harrison success iin their new home.

Bad Combination.

The average automobile smells badly enough, surely. But when the passengers go joyously along the streets smoking Turkish cigarettes — well, isn't it nearly time to call out the Fire Brigade, or read the Riot Act?

Wanted to Come Here.

At Napanee the other day there was a morning excursion by steamer Brockville to Belleville and Trenton, and the boat was so quickly loaded that it had to pull out in the middle of the river away from the wharf, in order to prevent overloading, and a great many disappointed pleasure seekers were left behind.

OBITUARY.

JAMES TAYLOR.

As he was about to rise from his bed on Wednesday morning, James Taylor, miller at Rose Hall, fell over, dead. Heart failure was the immediate cause of this sudden death. Mr. Miller had been suffering from neuralgia of the heart for some time.

Mr. Miller had retired from farming for some time and was running a grist mill. He was well known in his own district. For a number of years he had been treasureer of Rose Hall Methodist church.

The deceased was aged about sixty years. He was born near Colborne. He is survived by his widow, who was Adeline Huycke.

The funeral was held at Rose Hall under Masonic direction.

Back Home Again.

The Oddfellow delegates and their wives returned from Ottawa yesterday afternoon. They say Ottawa is all right, but anybody who wouldn't be glad to get back to Belleville again would be an odd fellow, indeed.

Judge Deroche Had A Busy Afternoon.

FIVE PRISONERS WERE UP BEFORE HIM YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Yesterday afternoon, before Judge Deroche, no less than five parties who are in jail, charged with various offences, were brought up before him for election. In some cases the accused pleaded guilty and sentence was deferred. In other cases the date of trial was fixed.

ALLEGED THEFT.

John Thompson, of Lake Township, was accused of theft of a part of a mower. His trial was fixed for September 11th.

ALLEGED MISAPPROPRIATION

Sidney Keech, of Tweed, is charged with appropriating to his own use an express order for a considerable amount. The accused alleges that the order was accidentally thrown into a waste paper basket, and that his wife burned the contents of the basket. His trial was fixed for Sept. 6th.

A NAMELESS CRIME.

Francis Rogers, of Madoc Township, charged with an unmentionable offence, elected to be tried without a jury, and his trial was fixed for Wednesday, August 25th.

GUILTY OF THEFT.

Edward Hudson pleaded guilty to stealing some buttons, pins, etc., from a store in Madoc village and then selling the articles. Sentence was deferred until Aug. 25th.

Charles Bird, of Marmora Township, pleaded guilty to stealing some parts of a mower from Mr. K. Cameron. He was remanded until Wednesday next for sentence.

Kinrades Missing.

Hamilton, Aug. 13. — The question that is exciting people just now is where are the Kinrades? Mr. Kinrade has definitely severed his connection with his school here by not applying for reinstatement in the regular way. Attempts at securing information as to his, Mrs. Kinrade's and Mr. and Mrs. Wright's movements lead to nothing. Ernest Kinrade, Mr. Kinrade's eldest son, refuses to say where they are, while Mr. Hobson, the family's lawyer, stated this morning that he had not the faintest idea as to their whereabouts. All kinds of sensational rumors are extant as to where they have gone, but none of these can be verified.

What Sir John Did.

AND HIS FALL CAME THROUGH THE "SPECIFIC SCANDAL."

In looking over Canadian history answers in recent normal school entrance examinations we are told that Sir John A. Macdonald was born in Kingston, where "he entered the bar, and soon after represented that place in parliament!" that "he was the founder of our school system:" that "he was governor-general of Canada for several years," and that "the Specific Scandal" caused his fall. But if it was a young grit who gave the "bar" and "Specific Scandal" answers, it was surely a budding tory who assured the examiners that Sir John was "a better premier than Laurier, for Laurier merely drove the team of colts that were broken in by Sir John.—Whig.

H. E. FAIRFIELD

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1½ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

A GRAND KIDNEY MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him When Everything Else Failed.

Ulverton, Que., March 17th, 1908.

I wish to place on record, for the sake of others who may be suffering in the same way that I suffered, that no medicine I ever took did me so much real good as "Fruit-a-tives" did.

I suffered for many years with Kidney Trouble, with bad pain in the back.

I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill, but nothing gave me any relief, and I was getting discouraged.

I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and did so—and this medicine cured me when everything else failed.

I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset they gave me relief and I am now practically well again: no pain, no distress, and all symptoms of kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well, and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I did. To them, I say try "Fruit-a-tives," as they are a grand kidney medicine.

TROOPS ON THE SCENE

Strikers at Fort William Deprived of Their Weapons.

Soldiers Make a General Seizure of Arms, But Fail to Find Any Large Quantity of Guns or Ammunition—Company Import 150 French-Canadians and Says Work Is Going on Smoothly.

Fort William, Aug. 14.—With 150 local men of the 96th Militia Regiment and 70 men of the regular Mounted Rifles from Winnipeg on duty, there were no signs of trouble from the striking C.P.R. freight handlers yesterday. All parts of the company's sheds are being guarded by the soldiers.

The first work done by the military yesterday was to clear a mob of strikers from the streets around the Avenue Hotel, Col. Steel's headquarters. Some of the strikers took refuge in a deserted building, but were driven out without an argument, after which a big batch of the strikers, who are all foreigners, were rounded up and searched for concealed weapons. Only one man was found with a revolver and he was arrested. A search of the houses tenanted by the strikers, was then begun, but the ammunition and firearms located and seized proved comparatively small. A wagon load of liquor was confiscated from an Italian store.

Yesterday afternoon 150 French-Canadian laborers were brought in by the C.P.R. to act as strike-breakers, their train being run along side the cars where the soldiers are quartered.

General Superintendent Burry in a statement yesterday said:

"Things are clearing now and the Keewatin, passenger boat will go out this afternoon and the Alberta will go on time to-morrow. We don't anticipate further interruption of traffic with the troops here. We are ready to act under the Lemieux Act and rest on that. These men quit without notice and without any effort to confer with the company. We attribute this to the Greek element, of which there are some two hundred among the dock strikers. We had one thousand men altogether, the balance being Huns and Italians. The Greeks told them on Monday they must quit work or they would shoot them, adding that they were going to hold the company up."

"They did not make any formal demands on the company, and have not done so yet."

More Troops In Readiness.

Winnipeg, Aug. 14.—The 90th Regiment yesterday received orders to be in readiness to proceed to Fort William should further rioting occur.

Crazy Indian Goes to Hamilton.

Toronto, Aug. 14.—Tied up in the Hamilton bound train yesterday afternoon at the Union Station was a crazy Indian, John Chakason, who has been brought from the wilds of New Ontario, where he is said to have killed several Indians, to be lodged in Hamilton asylum.

The lunatic was in charge of Detective Giroux, and Dr. Dunneti of Ottawa, who took charge of him at Moose Factory on James Bay.

Last spring Indian trappers brought the lunatic to Moose Factory by dog sled from Missanabia where he had terrorized the Indian settlement for over a year. Many hundreds of miles of the journey from James Bay was made by canoes.

The Indian was very refractory at times and had to be kept in a straight jacket.

Robinson Eludes Pursuers.

Warren, Ont., Aug. 14.—James Robinson has been successful in evading every effort of the police this week to locate him. Provincial constables watched the Robinson homestead all Tuesday night, leaving at daybreak. Robinson turned up at 7 a.m., washed his face, ate no breakfast, but asked for a lunch to be put up, and, after bidding farewell to all his children, two of whom are confined to bed owing to his depravity, he took his Winchester rifle, all the cartridges available, and left in a northerly direction. He appeared worried and excited and remarked to his son, John, "They'll never get me alive."

Stolen Mail Bag Found.

Brighton, Aug. 14.—The mail bag stolen from Brighton depot on June 2 was found yesterday on Johnson's farm, about a mile east of Brighton, by Thomas Kenny. It has been cut completely in two, and most of the letters had been opened. It is claimed that a gold watch and diamond ring was in this particular mail, but no trace of them, except the wooden box, was found.

Where Uncle Tom Was Sold.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 14.—The court house at Washington, Mason County, in which "Uncle Tom" of Uncle Tom's Cabin fame, was sold, was struck by lightning, and destroyed yesterday. The building was erected in 1794.

It was the sale of an aged negro at this place that gave Harriet Beecher Stowe the basis for her story.

Famous Philatelist Suicides.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 14.—John F. Seybold, world-famous philatelist and well-known merchant of this city, shot himself to death in his store early yesterday morning. He suffered a nervous breakdown three weeks ago and has been despondent ever since. Mr. Seybold's stamp collection is said to be worth $100,000.

Gramaphone Too Noisy.

Kingston, Aug. 14.—Robert Lipman, Princess Theatre, has been summoned, charged with allowing a gramophone to make too much noise. It is the first case arising since the anti-noise bylaw passed by the City Council.

IS RYAN DEAD.

Supposed Murdered Man May Still Be Alive.

Whitefish, Ont., Aug. 14.—Was Maurice Ryan hanged an innocent man at North Bay, June 5, for the murder of his brother, Joseph Ryan, or it is mere coincidence that the following autograph was found on the walls of Whitefish Station yesterday afternoon: "Joseph Ryan, Rutland, Vermont, June, 1908, westbound." The signature was among hundreds of other autographs.

At the trial a letter was introduced, said to have been written by Joseph Ryan from St. Alban's, Vermont, and also evidence that he had been seen at North Bay in February, 1908.

Maurice Ryan stoutly protested his innocence at the trial, and "I am innocent" were his last words on the gallows.

The autograph is not a hoax, and while Ryan was known as a poor writer, it may have been written for him by others. An effort will be made to secure specimens of his handwriting from the chief of police of North Bay for comparison.

It was never proven conclusively that the skeleton found in the woods, and alleged to be all that remained of Joseph Ryan, was so in fact.

Women to Control the Votes.

London, Aug. 14.—The Times' Wellington correspondent cables statistics indicative that within twenty-five years the majority of the voters in New Zealand will be women. In 17 electorates the women already enrolled outnumber the men.

The Attorney-General, speaking on the subject yesterday, said there was a reduced degree of domesticity among the New Zealand women.

The women were less inclined to make home their only sphere, and their sympathies and activities were widening.

He is of the opinion that when the reform of the liquor trade, for which women have long been struggling, had been achieved, their zeal would be diverted toward securing other social and political reforms.

Generally, he thought, their influence would be for good.

Prayer Reveals Secret.

Ashabula, Ohio, Aug. 14.—His little playmate's preyer being overheard by the child's mother Thursday night yesterday resulted in the finding of the body of eight-year-old Sammy Walker, who was drowned in the Ashtabula River Wednesday while playing on a raft with other boys. Searchers found the body in the river after hunting through the night on the alarm sounded by the mother of the child, who had offered this prayer:

"Dear God, be good to Sammy. Forgive him, God, because he fell in the river; he was only a little boy and couldn't help it. And please forgive me, too, God, for being with him when he drowned."

Sammy Walker's playmates tried to rescue the child, but failed and were too frightened at the tragedy to tell of it.

Alleged Murderer Killed.

Newark, N.J., Aug. 14.—After a murderous attack on Matthew Smith and John Bryant, two keepers in the county jail here, yesterday, Angelo Capric, awaiting trial here on a charge of murder, was shot and instantly killed by John Corby, another keeper, who had come to the rescue of his comrades.

TO THE MOTHERS OF PALE GIRLS

A CASE SHOWING HOW THE TONIC TREATMENT RESTORES LOST HEALTH.

Anaemia is simply lack of blood. It is one of the most common and at the same time most dangerous diseases with which growing girls suffer. It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development when girls often overstudy, over-work and suffer from lack of exercise. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach and because of its tendency to grow so steadily worse if not promptly checked, that it may run into consumption. Every growing girl should take an occasional tonic to ward off the insidious trouble and in all the world there is no tonic that can equal Dr Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose of this medicine helps to make new, rich blood, which promptly makes weak, pale, listless girls bright, rosy and strong. Miss A. M. Dugay, Lower Cove, N. S., says:—"I believe I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My blood seemed to have turned to water. I was pale as a sheet I suffered from headaches, and floating specks seemed to be constantly before my eyes. As the trouble progressed my limbs began to swell, and it was feared that dropsy had set in and that my case was hopeless. Up to this time two doctors had attended me, but notwithstanding I kept growing worse. It was at this juncture I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking a few boxes I was much improved. I kept on using the Pills until I had taken eight boxes, when my health was completely restored."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure cases like this because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why they cure rheumatism and indigestion, nervous headaches and racking neuralgia, and all those troubles from which growing girls and women of mature years so often suffer in hopeless silence. If Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are given a fair trial they will not disappoint you. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Daily Intelligencer.

Strikes and Murder—The Labor Minister.

The news from Ottawa is to the effect that the new Department of Labor has intimated its intention not to interfere in the strike in Cape Breton, which has suggested the question, "What's the good of the Department of Labor," except to furnish a place for a Minister and places for a number of hungry officials?

The answer is, the powers given to the Minister in what is known as the Lemieux Act have been exhausted, hence the Department is powerless. This is precisely what was pointed out by the Opposition would follow when the Bill was before Parliament, it being said that if a decision of the Conciliation Board was favorable to the strikers they would accept it; if not they would treat it with contempt, and anarchy and ruffianism would follow.

The strikers in Sweden, who have been reduced to the point of starvation, and compelled to beg from the rural population, are returning to their work, having accomplished nothing but misery to themselves and families. All the result of socialistic agitators.

In Cape Breton both parties still hold out. The United Mine Workers' Union, of the United States, are furnishing the ways and means to keep the strikers alive by allowing to each man $2 a week, $1 for his wife and 50 cents for each child. A small stipend for wage earners who have been enjoying from $9 to $15 a week. All to enforce Yankee labor association rules upon Canadian industries.

The effect upon the Province is not less serious than it is upon the workmen and their families.

The Premier of Nova Scotia made the statement that the royalty paid to the Government on the coal mined at Springhill has been 10 cents a ton, which means $200 a day, and at Glace Bay it is 12 1-2 cents, equal to $500 a day.

In addition to this loss to the province the question is now asked, what will become of the town of Springhill in view of the closing down of the coal industry? This is what is puzzling the business community. There is a population of 7,000, with a good civic water system and modern improvements. But a decision of the company not to re-open the mines unless at a cut of 10 per cent. in the men's pay seems unalterable, and the men are equally determined.

Now we have lawlessness and murder at Port Arthur, where the strikers in attempts to prevent men from doing the work they refuse to do themselves, are shooting down constables and others indiscriminately, without the slightest provocation. In the fight no less than nine were wounded, one supposed to be fatally.

When is this lawlessness to end? Not until politicians and legislators have sufficient courage to pass laws which will punish the Yankee agitators who infest the country and incite working men to crime unless their unreasonable demands are conceded, and enforce the law against all law-breakers.

A few years in the penitentiary for those who use pistols might tend to put a stop to the results which follow these strikes.

The Strike.

No one will be surprised to read in Government organs, ere many days roll round, of the wonderful achievements of the Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, Minister of Labor, who, it is announced, has gone to Fort William to settle the strike.

It will be noted that William Lyon Mackenzie King did not move until volunteers had been put in charge to compel good behavior on the part of the rioters, and the sending of some 400 strike-breakers into the town to do the work of the "breakers." Sensible Minister not to move until sure of success! The strikers will yield when compelled to do so by soldiers and the C.P.R., and William Lyon Mackenzie King will claim the credit. Wonderful Minister is he!

TROTTING.

Canadian Horses Will Cut Quite a Figure on the Grand Circuit This Week.

Canadian horses will figure prominently in Buffalo's Grand Circuit meet, to be held on the Fort Erie track this week. They have always cut quite a figure in the pacing and trotting events because of their speed, but this time they expect to sweep the board and capture the biggest share of the purses. Three of these horses will start in the class for 2.05 pacers, and each one will find a host of backers among the Canadian horsemen. This trio is composed of Darkey Hal, 2.04 1-4, the Star Hal mare that W. L. Snow has under his care; Major Brino, 2.04 1-4, and Texas Rooker, 2.05 1-4. The first-named is never very far back of the winner in any event he starts in. The latter has been in retirement for some time, but is now in good form for a hard race.

The 2.20 pace has a splendid Canadian representative to do battle with the splendid field entered in that race. Sidney R., a fast green son of Simon, is the one the Canadians will back to a man. He is by the same stallion that sired the great pacer, Free Bond, 2.04 1-4, the same horse that the Canadians came into the Grand Circuit with some seven years ago and made a general cleaning up with. In the class for 2.16 trotters, the gelding Billy W., that took a record of 2.22 1-4 last season, is the Canadian entry, and it is reported that he has shown speed enough to justify his owner and admirers backing him to the very limit.

But the real star of Canadian pacers is The Eel, 2.02 1-4. This grand performer is entered in the 2.02 pacing class. Canadians are all confident that he is the greatest of them all, and if he fails to win they have made arrangements to walk back home.

During the meeting at Fort Erie this week the Snow string will figure in several of the big events and his admirers will doubtless have the pleasure of seeing him capture a fair share of the honors and a big slice of the money.

SPORTING NOTES.

Toronto is to have a big bicycle Marathon at Scarboro beach.

Tom Longboat states that he will not go West to race Shrubb.

All the teams in the Eastern League still have a chance for the championship.

Jack Johnson announces he will train at New York for his fight with Jeffries.

It is said that the Ontario pro. hockey league will be operated on a smaller scale this winter.

Pitcher Ed Ruelbach, of the Chicago Cubs, has won 14 games in succession, equalling the world's record held by Happy Jack Chesbro, of the New York Americans.

Shrubb has written New York papers denying their statements that he refused to give John Svanberg a race at fifteen miles.

Charles A. Comiskey, of the Chicago White Sox, has refused to act as stakeholder in the Johnson-Jeffries fight arrangements.

Hugh McIntosh, who promoted the Burns-Johnson fight in Australia, arrived on the Lusitania last week. He said he had offered a purse of $50,000 for the fight, and preferred to have it take place in England. He said he believed Jeffries would win if in good condition.

Lacrosse results on Saturday: Toronto 14, Caps 6; Montreal 7, Nationals 5; Shamrocks 2, Cornwalls 1.

In the Shamrock-Cornwall match $1000 changed hands, and Reddy McMillan was knocked out by a jab in the eye. There were other warlike demonstrations.

Mitchell and Houser, of the Toronto ball team, had a head-on collision Saturday, and both were knocked out.

At Seattle Ralph Rose put the 16-pound shot 50.26 feet, and Harry McLean, an Indian from Arizona, won the five-mile race in 26 minutes 9 3-5 seconds.

Deadly Tube Has Been Lost in Paris.

UNFORTUNATE FINDER WILL BE INJURED FOR LIFE IF HE OPENS IT.

Paris, Aug. 14.—Paris is excited over one of the most curious cases of loss ever known. A gentleman left on a seat in an omnibus a tiny package valued at $5,000. The peculiarity of the package is that it will injure for life the person who picks it up and opens it, it being a tube containing salts of radium.

Although one-sixth of a grain, its emanations are sufficient to cause fearful and incurable wounds. The fate of the finder who looks into the tube, which is the size of a cigarette, is certain.

No infernal machine was ever so frantically sought as this tiny tube by the Paris police. All the omnibuses were searched and swept, and urgent warnings were posted in public places. The newspapers united in advertising notice to the finder not to touch it.

Nearly a week has now passed since the packet disappeared. Hope of its immediate recovery is about abandoned. The imagination of a fiction writer might find a thrilling field in depicting the adventures of the mysterious, fatal tube, should it turn up in years to come, in a series of fearful works of mischief and terror.

New Picture Show

The Palace Theatre and Picture Show, near the corner of Front and Campbell sts., opens this evening, and its advertisement will be found on page 7 daily. No doubt this new place of entertainment will receive its fair share of public patronage.

A Pleasant Party,

Mr. H. Corby took out a pleasant party of about 20 on his handsome yacht Yaqui on Saturday afternoon. A delightful sail was enjoyed, the party going down below Deseronto and back. It was an ideal "blow," and the lucky guests thoroughly enjoyed Mr. Corby's princely hospitality.

A SHINING MARK.

What Parisian Sage did for Chas. S. Baker it will do for you. Read the following:

"I was so bald and such a shining mark for my friends, that I, as a last resort, tried your Parisian Sage (after trying several bottles of the highly advertised and high priced so called hair restorers), and I am glad to say I now have a heavy growth of new hair. I am now 44 years old and I have a heavy growth of new hair after carrying my shining mark for over seven years. I gladly recommend Parisian Sage to all afflicted with baldness." Chas. S. Baker, 491 Main St. East, Rochester, N.Y.

Parisian Sage, the only natural hair restorer, is guaranteed by J. S. McKeown to cure dandruff, stop falling hair, and cure itching of the scalp, or money back. It is the ladies' favorite hair dressing, because it adds charm and luxuriance to the hair. 50 cents a bottle. Ask J. S. McKeown about it.

"Constipation For Three Years"

HAD DIZZINESS, BAD BREATH, HEADACHES, BAD COLOR, POOR APPETITE.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills Cured Quickly.

Those who doubt if constipation and chronic stomach trouble can be cured need only read the striking testimony of Mrs. B. C. Curran, of Westport, to know that even if all else had failed, certain cure attends the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"For full three years I have suffered the torture of biliousness, constipation and stomach disorders. I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The active pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set me wild. Some times attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleaning remedy I would still be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made as strong, ruddy and healthy looking as one could wish, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Thousands who are in an ailing, low state of health need nothing else but Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure blood disorders pimples, rashes, bad color, biliousness, liver, stomach, and kidney troubles. Mild, certain and safe. Beware of imitations and substitutes, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00, at all dealers or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

DARE YOU EAT HEARTILY?

Or Is Every Good Meal Followed By Discomfort?

So certain are we that "Little Digesters" will cure Indigestion every time—for every person—for YOU—that we will give you your money back without a word if they fail.

You can enjoy a good, hearty meal of wholesome food three times a day, if you take a tablet after each meal.

Read how "Little Digesters" cured Mr. Thody.

"For two years I suffered with Indigestion, and obtained no relief from anything I took, including several prescriptions from prominent physicians. Every meal was followed by acute pain until I feared to eat, consequently became run down for lack of nourishment. "Little Digesters" were recommended to me by a friend and I tried them with remarkable results, two boxes completely curing me. It is three months since I took any, and I have not suffered a pain, no matter how heartily I eat. I would certainly recommend them to anybody suffering with Indigestion." (Signed) E. THODY.

"Little Digesters" can be had from your druggist or by mail from Coleman Medicine Co., for 25 cents a box. 26

The Unconquerable Foe.

John Bright once described the variety of stage fright with which he was familiar with a telling and quotable point. He was discussing public speaking with George Dawson, an eminent Englishman of his day, when, according to a paragraph in the late David Christie Murray's "Recollections," he said:

"Tell me, friend George — you have, I suppose, as large an experience in public speaking as any man in England—have you any acquaintance with the old nervous tremor?"

"No," Dawson replied, "or if I have it is a mere momentary qualm, which is gone before I can realize it."

"Now, for my part," said the great tribune, "I have had practice enough, but I have never risen to address an audience, large or small, without experiencing a shaking at the knees and a sense of a scientific vacuum behind the waistcoat."

Australia's Richest Woman.

Miss Eadith Campbell Walker, who has just given $5,000 to the Australian Dreadnought fund, is supposed to be the richest woman in the Commonwealth. She is of Scottish parentage. Her father emigrated from his native Leith, and acquired extensive lands in the early years of Australian colonization. From these lands, largely through the operation of unearned increment, Miss Walker derives a vast annual income. She has been a munificent benefactor of the Sydney hospitals and charitable institutions, and she serves on the committees of some of them. She lives in a splendid mansion at Concord, a suburb of Sydney. Why she spells Eadith with an "a" is known only to herself.

Cause of Her Mirth.

A maid had just come over from Ireland, and a Brooklyn woman engaged her. A bell hung in the girl's room, and the morning after her arrival her mistress rang the bell to get her up. But the maid did not get up, though the bell rang and rang. Finally, therefore, the mistress herself rose, and, slipping on a dressing gown, she hastened to the new servant's room. There, wide awake, the maid lay, laughing at the top of her lungs.

"What on earth are you laughing at, Norah?" said the mistress.

"Faith, mum," Norah answered, "Oi'm laughin' at that bell. As sure as Oi live Oi haven't touched it, an' —jest see—it's waggin'."

Distress in the Stomach

HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF BOTTLES OF NERVILINE USED EVERY YEAR FOR CURING CRAMPS, DIARRHOEA AND STOMACH DISORDERS.

Deadly cramps—the symptoms are not to be mistaken. Suddenly and without warning the patient experiences such agony in the stomach as to contort the countenance and cause him to cry aloud for help.

LETTER NO. 4877

Then it is that the wonderful power of Nerviline can make itself felt—it cures so quickly, you would think it was made to cure cramps, and cramps only.

"Last summer I was stricken with a frightful attack of cramps. I feared the pain in my stomach would kill me.

"My eyes bulged out and the veins in my forehead stood out like whipcords.

"My cries attracted a neighbor, who came to my assistance, and in a moment or two handed me half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in some sweetened water.

"It seemed as if an angel had charmed away the pain. In ten seconds I was well. Nerviline has a wonderful name in this locality, and is considered best for cramps, diarrhœa, flaturence, stomach and bowel disorders. I urge all my friends to use Nerviline.

MANLEY M. LEGARDE, Williamsburg."

No home is safe or can afford to miss the manifold advantages of having Nerviline on hand in case of accident or emergent sickness. 25c. per bottle, five for $1. All dealers, or The Catarrhozone Company, Kingston Ont.

THE BOTTLE CONJURER.

An Old Time Hoax That Caused a Riot In a London Theater.

In 1748 there appeared in the newspapers of London an advertisement stating that on a certain night a remarkable conjurer would perform in the Haymarket theater. He would, the advertisement ran, borrow a common walking cane from any member of the audience and "thereupon play the music of every instrument now in use." It was also promised that he would take an ordinary wine bottle, place it on a table in the middle of the stage, get into it "in the sight of all the spectators" and sing while in it. In the same issue of the newspaper was a second advertisement announcing the arrival of Signor Capitello Jumpedo, "a surprising dwarf no taller than a tobacco pipe," who engaged to perform with and outdo the "bottle conjurer," contorting himself in all manner of shapes and finally "opening his mouth wide and jumping down his own throat." This feat, not without reason, Signor Jumpedo described as the "most wonderfulest wonder of all wonders as ever the world wondered at."

The night set for this dual display of "wonderfulest wonders" found the theater packed from roof to pit. But as the time passed and the curtain remained down catcalls and hisses began to be heard. Then a man in the pit stood up and in a calm voice announced that if double prices were paid the conjurer would get into a pint instead of a quart bottle. At once the audience realized that they were being hoaxed. Somebody threw a lighted candle into a box, and this was the signal for a riot. Benches were torn up and boxes pulled down, while the timid rushed for the doors, with great loss of wigs, hats, swords and canes. Those who remained, re-enforced by roughs from outside, completely destroyed the interior of the theater and finished up by dragging the scenery into the street, where it was burned in a huge bonfire. Nor was the author of this imposture ever discovered, although it was commonly attributed either to an actor who had been discharged or to a mischievous nobleman bent on winning a wager.

DISGUISES FAILED.

Experiences of Emperor Napoleon I. at a Masked Ball.

The Emperor Napoleon I. once announced to his valet that he intended on a certain evening going to a ball at the Italian embassy and requested that complete costumes should be sent in advance. The valet, Constant, obeyed and attended his imperious master and commenced to dress him in a manner which might, had the emperor followed the valet's advice, have defied detection. Constant had some trouble with Napoleon over one or two minor matters, but when it came to changing his top boots for shoes the emperor resolutely refused.

Going into the ballroom, Napoleon at once relapsed into his accustomed attitude and, wishing to engage a lady in conversation, approached her with his hands behind his back. To his first question she prefaced her reply with "sire." Turning away abruptly, he went back to his room and said; "You were right, Constant. I have been recognized. Give me another costume and shoes this time."

The valet redressed his master and warned him to keep his hands at his side. No sooner had he entered the room the second time than once more he relapsed into his natural attitude. This time a lady addressed him, "Sire, you are recognized." Once more the emperor left the room in disgust.

Returning to his room, Napoleon was disguised for the third time. His toilet complete, he went back to the ballroom, which he entered as if it were a barrack room, pushing and swaggering. He was at once detected, and some one whispered to him, "Your majesty is recognized." Another disappointment and another change, still with the same result, and in the end the emperor left the embassy convinced that it was impossible to conceal his identity.

[illegible] She Thought [illegible]

A good story is told of Mr. [illegible]bohm Tree, whose "Pinkie and the Fairies" contributed largely to London's Christmas enjoyment at His Majesty's. The famous actor was once prevailed upon in kindness of heart to engage a servant girl out of the workhouse. She was desperately untidy, and, after various attempts to teach her method, Mrs. Tree told her husband that it was no use, the girl must really go. "Oh, try her a little longer," urged Mr. Tree. And she was granted a respite. However, it was all in vain, and to Mr. Tree, as he had engaged the girl, fell the task of getting rid of her. He told her that if she did not mend her ways she must return to the workhouse. "Oh, no, I sha'n't," she snapped out, rudely. "I'll get another situation." "But I cannot give you a character," returned the actor, "and you will find it very difficult to get another situation without a character." "Perhaps!" was the insolent retort. "At all events, if the worst should come to the worst, I can always go on the stage."

Just the Opposite.

"You are a poor young man?"

"I am."

"Then what you want is a thrifty economical wife."

"Not at all. What I want is a rich, liberal wife."

There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness. —Dickens.

THE SAFFRON PLANT.

It Is Among the Very Oldest of the Vegetable Products.

The particular species of crocus that has from time immemorial been cultivated for its dried stigmas, a product known under the name of saffron, is Crocus sativus, which is wild from Italy to Kurdistan. Saffron may be reckoned among the very oldest of vegetable products, being alluded to in the Song of Solomon among other spices of Lebanon. The name crocus is Chaldean or Greek and was first used by Theophrastus of Eresus about 350 B. C., and that it was a well known and admired flower in Greece soon afterward is shown by Sophocles, who mentions the "crocus of golden beam" in his "Oedipus at Colonos."

The word saffron seems to be a corruption of the Arabic name "al zahafaran," and the product itself was first imported into England as a spice or condiment, being also used as a color or dye for silks and other fabrics of the eastern looms.

At a later date, exactly when is not known, the plant itself was cultivated in England, more especially in Essex, in which county the name of Saffron Walden remains in evidence of the fact. Again, we have in London Saffron hill, which formerly was a site included in the bishop of Ely's garden at Holborn, once famous for its saffron beds as well as for its strawberries. Today, however, saffron is but little used.—London Chronicle.

SUGAR AND CANDY.

Satisfy the Cravings of the Children For Sweets.

Children may eat too much sugar, and they may also stay too long in their bathtub, or in the creek when they go in swimming, or get tanned or a headache from playing too long in the sun, or chilled by staying too long in the open air, but is that any sound reason why they should be deprived of sweets, sunlight, baths and fresh air or discouraged from indulging in them?

All that is needed, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine, is a little common sense regulation and judicious supervision, not prohibition or denunciation. Most of the extraordinary craving for pure sugar and candy, which is supposed to lead the average child to inevitably "founder himself" if left to his own sweet will and a box of candy, is due to a state of artificial and abnormal sugar starvation, produced by an insufficient amount of this invaluable food in its regular diet.

Children who are given plenty of sugar on their mush, bread and butter and puddings, a regular allowance of cake and plenty of sweet fruits are almost free from this craze for candy, this tendency to gorge themselves to surfeit, and can usually be trusted with both the candy box and the sugar bowl.

Parker House Rolls.

Materials.—Three tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of lukewarm water, one yeast cake, two cupfuls of new milk, one tablespoonful of sugar, two egg whites and six cupfuls of flour.

Way of Preparing.—Scald the milk and add to it the sugar, salt and butter. Let stand until lukewarm, then add three cupfuls of flour and beat for five minutes. Add the dissolved yeast and let stand until it is a very light, frothy mass, then add the egg whites, beaten to a stiff froth, and the remaining flour. Let rise again until it is twice its original bulk, place on your molding board, knead lightly and then roll into a sheet half an inch thick. Take a large biscuit cutter and cut the dough into rounds. Brush with melted butter, fold over and press the edges together. Place in a buttered pan one inch apart. Let rise until very light and bake in a hot oven fifteen minutes.

A Duck of a Man.

Ellen Terry and Mr. Balfour met for the first time at the table of Henry W. Lucy in London. During the ensuing conversation Miss Terry remained strangely silent. Presently the Unionist leader had to leave for the house of commons, and Ellen Terry at last found her tongue. Her host was relieved to find that she had not been bored. Bringing her closed hand down on the table, she exclaimed with a glance toward the door through which Mr. Balfour had passed, "I think that's a duck of a man!"

Advantages.

"I suppose you are glad to be free again?"

The ex-convict sidestepped a trolley car, dodged an auto and looked nervously toward a clanging ambulance.

"Oh, of course, of course," he said. "But let me tell you a man in prison feels mighty safe."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Drawback.

"Your ocean trip was pretty nice, I s'pose?"

"Oh, yes."

"Saw icebergs and such things, eh?"

"Yes, but I missed the billboards, I can tell you."—Washington Herald.

Caution Extraordinary.

"You have a night key?"

"Of course," answered Mr. Meekton, "only I'm so careless that Henrietta keeps it locked up in the safety deposit so that I won't lose it."—Washington Star.

Amateurish.

"Am I the first girl you ever kissed?"

"You are—I swear it!"

"I accept your apology."—Cleveland Leader.

take him back to the old country. Beggars of our own race are too rare to speak of as a class."

"Ah, the happy land!"

"Not especially, since we relieve Europe of her paupers."

"It is like America to show respect for age in so colossal a fashion."

"Perhaps that is the reason why she fails to do so in individual instances. Why did you ask me that question?"

"Permit me to ask another before I answer. What disposition does the English beggar make of small coin?"

"He buys spirits, of course."

"And the German?"

"He occurs less frequently. But beer with equal certainty."

"And the French?"

"Oh, he hoards it away and dies rich."

"And do you know what my countrymen will do?"

"No."

"Well, I do not say it is wise or provident, or in any way admirable, but you will understand them more well when you know. In nine cases but often, unless they actually go to starve, they will pay away the whole for entrance to a street theater or spectacle of any kind."

"But I thought Italians were such frugal people?"

"And they are, in all that goes for the body. They can live on a handful of maize, a slice of melon, a draught of wine and water; they do so, men who work hard all day long, for they are not all of the indolence report gives to them; they cannot be; they are too poor, and it is not so many who choose to beg as other nations would wish to believe of us. Again I do not say it is right; our climate demands little food, but they should take more than they do; the meat-eating peoples are strongest. I only quote what an English writer has said of them, that they choose always a pleasure for the eye and ear rather than the stomach. It is a truth. Yet they will talk all day long of eating as if they thought of nothing else. It is one of those inconsequenze which they love."

They had left the thickly crowded part of the city behind them and were climbing the steep hill, having passed the small chapel of S. Maria Constantinopolitana. Here and there along the roadside a glimpse of some dark interior would reveal a small donkey, his meek but determined face looking out from above a child's cradle in strange suggestion of that august manger in which the founder of Christendom was laid, guarded by the presence of horned cattle. Still further back in the gloom the gleam of tapers before the unfailing print of the Madonna would pierce the darkness, while without, on the door-step, mother, grandam, and children were seen, the first working with the thoughtful industry of middle life, plying the flax suspended on a spindle from her broad waist; the second quiescent in the well-earned rest of age, with nothing of activity about her but the still brightly glancing fire of her sunken eyes; the last playing in a riot of unthinking glee, recking little of toil to be undertaken, carried on and finished.

The summit was reached at last, and they entered the precincts of the fortification. Crossing a court picturesque with fallen marbles and brightly melancholy with that effect of cheerful ruin seen nowhere out of Italy, they passed through the noble rooms, rich in the accumulated treasure of the ages, and on into the very beautiful cloisters with the sixty Doric columns of snowy marble. They paced up and down the shining arcades and looked at the little windows through which food was once handed to the brethren in retreat.

"It seems a pity that they were disbanded," said Rhoda, with the unfailing cheap regret of the traveler who finds a piquancy in contrasting the freedoms and facilities of a highly modern civilization with the fading glories of an outworn system, as she view the secularized monastery of Duke Charles of Calabria.

"For you who come to look and then go back to your own favored lands, yes," said Di Loria gravely, "but for the Neapolitans, madame?"

"Oh, I know! We all say it, and none of us mean it. You must forgive us if the exceeding beauty of your country, both natural and artistic, betrays us occasionally into regarding it too much in the light of a spectacle."

"And you may be graciously pleased to remember that in another room here, but a few steps away, are the hat and inkstand of Carlo Poerio and that no one of Southern Italy can wish to recall the least vestige of Bourbon rule."

"I beg your pardon," said Rhoda penitently. "I was very thoughtless.

"It is I who must beg your pardon for causing you one moment of regret. But we hear it so much, so much! Oh, these dreadful improvements, the forestieri cry, who come to us and look at our poor treasures and go away, as you say, as from a theater. Those dreadful improvements Do they know what they have cost us? There is blood that would rise up against us one day if we dared slight one! We of the younger generation remember what has been done for us, Signora, by those who went before. Our Italy was rescued for us by the hands that first clasped our own. Alas that there are some of these which we shall not touch again! And when she is given to us torn and bleeding and naked, but with no member left fettered any longer, shall we be slow to give to her the dress of modern days that she may appear among the nations of the earth, clad like the rest, and say, 'Yes, I too, who once led the way in the darkness, I am come into the full light. See the robe that I wear; there is blood on the hem, but no longer any stain; it has been scorched in the war, but its folds hang free and I go forward with the rest.' Surely it is not an American who should wish us back among the chains for the sake of the flowers that creep through their rust."

Rhoda's glowing face was her only answer, but Mrs. Winter took the young man's hand in her own and looked into his eyes with such sweet friendliness that he found himself thanking her with all the fervor of his southern nature.

"Dear Madame," he said, raising the fragile little fingers to his lips reverently, and with the grace that is the birthright of the Italian peasant no less than the Italian prince. "I am a foolish, fire-tongued Neapolitan. When we speak here one word touches another like a spark, and we are aflame before we know it, but—my mother's only brother was one of those who lay in Castel del Oro in eighteen forty-eight."

"Italy is still the torch-bearer," said Rhoda softly, as they passed above the unworn marbles of the beautiful floor of the rich chapel.

"No, a stronger hand holds the

DOCTRINES OF DEMONS

PASTOR RUSSELL PREACHES ON TEMPTATIONS.

First Suggestions, He Says, Then Craving, Then Desire, Then Yielding, Then Absorption, Then Destruction—We Must All Be Born Again If We Will Become the Children of God.

Sandusky, O., Aug. 15.—"Man is tempted when he is drawn away of his own desires and enticed. Then, when desire has conceived, it bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death" (James 1, 14, 15).

In proportion to our intelligence we all know that sin abounds in the world; and more than this, that there are tendencies toward sin in our own flesh. The Scriptural declaration is, "I was born in sin and shapen in iniquity, and in sin did my mother conceive me" (Psalm li, 5). The explanation of these conditions is found only in the Bible, which tells us that the beginning of sin was in Eden, and that its painful influence has descended from parent to child until now, and that there was but one complete remedy for it, which is beyond our power, but provided for us by our Creator through his glorious Son, who redeemed us.

The Bible is God's message to all those who are desirous of learning the Divine standard and choosing and fighting a good fight against the wrong, against sin wherever found; but especially against sin and weakness toward sin in ourselves. The more truly we discern the true philosophies for sin and the Divine remedy, the better we are prepared to resist it—forewarned we are forearmed.

However it may be explained, the fact remains that the world of mankind, heathen and civilized, realizing sin, feels conscience-stricken and anticipates punishment of some kind for violation of recognized laws and principles of our being. Ignorance, superstition, mental unbalance and theory, supported by priestcraft, have led mankind, heathen and civilized, into a fear of an eternity of torture as a punishment for sins. This the Apostle calls, "Doctrines of demons" (I. Timothy iv., 1). And no doubt the demons were responsible in some measure for the deduction of this doctrine of eternal torment; because fear is one of the most powerful influences they can bring to bear upon fallen humanity as they seek to captivate them to sin. Those who have had much to do with Spiritism (thinking that they were communicating with their dead friends, but really fellowshiping with fallen angels, called demons in the Scriptures), tell us that at the beginning these "lying spirits" gained control of their wills by telling them that they should pray much, even while presenting to them alluring, sinful suggestions (I. Timothy iv., 1). As a later step they tell them that everything is glorious and everybody happy "in the spirit land," and that sins of the present life are unimportant matters. Later on they prick their subjects' conscience and work upon their fears and tell them that their case is hopeless and that they will soon have them fully in their power and torment them forever. With despair come utter abandonment and a willingness to treat with the "evil spirits." This is sometimes followed by obsession and not infrequently reason is entirely dethroned and the victim becomes an inmate of an asylum.

The safeguard against all of these delusions and misrepresentations is found in a correct understanding of God's Word—the Bible. In proportion as its teachings are understood and followed the mind is relieved of those "doctrines of demons" and given a rational understanding of what sin is and of what its real penalty consists. Obedience to its instructions brings proportionate measures of harmony with God and righteousness and results in love, joy, peace and a holy spirit or disposition.

Many experience great difficulty in ridding their minds of the "doctrines of demons"—that the wages of sin is eternal torment. They find it difficult to believe the Truth on the subject, which the Scriptures present, namely, that "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord" (Romans vi, 23). God's proposition is that all sinners against his just laws, after full opportunity, shall be "utterly destroyed" (Thessalonians i, 9; Acts iii, 23). The power of eternal life resides in God, and he assures us that he will not give it to any except those who come into harmony with him. Eternal life has not been thrust upon our race. It is entirely contrary to the Scriptures to assert that man must live somewhere to all eternity, either in joy or anguish. The Scriptures assure us to the contrary of this—"All the wicked will be destroyed."

Our Lord declares that God is able to destroy both soul and body in Gehenna. He who alone has the power of eternal life has made no provision whereby sinners can obtain it and thus injure themselves and discredit the Divine Government to all eternity. The gift of God is eternal life, and that gift will be bestowed only upon those who demonstrate a heart desire in harmony with God and acceptance of his provisions for their recovery from sin and death through his Appointed Way—Jesus Christ the Righteous. Thus we read, "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son, shall not see life; but "the wrath of God abideth on him" (John iii, 36).

The experience of our first parents well illustrates the lesson of our text. Mother Eve's desire for knowledge should have confined itself to the Divine limitations; but she permitted it to wander disloyally. Evidently she turned over in her mind how wonderful must be the wisdom of God, and how she would like to possess as much as the serpent suggested she might have, if she would but disobey God and eat the forbidden fruit. We can imagine that she had qualms of conscience—that she hesitated to disobey. But to even stop to consider the pleasures, the advantages, the desirability of transgression was to leave her mind open to a fresh assault. The serpent's next move was to suggest to her a reason why her Creator had forbidden the eating of the fruit, namely, that God knew that this would make them wise as himself, and that he did not wish for equals in knowledge, but desired to keep them in a condition of mental slavery through ignorance. Such a suggestion should have been spurned by Eve, and was, no doubt, rejected at first. No doubt she brought forth arguments to prove the merciful kindnesses and generosity of the Creator and that such an evil, selfish and ignoble spirit as the serpent suggested could not possibly belong to her Creator. But the wrong was in giving the least countenance to these suggestions of disobedience. They should have been promptly set aside. Stopping to expostulate or reason is merely opening the door for further beguilement. In the language of our text, she was "drawn away by her own desire and was enticed"; then, when desire had conceived, the sinful act of eating the forbidden fruit resulted.

How does desire conceive? We answer, The mind entertains the desire, warms it, vitalizes it, reflects upon what advantages or pleasures would result; enters into and enjoys those forbidden pleasures mentally. Thus Mother Eve reflected that no doubt the forbidden fruit was specially delicious to the palate, luscious; more than this, that the enlightenment of mind would bring to her vistas of thought far beyond anything she and Adam had ever previously imagined. Thus her desire for knowledge conceived and gradually, perhaps in moments, perhaps in hours, perhaps in days, developed more and more the thought of the joys and pleasures to result from the act of disobedience—until practically the whole of life was absorbed in this one desire, any everything else of her glorious and proper blessings on every hand was practically forgotten and ignored. Finally the irresistible moment came. She took the fruit. She ate it; sin was born, and the wage of death would follow in due course.

The main thing to be noticed is that the admission of evil desire into our hearts, into our wills, is the beginning of sin—the conception of sin. After the conception it is only a matter of time until it shall be born, unless in some manner that sinful desire be quenched, be killed. Even then it will be with serious consequences that the wrongly conceived sin will be gotten rid of. The lesson is, as the Apostle suggests in the text, the keeping of our hearts, our minds, so the desires shall not conceive therein. This means a loyalty to God and to the truth and to righteousness, about which the world in general knows little. It means that many kinds of desires and ambitions may be begotten in the heart and lead on to one kind or another kind of sinful development. Let us then hearken to the Lord, "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life" (Proverbs iv, 23).

Eternal life or eternal death is the issue, not eternal happiness or eternal misery. True, under God's provision, all who get eternal life will thereby get eternal happiness; but all who fail to get the eternal life or happiness in God's provision will get eternal death, the Second Death, utter extinction. As St. Peter declares, they shall be "as brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed" (II. Peter ii, 12). And St. Paul says, "They shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord"—not with everlasting torment (II. Thessalonians i, 9).

We have seen how sin entered, and that its wage or penalty of Divine decree is death—extinction. And we have seen that mental, moral and physical imperfections are merely elements of our dying process. If this were all that the Bible had to tell us, it would be valueless to us, for why philosophize over a fact if it could not in any sense or degree be avoided? If there were no hope, as the Apostle suggests, we might as well eat, drink and be merry and make no attempt specially to strive against sin, and thus to bring ourselves into conflict with the weaknesses of our own natures and our evil environment. But, as the Scriptures declare, "There is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared" (Psalm cxxx, 4). The very fact that God has provided the forgiveness and made possible an escape from the original death sentence and return to his favor—eternal life—makes life worth living and puts a new ambition, a new hope, a new energy into all those who come to an understanding of it.

If we were dealing with fallen men like ourselves instead of with God, we might say that some men would change their word and others would not. But when we think of the unchangeable God we feel convinced that the sentence he once pronounced must stand. The great Supreme Judge of the Universe, in the findings of his own court, will not retract his just sentence, "Dying, thou shalt die." Hence we would not be inclined to expect eternal life from him who declares against us as a race that "the wages of sin is death."

That philosophy once seen is convincing to the last degree. Briefly stated, it is that "By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned;" because all except the first man were sinners by heredity (Romans v, 12). In other words, the sentence of death was pronounced only against Father Adam. Everybody else who dies merely shares in his sentence under the natural laws of heredity. Then God condescendingly explains to us the philosophy of how that one man's sins being met, the merit can be made applicable to all of his posterity, so that the death of one righteous man could satisfy the claims of justice against the race as a whole.

But we inquire, where could the one man be found who would be willing to surrender his own life for that of Adam and his race? And if such a generous man could be found how could he, as a member of the condemned race, be acceptable to justice as man's Ramson Price? The Scriptures again explain that no such man could be found amongst Adam's race, and that therefore God so loved the world that he gave his Son to be our Redeemer. Then the query comes, Would it be just for God to give his Son? And the answer is Scripturally given, that He set before his Son a great joy, a high reward, and that the Son, fully in accord with his Father, delighted to do his will—"For the joy that was set before him, endured the cross, despising the shame" (Hebrews xii, 2). We are assured that the reward for this great transaction is a great one. The Apostle, after describing how our Lord, our Redeemer, first left the glory of the heavenly estate and humbled himself to take the human nature and was then found obedient unto death, even the death of the cross, then adds, "Wherefore, God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name; that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father" (Philippians ii, 9-13).

As we were all born in sin as the children of Adam, all must be born again if they would become the children of God. Many have failed to notice the Scriptural teaching that out of our race God intends to produce two families of sons on different planes of being. The one class, begotten and born of the spirit, will be resurrected, be born spirit beings, like unto the angels. The other class, begotten again to human conditions, will experience resurrection (Acts iii, 19-21) favors, by which they will be recovered from sin and death conditions and ultimately come to human perfection and righteousness. These will not be like unto the angels, but be like unto Adam in his sinless condition before the condemnation. The curse will be removed not only from these, but also from their earthly home, which will then become as Eden, the garden of the Lord—Paradise restored. Our Lord pointed out the time of the world's regeneration, in full harmony with St. Peter's words above cited, saying to his disciples, "In the regeneration ye that have followed me shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel" (Matthew xix, 28). The regeneration time, or resurrection time, has not yet come; hence the apostles are not upon the thrones of Israel; but instead, the twelve tribes are still under the Gentile domination. And Gentile domination, in Scriptural language, means the times in which Satan is the Prince of this world, "Who now worketh in the hearts of the children of disobedience."

The apostles are not to sit upon the twelve thrones of Israel until the Second Coming of our Lord and the binding of Satan and establishing of the Kingdom; hence the time of Restitution, or times of Regeneration, for mankind are yet future. When that happy day shall have fully dawned it will mean a sweet release of the world from the power of sin and death, to which all but the saintly few are now in slavery. In the Jewish order of reckoning time, night came first and day afterward. Thus the world has already been passing through a night time of darkness, ignorance, superstition and sorrow, the results of sin and death. But the redeeming merits of Jesus have provided the Millennial Day, which will soon be ushered in and chase away forever the shadows of sin and death. No wonder the poet sang,

"O, hail happy day
That speaks all sorrows ending!"

The Psalmist refers to the same glorious day, saying, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning."

Slipshod English.

Here are some specimens of very common errors:

Admit for confess. To admit is to concede something affirmed. An unaccused offender cannot admit his guilt.

Adopt. "He adopted a disguise." One may adopt a child or an opinion, but a disguise is assumed.

Aggravate for irritate. "He aggravates me by his insolence." To aggravate is to augment the disagreeableness of something already disagreeable or the badness of something bad. But a person cannot be aggravated, even if disagreeable or bad.

All of. "He gave all of his property." The words are contradictory. An entire thing cannot be of itself. Omit the preposition.

At for by. "She was shocked at his conduct." This very common solecism is without excuse.—Cosmopolitan.

Mixed Metaphors.

Mixed metaphors are always amusing, and a contemporary has presented us with some good examples.

"You are," said a late lord mayor of Dublin in opposing a municipal scheme, "standing on the edge of a precipice that will be a weight on your necks all the rest of your days."

And this, attributed to an English clergyman: "The young men of England are the backbone of the British Empire. What we must do is to train that backbone and bring it to the front."

A member of Parliament was responsible for the following: "Even if you carried these peddling little reforms it would only be a flea bite in the ocean."—London Academy.

The Blood In the Brain.

Too much blood in the brain is a frequent cause of headaches. Pains are felt all over the head, the face becomes flushed, the temples throb and strong light or noise causes excruciating pain. In cases of this kind the sufferer should be careful in diet and should not eat meat oftener than once a day.

To little blood in the brain is another cause of headache. It is recognized by dizziness, noises in the ears and pains on the top of the head. The best stimulant is a cup of strong tea or coffee or a bowl of soup. People who suffer with these headaches should sleep with their heads low.—London Strand Magazine.

Blessing Cheap.

There was an elopment a short time ago from a Bolton subrub, and after a brief honeymoon the bride returned to the parental roof.

"And you will give us your blessing?" she asked.

"Freely," replied the old man. "No trouble about the blessing, but board and lodging willb e at regular rates."

Played It to the Limit.

Many writers have declared that an Irish gentleman's hospitality is unlimited, but this is a slight exaggeration, as is shown by a story borrowed from a book of Irish memories.

Jerry McCartie was often the guest of friends who on account of his pleasant ways extended to him that sort of old Irish hospitality which enabled a visitor in my own family who came for a fortnight to stay for six years.

In McCartie's case the visit stretched to nearly double that time. After eight or nine years, however, his kinsman got a little tired of his guest and let him know of his old mansion's proposed renovation and that he had signed a contract for having it painted from garret to cellar.

"By George," said Jerry, "it's fortunate that I don't object to the smell of paint, and it will be well to have some one to keep an eye on the painters now that the wall fruit is ripening."

Some months passed. Then his host informed him that he was going to be married, adding, "I thought I'd tell you in good time, so that you could make leisurely preparations to go, as the lady and you may not hit it off as well as you and I do."

With tearful eyes Jerry grasped his cousin's hand, saying:

"Oh, Dan, dear, you have my hearty thanks for your consideration; but, dear, dear boy, surely if you can put up with her I can."

Woodchopping as a Sport.

In Tasmania is to be found a national pastime that is special and particular to that state alone—the sport of woodchopping. It says much for the grit and vigor of Tasmanians that this really serious and arduous work should be regarded as the finest sport. At Hobart and Launceston they have their turf meetings, their cricket, football, golf, cycling, and so forth, but to a woodchopping contest people will flock from far and near—men, women and children—and watch the ax wielders hewing away at huge blocks of timber as if life and reputation depended upon the issue. Thud, thud, thud, go the axes, and the splinters fly in all directions, the judges calmly sitting near, taking notes of the strokes, the spectators cheering the competitors from time to time as frantically as if they were race horses. To be a woodchopping champion means something to a man in Tasmania.

Look Prosperous or Pay In Advance.

"While there is a good deal of the American spirit prevailing in Sydney and Melbourne, they do things there in a peculiar way," said a traveling man. "It is hard to get used to them.

"They have excellent restaurants there, but they run on a peculiar plan. A man goes in and sits down at a table, and a waiter, generally a woman, hands him the bill of fare. He makes out his order on a slip, and before he is waited on the waiter goes to the cashier and has a little private talk with him. The cashier looks over at the customer, and if he appears to be good for the bill he is served; otherwise he is asked to pay in advance. The meals are good and cheap. The same careful scrutiny is made when a fellow registers at a hotel. Good looks will go further than any amount of baggage."—Omaha Bee.

Clear Waste.

"He has a quick temper, you know," was the excuse given by a friend for a boy's rude act.

"Is he quick at his lessons?" was the question.

"No," was the reply.

"Is he quick at sports?" the questioner went on.

Again the answer was "No."

"Is he quick in obedience?"

"No."

"Well," said the questioner, with a twinkle in his eye, "if he has so little quickness he'd better use it where it will do him some good. It's clear waste to put it on his temper."

The Town of Bushire.

Residents of a miserable seaport on the Persian gulf called their town Bushire (Boosheer). It has narrow, dirty, ill paved streets. The city is visited by earthquakes and simooms and stints its children of wholesome air and fresh water. It appears, however, to have enjoyed high repute among the ancient Elamites, who have left buried about under moldering heaps bricks with cuneiform inscriptions. In summer the citizens of Bushire live in a heat that is almost unbearable.

Her Sorrow.

"P-papa," sobbed small Sadie, "m-my canary is d-dead!"

"Never mind, dear," replied her father; "I'll buy you another one."

"Oh, I'm calm now," rejoined Sadie, "but when I first saw the poor little thing I cried like a child."—Exchange.

After the Race.

"So your horse was distanced, was he?"

"Yes."

"Did you have anything on him?"

"I thought I had a jockey on him, but it seems I didn't."

Just Noises.

"Look here!" shouted the irate farmer. "What are yeou doing fishing in my lake when it's posted?"

"Aw, go on!" sneered the tough city lad. "Make a noise like a hoop and roll away."

The farmer took out his knife and cut off a section of birch.

"Sonny," he said solemnly, "I reckon yeou'd be better making a noise like a locomotive for the next few minutes."

"Like a locomotive, old clover seed! Why?"

"Because yeou are going to be switched."

And the next moment the yells that emanated from the clump of bushes made a noise like a Sioux Indian on the warpath.—Chicago News.

Explained.

Aunt Carrie's mocking bird's a peach except that he won't sing.
We've tried him since he came, and he will eat most anything.
We've fed him soap and camphor balls and pie and pumpkin seeds,
But still he just won't sing, because he don't get what he needs.

We fed him tacks and broken glass and snuff and turpentine,
And when he ate blue paint he chirped and sure was doing fine,
But he was such a lazy bird he wouldn't eat no more,
And now he's lying in his cage, all spread out on the floor.
So when Aunt Carrie comes she'll have to ask—that crazy thing—
We wouldn't tell her for the world—the reason he won't sing.

"I Told You So."

An old couple lived in the mountains of eastern Tennessee. He was ninety-five and she ninety. Their son, a man of seventy, died. As the old folks crossed the pasture to their cabin after the burial the woman noticed a tear roll down her husband's cheek. She patted him tenderly on the arm and said:

"Never mind, John; never mind. You know I always said we never would raise that boy."—Success.

She came to me in a business whirl.
I thought I was lucky to get her.
I hired her, my beautiful typewriter girl;
She obeyed me to the letter.

Shy and demure and without a flaw,
No matter how early or late to her
I spoke, it was final—my word was law.
I hired her, forsooth, to dictate to her.

Alas, but I married that maiden, and when
I made her a partner and mate to me
She lifted her eyes from the keys and the pen
And started right in to dictate to me!

FORBIDDEN TEA PARTY.

What Happened at Function Given by a Rebellious Woman.

Tea was not brought over by the first settlers. When the pilgrims landed at Plymouth tea was selling in England at from $10 to $50 a pound. It was a luxury that had been known to Englishmen only a few years.

Early settlers got along without India or China tea for a long time. They used roots, herbs and leaves found in the fields and woods as a substitute for tea. Sassafras tea was a common drink.

Tea was advertised for sale in Boston in 1762 for the first time, according to historians. In 1766 patriots began to take the pledge not to drink tea because of the tax that the English government placed on it. It became fashionable for patriotic ladies not to serve India tea, but as substitutes therefor "Labrador tea" and "Liberty tea."

Captain Page of Danvers forbade his spouse to taste tea beneath his roof as long as the tax remained, but the strong minded and ingenious lady ascended to the flat roof of the house, invited her friends to follow, and there she served tea to them.

Some other ladies of the town fared less fortunately. They used to borrow for their tea parties the big teapot of the once famous Bell tavern. One day after drinking the forbidden beverage the master of the house unexpectedly walked in, jumped to the fire, grabbed the teapot and turned it over, and out rolled a big frog. The jovial patriots at the Bell tavern, suspecting the use of the pot, had placed the frog in it. Some of the dames never drank tea afterward, for it made them sick.

Isaac Wilson of Peabody persisted in selling tea, so the Sons of Liberty seized him and compelled him to walk about town penitently repeating:

I, Isaac Wilson, a Tory be.
I, Isaac Wilson, I sell tea.

The celebrated Boston tea party was followed by tea parties in other New England towns. In Salem soon after the Boston party David Mason was suspected of having had his negro servant smuggle two chests of tea into the home. Patriots entered and searched his house. They found the tea. They gave it to boys, who paraded with it to Salem common and there burned it.

Even after the Revolution the trade in tea was not wholly unrestricted. It appears that in some New England places dealers in tea were required to take out a license.

PSYCHIC HOUSEKEEPING.

In Which Everybody Works, Including Father.

The latest fashion in housekeeping is the psychic variety. Psychic housekeeping is simply a practical system that a Chicago woman has invented, wrought out and made an effective solution of the servant girl problem. In her house everybody works. The guests are hosts, and the hosts are guests, and all take turns at the dishpan and the washtub.

If you should happen to drop in at 5:30 a. m. you would see men and women in the kitchen, with aprons on and sleeves up to elbows, preparing breakfast. You would see one man serving the meal today and another tomorrow. In the evening the same scenes would be repeated.

Between the two meals one man is away painting portraits and landscapes and seascapes in oil, another is healing the sick, others are at the counting house, while the women are entertaining or shopping or calling.

Saturday afternoons men and women sweep, beat rugs, wash and iron and bake dainties for Sunday. And all this reduces the cost of living to $8 apiece a month.

Hitherto the management of the household has been considered woman's especial prerogative. Man has been general manager of railroad and factory and store and mine, but under the psychic system he becomes a general manager of housekeeping, a working manager in name and deed. The first man to hold the office and administer culinary and other domestic affairs is John Forsell, an artist, who lives in a big, square house at 1041 Waveland avenue, Chicago. The mistress of the mansion is Mrs. Forsell, yet she does not say "my home" when she speaks of it, but rather "our home," thereby wishing it understood that every occupant of this unique habitation is as much the "boss" as she herself. She is the inventor of psychic housekeeping, a kind which she asserts is adaptable to two or more families or to one family and its relatives or friends.

A Dainty Pincushion.

A charming little pincushion for baby's table is fashioned to look like a baby shoe or bootee with the cushion fitted into it. It can be made of white, pale blue or pink canvas, the cushion to be of silk in the same color and the lacing of the shoe in bebe ribbon to match.

Any worn out shoe can be ripped apart and used as a pattern. Where a tiny one is the only model available it will be necessary to cut the new goods larger, while following the general outline, as the cushion should not be too small.

Sleeper Sleeping Robe.

Challis is one of the best materials for making a little sleeping robe when traveling on a sleeper. It can be made as roomy and comfortable as a wrapper, with all the appearance of a pretty dress. Select a bordered effect—tan with a brown border or white with blue. The corals with oriental borders are handsome, and you can find dark colors that are as handsome as the very best figured materials on the market.

Young Folks

GAME FOR TRAVELERS.

"By the Way" Will Amuse Grown Folks as Well as Children.

This game is a great deal of fun and can be played by children of all ages when traveling by car, automobile or carriage. The one who first sees an object wins a number of points. The score is kept by one player. The party should be divided into two sections, the left side of the road being assigned to one section and the right side to the other section. The counts are as follows (these may be changed to suit the particular part of the country you are in):

	Count.
A baby in arms	1
A baby in a gocart	3
A white horse	5
A ladder against a house	2
A woman with white apron	1
A butcher's cart	1
A postman	4
A bridge	5
A red headed girl or man	3
A messenger boy	2
A man with a camera	3
A black pig	5
A white house	1
A boy on a fence	4
A brook	2

If any of the following are seen the score is to be lessened by its count. Sides try to catch each other on these Lose.

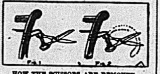
A pug dog	2
An open gate	2
A piebald horse	4
A flock of sheep	3
A soldier	10

No matter what the score is, whichever side sees a cat on a window ledge or a pig standing on its hind feet wins the game.

WITH SCISSORS AND CORD.

A Trick That Can Be Easily Performed When One Knows How.

A piece of strong cord is doubled and fastened to a pair of scissors with a slip knot, as shown in Fig. 1. After passing the ends of the cord through the thumb hole of the scissors they are tied fast to a chair, doorknob or any other object that may be of sufficient size to make the ends secure.



HOW THE SCISSORS ARE REMOVED.

The trick is to release the scissors without cutting the cord.

Take hold of the loop end of the cord in the lower handle and draw it first through the upper handle and then completely over the blades of the scissors, as shown in Fig. 2. This is very simple when you know how, but puzzling when the trick is first seen.—Popular Mechanics.

What Is My Thought Like?

One of the players in this game thinks of some object—it may be a person, an animal or a thing—and each player is questioned by the "thinker." "What is my thought like?" and must make an answer, "Like a monkey," "Like a table," "Like a fish," "Like a mischievous boy," and so on. When all have answered the "thinker" tells them the object thought of. Perhaps it was a person present. Each player must then justify his reply or, failing this, pay a porfeit.

For instance, the one who said the object was like a monkey when told the name of a gentleman present as the object would reply, "I said Mr. —— was like a monkey because he is fond of nuts." The next would say, "I said Mr. —— was like a table because he is rather wooden looking." "He is like a fish because he is fond of the water," and so on.

Game of Neighbors.

In this game half the company are blindfolded and are seated with an empty chair on the right hand of each. At a given signal all the other players occupy these as mysteriously as they can and immediately begin to sing, either all to a tune played on the piano or every one by himself.

The object of the blind players is to find out, entirely by ear, who is seated on their right. Those who guess correctly are unbandaged, and their places are taken by the players whose names they guessed. The others remain blindfolded until they guess rightly. Only one guess is allowed each round.

P's and Q's.

The company forms a circle, and one stands in the center as questioner. No one must name a place beginning with a letter that comes before "Q" in the alphabet.

The leader may begin in this fashion: "Commodore Evans is in the strait of Magellan with the fleet. Where is he going next? But mind your P's and Q's." The unthinking speaker may say "To Chile," for which a forfeit must be paid, as C is before Q in the alphabet, and so the game goes on. Any country or incident may be used in asking the questions.

The Way to June.

It is through the glade that the ice has made
And under the glistening trees
Beyond the snow, where the cold winds blow
Through the cave of the old March breeze,
Then down the lane of the April rain
Under violet scented showers
And off by way of the hills of May
With their apple blossom bowers,
Then on again through a leafy glen stile,
With the bird songs all atune,
Where you rest awhile, at the rose-hung,
For you've found the way to June.

JAPANESE HUSBANDS.

In Rising Sun Country Matrimony Is Built on Equal Rights Plan.

The recent outburst of race antagonism in a Pacific coast city, directed against an American girl for marrying a Japanese, lends interest to the public assertion that "Japanese husbands are the best in the world," made by Mrs. Yakamine, wife of the eminent Japanese chemist and scientist, for many years a resident of New York city. Mrs. Yakamine was Miss Hitch, daughter of one of the old southern families, before she met the doctor and is a stanch defender of international marriages.

"No woman in the world is more protected and better cared for than the wife of a Japanese," she said. "The Japanese husband is considerate, faithful and patient. It is his philosophy, his religion. He is a home loving man, and naturally he is thoughtful of the little attentions to his home and family. Every woman loves these little attentions. Plenty of women prefer kind words and the thought that they are appreciated to diamond rings. If a Japanese sees some little piece of jewelry, ornament or painting he thinks his wife would like he takes it home to her. It is this sort of thing, the fact that he has thought of her during the day, that makes her happy.

"Contrast the American and the Japanese husband under the same circumstances. An American husband comes home from business tired, nervous and hungry. Something has happened to the oven or the cook has allowed the roast to burn. He is likely to become very impatient over the delay or the spoiled dinner. Under similar circumstances does a Japanese husband lose his temper? Indeed, he does not. He says pleasantly, out of consideration for his wife's feelings, 'Well, perhaps there are eggs in the house, and, after all, they might be better for us to eat.'

"If there is anything that will increase rather than diminish this consideration for his wife it is the fact that Japanese women are just beginning to go into business like their American sisters. With this change the men will realize, too, that should they not treat their wives well the women can leave them and earn their own livelihood. So far no such threats, I believe, have been put into practice, but it has been unnecessary, for it is born and bred and trained in the Japanese men as part of their religion to treat their wives with respect and courteous, thoughtful attention.

"In Japan matrimony is built on a sort of equal rights plan. Husband and wife have each his and her duties and his and her particular rights and privileges, and neither would think of encroaching on the other's well defined rights."

IN THE NURSERY.

A baby's eyes should be shaded from a strong light, especially from bright sunlight.

Hot cloths applied to the feet and to the stomach will often relieve colic much more quickly than internal doses.

Boil soft linen towels and put them aside for baby's exclusive use. In drying baby after his bath rub him gently to stimulate the skin to healthy action. Dust baby lightly with a good powder.

Violent noises which startle a child should be avoided, and an infant should under no circumstances be tossed in the air or shaken, as this treatment surely develops nervousness.

The tiny soft brushes so often given as presents to babes are useless, because everything used in the child's mouth should be burned.

A baby should be given pure cold water two or three times a day. Its mouth should be rinsed several times a day with borax water, a teaspoonful to a cup. This will prevent the mouth and gums from becoming sore and keep them sweet and clean.

The Persistent Social Aspirant.

Persistency is ever the hallmark of the woman determined to be recognized socially, and she applies it without stint to the smallest detail of each undertaking, nagging, insisting and pushing until some part is accomplished. So, too, do some women pursue an eligible man, never heeding the thousand and one evidences he gives of indifference, but dodging artfully around each sign of "no intentions" and bobbing up in his path at all turns. It is useless to argue that they do not gain their end and aim, for many times they do. In the long run society yields to the persistency of this type of woman or the man is safely harnessed to her triumphal car.

Charlotte Bonbonniere.

An amusing new bonbonniere is in the shape of a very realistic charlotte russe and about the size of that airy dainty. The top of the charlotte lifts away, disclosing the candy box.

A fun loving hostess bought souvenirs in this form for all the guests at a luncheon. They were filled with goodies and passed by the maid, looking, until closely examined, like a second dessert course. The discovery of their true nature caused much surprise and laughter.

What Money Can't Buy.

Money can't buy everything. There are no admission tickets to a sunset, you wouldn't trade the look in your boy's eyes when he greets you at night for a million dollars of anybody's money, and if you keep a well furnished mind you can go into it any time you like as you would into a child's playground and amuse yourself watching your thoughts play leapfrog with each other.

Ross Rifle Sight

WHY IT WAS BARRED AT THE D. R. A. MEETING.

Ottawa, August 12.—When it was stated some days ago that the executive of the Dominion Rifle Association had decided to disallow the rear sight on the Ross rifle at Bisley, denial was promptly forthcoming from the interested press. A member of the executive, however, said yesterday that the report was correct. He said that the sight in question was an auxiliary or peep sight fitted to the bolt of the rifle. "To allow this sight," he said, "would be to discriminate against many of the marksmen who will compete at this year's matches. Only a few of the competitors—those who have shot on the Bisley team and some in the city regiments—have the new sights. Others would be unable to obtain them, therefore it was decided, in order to have all marksmen compete on even terms, to prohibit the use of this particular sight."

In answer to a further question he intimated that in his opinion the new back sight is not adapted for active service.

'How did the sight come to be used at Bisley, then?"

'For the reason that at the recent Bisley meeting the N. R. A. Council decided to permit the use of almost any adjunct to shooting for the purpose of experiment. We have the benefit of that experiment now without handicapping the majority of our competitors by permitting the use of a sight that is not available to all marksmen alike."

Now that the winter is over, everyone is becoming interested in league baseball, or one of the many summer sports. In order to keep our readers in touch with all live sporting events, we have made arrangements with THE NEWS, Toronto, whereby we can offer both THE NEWS (daily) and The Intelligencer for one year for $4.00. We can fully recommend the Sporting Page of THE NEWS as being accurate, complete and up-to-date. Special correspondents report all the Eastern League baseball games and no sporting event of any consequence on this continent is omitted from its columns. Photos of the players, runners and "snaps" of games, etc., make the page particularly attractive. Send for sample copies and see for yourself. A postcard to our office requesting samples of THE NEWS will be promptly attended to. tf

16-Year-Old Lad is Accused of Murder.

SHOCKING CRIME IN SIMCOE COUNTY — OLD MAN KILLED AND HIS WIFE SHOT FOUR TIMES.

(Intelligencer special.)

Simcoe, Aug. 16.—A shocking crime was committed near the village of Walsh, ten miles west of Simcoe, in Charlottesville township, yesterday afternoon.

Michael Hall, 80 years of age and nearly blind, was returning to his house, after assisting in the evening chores at the barn, when, just as he was entering his door, he was shot from behind and fell dead on the threshold.

Two more shots were fired into the prostrate body by the murderer, who then fled.

News of the matter being telephoned to the county police at Simcoe, Constable Austin was sent to the scene of the crime and arrested Emery Shelly, aged 16 years, who, it is said, had been quarrelling with the old man.

Mrs. Hall, according to report, was also shot, four bullets, it is said, being fired into her body. She is still alive, however, and may recover.

Frank Hogan Tried On Serious Charge.

In the police court this morning, Frank Hogan, a young, well-dressed man, was tried for alleged indecent assault on a 5-year-old girl named Viola Renfrey. Mr. Ed. Butler defended the prisoner, who had elected to be tried by Magistrate Masson. Mr. P. J. M. Anderson prosecuted. The offence is alleged to have been committed on July 25th.

After hearing the evidence, the Magistrate gave Hogan the benefit of the doubt, and acquitted him.

Too Many Goliaths For This David.

David Hill, an Indian, made things very lively in the vicinity of the City Hall on Saturday afternoon. In the Wild West performance which took place the noble red man took a prominent part, and when the circus was over David was considerably the worse for wear. His story is that he was in a hotel, lifting on a weight-lifting machine against a bunch of white men. He lifted a few ounces short of a ton, and the palefaces were several laps behind. Then they grew nasty and handed David what Jack Johnson gave Tommy Burns. The dusky warrior drifted into the street, gathered some stones as big as goose eggs and began to make bullseyes on the hotel door. Then the police provided him with free board and lodging. This morning, in court, he looked as though a little raw beef on his eyes would do good.

Magistrate Masson found Hill guilty of being drunk and disorderly, and fined him $2.50, or in default 15 days.

Was This The Hub?

The other day the Intelligencer had an item telling how some miscreant had cut the spokes of a Bellevillian's wheel and stolen his hub. On Saturday Mr. Kennedy found a bicycle hub, with the cut spokes still hanging to it, in the yard back of this office. Is that the hub which was stolen. If so the owner can have it, if he'll come after it.

Cheap Cement.

Mr. E. S. Evans, of the Interurban Electric Co., and of the Erindale Power Co., advertised the other day for tenders for a large quantity of cement. He received replies from a lot of mills and closed with two of the leading Canadian ones for several thousand barrels f. o. b. Erindale at 98 cents a barrel net. This is the cheapest that cement was ever bought in Canada.

Is a merger coming?

Aletha Ran Aground On Cow Island Saturday Night.

AND WAS STILL HARD AND FAST THIS AFTERNOON—BROOKVILLE AND A TUG WILL TRY TO RELEASE HER.

The talk of the city yesterday, among the select few who walked the streets, was the fact that the steamer Aletha had run aground on Saturday night. It was stated at first that she had climbed up on a bar with between two and three hundred passengers aboard, but this, was not true.

The facts of the case are that the Aletha came in from Trenton on Saturday night, having a large party aboard, having run a moonlight to Trenton.

After unloading her precious freight the Aletha took on a heavy cargo of freight for Kingston and at once pulled out for that burg. Then she ran aground on Cow Island, and there she was this afternoon.

Efforts were made to release her yesterday, but without avail.

Only the crew of the vessel are aboard, and she is not believed to be injured, as she does not list, apparently.

Sailormen say the Aletha is probably well up on a big rock, as, had she been stuck in the mud, the rough water of yesterday would undoubtedly have helped to float her off.

A powerful tug is coming up from down the bay, and the Brockville will this afternoon, lighten the Aletha, after which it is believed, she will be easily pulled off.

Lost His License

Abraham McEwen, who has a license to fish Bobs' Lake with a hoop net, fished outside his limits in Mud Creek and was fined $15 and $17 costs at Sharbot Lake by Captain Hunter, game warden for Eastern Ontario. His license was also cancelled.

Say Gas is Poor.

Some of the suffragettes in certain parts of this city will never hang any medals on the gas man if he don't put on more pressure round meal times. Some of the ladies say they can't get enough gas to cook the family dinner wtih. One good lady, the other day, had to give up trying to cook dinner with the gas, wield the family axe and start a fire in the cookstove. She felt, just then, like sending a valentine to the Gas department if the date had been appropriate. The poor pressure, it is said, is only felt in outlying parts of the city, but that is poor consolation to the folks who live there.

Good Citizen Goes.

The familiar face of Mr. Falle, who for twenty-one years has been with James Wallace and Co., will be missed by his host of friends who have had occasion to do business with him at the stand. Mr. Falle left this morning for Bowmanville where he has a situation with his son-in-law, Mr. D. Harrison, who was recently appointed to the management of the Canadian Express office in that town. Mrs. Falle will follow in a few weeks.

Award Of $20.00 In Gold.

Stroud Bros. announce a Fruit Preserving Competition in which they give four prizes of $5 each in gold, for the best jar of Peaches Pears, Blue Plums or Green Plums preserved in a "Schram Automatic Sealer." Any housewife may enter this competition who purchases one dozen of these sealers at their store, any time from Monday, Aug. 9, until the competition closes.

For years those who preserve their own fruit have wondered why on earth some genius could not invent a fruit jar less bothersome and more perfect in construction than the old gem jar which has been in use since our grandmothers' time. A jar which would do away entirely with the old galvanized ring, glass top, and separate rubber.

The dream has come true and the above-named firm are demonstrating at their store, the New Jar. Like all other great inventions which have benefitted mankind or rather womankind in this case, one wonders why the principle of the thing has not been discovered before, it is so simple.

While the glass is far superior to that used in the old jar, the special feature is the cap or top which is all in one piece.

The jar, we understand, was invented by a Canadian, but was first put on the market in the United States.

The demand for them has been so great, however, that the company were obliged to build a factory in Canada. The rapid growth of the popularity of the jar, is shown in the fact that while in 1905 there were five millions of these sold, today fifty millions of these jars are in use in Canada and the United States.

As has been mentioned the cap is all in one piece and can be used two or three seasons. In case, for any reason, new caps are needed, they can be procured at the very low cost of 1¼ cents each. Needless to say, this progressive firm are selling the "Schram Automatic Sealer" in large quantities, and no doubt many thrifty housewives will have a try for the five dollar gold pieces.

FRUIT—THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

Wonderful Medicinal Value of Apples, Oranges, Figs and Prunes.

How many people realize what remarkable curative principles are contained in fruit juices. There are two—the bitter and the sweet. There is about ten times as much of the sweet as of the bitter, though the bitter principle is the one which has the curative effect on disease. Apples, oranges, figs and prunes contain the highest percentage of bitter principle and thus are the most healthful.

It was a theory of a physician in Ottawa, that if the amount of bitter principle in fruit juice could be doubled, the curative property would be increased, not twice but many times.

After many tests, this physician succeeded in forcing into the combined fruit juices an additional atom of bitter principle, and in doing so formed an entirely new compound. To the combined juices were added valuable tonics and antiseptics and the whole made into tablets.

These are "Fruit-a-tives"—the only remedy known to science that is made of fruit. The wonderful cures in cases of Stomach Trouble, Biliousness, Constipation, Rheumatism, Chronic Headaches and Neuralgia, Kidney, Liver and Skin Diseases are due solely to the fact that "Fruit-a-tives" contain the medicinal properties of fruit. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial box, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

WEEK END DROWNINGS

Toronto Has Two Fatalities at Summer Resorts.

Young Bank Clerk Loses His Life In Surf at Centre Island — Boy Drowns at Woodbine Beach Despite Heroic Efforts of Young Man to Save Him—Hastings Lad Loses Life—Youth Performs Rescue.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—R. G. H. Evans, clerk in the Eglington branch of the Bank of Montreal, was drowned in the lake off Centre Island at the foot of Manitou road at 4.30 yesterday afternoon.

He was bathing with a number of friends at the time, but on account of the rapidly rising sea, his companions had all come ashore, and he was attempting to follow when the undertow dragged him down. At the time he was within 50 feet of the shore.

Fraser Bryce, Edward Marriott and Geoffrey Hill were in the party. They had decided that the surf was getting too strong, and started ashore together. As the three named reached the beach, they turned and saw Evans being carried out by the current. A plank was thrown to him, but he went under just before it reached him.

Evans was 22 years old. His relations live in Sudbury. He had been for some time in the Yonge and Richmond streets branch of the Bank of Montreal, but about six weeks ago was removed to the Eglinton branch.

Victor Miville, aged 11, son of Hospice A. Miville, a painter, living at 102 Carlaw avenue, was drowned and three other boys had a narrow escape while swimming in the lake at Woodbine Beach Saturday afternoon.

When the sea came up the four boys did not think it was dangerous and did not go ashore. At 3.45, while wading through the billows, they all stepped into a hole and the waves threw them off their feet. Russel Oak and Matthew Stone, aged about 14, succeeded in regaining their feet after a struggle and getting to safety. Alfred and Victor Miville, brothers, disappeared from view.

Their cries alarmed several men who were sitting on the verandahs of their homes, some distance away. Fred Bragg and Albert Quinlan, both of Woodbine Beach, went, without disrobing, to the rescue.

After a hard struggle Bragg brought Alfred ashore, but the brother went down despite Quinlan's efforts and his body was washed ashore 20 minutes later.

Boy Drowns While Fishing.

Hastings, Aug. 16.—John Murray, the 10-year-old son of Mrs. John Murray, was drowned in the Trent Saturday morning. He was fishing off the cribwork of the dam and slipped in.

Drowned In the Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 16.—The body of a man, 45 years old, five feet ten inches in height, and weighing 150 pounds, was taken from the Whirlpool yesterday. The little hair on his head was light-colored. Identification may be established by a clover-leaf pin set with a brilliant. The body had been in the water only a short time.

Thousand Chinese Drown.

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 16.—According to advices brought by the Empress of India, there were recently disastrous floods in Manchuria and Korea. At Kibin 7,000 houses were washed away and over a thousand Chinese drowner. Ping Yang and Antung, in Korea, were also submerged, the latter place being flooded by a sudden rise of the Yalu. Many lives were lost.

Many soldiers and workmen at Niiona Village, in Okayama, narrowly escaped being killed, when a coolie made three ineffective attempts to dynamite the barracks, in revenge for non-payment of wages by the contractor. He secreted some dynamite in the barracks and laid a train which he fired, 15 workmen being hurt by the explosion. The soldiers were absent when the dynamite was exploded.

Nuremberg Forbids Women's Trains.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—Following the example of other municipalities which have recently passed edicts against the wearing of long hatpins the police authorities of Nuremberg also are starting in to regulate the question of woman's dress. They have issued a regulation forbidding any woman to wear upon the public streets a dress which is provided with a train. Violations of the rule, which, it is said, has been passed in the interests of the public health, will be punished either by a fine or imprisonment up to two weeks.

The idea of the authorities is that trains not only stir up but collect microbes, and thus subject their wearers to risk of infection.

Trains Collide; Eight Killed.

Colorado Springs, Aug. 16.—Eight are dead and fifty injured, some fatally, as a result of a head-on collision between train No. 8, northbound, and train No. 1, southbound, on the Denver & Rio Grande and Husted, 13 miles north of Colorado Springs, Saturday morning. The trains, both running at terrific speed, met on a curve. No. 8, drawn by two engines, telescoped the baggage car and smoker of No. 1, and all three engines, were thrown into the ditch.

With more than 400 passengers on the two trains, the excitement following the accident was indescribable.

4,000 Harvesters in West.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—Four thousand harvesters from the eastern provinces arrived Saturday and were immediately sent out to points in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where there is a scarcity of harvesters.

Meeting In the Air.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—A meeting in the air between Count Zeppelin and Orville Wright is being planned as one of the features of Wright's visit to Berlin to give a series of aeroplane flights.

Autos to Supplant Fire Horses.

New York, Aug. 16.—Substitution of automobile fire engines for those pulled by horses in the outlying districts of the Bronx, Queen's and Richmond is recommended in a report by Nicholas J. Hayes to Mayor McClellan.

Commissioner Hayes names Chief Croker as authority for the statement that the introduction of the high pressure system "presages the ultimate doing away with the present steam fire engines and its supercession by the automobile hose wagon."

Building Collapses.

Winnipeg, Aug. 16.—The "Breadalbane," a large apartment block being built for J. D. McArthur, the railway contractor, and which had been constructed up to the first floor, collapsed Saturday afternoon, burying four of the workmen, who were underneath.

The weight of wet cement flooring bore out the metal supports and fell on the men, injuring two seriously, and necessitating their removal to the General Hospital. The other two received slight injuries.

POWERS MAY INTERVENE.

Greece Is Ordered to Have Her Flag Lowered In Crete.

London, Aug. 16.—Unless Greece complies with the demand of Turkey and forces the people of Crete to haul down the Greek flag which they have hoisted, the four protecting powers of Crete—Great Britain, Russia, Italy and France—will perform this act, using force if necessary.

This is the substance of a joint note signed by the four powers and presented to the Turkish Government Saturday. In order to carry out the policy and to be prepared to use force if necessary to oblige the Cretans to haul down the objectionable flag, each of the four protecting powers decided to send an additional warship to Canea, the capital of the island of Crete, and at the same time expressed the hope to the Turkish Government that in view of the steps they had taken that Turkey will not think it necessary to order her fleet to Cretan waters.

The joint note of the powers to Turkey is the direct result of a communication from the Cretan Government declaring that it was unable to force the hauling down of the Greek flag. This action of the powers followed sharply upon Turkey's note to Greece Friday, demanding a formal declaration respecting her intention as to Crete, and thus creating a situation grave enough to move the powers to action.

$45,000 Loss at Cobourg.

Cobourg, Aug. 16.—Fire early yesterday morning did damage estimated at about $45,000, and residents are congratulating Chief Rouse that he prevented its being a much higher loss. The heaviest loser, is George Thompson, of Thompson & Macdonald, whose implement storehouse and offices with six horses were destroyed. The loss is placed at $40,000, about one-quarter insurance. The fire started in the stable at 12.45 a.m. and fanned by a strong east wind, spread to the stables of the Durham House. The firemen's prompt work at this spot undoubtedly saved the hotel. John Vonburg's stable and Davidson's livery stable were burned and the Division street Methodist Church were scorched.

The Port Hope firemen responded to a call, arriving an hour after the fire broke out. Residents whose homes were in danger also profited by their own labors with small hose. The water pressure was good.

French Money For the West.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—Hon. Philippe Roy of Edmonton, who has just returned from Paris, announced yesterday that the new trust company to be known as the Canadian Mortgage Association, which he has been promoting in France for a year is now an accomplished fact, that the papers are all signed with a leading French bank, and that the concern will open its doors during the coming fall, doing the same kind of business west of the great lakes as the Credit Foncier Franco-Canadiene does in Eastern Canada.

The headquarters of the company will be Winnipeg.

Locating a Broken Wire.

When a telegraph wire is broken or damaged, say, several hundred miles away, how does the operator, sitting in his office, know exactly where the accident occurred?

The explanation is simple. It requires, as every one knows, considerable force to send electricity through a wire. The longer the wire the greater, of course, must be the force required. This force is measured in units called by electricians "ohms." Let us suppose that a wire between a New York office and a point 150 miles away has broken somewhere. The telegrapher knows that when the wire was intact there were required, say, 2,100 ohms to facilitate the current, or fourteen ohms to the mile. He now finds that he can send a current with only 700 ohms. Dividing 700 by 14, he finds that the break in the wire is fifty miles from his end.

Foresight.

Little George, who was four years old, had been told many Bible stories. Among them was the story of the flood and the building of the ark by Noah. One day a storm threatened. The clouds grew darker, the wind arose, and suddenly the rain began to fall.

"Auntie," said George, "do you think it is going to storm?"

"Yes, I think it will," was the reply.

"Do you think it will be a hard storm?" asked the little fellow.

"Yes, I think it will be a hard storm," the aunt replied.

"Well, don't you think some of us had better begin building an ark?" he asked.

The Man and the Mummy.

"This," said the guide who was piloting a bunch of tourists through Egypt as he pointed to a mummy, "was a high priest, the wisest man of his day. He lived to a great age."

"Was his last illness fatal?" queried the wag of the bunch.

"Of course it was," answered the guide, with a look of pity at the other.

"That's queer," rejoined the waggish person. "His present appearance would seem to indicate that he was permanently cured."

True bravery is shown by performing without witness what one might be capable of doing before all the world.—La Rochefoucauld.

MUST SOLVE PROBLEM

South Africa Gets a Free Hand With Race Affairs.

British Commons Unanimously Passes Second Reading of Constitution Bill—There Will Be Two Official Languages—Race Features of Bill Do Not Make Blacks Equal to Whites, Says Balfour.

London, Aug. 17.—The House of Commons last night unanimously passed the second reading of the South African constitution bill.

In the course of the debate ex-Premier Balfour said that the House in dealing with the question of a constitution for the federation of South African colonies — the Transvaal, Cape Colony, the Orange River State, and Natal—was discussing one of the most important events in the history of empire.

The bill, he declared, was a most wonderful issue from all the controversies, battles, bloodshed and difficulties to peace, and he believed the world could not show anything like it.

The race problem, Mr. Balfour said, was but a fractional part of the great question Parliament was now deciding.

He strongly denied that it was intended to give the colored races equality with Europeans, declaring that so far as the Government, society and the higher forms of civilization were concerned, it would be impossible to give equal rights to the colored races without threatening the whole fabric of civilization.

EX-PREMIER BALFOUR.

In the opinion of Mr. Balfour, the best hope for the solution of this great problem was to place absolute and implicit confidence in the representative institutions the South Africans are now creating, and for the Home Government not to meddle with it.

He added that he desired to do nothing that would hamper the Government in carrying out a measure so essential to the future of South Africa.

Hospital Under Quarantine.

Woodstock, Aug. 17.—Woodstock Hospital is again under quarantine for smallpox. There are four cases in the institution now. The quarantine for one was raised the other day, but now the disease has appeared in four other patients, and the hospital is again under quarantine.

There are several other cases also in the city.

Bullfight for Lofty Purpose.

El Paso, Texas, Aug. 17.—For the purpose of raising money for entertaining Presidents Taft and Diaz when they meet here the leading citizens of Ciudad Juarez, opposite El Paso, gave an amateur bull fight Sunday. Three bulls were killed. The best families were represented among the fighters. Later a ball and supper was given.

Prince Praises Papa.

Antwerp, Aug. 17.—Prince Albert Leopold, heir to the Belgian throne, arrived here yesterday on his return from the Congo and was given an ovation. He spoke in praise of what King Leopold had accomplished in the Congo, and said the resources and possibilities of development of the country had exceeded his expectations.

Riot Near Portadown.

Dublin, Aug. 17.—An excursion party made up of members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, was attacked Sunday at Portadown, Armagh, by a mob of stone-throwing Orangemen.

Six hundred policemen were employed in suppressing the rioting, during which many persons were injured.

To Have Aero Detachment.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 17.—Adjutant-General Frank M. Rumbold of the National Guard of Missouri yesterday issued an order directing the organization of an aero detachment, which will be part of the signal corps, located at St. Louis. Fifteen aeronauts will be enlisted.

Charged With Diluting Milk.

Port Arthur, Ont., Aug. 17.—Three milk dealers were summoned to appear before Magistrate Dobie Wednesday to answer charges of diluting milk. One dealer was stopped on his rounds yesterday by Inspector Trenks, his cans sampled and the whole load confiscated.

Killed While Shovelling Ashes.

Sault Ste. Marie, Aug. 17.—Tanas Kulack, a Finlander, was killed at the works of the Lake Superior Corporation by coming in contact with a live wire while shovelling ashes into a car. The electrician at the plant says that only 102 volts were on at the time.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

There were seven death from heat in Omaha, Neb., on Sunday, with the thermometer at 96.

The cloakmakers' strike at Montreal has ended, a slight increase in wages being granted, but the union not recognized.

The London Times' criticizes the Canada-West Indies Commission on the ground that Lord Balfour of Burleigh and Sir J. Dickson Poynder are free traders.

The Japanese armored cruiser Idzuma will on Sept. 15 sail for San Francisco to take part in the naval pageant during the Portola celebration of the discovery of the Golden Gate, Oct. 19.

Beautiful Lake Como, at Bokak, Minn., a suburb of Lacrosse, Wis., disappeared during Sunday night, and when the residents of the village arose they saw only the sandy bottom. A dam 300 feet long at the foot of the lake had broken.

While the steamer Dundurn was taking the lift lock at Cardinal Sunday night one of the deck hands named Baldwin of St. John, N.B., fell overboard and was crushed to death between the vessel and pier. One brother resides in Hamilton, Ont.

Harriman's Latest Coup.

New York, Aug. 17.—A report that E. H. Harriman has obtained an option on a controlling interest in the New York Central lines which, if exercised, will give him control of a through route from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans, was circulated on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Such a route has been the dream of railroad men for years.

The option taken by Mr. Harriman is said to cover about $50,000,000 worth of New York Central stock, a large part of which formerly was controlled by the Vanderbilt interests. The price at which the stock may be taken over is said to be $150 a share.

It was pointed out that the acquisition of the New York Central would give Mr. Harriman an ocean route by way of the New York Central, Chicago & Northwestern, Illinois Central, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific.

Man and Woman Duel.

Orange, Texas, Aug. 17.—E. H. Rice and his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Smith, fought in the street with revolvers yesterday. Rice is alive at his home with three bullets in the body and the woman is in jail. Mrs. Rice announced her intention of leaving her husband. He followed the two women to the street, armed with a pistol, and the fight followed.

Harvesters Not Needed In Dakota.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 17.—Three of a party of forty or more young men who came from Cincinnati to North Dakota thinking jobs in the harvest fields were plentiful, were in Police Court yesterday on a charge of vagrancy. They told Judge Finehoul they had paid $22 each for transportation, but had been unable to get work.

Fishermen Lost.

Canso, N.S., Aug. 17.—The fishing schooner J. W. Mills, Capt. Hiltze, arrived yesterday morning with flag at half-mast for the loss of two of her crew.

They left the vessel on Wednesday with the other dories to set their gear and did not return.

Brodeur Can See the Ships.

London, Aug. 17.—Permission has been given Hon. Mr. Brodeur and Admiral Kingsmill to visit naval establishments and ships in port. Mr. Brodeur will be present at the trial trip of the ice-breaker Earl Grey, at Barrow-in-Furness, August 25.

New York Sunday Evening Papers?

New York, Aug. 17.—A four-page pink sheet, devoted to sports and theatricals, appeared in New York for the first time Sunday evening, bidding for place as "the only Sunday evening paper in New York." It is The Evening Chronicle.

Many Places Are Wrecked.

Electrical Disturbance and Wind Carry Disaster

Windsor Is Visited by Two in Rapid Succession and Many Roofs Are Blown off—Many Persons Narrowly Escape Injury—Barns at Sunderland and Alvington Are Burned.

Windsor, Aug. 17.—A terrific wind and rain storm, which passed over this city Sunday night, was augmented by a second storm yesterday afternoon, and together they inflicted serious damage in many quarters.

It is more than probable that at least two persons have been drowned by the overturning of canoes in the river.

In Windsor roofs were blown off several houses, chimneys blown down, trees damaged, and several people had narrow escapes from being injured by flying debris. Lightning also struck in several places, and at Belle Isle, directly across from Walkerville, one man, Noble T. Bristow of Cleveland, was struck and instantly killed. The rapidity with which the storm came up caught many sailboats and canoes out on the river, and reports of overturned boats are numerous. There is some apprehension that two Detroit boys named Starr may have lost their lives.

Walkerville probably suffered the most severely. Three iron warehouses of the Walkerville Distillery plant were unroofed and thrown to the ground.

Two large barns, owned by Francis Pratt, above Walkerville, and filled with the season's crops, were struck by lightning and destroyed.

Loses Barn and Crops.

Sunderland, Aug. 17.—During a heavy thunderstorm yesterday afternoon, the barn of Thomas Mulligan, two miles northwest of the village, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Mulligan lost all the season's crop of hay and fall wheat, a small quantity of alsike feed, all the fowl, three pigs and a calf, also some of his implements. Mulligan carried some insurance, but his loss will be heavy.

Two Barns Burned.

Alvington, Aug. 17.—During the electric storm that passed over this district Sunday evening, the barn of Albert Cox, a farmer in Brooke Township, was burned down. Yesterday afternoon during another storm, the barn of W. F. Armstrong of the Township of Euphemia was destroyed.

Knocked Out of Bed by Lightning.

Brantford, Aug. 17.—George Snazle, residing on William street, Paris, was knocked out of bed by lightning on Sunday night. There was a severe storm in that vicinity. Snazle went to bed, and about eleven o'clock lightning struck the house, tearing away part of the roof, the bolt crashing into the bedroom, tearing off the plaster, and throwing Snazle to the floor, where he later recovered without serious effects.

Two Little Girls Drown.

London, Ont., Aug. 17.—Phelma Pritchett, aged five, and Madeline Corbin, aged six, camping with their parents for the summer at Wonderland, a few miles from this city, on the Thames, disappeared Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

A systematic search of the woods and farms within miles of Wonderland, has been made, but not a trace of the little girls was discovered until yesterday morning, when in dragging the river the bodies were found close to the camp in about six feet of water.

It is supposed they topple in from the bank, which is very abrupt at this point.

Unidentified Body Found.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Aug. 17.—The body of a man was taken from the river by a couple of men who had been out for a trip in a launch. At first it was supposed the body was that of a sailor of the ill-fated steamer Clemson of Aurania, but later investigation proved it to be that of an unknown Finlander. In the pockets of the coat were found heavy stones, showing that the man had either been a suicide or had met foul play. The clothes bore the stamp of a Milwaukee firm.

Slew Herself and Babes.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Marie Handsel turned on the gas in the bathroom and committed suicide, and slew her three boy babies. She carefully bathed and dressed her three children, one four years old and twins, two years old, carried them into the bathroom and turned on the gas. The smell of gas awakened her husband. He broke open the door of the bathroom and found the four dead bodies. Mrs. Handsel has been ill for some time. She left four other children.

$150,000 Fire at Fernie.

Fernie, B.C., Aug. 17.—Fire broke out in the basement of the miners' clubhouse at Coal Creek at 6 o'clock, yesterday, and, when checked, had destroyed more than $150,000 worth of property and twenty-two buildings including the Trites Woods' store, loss $50,000, Coal Creek Club, the hospital and several large boarding-houses. All the buildings were owned by the company.

Drowned In Niagara Rapids.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Aug. 17.—Augustus Spohr while swimming in the river at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon was caught by the current and carried through the whirlpool. When last seen Spohr was alive and calling for help a quarter of a mile down the rapids.

Village Fire-Swept.

Buffalo, Aug. 17.—Word was brought here yesterday of the practical wiping out by fire of the village of Pike, Wyoming County, on Sunday. All the stores on the main street and many houses were burned. The loss is placed at $75,000.

Steel Will Pay Dividend.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—The Herald prints the following on its financial pages:

"The Herald has it on the best authority that the Dominion Iron & Steel Co. is earning sufficient to warrant a dividend on the common stock next year and leave a substantial surplus to be carried forward.

"The company, if the present rate of production continues, will show earnings at the rate of well over 8 per cent. per annum on the common stock, and there is now little doubt that holders of the stock will receive at least a 4 per cent. dividend during the next fiscal year.

"There is reason to believe that the company's business will continue at the present profitable rate for at least the remainder of the current year."

Big Trestle Collapses.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 17.—A Fredericton special says that six spans of one of the largest trestles on the New Brunswick section of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway collapsed, with the result that one workman was killed and several others had miraculous escapes.

The trestle spanning Mullin's Brook, near McGinvey's Siding, was 1,400 feet long and fifty feet high. Cars were dumping rock into the valley, and went down with the trestle, carrying six with them.

An inquest was held, and the Toronto Construction Co., who were in charge of the work, are not exonerated from blame.

Bound to Have Ice Cream.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 17.—William Morwick is wroth at the Lord's Day Alliance people and is confounded at what he terms the inconsistencies of the law.

Morwick is an ice cream manufacturer, and the latest dictum of the Alliance is that he cannot sell ice cream to persons who go to his factory to buy it, but he is allowed to sell and deliver the cooling cream to hotels, restaurants and boarding-houses.

Determined to have ice cream many people bought sweet cream Sunday and took it home and made ice cream out of it.

Hurled From Auto.

Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 17.—In a blinding rainstorm, a large automobile carrying five men from this city to Philadelphia, skidded on a bridge spanning a creek on the boulevard just outside the city, early yesterday and, striking the railing of the structure with terrific force, threw its occupants into the water, fifteen feet below. All were painfully injured, but they escaped death from drowning by swimming and wading ashore. The automobile was wrecked.

Mountain Climbers Perish.

Tacoma, Wn., Aug. 17.—T. F. Callaghan, of West Seattle, and Joseph W. Stevens of Trenton, N.J., are believed to have lost their lives while endeavoring to ascend Mount Tacoma.

A rescue party yesterday found the Alpine staffs and packs of the lost men ten feet from the crater.

The two men left camp at 2.30 Saturday morning, without a guide. They had but little food.

Boy Badly Burned.

Chatham, Aug. 17.—Basil, the four-year-old son of William Long, third concession, Chatham Township, met with a serious accident at 9.30 yesterday morning. He was playing with matches when he set fire to his clothing. His right side is badly burned.

First Showing of Ladies' New Fall Suits

We have never shown Fall Suits so early in the season and though by no means complete, the present showing is representative of the styles to be in vogue this coming season.

Some of the most noticeable features are the longer coats, the elongated waist line and the fuller skirt coats are still semi-fitting, though a little tighter perhaps than last season, while the slender hip is still maintained. Many of the models have pleated panels introduced in both coats and skirts. Some adhere strictly to tailored lines while others are smartly trimmed with touches of soutache braid, pipings of satin and jet buttons, others have pockets, cuffs and collars, trimmod with moire silk.

Altogether the styles are more pleasing, the qualities better and the prices more moderate than we have been able to offer before. Prices $18.00 to $38.00.

New Arrivals in the Skirt Section

Almost every day now sees new skirts added to our stock and the shades and styles are certainly more than ordinarily attractive, while the designing and workmanship cannot fail to excite your admiration. The new models are shown in plain and fancy striped worsteds, serges, panamas, voiles and venetians and the color range includes medium and dark browns, greys, navies, greens, and black. Some are plain tailored many are in the new pleated effects with touches of satin and jet buttons, splendid styles, priced at $5.75, $6.50, $7.50 up to $18.00.

Charming Waist Styles that Represent Good Values

Fashion still decrees the wearing of the separate waist. We try at all times to carry a full stock so that Ladies' will find choosing easy, as regards material, style and prices. TIMELY TOPICS.

A lady writes: "I wish there were a place near here where my children could be taught to swim. Is it not strange that, in a city so beautifully situated as Belleville, there seems to be no decent swimming places at all?"

◆ ◆ ◆

Strange, but true. Some day we may have a properly equipped swimming bath. But at present there's nothing doing. And still we call people foolish who don't learn how to swim.

◆ ◆ ◆

In former years the Harbor Commissioners have gained merited applause by cleansing the harbor of the green scum which, in the dog days, makes the water foul. There is a large crop of it in the harbor at present, and it would be a good thing if the H. C's took steps to have it removed.

It may be regarded by some as a reproach to the administration of justice."

Belleville Girl Alleged to Be a Sharper's Victim

A sensational story is current to the effect that a young lady of this city, daughter of a former prominent Liberal politician, now deceased, has been victimized by her husband, a man she is said to have met in California.

The man claimed to be a member of an English aristocratic family. He brought his bride back to this city, induced her to put her money into his hands for investment, then ran away with it, leaving her penniless. Now one one knows where he is.

It is now believed the man had assumed a fictitious name, and he may have had other victims, besides the unfortunate girl in Belleville.

Gilded Youth Made Rough House With Chink Cafe Man.

Lee Wing, proprietor of the Royal Cafe, near the City Hall, sent in a hurry call for the police last night, and when the guardians of the peace arrived on the scene, they found a much perturbed celestial.

Some of the gilded youth of this city, he said, had been in one of his parlors eating chop suey, or peacock's wings. Some of the seasoning must have made them hilarious, for they began playing ping-pong with the Chink's dishes and otherwise behaving like mild-mannered pirates. When the proprietor objected he was advised to chase himself back to Pekin. When the police arrived there was only the bric-a-brac on the floor to corroborate the Celestial's story.

But he says those dishes will have to be paid for, if he has to take the case to the Privy Council.

Great Britain and Her Mercantile Marine

The best and most convincing reasons that can be advanced in support of Canada contributing to the maintenance of British power on the sea is found in the reviews of Lloyd's latest list of shipping, which appears in the British press, showing that in spite of the depression that has affected the shipping trade in both the building and operating branches during the past two or three years, Great Britain and her colonies—Great Britain principally—still maintain their immense lead as owners and operators of mercantile shipping. There are on the registers of the different countries, it is set out, 30,540 ships, steam and sail, and of them 11,565, or 37 per cent., fly the British flag. When the tonnage is taken as the measure of relative strength, the British superiority is more evident. The world's shipping makes up 41,449,000 tons. Great Britain controls 18,826,000 tons, or 45 per cent. of the whole. The record of the different countries is thus set out:

	No.	Tons.
Britain & colonies.	11,565	18,826,442
Germany	2,171	4,266,713
United States ...	3,590	4,953,812
France	1,509	1,893,593
Norway	2,125	1,993,624
Japan	865	1,152,800
Italy	1,100	1,319,917
Holland	601	942,240
Sweden	1,503	922,798
Russia	1,346	972,397
Austria	356	750,157
Spain	559	710,018
Denmark	870	742,158

In steam tonnage, which is gradually forcing sailing craft out of all but some special trades, Great Britain's position is remarkable, her 9,758 vessels, of 17,702,714 tons, comparing with Germany's 1,808 of 3,889,046 tons, with the United States' 1,725 of 3,662,332 tons, with France's 884 of 1,445,976 tons, of Norway's 1,292 of 1,388,423 tons, and Japan's 861 of 1,150,858 tons. No other country is credited with a million tons of steam shipping, though Italy and Holland have each over 900,000 tons.

Canadians must not forget that Canada has no small share in this volume of mercantile marine, which is protected by the British navy.

Seats in the Senate.

What's the cost under Grit rule?

The Cook $10,000 episode has not yet been forgotten.

Have we had another money dabble in the securing of a seat in the Senate? If so, let the country have the facts, so that the market value of a seat may be known.

Since the present Government has been in power, all who read, know, that the principal qualification for the Senate is to seek a seat in the Commons and meet defeat. Then the Senate becomes the dumping ground for the rejected of the people.

Have others who have not met defeat at the polls had to put their hands in their pockets to secure the coveted honor, if such, at the present day, it may be considered? It would seem so, if newspaper reports can be accepted as correct, which say that a demand is being made for compensation for assistance rendered in securing the seat made vacant by the death of Senator Merner, of Berlin, and that if not paid an action in court is to be entered to recover it. Let's have the facts.

Mr. Herman Cook, says the Montreal Gazette, declared under oath that "he was asked to pay $10,000 for a seat in the reformed Upper Chamber by a man whom the Laurier Government delighteth to honor. It will be curious to note if there have been any changes in quotations."

Yes, let's have the present quotations. There are others whom we know who are seeking Senatorial honors. The price might be of interest to them.

A Fire Record.

The Monetary Times, published in Toronto, gives the following figures showing the losses by fire in Canada, month by month, for the half year ending June 30th. The total, it will be seen, exceeds $9,000,000.

January	$ 1,500,000
February	1,263,000
March	851,690
April	720,650
May	3,338,270
June	1,360,275

This represents a wiping out of capital which will considerably reduce the profits of the business year to others besides the underwriters. It was accompanied by a loss of life, the extent of which will surprise most people who only casually note the record of the day's happenings in the newspapers. Ninety-four persons perished during, or from injuries sustained at, the fires. This is nearly as bad as the drowning record, and adds to the strength of the argument for greater care in design and construction of buildings, and especially for greater care in anything connected with the making and guarding of fires.

Art and Sculpture For Mrs H. Thaw In Future, She Says,

New York, Aug. 16. — Evelyn has said, It's art and sculpture for Mrs. Thaw hereafter. She locked herself up when she heard that Harry must go back to Matteawan, in the hope perhaps, that her attitude, her—ah—modesty, would have something dramatic in it. For Evelyn loves to be theatrical.

A reporter climbed the three flights of stairs to the studio flat of Mrs. Thaw at 31 West Thirty-third street, at 9 a.m., and began to knock on the studio door. The reporter knocked at regular intervals of ten seconds for an hour and five minutes, when the door was opened and the pretty but tired face of the wife of Thaw appeared in the opening. Her hair had been hastily done up, and, as the door was opened a few inches, the caller could not fail to notice that the wife of White's slayer was dressed in a morning gown of lavender silk.

"Mrs. Thaw," said the caller, "I have come to inform you that Justice Mills has handed down his decision."

With this announcement the door was opened wide, and the wife of the prisoner exclaimed, as her face beamed with expectancy:

"Oh, has he? So soon! What is it?"

When the reporter had told Mrs. Thaw that the Justice had sent her husband back to Matteawan, the wife was asked if she would not tell what she thought about it.

"Well," she replied, as she adjusted an obstinate strand of hair, "I really don't know just what to say." Then, after a moment's thought she added:

"Yes, I will say this: I think that under the circumstances a man, who will take the advice of his counsel to wilfully neglect his wife, is radically wrong. It means years of litigation to the advantage of Mr. Morschauser."

"Now, Mrs. Thaw," said the caller, "perhaps you may now want to say something about the report that you may begin divorce proceedings."

"I positively decline to make any statement on that matter," she replied. "I shall have to first consult my attorney."

"What will be your plans now?" queried the reporter.

Mrs. Thaw drew her hands across her large, tired eyes, and then replied, languidly:

"Oh, I guess my plans are fixed. I shall devote myself to the study of art and sculpture. That seems to be my future. It's the only course left open to me, as the stage seems to be out of the question. I shall devote myself to my sculpture work. I am getting on fairly well, and hope some time to make something out of it."

"Have you received any funds recently from the Thaw family?" asked the caller.

"Not a penny. That is, I have not received the last allowance due me. Please don't ask me any more questions now."

To-day's Market

There was a small market this morning, and prices showed little change from Saturday. Tomatoes were plentiful and a little cheaper, selling at 30c to 40c a peack. Berries are about done, except blackberries, which sold at 10c a box. Some oats were offered for sale, new selling at 50c per bushel and old oats at 60c. New wheat is said to have been sold at 90c per bushel. Barley is nominally 50c per bushel, but none has been offered yet. Sweet corn sold today at 12c to 15c per dozen.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

BOXING.

Joker's Hair Turned Grey.

Charles Brockett, who plays sundry dignified and stately roles in melodrama, but is as playful as a tiny kitten off the stage, returned to Broadway yesterday after a protracted absence, says the New York Telegraph. When he bowed to a lady friend in front of The Cadillac it was noted instantly that his raven locks had changed to gray with a wave of snowy white along the top, and the Thespic men at once wanted to know the reasons why.

"How did the hair turn white, old pal?" queried Ben Shields, solicitously. "Typhoid fever?"

"Nope," responded Mr. Brockett. "Never had better health in my life."

"Nightmare?" questioned Ben Jodson. "I know a man down South once whose hair turned white in one night from an awful dream."

"My hair turned white in ten seconds," answered Mr. Brockett, "and I think it was justified. Only a few weeks ago, too. I was in Pittsburg, and it was an extremely hot afternoon. Between the heat and the native smoke I was all in, and I sought a rathskeller, where I found many of my friends. Among them was Judge Fox, of Peoria, Ill., a huge man and a very good fellow. We drank a few steins and joshed gaily for awhile, then I went out, leaving the crowd behind me. Happening to look back as I went up the stairs I noticed that Judge Fox was taking a nap at a table, his body bent forward, his face reposing in his arms.

"After a brief visit up street I hiked back to the rathskeller and trotted lightly down the stairs. Most of the boys were lined up at the bar, but there was still a huge figure, apparently lost in sleep, at the table. A great idea, fine for warm weather, flashed upon me. Emptying the ice from a glass I tiptoed over to the table and poured the fistful of real water down the sleeper's neck. He awoke with a roar like a lion and bounded on his feet. And when his eyes looked into mine, my hair, then and on that spot, changed to white within ten seconds."

"Why? Was your friend enraged?" asked Lionel Adams.

"It didn't happen to be my friend," moaned Mr. Brockett, sadly. "Judge Fox had gone out and the large man who was sitting in his chair was James J. Jeffries."

Ketchel Trains by Using Axe.

San Francisco, Cal., August 16. — Stanley Ketchell will start east today on a hurried trip to prepare for his bout with Sam Langford, but messages received here by friends say that he will spring a big surprise in the boxing line on the Easterners. Instead of taking a vacation in the wilds Ketchel writes that he has put himself in first-class shape, and that if Langford thinks he is going to find an easy mark, he is badly mistaken.

Ketchel has followed some of the training methods pursued by Jeffries when the latter used to train in the mountains. He has been hunting and fishing, and, in addition, has followed his old calling of woodcutting. He was originally a lumberman, and it is to his constant use of the axe that he attributes the powerful muscles of his arms.

He writes that he has found that he can swing the axe as strongly as ever before, but admits that he is getting heavier. He says this does not indicate any lack of training, however, but that he has naturally a tendency to work up to 175 pounds or thereabouts. He says he will make the middleweight limit in the match with Langford, but that he does not intend to reduce so much hereafter.

SPORTING NOTES

Weather permitting, the City Firemen and Coleman's Flats teams will play baseball on Coleman's Flats this evening. Game called at 6.15.

Paul Acoose, the Indian runner, won a 12-mile race from Shrubb at Winnipeg last night. Shrubb got tired and quit in the sixth mile, when he was a quarter of a mile ahead.

Jimmy Casey thinks that his team has made the best record of any of the western clubs in the east, with five wins and eight defeats. His pitchers have been doing well, but runs have been scarcer than hens' teeth, Montreal having only got one man across the plate in the last three games.

Boston fans cannot get it out of their heads that the Red Sox will win the American League pennant. The team is playing wonderful ball, and is so close to the Tigers and Athletics that the Hub rooters are bubbling over with enthusiasm. Manager Lake is receiving credit for the remarkable success of the Red Sox, involving the development of some of the best young players in America.

Myron Grimshaw had a great day with the bat on Saturday, making six hits in eight times up, two of them two-baggers. One of Grimshaw's hits was the longest ever made in Baltimore. In deep right centre field is a tobacco sign on top of the fence, for which a prize of $50 is given to any player who hits it with a batted ball. This feat has been considered impossible, but "Grim." landed a drive within six inches of the sign the high wind pulling it away.

Yale College will have a stadium to seat 60,000 people, which will cost half a million.

Brockville Bank Clerks Disappointed.

FELL OUT OF BOAT. BUT NO FAIR YOUNG LADIES RESCUED THEM THIS TIME.

A week ago yesterday, says the Brockville Times, one of Brockville's estimable bank clerks was upset whilst padding up the river, but was rescued by a fair damsel in romantic style, and yesterday three more young bankers were spilled out of a sailboat a short distance up the river. It is not known with any certitude if the trio were inexperienced sailors or if they merely upset in the hope of being rescued as pleasantly as their comrade a week previous. However that may be the fact remains that though there were plenty of charming young ladies with canoes and skiffs ready for life-saving, not one of them attempted to render any assistance, but simply looked on with their heart-strings untouched, leaving the young men to crawl back to shore as best they could. If the girls had gone to their rescue the probabilities are that the St. Lawrence would have been fairly clogged up with bank clerks next Sunday. As it is, however, the Bankers' Association is considering whether it would not be advisable to forbid the clerks to go boating in future unless accompanied by a lady companion of mature age.

A Small Mishap

The North King had a small mishap to her machinery this morning, while coming to this city, and was delayed here for a couple of hours. The damage done was trifling.

May Kill Two Deer

Toronto, Aug. 16.—Upon the recommendation of Hon. Frank Cochrane, acting Minister of Public Works, an order-in-council has been passed prohibiting the hunting, taking or killing of ruffed grouse or partridge for one year from September 15, 1909.

Another order-in-council is published under which bona fide settlers in the unorganized portions of the province are given the privilege of killing two deer for their own use during the regular open season only.

Was Assaulted.

Delbert Weese, of Rossmore, told the police that he was assaulted in front of Mackie's hotel last night. No arrests were made.

Three-Year-Old is Confirmed Smoker.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 14—Juvenile wonders are not rare in this age, but Philadelphia boasts of a remarkable three-year-old chap whose taste and desire for tobacco is so keen and well cultivated that he smokes large, strong, black perfectos, or cigarettes and pipes, with the enjoyment and skill of a veteran.

Tobacco in the form of a cigar particularly seems to be more preferable to him than a box of the most select bonbons, says the North American.
